One of the most interesting books we have read while on vacation is the life story of Robert Small. He was born a slave, in slave quarters but a few blocks from "Tidalholm" in South Carolina. He had bargained for and saved more than seven hundred dollars to purchase his wife and child from their owner.

His knowledge of the river and bay around Port Royal and Beaufort was so great that the Confederates used his services as a pilot.

While the ship's officers were attending a party in Charleston, he dressed in the captain's uniform and cap. With the aid of the colored crew, he piloted the ship past the guns of Fort Sumter and gained the Federal lines at Port Royal. Thus, he returned his wife and child to Beaufort and instead of using their savings to buy the freedom of his family from their master, he was able to purchase the home of Small's former master.

During the days of Reconstruction, he was elected to the state legislature and later to the U. S. Congress. Robert Small was a personal friend of President Grant who visited him in his home in Beaufort.

His advice was welcomed and needed in Congress; he might be called another Booker T. Washington. The government, recognizing his ability and loyalty to the Federal cause gave him a general's commission, and later a pension. He was named Collector of Customs for several terms. He fought against revision of the state constitution that deprived the Negro of the right to vote.

Eventually his color ended his service to his country, politically. His resourcefulness was revealed when word was received that a mob was on its way to remove two colored boys from the jail. Small warned the white citizens of the town that unless the mob was dispersed, the Negroes, in retaliation, would burn the homes of the whites. The mob was dispersed as they entered Beaufort.

He was held in high esteem by all residents of Beaufort until his death. Today a modern high school bears his name.

There are many books written about this "low country" that are good reading. Another is "Port Royal Under Six Flags" by Katharine J. Jones, bringing it down to 1960. "The Sea Island Lady" by Griswold makes the old life of the town and the islands and the war years very real.

LAUNCH INDUSTRY EXPANSION PLAN

Broader Tax Base Sought

The abundant talent and energy of the residents of Arlington Heights will be utilized to further the planned growth of the village through a new organization incorporated Monday, Arlington Heights Progress Inc.

This not-for-profit corporation will seek to attract desirable light industry to the village, thus broadening the tax base and benefiting village residents.

Primary concern of Arlington Heights Progress Inc. will be to locate research, scientific and administrative plants on the 1,000 or more acres annexed in the recent past for this purpose.

VILLAGE PRESIDENT John G. Woods said incorporation of the organization was one of the most significant steps taken in the history of the village. Achievement of its aims, he added, will benefit every village taxpayer.

The corporation is an outgrowth of the annexation committee appointed by Woods shortly after he took office on May 1, 1961. It has supported efforts of the village administration to annex suitable land to the village and acted as a citizens' advisory group.

At the meeting Monday night at Northside fire station, George Hoban, a director of the new corporation, presented the articles of incorporation. Hoban is a partner in the Chicago law firm of Hinshaw, Culbertson, Moelmann and Hoban.

FORMER annexation committee chairman Melvin Kurtz was elected president of Progress Incorporated. Kurtz recently completed a four-year term as village trustee, and is assistant sales manager of the Universal Atlas Cement Division of U.S. Steel.

Kurtz cited the need for broadening the tax base through effective planning and said that without this, the character of the community could be lost.

"This planning includes annexation, attracting developers and helping them settle in Arlington Heights," Kurtz said. "This corporation will further our growth and still insure that our schools are not overburdened, our facilities not strained and our taxes kept within bounds."

PLEDGING the support of the Chamber of Commerce, Clarence Hendrickson displayed layouts of a promotional brochure which will be used in the campaign to attract light industrial facilities. Hendrickson is a director of the new organization and chairman of the Chamber's civic committee.

The brochure, which is almost ready for the presses, should be available in about six weeks. It was prepared by a group headed by Donald Whiting, of Clinton E. Frank agency, and Robert Lavender, of Grant - Jacoby. Whiting was made a director of the new corporation.

The organization leans heavily on the professional talents of villagers. Sam Rudder, an engineer with Foxboro Co., who has worked in the committee on engineering aspects, was elected treasurer of Progress.

SINCE TAX and financial planning will be important in the work of the group, three directors were chosen in this field: Edgar Neas, comptroller of A. B. Dick Co.; William Ball, treasurer of Quaker Oats; and Harold Sortor, tax and financial analysis manager of Amphenol-Borg Electronic Corp.

Other directors are Harold Carlson, president of the village's plan commission; Mrs. R. B. Yadon, past president of the League of Women Voters; L. A. Hanson, village manager; Warren Peterson, lawyer and village prosecutor.

Also William Trude, president of Trude Land Development Co., and Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications and immediate past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

ALSO MADE directors were the village's president and six trustees, Richard Glantz, William Moore, William Sauer, Eugene Schlickman, Norval Stephens and Samuel Wit.

Mrs. Yadon was elected secretary of the organization and Trude elected chairman of the membership committee.

Membership fee was set at $10 per person, and $25 for a business.

5-Year Village Plan

Unwrap $9.6 Million Improvement Plan

A five-year capital improvements program for Arlington Heights, outlining proposed construction totaling some $9.6 million, has been accepted for study by the village board. The 80-page report was submitted by Village Manager L. A. Hanson.

Among the major projects proposed in the report are a new sewer system, already authorized through approval of the recent public referendum; a third fire station; a new municipal building, allready under construction; a new well, already planned; and a four-lane railroad underpass at Northwest highway and State road.

SUBTRACTING projects already authorized or under construction, cost of the remaining proposals would total about $5.5 million.

In accepting the report, village trustees emphasized that they do not necessarily endorse all facets of the program. The report does, however, serve as a basis for long-range planning.

The entire program is divided into six categories. Including presently planned and authorized projects, the cost in each category is: Streets, $4,006,200. Sidewalks, $50,000. Underpass (village share), $1,250,000. Buildings, $532,000. Water System, $481,600. Sewer system, $3,301,000.

Hanson said scrutiny should be focused particularly on the non-self supporting items since they are the projects that affect the local taxpayers most directly.

FINANCING for these items will amount to about $7,807,400. This amount includes $350,000 in general obligation bonds for the municipal building; $1.6 million in general obligation bonds authorized in the referendum for about half of the new sewer system; $1.9 million sewer and water revenue bonds for the other half of the sewer system and the new well.

Hanson noted that the sum should be available during the next 10 years in the case of special assessment projects, and the next 20 years in the case of revenue and general obligation bond projects.

"This report is strictly preliminary," Hanson said. "Revisions will be required to properly distribute costs over the scheduled five-year period. The aims of this report are to point out the importance of an overall capital improvements program . . . and to serve as a basis for coordinated efforts on long-range capital projects."

SPECIFIC dates for specific projects are difficult to set with certainty, Hanson said, until certain policy questions are resolved. This is presumed to mean, in part, how fast the village is allowed to grow and in what directions. This naturally would have an effect on the need for and location of a fire station and a water well. It also would affect priority of projects.

A project of major importance is not covered in the report. This is DAMP, the proposal for drawing water from Lake Michigan, filtering it near Des Plaines, boosting pressures and providing a water supply for the participating communities of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

"Estimates of the cost of this program to Arlington Heights rang as high as $10 million," Hanson noted. "Financing of this project has not been discussed in this report."

ALTHOUGH THE eventual need for a new source of water is not questioned, it presumably will not be needed in the period covered by this report.

During the next few weeks, the Herald will examine projects in each of the six categories in detail, and attempt to indicate what the program will mean to the average homeowner or resident in the way of taxes and services.

Cruise Is Theme For Annual Fete

The Methodist Mens' club of the First Methodist church, Arlington Heights, will hold its annual Sweetheart Night on Febrruary 16.

The theme this year will be "Around-the-World Cruise" on the S. S. Double M Steamship.

Decorations are now being selected, the dinner menu planned and entertainment arranged to carry out the theme.

'Smut' in Suburbs?

Book Banning Method Told

The story of how the allegedly obscene book, "Tropic of Cancer," was removed from north suburban newsstands and book racks within two days, Oct. 9-10, 1961, was placed in the record a week ago during the trial of an injunction suit being heard by Superior Court Judge Samuel B. Epstein.

As its next to the last witness, the defense called one bookseller to the stand with the prosecution stipulating that other book sellers would similarly testify. He was Max Ullrich, 319 S. Pine, Mount Prospect, manager of Van Driel Drugs, 100 E. Northwest Hwy.

UNDER QUESTIONING by Edward Hofert, Mount Prospect village attorney, Ullrich said the last morning commuter train had not gone on Oct. 10 when Police Chief George Whittenberg walked in.

"He asked if we got in our books for the day," Ullrich testified. "I told him that was our day to get only magazines, but he said, 'There are some books in your bundle'."

"I asked what books and he said 'Tropic of Cancer.' I replied we didn't get any like that. He said, 'Let's take a look'."

"We opened the bundle and there they were. I glanced through the book and said 'This is it,' then put them in a paper bag for the distributor to pick them up.

"We don't handle that kind of material. Our motto is "The Family Drug Store,' having a 95 per cent family trade and handling 50 per cent periatric prescriptions. We have always tried to regulate our magazines."

ON CROSS examination, attorney Elmer Gertz for the plaintiffs asked Ullrich if he had read the book.

"No, I glanced through it," Ullrich answered.

"You read page five," said Gertz, referring to one of the more objectionable quotes cited by the defense in prior cross examination.

"I glanced at the first few pages," Ullrich said.

"I have no further cross-examination," Gertz said. "Our side of the story is told in the police chiefs' depositions which are being filed as evidence with the court."

CHIEF Whittenberg's deposition stated he had first learned the book was obscene a few days earlier than the confiscations when attending a conference of police chiefs in Montrea.

"I sat down in a vacant chair beside a chief of police whose name I don't recall and we drifted into talking about pornography," Chief Whittenberg said in his deposition. "He said they had had trouble with Tropic of Cancer in the East."

On Oct. 9, Whittenberg's deposition continued, he learned from Police Sgt. Fred Hedlund that "the book was in town."

"He told me the book was in a package in front of Henderson's Drug Store," the chief said. "A driver for the distributor had told him there was an obscene book in the pile and pulled out 'Tropic'."

AFTER CONFERRING with the trustee who was chairman of the police committee, Whittenberg said he personally visited the book stores, including Ullrich's, and called attention to page five.

He also passed on word of his find to Police Chief Amasa Kennicott of Des Plaines, a lieutenant at Arlington Heights (Lt. Thomas Vidrick), and the Lincolnwood department.

Gertz said after the court session that he is mainly relying for success of his suit on the deposition of Police Capt. Robert J. Morris, acting chief of Skokie. His deposition fills 60 pages.

Dollar Days Feb. 5 and 6

Arlington Heights merchants will hold their annual new year clearance sale next week. Monday and Tuesday, February 5 and 6, the merchants will be selling goods from their regular stock at greatly reduced prices, some merchandise going for below its actual cost to the merchant.

Dollar Days in Arlington Heights annually proves to be one of the best promotions of the year from a shopper's standpoint, since almost all of the merchants participate to clear their shelves for new stock.

Chamber's Annual Dinner and Dance To Feature TV Star

Tickets have been selling well for the annual Spring dinner dance of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce this weekend.

The affair will be held at Rolling Green Country Club this Saturday, Feb. 3, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available from any Chamber board member, or from Don Hess, Chamber executive manager.

The charge of $7.50 per person includes all tax and tips.

Features of the dinner will include installation of the 1962 Chamber officers, and an appearance by Raymond Thomas Sharp, a noted baritone soloist who has appeared on network radio and television shows as well as with major symphony orchestras and in touring musicals.

THE INVOCATION and benediction will be given by the Rev. James P. O'Donnell, assistant pastor at Our Lady of the Wayside.

Music for dancing and listening will be provided by Warren Rogers and his combo. Don Hartman, dance chairman, will be master of ceremonies.

Three hundred tickets for the dinner dance have been printed, enough for 150 couples.

5-Year Village Plan

Unwrap $9.6 Million Improvement Plan

A five-year capital improvements program for Arlington Heights, outlining proposed construction totaling some $9.6 million, has been accepted for study by the village board. The 80-page report was submitted by Village Manager L. A. Hanson.

Among the major projects proposed in the report are a new sewer system, already authorized through approval of the recent public referendum; a third fire station; a new municipal building, allready under construction; a new well, already planned; and a four-lane railroad underpass at Northwest highway and State road.

SUBTRACTING projects already authorized or under construction, cost of the remaining proposals would total about $5.5 million.

In accepting the report, village trustees emphasized that they do not necessarily endorse all facets of the program. The report does, however, serve as a basis for long-range planning.

The entire program is divided into six categories. Including presently planned and authorized projects, the cost in each category is: Streets, $4,006,200. Sidewalks, $50,000. Underpass (village share), $1,250,000. Buildings, $532,000. Water System, $481,600. Sewer system, $3,301,000.

Hanson said scrutiny should be focused particularly on the non-self supporting items since they are the projects that affect the local taxpayers most directly.

FINANCING for these items will amount to about $7,807,400. This amount includes $350,000 in general obligation bonds for the municipal building; $1.6 million in general obligation bonds authorized in the referendum for about half of the new sewer system; $1.9 million sewer and water revenue bonds for the other half of the sewer system and the new well.

Hanson noted that the sum should be available during the next 10 years in the case of special assessment projects, and the next 20 years in the case of revenue and general obligation bond projects.

"This report is strictly preliminary," Hanson said. "Revisions will be required to properly distribute costs over the scheduled five-year period. The aims of this report are to point out the importance of an overall capital improvements program . . . and to serve as a basis for coordinated efforts on long-range capital projects."

SPECIFIC dates for specific projects are difficult to set with certainty, Hanson said, until certain policy questions are resolved. This is presumed to mean, in part, how fast the village is allowed to grow and in what directions. This naturally would have an effect on the need for and location of a fire station and a water well. It also would affect priority of projects.

A project of major importance is not covered in the report. This is DAMP, the proposal for drawing water from Lake Michigan, filtering it near Des Plaines, boosting pressures and providing a water supply for the participating communities of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

"Estimates of the cost of this program to Arlington Heights rang as high as $10 million," Hanson noted. "Financing of this project has not been discussed in this report."

ALTHOUGH THE eventual need for a new source of water is not questioned, it presumably will not be needed in the period covered by this report.

During the next few weeks, the Herald will examine projects in each of the six categories in detail, and attempt to indicate what the program will mean to the average homeowner or resident in the way of taxes and services.

The first in a series of three lectures and discussions to be presented in connection with the Turn Toward Peace movement will be held Friday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Prospect Hts. Community church.

Guest speaker will be Chester A. Graham, former executive secretary of the Illinois-Wisconsin Friends Committee on Legislation, one of the cooperating organizations in Turn Toward Peace. His subject will be "War—and its Alternatives."

The series is an outgrowth of a meeting held January 19 and attended by 16 area residents. Friday's meeting will be followed by another on March 9 and a third on April 13.

The programs are open to all who seek possible alternatives to preparations for war and wish to increase their knowledge as to ways in which their concerns may be expressed.

TURN TOWARD Peace is not an organization in itself. Rather it is a joint cooperative effort by national organizations concerned with achieving a just peace and preserving democratic values. The purpose of the program is to encourage Americans to participate in at least one of the cooperating organizations.

Included in this Turn Toward Peace effort, begun in September, are the American Friends Service Committee, the American Veterans Committee, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (a union which has more college graduates than any other union in the country), the Committee of Correspondence, the Committee for Non-Violent Action, Committee for World Development and World Disarmament, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and the Friends Committee on National Legislation as well as other groups.

THE MEETING to be held in March will deal with Civil Defense and the final session will concern itself with the various organizations involved in the movement.

Nationally, the Turn Toward Peace movement is encouraging Americans to wire President Kennedy February 3 urging him not to resume testing of nuclear weapons above ground. About 10,000 telegrams is the goal.

Reasoning is that the tests would:

1—CREATE another spiral in the arms race and provide the Soviet Union and other nations with incentives to undertake still other tests to "catch up."

2—Add to international tension at a moment when general disarmament negotiations are about to resume.

3—Spread a feeling of despair among people at home and abroad because of our seeming inability to halt the arms race.

4—Damage the image of the United States around the world, especially in Japan, India and Africa.

5—ADD TO the existing levels of radioactive fallout, with its consequences for the health of present and future generations.

The effort by Turn Toward Peace to spur 10,000 telegrams to the President on the nuclear testing issue will take advantage of a new system established by Western Union. Under this system, known as the "personal opinion mesage," a 15-word telegram may be sent from anywhere in the country to the President or a member of Congress for 75 cents.

Suburb News of The Week

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — Arlington Heights Progress Inc., a not-for-profit corporation, received its official state charter this week, and will now seek to attract office and research facilities and light industrial plants to Arlington Heights. Village President John C. Woods called formation of the corporation one of the most significant steps in the history of the village.

PALATINE — A director of parks and recreation was appointed by Palatine park commissioners last week, marking a progressive stride for the community. Named as director was William Milne. His appointment is expected to broaden the district recreation program and provide for stable planning.

ROLLING MEADOWS — Rolling Meadows city, park and school officials observed a custom unique in this area. They held their regular quarterly meeting with Kimball Hill, the city's original developer, to discuss matters of mutual interest.

Hill reported progress in developing the balance of his vacant property, and revealed plans for certain specific areas, such as the commercial district. Included was discussion of such major public improvements as settlement of costs for the bridge over the west branch of Salt Creek, paving of Central Road, and the transfer of responsibility for the sewer lift station from Hill's utility company to the city.

HOFFMAN ESTATES — A village witness in a hearing to condemn water and sewer company Citizens Utilities testified Tuesday that the village has adequate bonding powers to acquire the utilities. He was Edward Benjamin of the bonding firm Benjamin & Lang.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE — The village board of trustees was expected to receive Monday a "highly confidential" report from the police and fire commission which outlines specific complaints officers of the police department have aired against Police Chief Edward Clifford. (AF

Vehicle Sticker Cost Increasing

Cost of an Arlington Heights vehicle sticker for 1962 went up another dollar today February 1.

The annual fee under a new schedule approved for this year is $7, but the price goes up $1 a month. Village officials claim this is not a penalty, but a hike to pay for increased accounting costs.

(WHEN ADOPTED, one village trustee with tongue in cheek asked if this should be considered to mean that the vilgets less efficient each month.)

The fee during February is $8, during March $9, and during April $10. the maximum fee possible under the new schedule.

Vehicle stickers and other village licenses are available at the village hall. (A

Harold E. Sortor, 37, of 1405 N. Harvard, tax and financial analysis manager for Amphenol-Borg Electronics Corp., nominated by Ben Joost, Sherwood Improvement Association.

WENDELL R. Swenson, 37, of 428 S. Forrest ave., sales engineer for Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing (MMM) Co., nominated by Lynn C. Lemons, Kensington PTA.

The interview committee will now personally visit and talk with each of the nominees, then select two as its recommendation for endorsement of the group.

At the next meeting scheduled for February 19, the entire group will vote and the two of the 12 nominees receiving the most votes will be endorsed by the nominating committee. Usually the group supports the recommendations of the interviewing committee.

The interviewing committee is composed of Mrs. John Bowen, Paul Jacobson and Delbert Joost. Alternates are W. Kindrick and Mrs. Hamp Braun.

BEFORE THE next meeting, a bylaws committee will review the rules of operation of the organization and consider any proposed changes. This committee is composed of Elmer Zilen, South PTA; Robert W. Carey, Stonegate Property Owners Association; and Mrs. Richard Cook, American Association of University Women.

The two terms which expire in April, 1962, are those of Roger J. Burke, current president of the board, who has served two terms and is not seeking re-election; and Myer.

THE OTHER elected members of the board and the years in which their terms expire are Kenneth A. Anderson, of 734 N. Beverly, 1963; Joseph F. Faner, of 615 Mayfair rd., 1963; Charles O. Bennett, of 111 S. Drury lane, 1964; George Harris, of 626 W. Sigwalt, 1964; and Ralph G. McGee, of 1819 N. Mitchell, 1964.

Appointed members of the board are Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of District 25, and Peter R. Bakas, business manager of Arlington Heights elementary public schools.

Couple 'Adopts' Korean

Girl, 5, Gets Foster Parents

Lee Soon Ok, a five-year-old Korean girl, has been financially "adopted" by Anthony Biancardi, 412 N. Drury lane, Arlington Heights, through the Foster Parents' Plan.

Under the plan, Biancardi will contribute $15 a month toward the child's support for at least one year. Of this, $8 will go to the child each month as an outright cash grant, almost doubling the income of the family of four. The remainder of the money will be used for periodic food and new clothing packages, translations of letters, medical services and education.

LEE SOON OK

FOSTER PARENTS' Plan is a non-sectarian, non-propaganda relief organization independent from but approved by the government. It provides children who are orphaned or otherwise made destitute with care, education, and moral support. The "adoption" is financial, not legal.

"We are indeed grateful to Mr. Biancardi for giving Lee Soon Ok this wonderful gift of hope and help," Miss Gloria C. Matthews, executive director of the plan said. "And we prayerfully hope that mnay others who read this will also extend a helping hand to a distressed child."

Miss Matthews said her organization will be happy to send full information on how to become a foster parent to a child in Europe or the Far East to any individual, school or group writing Foster Parents' Plan, 352 Park Avenue South, New York City.

TO ENCOURAGE a warm, personal relationship between the foster parent and the child, the organization sends the foster parent a history of the child and a photograph, and correspondence through the plan office is translated both ways.

Lee Soon Ok, Biancardi's information notes, is one of three children. Her father, a carpenter, died early in 1961 of intestinal tuberculosis. Her widowed mother peddles vegetables from door to door, earning about 20 cents a day.

Her income barely provides the children with their basic food: a bowl of boiled barley, sometimes mixed with a little rice.

HER OLDEST brother, Bon Dong, 14, graduated from primary school last spring and now peddles ice-cakes on the street and earns about 10 cents a day. Her other brother, Ki Hong, 9, has had to quit school in the second grade and now sells newspapers on the street, adding about 2 cents a day to the family's income.

The Lee family lives in one dark, small, room located near a railroad in Seoul. Rent for the shack is $2 a month. It is walled with the thinnest of old wood and roofed with sheets of old tent.

To Biancardi, Miss Matthews wrote that the material assistance he will provide will offer Soon Ok a better life and "she will know what enough to eat, decent clothing, a sense of security means. Best of all, her family will be strengthened and heartened because a friend cares enough to help them in their struggle."

Today is the day they are supposed to put a man into space — a great accomplishment and a look into the future. It will be a great thing if this is accomplished by AMERICA after all we have had to contend with from other countries.

Great strides are being made in this country, and we should always be proud of this country and always maintain faith in the men who will give their all for the advancement of science. So it will be with medicine, in this country where still greater strides are being made. Soon we will not have to fear some of the diseases that are now our mortal enemies. Yes, great things are happening in AMERICA, where we should be proud to live.

So we say, God bless men like Col. Glenn, who are willing to offer themselves for a look into the future.

Hospital Business Meeting Is Held

Honors for their retiring president and election of a whole new slate of officers comprised the major activity at the annual business meeting of the Northwest Community hospital medical staff last week.

Dr. Edwin M. McGill of Arlington Heights, president of the group during the pre-opening organizing period and the first two years of hospital operation, was presented with a plaque noting his extensive service to the institution.

Presenting the plaque was A. C. Buehler Sr. of Barrington, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the hospital.

Succeeding Dr. McGill is Dr. M. P. Meisenheimer of Prospect Heights. Dr. Meisenheimer served as vice president of the staff last year.

New vice president of the staff is Dr. Robert C. Kloempken of Arlington Heights. Dr. Kloempken last year was secretary-treasurer of the group.

THE HOSPITAL radiologist, Dr. Constantine S. Soter, was named as secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

In addition to the three general officers, staff members elected chairmen of the various hospital departments. Dr. George F. Smith of Arlington Heights was renamed as chairman of the surgery department.

Heading the internal medicine department for the coming year is Dr. John A. Detweiler of Arlington Heights. New chairman of the pediatrics department is Dr. Donald G Ewald of Arlington Heights. The department of general practice named Dr. Justin Fleischmann of Palatine as chairman. Dr. Frank J. Peifer was selected as chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology.

THE OFFICERS and department chairmen comprise the executive committee of the hospital staff. The executive committee is given power to conduct facets of hospital staff business on a day-to-day basis as well as give their recommendations on any problem or program to the staff as a whole.

Still to be named are members and chairmen of the various staff committees. Under the supervision of committees is the investigation and promotion of professional standards, staff programs, medical records, infection control, emergency room procedure, medical library and similar matters.

Three new doctors were added to the hospital staff at the meeting. The three, none of whom is in practice in the local area, will bring total staff membership to 96.

TWO OF THE new staff members are anesthesiologists. They are Dr. Sara J. Burchell and Dr. Thomas L. Ashcraft, both of Chicago.

The third new staff member is Dr. I. James Young, a resident of Rolling Meadows. Dr. Young, engaged in research work, will act as a consultant in neurology.

Reveal Plans For School

First plans for the proposed Wheeling high school, the fourth school of Arlington - Prospect district 214, were revealed by architects this week.

Speaking before the board of education meeting Monday, L. S. Kelley of the architectural firm of Berger-Kelley-Unteed and Associates, revealed a maximum two-story building design to accommodate the 2,500-student capacity proposed.

The new school, scheduled for completion in September, 1964, is to be constructed south of Wheeling on Hintz Road near the Soo Line Railroad tracks.

ESTIMATED COST of the preliminary design was $4.170,000, Kelley said. This would include the school structure, fixed equipment, site development and architect's fees, but would not include the cost of the land or furnishings.

Cost would be about $13 a square foot, a figure which Kelley felt reasonable in light of probable raises in steel and labor prices this year. This compares to a square-foot cost of $12.50 for Prospect high school, built in 1957, and $13.06 for Forest View, now under construction.

First design of the building included three separate courts —a main court in the center of the academic section and a smaller court between the entrance-administration wing and the music-Little Theatre section, and another small court between the music section and art-homemaking section.

ANOTHER MAJOR feature of the design is a complete asphalt floor field house similar to the facilities at Prospect.

Limiting the building to two floors, Kelley said, would save considerable money since heavier steel and concrete construction is not required for structures under three stories.

Many changes are expected in the preliminary design with next sketches expected the week of February 12.

University Courses Set At 33 Towns

CHAMPAIGN, ILL., (UPI) — The University of Illinois announced Wednesday it will offer credit extension classes this Spring in 33 Illinois communities.

A total of 75 classes will be offered, according to Dean Stanley C. Robinson, to bring to nearly 500 the university will have offered by the end of the academic year. Classes will start between Feb. 1-16.

Cities with one or more classes scheduled include Arlington Heights, Barrington, Des Plaines, and Elmhurst.

One-Act Plays Set Feb. 10

Variety and dramatic technique will be the keynote for an "Evening of One-Acts" at Prospect high school.

Three one-act plays are slated by the drama department Saturday, Feb. 10, starting at 8 p.m.

Scene of the high-quality, literary but likeable, playlets will be the school Little Theater. The evening of entertainment is open to the public at an admission price of $1.

FIRST OF the three plays is "John Doe," a 30-minute play by Bernard V. Drier. Theme of the play is man's inhumanity to man and his indifference to society.

The second production is "Lonesome Train," a verse commentary on Abraham Lincoln's death.

Final presentation of the evening will be portions of a well-known Broadway comedy presented in reader's theatre form to stress the full effect of dramatic interpretation. Scenery will be limited to bare essentials.

Directing the third play will be Leroy Hollenbeck, school drama coach.

"Lonesome Train," also performed in reader's theatre form, will feature guitarists and drums in the presentation with groups of square dancers from the school physical education department.

THE OPENING play of the evening, "John Doe," will be a public preview of the drama selected for competition by Prospect in the state-wide high school contest. The play will be presented in competition with other north-northwest suburban schools.

Directing the play is Mrs. Maryann Dillard. (ACM

GOP Women's Group to Be 2 Years Old

George Washington will have to share the birthday limelight this year, for on February 22 the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club will be two years old. Members are planning to celebrate with a birthday buffet luncheon at the Rolling Green Country club.

State Rep. Marion Burks, Donald Rumsfeld, Raymond Morley, William Kearney and Edward Gordy, candidates for Congress from the 13th district, have accepted invitations to attend the luncheon. They will deliver brief summaries of their qualifications for the post, as well as their reasons for seeking the position.

FOLLOWING the talks, there will be a question and answer period.

Mrs. William Andrew heads the ticket committee, and anyone who wishes to purchase tickets for this event may phone her at CL 3-2970. (ACM

Tesmer to Direct Building Efforts

Robert Tesmer, Mount Prospect, has been named chairman of a building committee formed to begin planning the future church home of Lutheran Church of the Cross, Arlington Heights, it was announced this week by the Rev. Bruce K. Benander, pastor.

Also named to the committee were Mrs. Philip Ellefson, Lake Briarwood, and Walter Erickson and Karl Baardsen of Mount Prospect. A fifth committee member will be named, the Rev. Mr. Benander said.

Church of the Cross, which now meets in Pioneer park fieldhouse, will build on a four-acre site on Goebbert Road adjacent to Forest View High School.

BOARDS OF the local church have been reorganized following election of officers during the annual congregational meeting. Harold Hansen, Arlington Heights, was elected vice chairman and Edward Veres, Arlington Heights, was named secretary of the board of administration.

Raymond J. Lloyd, Arlington Heights, was elected vice chairman and Philip Ellefson, Lake Briarwood, secretary of the church council.

Named to board of trustees offices were Tesmer, president; Veres, vice president; W. E. Teske, Lake Briarwood, secretary; and Frank Sagadine, Mount Prospect, treasurer. Ervin Peters, Mount Prospect, was re-elected financial secretary.

Named to head standing committees were Hansen, evangelism; Ellefson, Christian education; and Lloyd, stewardship. (B8

Tesmer to Direct Building Efforts

Robert Tesmer, Mount Prospect, has been named chairman of a building committee formed to begin planning the future church home of Lutheran Church of the Cross, Arlington Heights, it was announced this week by the Rev. Bruce K. Benander, pastor.

Also named to the committee were Mrs. Philip Ellefson, Lake Briarwood, and Walter Erickson and Karl Baardsen of Mount Prospect. A fifth committee member will be named, the Rev. Mr. Benander said.

Church of the Cross, which now meets in Pioneer park fieldhouse, will build on a four-acre site on Goebbert Road adjacent to Forest View High School.

BOARDS OF the local church have been reorganized following election of officers during the annual congregational meeting. Harold Hansen, Arlington Heights, was elected vice chairman and Edward Veres, Arlington Heights, was named secretary of the board of administration.

Raymond J. Lloyd, Arlington Heights, was elected vice chairman and Philip Ellefson, Lake Briarwood, secretary of the church council.

Named to board of trustees offices were Tesmer, president; Veres, vice president; W. E. Teske, Lake Briarwood, secretary; and Frank Sagadine, Mount Prospect, treasurer. Ervin Peters, Mount Prospect, was re-elected financial secretary.

Named to head standing committees were Hansen, evangelism; Ellefson, Christian education; and Lloyd, stewardship. (B8

Rev. Jones to Talk February 6 at Church

The Rev. James Jones, nationally known Episcopal priest and founder of Chicago's St. Leonard's House famed for its rehabilitation of ex-prisoners, will speak in Arlington Heights at St. Simon Episcopal church, 717 W. Kirchoff rd., Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m.

A ham dinner served at 6:30 p.m. by Trinity Guild of the church and planned by Mrs. Harold P. Bell will precede Father Jones' lecture. Dinner tickets may be purchased by calling Mrs. A. B. Condon, CL 5-7971. Reservations must be made by Saturday evening, Feb. 3.

MRS. LOUIS Kohler, vice president and program chairman for the St. Simon Episcopal Churchwomen's Society, is credited with arranging for Father Jones' appearance in Arlington Heights and will introduce him to his audience.

The Rev. Samuel N. Keys, rector at St. Simon, has extended a personal welcome to those in the community who would like to join members of the church in hearing Father Jones. (B-8

Plan Two Chicago Mental Clinics

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., (UPI) —Gov. Otto Kerner's office Friday announced that a site for one of two community-centered mental health clinics in Chicago has been chosen.

The clinic, one of six planned for the state, will be located at the northwest corner of Oak Park ave., and Irving Park rd. in Chicago. It will serve the northern metropolitan Chicago area.

The clinic, on a 66-acre site, will contain about 160 beds for mental illness and 20 beds for treatment of alcoholism, in addition to extensive out-patient facilities. Another 40 beds will be used for mentally retarded children.

Other clinics are scheduled for South Chicago, Rockford, Peoria, Springfield and Decatur. The facilities are being built out of the $150 million bond issue authorized by the voters in 1960. (A-14

Freeman to Outline Kennedy Farm Plan

(UPI) - President Kennedy's 1962 farm policy will be outlined in a regional meeting in Chicago Friday by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

Farm, labor and civic leaders from northwest suburbs, downstate Illinois, and from other midwest states are expected to attend the day-long session.

The meeting is being sponsored by Illinois Agriculture Director Ralph S. Bradley.

BRADLEY said Freeman's speech is scheduled for Friday morning.

"The meeting was called in an effort to bring direct information to those most interested in the future of our nation's agriculture and particularly as regards its effects on our Midwest farm economy," he said.

Bradley said Freeman is expected to explain the "Refinements and functions of President Kennedy's new farm policy which is going to Congress." (B8

Set Skating Benefit For March of Dimes

BUYING TICKETS in advance for the March of Dimes benefit skate at Triangle Roller Rink, Arlington Heights, February 8, are (from left) Abe Linderman, co-owner of the rink; John G. Woods, Arlington Heights village president; and Donald Klop of Schaumburg. Doing the honors are Billy Bailey, Stone Park poster boy for the March of Dimes; Mrs. Donald Bunton, Arlington Heights general chairman of the March of Dimes; and Cindy Jane Miller, Des Plaines March of Dimes poster girl.

Northwest suburban residents will skate for the March of Dimes next week at a benefit skate at Triangle Roller Rink, 1006 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Donald Bunton, Arlington Heights March of Dimes chairman, said the roller skating benefit will be held Thursday, Feb. 8, from 7 p.m. to midnight.

ALL ADMISSIONS to the rink during the party hours will to to the March of Dimes, Mrs. Bunton said.

"We hope that many Arlington Heights and northwest area residents will take advantage of this chance for an evening of fun and at the same time help conquer crippling birth defects and arthritis through their contribution to the March of Dimes program of patient aid and research."

"Every member of the family," she said, "from 3 to 70 years of age, is welcome at the party."

LIVE MUSIC for skating at the Triangle Roller Rink party will be provided by Don Scott and his organ, and the snack bar will be open for refreshments. The rink has parking for 100 cars, and 400 people can skate safely and comfortably at one time.

Several prominent guests are scheduled to make a personal appearance at the party (B8

THE HAM GAME

by ED LANDWEHR

There are a quarter million licensed amateur radio operators, or hams, across the country. They. contact all corners of the world in their own special ham lingo. "73" means "best regards"; "88" is "love and kisses"; "CUL" becomes "see you later." "YL" for 'young ladies' and "XYL" for 'married young ladies'. And if this is all new to you, you're a "BCL"; a "broadcast listener" only.

You might think that television would reduce the rank of hams, but this isn't so. They're growing by leaps and bounds. We've been interested in ham operations and do a lot of service work on this kind of equipment, although many hams do their own simple maintenance jobs.

If it's radio or television, or any kind of electronic that has sound passing through it electronically, we have the equipment to service it efficiently and rapidly.

Phone CLearbrook 5-0700 and let LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights be of service to you. We'll guarantee our results for your satisfaction.

Skokie Dem Nominated For County Board Job

PHILLIP GOLDSTICK

Phillip Goldstick, 8535 N. Christiana, Skokie, has been nominated by the Democratic party of Cook county, as a candidate for membership on the Cook county board of commissioners.

Goldstick, 30, is a practicing attorney and a partner in the firm of Andros & Goldstick, 800 N. Clark st., Chicago. He is also legal counsel for the National Police Officers Association of America.

A MEMBER of the Chicago Bar association, Illinois State Bar association and the American Judicature society, Goldstick has served in posts under Joseph D. Lohman, former state treasurer, and Francis S. Lorenz, the current treasurer.

Goldstick has been a Democratic precinct captain in Niles township since 1956 and, since 1957, has held the position of Guardian ad Litem in the Probate court of Cook county. For the past 1½ years he has held the post of inheritance tax examiner with the office of the state treasurer.

Goldstick attended Morton high school (Cicero) and the University of Illinois, where he participated on the varsity football and wrestling squads, graduating in 1952 with a B.S. degree in commerce and law.

HE THEN attended the De Paul University College of Law (where he was editor and contributor to the Law Review) from which he graduated in 1956.

He served as a 1st Lieutenant with the United States Army Ordnance corps.

He is married and has two daughters, 8 and 4. (B8

Dental Health

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Close to six million Illinoisans are now drinking fluoridated water to help protect teeth, the Department of Public Health reported this week.

Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director, said six cities added fluoridiation to public water supplies during 1961, making a total of 129 communities with protection. Another 140 communities have protection from natural fluorides, he said.

Yoder said fluoridiation cuts tooth decay. (B-8

School Meet Is Business Of Public's

MADISON, WIS., (UPI)—Atty. Gen. John Reynolds this week said meetings of the University of Wisconsin Board of Visitors are public business and should be open to the public.

Reynolds said that even though the board is not a statutory body, it is similar to committees of a common council or county board. He said the Board of Visitors' business is not private business and meetings should be open.

Adolph Ackerman of the boark acknowledged Reynolds' opinion and indicated future meetings will be open unless they deal with personnel matters or other subjects which may be discussed in private.

5 Auto Numbers of Select 100 Change

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — The Secretary of State's office said Monday five auto license numbers in the first 100 changed hands this year.

Persons who had the other 95 had them reassigned for another year. No. 1 was still held by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Chicago.

The changes include.

No. 15, formerly held by the wife of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, assigned to Mrs. Winifred C. Becker of Springfield, wife of the President of Franklin Life Insurance company.

No. 37, formerly held by Stuyvesant Peabody of Chicago, assigned to Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Daily of Peoria.

No. 49, formerly held by Mrs. Becker, assigned to Arthur Rubloff of Chicago.

No. 78, formerly held by Rubloff, assigned to Robert E. Shaw of Dixon, vice president of Shaw Publishing company.

No. 86, formerly held by Grace M. Crawford of Chicago, assigned to Robert F. Greenaway, editor of the DeKalb Chronicle.

Worthy Calls for Appointed State School Superintendent

(UPI) — James C. Worthy, founder and former head of the Republican Citizens League, said in Chicago Monday the man who guides Illinois public schools through the expanding enrollment crisis ahead should be appointed rather than elected.

"We have encumbered our state education leadership with political insecurity," Worthy said in an address before the Illinois Citizens Education committee.

Worthy, a partner in a management consultant firm, said there is no assurance of continuity in the state's education programs under the present system of electing a state school superintendent every four years.

"IT IS difficult for the superintendent and his staff to make long-range plans, to engage in long-term curriculum development programs, difficult to assure local school administrators of continuity in policies and programs and difficult to insure consistent interpretation of school legislation," he said.

"I believe the state superintendent should be an appointive position and that he should be responsible for developing a permanent staff without regard to current political power," Worthy said.

He said seven states since 1950 have switched from an elected to an appointed state superintendent of schools.

Worthy said public school enrollment in Illinois has jumped nearly 50 per cent in the past 11 years and a similar increase can be expected during the next decade. He said it will be a tremendous task to provide school rooms and other school facilities and will require a substantial increase in the number of teachers.

"While teacher pay is improving, the stubborn fact remains that in terms of its key role in our society and in comparison with the growing rates in other professions requiring similar education, the teaching profession is badly underpaid," he said.

THE FIVE-YEAR-OLD Illinois Citizens Education committee, holding its annual meeting, installed C. G. Phipps, Mattoon, as president and adopted a program to divide the state into seven regions for its educational proposals.

The plan called for a region around each of the five state universities with additional regions in the Chicago and East St. Louis areas. The organization's state headquarters will be at Urbana. (A-14

January Pay Check Showed Social Security Increase

Social Security taxes are going up—starting with the first take-home pay you got in 1962. Here are the answers to . . .

How much? Why the increase? What are you going to get for your money?

Beginning January 1, 1962, your employer was required to withhold an additional one-eighth of 1 per cent for your share of the social security tax. Your share increased from 3 per cent of gross pay to 3⅛ per cent. The amount your employer contributes for you also increased from 3 per cent to 3⅛ percent.

IF YOU ARE self-employed, the new rate is 4.7 per cent, an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent. This new rate for the self-employed is not payable until 1963, when the 1962 tax return is filed. The tax return you will be filing soon will cover your net earnings in 1961 and you will pay 4½ per cent on these earnings.

The maximum taxable earnings remain $4,800.

In line with its policy of setting a schedule of social security tax rates sufficient to meet the cost of all present and future insurance benefits, the Congress provided for the increase to finance five significant program changes effective with the 1961 amendments signed by President Kennedy late last June. These changes—

1. Enabled men to apply for reduced old-age insurance benefits at age 62.
2. Increased by about 10 per cent monthly benefits payable to 62-year-old widows and dependent widowers getting benefits on the accounts of their deceased spouses. This increase is also payable in cases where only one parent is receiving benefits based on his deceased son's or daughter's work under social security.
3. Raised the minimum old-age benefit payable to a 65-year-old retired worker or to a sole survivor of a deceased worker from $33 to $40 a month.
4. Reduced the amount of work needed to qualify for benefits, allowing many workers, dependents and survivors who were not eligible under previous work requirement provisions to get benefits.
5. Raised the amount that beneficiaries can earn and still collect some social security benefits.

Steelworkers Ok Income Tax

PEORIA, (UPI) - The Illinois Steelworkers convention Tuesday endorsed a state income tax to replace sales and real estate taxes.

About 500 delegates, before adjourning a two-day meeting here, voted to approve the income tax - either flat or graduated - to replace the other taxes which "bear most heavily on those persons least able to afford it."

THE COMMITTEE also approved resolutions urging:

—An anti-strikebreaker law.

—Distribution of shortening and tomatoes, green peas, peaches, green beans and frozen turkeys to relief recipients from surplus stocks of food.

—Prohibition of increases in hospital, medical and surgical insurance rates until after policyholders are notified and public hearings held.

—Amendment of the Unemployment Compensation act to provide benefits of 65 per cent of the average weekly wage, allowances for dependents and payments up to 52 weeks.

—A civil rights law providing equal rights opportunity.

Monday the political action committee endorsed Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., in his bid for the U. S. Senate. (A-14

Q. Is it proper for a widow's married daughter to announce her mother's second marriage, and may the widow's son give her away?

A. The announcement should be made by the widow and her second husband, but it would be quite all right for her son to walk down the aisle with her and also to give her away.

Q. How should a person introduce his half-brother or half-sister?

A. If he wishes to be in best taste, he refers to them simply as "My brother" and "My sister."

Worthy Calls for Appointed State School Superintendent

(UPI) — James C. Worthy, founder and former head of the Republican Citizens League, said in Chicago Monday the man who guides Illinois public schools through the expanding enrollment crisis ahead should be appointed rather than elected.

"We have encumbered our state education leadership with political insecurity," Worthy said in an address before the Illinois Citizens Education committee.

Worthy, a partner in a management consultant firm, said there is no assurance of continuity in the state's education programs under the present system of electing a state school superintendent every four years.

"IT IS difficult for the superintendent and his staff to make long-range plans, to engage in long-term curriculum development programs, difficult to assure local school administrators of continuity in policies and programs and difficult to insure consistent interpretation of school legislation," he said.

"I believe the state superintendent should be an appointive position and that he should be responsible for developing a permanent staff without regard to current political power," Worthy said.

He said seven states since 1950 have switched from an elected to an appointed state superintendent of schools.

School District to Air Finance Woes

Publicity Is New Approach

by TOM EDWARDS

A suggestion to help solve financial problems — evidently an entirely unique approach in the northwest suburbs, or nearly anywhere — is being hashed over in the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove school district 21.

Essentially, it is to publicize the financial plight and needs of the district. Because it is a departure from the usual "chamber of commerce" type procedure of dwelling only on the merits of an area, it is causing some wrath and threats of legal action.

But there has also been a spreading endorsement of the idea—and the school board is pushing ahead with it.

The school's financial situation is rather desperate, according to school superintendent Kenneth Gill. Main immediate reason given for the situation is the flood of pupils entering school as the result of housing projects catering to young couples.

THE LOW COST nature of the projects coupled with a lack of industry has resulted in a low tax base (property assessed valuation) per pupil— and what has been reported as the highest tax rate in the state, $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation. Assessed valuation per pupil dropped from $16,185 per pupil in 1958 to $13,101 in 1961, Gill has calculated.

Average taxable wealth per pupil in the three other elementary school districts in Wheeling township is $17,172, according to a study made by the West Suburban Superintendents association for the 1961-62 school year.

But underlying the whole situation — and the real culprit, Gill says—is the state's "archaic" taxing system.

It is based solely on property rather than over-all wealth, and does not spread the taxes from commercial and industrial development in the state equally to all school districts. A district which contains extensive industrial development is usually automatically wealthy — and an adjoining district without any such development may be in dire financial straits.

Also, the value accorded property depends much upon the township assessor, as there is no way to insure uniform assessments, Gill has pointed out.

A FOREBODING of the future in the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove school district is perhaps expressed by the problems of the kindergarten classes. Kindergarteners attend school in three shifts, two in the morning, one in the afternoon. There is only room in two of the district's four elementary schools for them. Therefore, a great many of them are bussed to school. School officials are considering a unique step to combat the problem of an ever expanding enrollment versus a continually decreasing income per pupil — that of advertising the district's woes. B8

With continued low cost housing development impending in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove district, and with no recourse being offered to solve and prevent further compounding the dilemma—the school board, in effect, is striking back.

IT IS IN the process of preparing a brochure to advertise the school system and its troubles—and maybe its hopes and dreams—to potential buyers of new homes.

Triggering this action is the little help from and even destructiveness of residential development to the school system—and the past lack of action by the village board to plan development.

Some builders are practically ignoring the plight of the school system, it has been claimed, and continue to do so in the face of increasing school problems. Two builders have been mentioned for providing false and misleading information on the school district in an effort to sell homes.

In relation to village planning, last spring Gill called for a "moratorium" to all building until over-all area development could be evaluated in terms of the total welfare of the community.

Evident hope of the school board is to get potential new residents to consider the schools as part of the intrinsic value of their homes.

By making people cognizant of school needs, Gill said, it is hoped that it will help them "become better members of the community" in shouldering its burdens and solving its problems.

BOARD MEMBER Robert Brower emphasized that the intent is "not to discourage the builders, but to inform the taxpayers" why, how and what they are paying for. What is needed, he said, is a "positive statement that gives an honest appraisal of the school system."

"We face a situation that may lower the quality of our schools in the future."

A tentative draft of the brochure was prepared by the school administration and submitted to the board at its January 10 meeting. It was deemed inadequate and not strong enough, and is to be revamped.

Idea for the brochure came October 18 from the first of the joint meetings to be held every three months between the school board and the planning commissions of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. Since then it has been discussed thrice by the board, again at the second joint meeting with the plan commissions January 17, and was brought up for discussion at two meetings of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Community Council.

(But no other group has yet assumed any responsibility for the project besides the board.)

"Unanimous feeling" to date is that the first draft was "too mild," Gill stated. Wanted are more comparative figures on the school tax rate and tax bills and greater amplification. To prevent the project from "bogging down," it has been felt that the pamphlet should be restricted to school information only.

HOW TO GET the information to potential new home owners remains a problem. Methods suggested have been to erect signs with information and a telephone number to call for more, or just a telephone number, and to use radio announcements.

In preparing on the plans for the brochure to the Community Council, board member Lloyd Petersen said that it must be "precise and completely fact."

"We still have quite a way to go . . . (to determine) what information is to be disseminated and in what manner," he continued.

"It is not a simple matter, it turns out, and it is getting kind of messy. Right now it is still in a muddle, and we're trying to sift out the clinkers." He expressed concern for a possible lawsuit against the school district as the result of such a brochure.

It was pointed out that "sometimes facts can be misleading if not qualified."

"Precedent" for the project was questioned by council member Eugene Sackett, who is a Glenbrook high school teacher. Such advertising has always been done from a "positive view," he said. "This sounds like it is a negative view."

(Representatives to the community council, a joint body of about 30 area organizations, have been asked to discuss the matter with their respective groups for further discussion at the next council meeting.)

AT THE JANUARY 11 school board meeting, Buffalo Grove builder, resident and father of eight, Albert Frank, who attended with his sales manager, said:

"I was very much alarmed that the school district would put something in this brochure which would be unfair to itself." Actually "you have given us (builders) a tremendous sales tool."

Distribution of information detrimental to builders "we will simply combat," Frank said, by comparing district 21 with Chicago where many schools are on double shifts, and with places where the tax rates, in effect, are higher.

He said he would show how much better district 21 schools are than schools in Chicago where most people who buy homes in Buffalo Grove come from. He noted the special education and foreign language classes.

Petersen replied that the school district has taken many strides forward, but that more are desired and "money is a problem." Frank said, that education "is not always a matter of money."

Also, he pointed out that the school district had been greatly alarmed by the construction of Dunhurst subdivision of about 900 homes. "Here it is six years later, and it (the school district) is better than ever."

THE DISTRICT would be "doing itself a great harm" by mainly emphasizing its shortcomings, Frank implied. He added that the school board had not been tooting its horn loud enough (about) all the good things you are doing." He suggested that only the "sensational aspects of the board meetings were being reported by the newspapers.

"What you are doing is to make this a second class district. . . " However, Frank approved of the tentative brochure as a fair statement.

Wheeling village board trustee and Des Plaines teacher Edwin Smith, who has five children, fairly snapped at Frank:

The brochure is "not to inform the public that the school district isn't any good, but that the financial situation is such that we may not be able to build enough schools."

Smith noted that district kindergartens are on shifts already, that with each succeeding year enrollment will be expanding — and the double shifts necessary in Chicago could also become a necessity for all grades in district 21.

Continuation and expansion of school libraries and special education classes, and classes such as art and music, are in danger because of monetary problems, school officials have also pointed out.

BROWER TOLD Frank that the board had agreed that the first draft of the brochure was "kind to the builder — but also agreed to do something about that."

He warned Frank: "It bears watching; this is only the first draft." (B8

School District to Air Finance Woes

Publicity Is New Approach

by TOM EDWARDS

A suggestion to help solve financial problems — evidently an entirely unique approach in the northwest suburbs, or nearly anywhere — is being hashed over in the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove school district 21.

Essentially, it is to publicize the financial plight and needs of the district. Because it is a departure from the usual "chamber of commerce" type procedure of dwelling only on the merits of an area, it is causing some wrath and threats of legal action.

But there has also been a spreading endorsement of the idea—and the school board is pushing ahead with it.

The school's financial situation is rather desperate, according to school superintendent Kenneth Gill. Main immediate reason given for the situation is the flood of pupils entering school as the result of housing projects catering to young couples.

THE LOW COST nature of the projects coupled with a lack of industry has resulted in a low tax base (property assessed valuation) per pupil— and what has been reported as the highest tax rate in the state, $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation. Assessed valuation per pupil dropped from $16,185 per pupil in 1958 to $13,101 in 1961, Gill has calculated.

Average taxable wealth per pupil in the three other elementary school districts in Wheeling township is $17,172, according to a study made by the West Suburban Superintendents association for the 1961-62 school year.

But underlying the whole situation — and the real culprit, Gill says—is the state's "archaic" taxing system.

It is based solely on property rather than over-all wealth, and does not spread the taxes from commercial and industrial development in the state equally to all school districts. A district which contains extensive industrial development is usually automatically wealthy — and an adjoining district without any such development may be in dire financial straits.

Also, the value accorded property depends much upon the township assessor, as there is no way to insure uniform assessments, Gill has pointed out.

With continued low cost housing development impending in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove district, and with no recourse being offered to solve and prevent further compounding the dilemma—the school board, in effect, is striking back.

IT IS IN the process of preparing a brochure to advertise the school system and its troubles—and maybe its hopes and dreams—to potential buyers of new homes.

Triggering this action is the little help from and even destructiveness of residential development to the school system—and the past lack of action by the village board to plan development.

Some builders are practically ignoring the plight of the school system, it has been claimed, and continue to do so in the face of increasing school problems. Two builders have been mentioned for providing false and misleading information on the school district in an effort to sell homes.

In relation to village planning, last spring Gill called for a "moratorium" to all building until over-all area development could be evaluated in terms of the total welfare of the community.

Evident hope of the school board is to get potential new residents to consider the schools as part of the intrinsic value of their homes.

By making people cognizant of school needs, Gill said, it is hoped that it will help them "become better members of the community" in shouldering its burdens and solving its problems.

BOARD MEMBER Robert Brower emphasized that the intent is "not to discourage the builders, but to inform the taxpayers" why, how and what they are paying for. What is needed, he said, is a "positive statement that gives an honest appraisal of the school system."

"We face a situation that may lower the quality of our schools in the future."

A tentative draft of the brochure was prepared by the school administration and submitted to the board at its January 10 meeting. It was deemed inadequate and not strong enough, and is to be revamped.

Idea for the brochure came October 18 from the first of the joint meetings to be held every three months between the school board and the planning commissions of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. Since then it has been discussed thrice by the board, again at the second joint meeting with the plan commissions January 17, and was brought up for discussion at two meetings of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Community Council.

(But no other group has yet assumed any responsibility for the project besides the board.)

"Unanimous feeling" to date is that the first draft was "too mild," Gill stated. Wanted are more comparative figures on the school tax rate and tax bills and greater amplification. To prevent the project from "bogging down," it has been felt that the pamphlet should be restricted to school information only.

HOW TO GET the information to potential new home owners remains a problem. Methods suggested have been to erect signs with information and a telephone number to call for more, or just a telephone number, and to use radio announcements.

In preparing on the plans for the brochure to the Community Council, board member Lloyd Petersen said that it must be "precise and completely fact."

"We still have quite a way to go . . . (to determine) what information is to be disseminated and in what manner," he continued.

"It is not a simple matter, it turns out, and it is getting kind of messy. Right now it is still in a muddle, and we're trying to sift out the clinkers." He expressed concern for a possible lawsuit against the school district as the result of such a brochure.

It was pointed out that "sometimes facts can be misleading if not qualified."

"Precedent" for the project was questioned by council member Eugene Sackett, who is a Glenbrook high school teacher. Such advertising has always been done from a "positive view," he said. "This sounds like it is a negative view."

(Representatives to the community council, a joint body of about 30 area organizations, have been asked to discuss the matter with their respective groups for further discussion at the next council meeting.)

AT THE JANUARY 11 school board meeting, Buffalo Grove builder, resident and father of eight, Albert Frank, who attended with his sales manager, said:

"I was very much alarmed that the school district would put something in this brochure which would be unfair to itself." Actually "you have given us (builders) a tremendous sales tool."

Distribution of information detrimental to builders "we will simply combat," Frank said, by comparing district 21 with Chicago where many schools are on double shifts, and with places where the tax rates, in effect, are higher.

He said he would show how much better district 21 schools are than schools in Chicago where most people who buy homes in Buffalo Grove come from. He noted the special education and foreign language classes.

Petersen replied that the school district has taken many strides forward, but that more are desired and "money is a problem." Frank said, that education "is not always a matter of money."

Also, he pointed out that the school district had been greatly alarmed by the construction of Dunhurst subdivision of about 900 homes. "Here it is six years later, and it (the school district) is better than ever."

THE DISTRICT would be "doing itself a great harm" by mainly emphasizing its shortcomings, Frank implied. He added that the school board had not been tooting its horn loud enough (about) all the good things you are doing." He suggested that only the "sensational aspects of the board meetings were being reported by the newspapers.

"What you are doing is to make this a second class district. . . " However, Frank approved of the tentative brochure as a fair statement.

Wheeling village board trustee and Des Plaines teacher Edwin Smith, who has five children, fairly snapped at Frank:

The brochure is "not to inform the public that the school district isn't any good, but that the financial situation is such that we may not be able to build enough schools."

Smith noted that district kindergartens are on shifts already, that with each succeeding year enrollment will be expanding — and the double shifts necessary in Chicago could also become a necessity for all grades in district 21.

Continuation and expansion of school libraries and special education classes, and classes such as art and music, are in danger because of monetary problems, school officials have also pointed out.

BROWER TOLD Frank that the board had agreed that the first draft of the brochure was "kind to the builder — but also agreed to do something about that:"

He warned Frank: "It bears watching; this is only the first draft." (B8

A FOREBODING of the future in the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove school district is perhaps expressed by the problems of the kindergarten classes. Kindergarteners attend school in three shifts, two in the morning, one in the afternoon. There is only room in two of the district's four elementary schools for them. Therefore, a great many of them are bussed to school. School officials are considering a unique step to combat the problem of an ever expanding enrollment versus a continually decreasing income per pupil — that of advertising the district's woes. B8

What's the Fine for Breathing?

Teen Curfew Is Discussed by County Board

Youth Pose Rural Behavior Problem

by DICK HOFFMANN

(The Cook County Board of Commissioners Tuesday conducted a public hearing to determine the merits of passing a curfew ordinance for the unincorporated areas of the county. Since there were no teenagers present nor anyone to present their views, we thought it would be interesting to speculate on how one might have responded to some of the conversation that transpired.)

COMMISSIONER SEYMOUR SIMON (presiding for absent Board President John J. Duffy): This is a children's curfew ordinance which the State's Attorney has drafted upon the urging of (Cook County) Sheriff Frank Sain. To summarize, it applies to persons who have not reached the age of 17. It makes it unlawful for them to be out after 11:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, and after 10:30 p.m. on week nights. On the first occasion, a warning is given to the violator and his parents; the second violation carries a fine of from $5 to $100.

What's the fine for breathing?

Lt. John F. Romano, of the sheriff's juvenile bureau, will tell you something about the need for the curfew.

LT. ROMANO: In the past three years in the unincorporated area, we've had many juveniles roaming the area, found on deserted roads, and so forth.

Just give me a home where the buffalo roam.

Surrounding towns have a curfew as early as 9 p.m. so these kids automatically head to the unincorporated area where we have a lot of drive-in restaurants, theaters, and pizza parlors that stay open until 2 and 3 in the morning.

A guy gets hungry.

This will be another weapon authorities can use to combat delinquency. If we stop these kids now, they say, "You have no curfew." They start telling you what their rights are. The youngest one of them is an attorney.

Everyone's entitled to counsel. It's a constitutional right.

Parents are often naive, weak, misinformed. When their youngster gets into trouble, it surprises them. These kids take the family automobile and they're mobile. The curfew will give us a good weapon to work with parents and children.

There's that word again.

COMMISSIONER William N. Erickson: If a high school dance is planned for the area, is special permission granted?

ROMANO: Yes. We detail juvenile officers to the site of the high school dance.

ERICKSON: How many youngsters would you say are involved in this? How many do you pick up, interrogate? Five hundred a month? Give us some idea of how many are involved.

ROMANO: In District 2, from Lake St. on the north to 128 St. on the south, we pick up 150 to 175 juveniles a month. Fifteen per cent of them go to Family Court, but the majority are station adjustments.

SIMON: How about under 17 years old? Are there records kept on them if there is no offense? How about these kids picked up in the pizza joints?

Don't you ever get hungry?

ROMANO: Eighty-five per cent are station adjustments. Thirty per cent of the children picked up are incorrigible; they take the car without permission or stay out late at night. We have no permanent record on the number that stay out late at night.

SIMON: I view a curfew as preventive. Some parents won't stand up and tell their children when to be home. A curfew will give parents and the community added leverage to get them home early.

It's not a weapon anymore?

Anyone under 17.

COMMISSIONER Edward M. Sneed: What are you going to do about drive-in theaters where they show two pictures? What's to stop parents from taking the keys out of the car? This is a long, drawn-out thing.

ROMANO: Juveniles will have a second set of keys or they'll start a car without any keys. We work with the drive-in theaters. The pizza man doesn't want kids hanging out in his place. It spoils the adult business.

Even if they're hungry? What are we, second-class citizens?

SNEED: After 9 p.m., I can't find any place to go.

ERICKSON: You ought to be home in bed.

Unless you happen to like pizza.

SNEED: As a youth, we had a curfew. We were picked up, and the parents came down and we got a lickin' then and there. Maybe I'm just old-fashioned.

So's my old man.

SIMON: A curfew law is never enforced absolutely; it's enforced at the discretion of the officer. The view had been expressed that an ordinance will cause disrespect if it isn't enforced strictly. The Chicago curfew ordinance is not strictly enforced, but it has the added power of breaking up assemblies of kids; it gives parents additional authority because they have to comply with the law.

My old man doesn't need additional authority.

COMMISSIONER Jerome Huppert: We had some bad incidents in West Rogers Park. The curfew helped police to disperse the crowds. These kids are corner lawyers.

Want to hear me recite the Fifth?

A curfew is good if it's enforceable, but it seems you have to have an incident before the police act. California and Devon (Aves.) is one of the worst spots in West Rogers Park.

So that's where Tony Accardo lives.

MRS. CONKEY: I inquired about a law to license outdoor theaters. I wanted the revenue for the county, but I was also interested in the children who inhabit the cars. I was told we have no police power to stop this, no power to arrest or take them out of the car, so what good is a curfew?

What is this, a police state?

ROMANO: Three theaters in the area do allow our surveillance of cars.

Peeping Toms.

ASSISTANT State's Attorney Tom Hett: The last session of the legislature granted the power to county boards to enact prescribed curfew times. This has been modeled after the city's ordinance. In our opinion, it is constitutional.

You're the Supreme Court?

MRS. CONKEY: Do you have the power to go inside theater grounds to look for children under age?

HETT: This would be trespassing on private property unless the officer was called by the proprietor or some serious offense had been committed on the grounds. There is a grave question in the courts about private property open to the public being 'a public place.'

Hey, a point for our side.

MRS. CONKEY: But is it possible underage children could hide on the theater grounds?

HETT: Yes.

It's dark in there.

SIMON: I think it would be a good idea to place a time limit of a year or 18 months on the penalty provision. This public hearing is adjourned. We'll consider its passage at a subsequent meeting.

I'll hold my breath — unless there's a law against it.

Workman at Randhurst Falls 2 Stories; Condition 'Fair'

A fall of almost two stories injured a construction workman at the Randhurst development last week.

Gino Pellegrina of 12608 Laflin, Chicago, was rushed to Northwest Community hospital by the nurse stationed at the gigantic construction project. Mount Prospect police formed an escort for the emergency trip.

Still at the hospital, spokesmen indicated Pellegrina was in "fair" condition.

Another construction accident found Libero Santucci more fortunate in his injuries. Santucci, who lives at 4700 N. Oak Park, Harwood Heights, was hurt when he was caught in a cave-in of a trench bank. Rushed to the hospital emergency room, he was examined, X-rayed and released.

Falls in the home proved to be more hazardous than work accidents for several patients in the hospital.

A fall down porch stairs brought Lawrence Gulotta, 3537 N. Oakley, Chicago, to the hospital for treatment of bruises of the chest. After several days of treatment, he was released.

Home injuries were not confined to adults. Cheryl Jordan, 10 months, of 203 Harvard Lane, Roselle, fell down steps at home and was rushed to the emergency room for examination.

David Wolff, 4, of 1201 Carswell, Elk Grove Village, fell cutting his scalp. The wound was treated and dressed.

A fall down stairs at home brought three-year-old Roy Mrozinski of 1419 St. James, Arlington Heights, to the hospital emergency room. Attendants found a broken left collarbone and a cast was applied.

A fall against a wall cut the scalp of Stephen True, 3, of 68 Warwick Lane, Weathersfield. At the hospital emergency room the cut was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot was given.

TETANUS TOXOID shots were also given Dayle Rogers, 12, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village, and Kathryn McAlleer, 6, of 1355 Gloria, Palatine. Dayle stepped on a coffee can and was treated for a laceration of his big toe. Kathryn cut her finger on a metal cabinet.

School and playtime accidents brought several children to the emergency room for treatment.

Gary DeBerge, 14, of 900 Victoria, Elk Grove Village, dislocated his right wrist while wrestling. The youth is now modeling a long arm cast. Kenneth Hawkes, 11, of 411 N. Carlyle, Arlington Heights, fractured his left elbow in a school accident.

Cathy Graham, 10, of 315 N. Wilshire, Arlington Heights, was taken to the emergency room for examination after she fell on the school playground. Jeanne Pollard, 11, of 624 S. George, Mount Prospect, fell at school, cutting her right eyelid. The wound was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

A playtime fall brought little Patricia King, 4, of 20 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, to the hospital with a 1½-inch cut on her forehead. The laceration was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

Another "playtime" accident victim was Mrs. Arline Hauth, 512 N. Yale, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Hauth fractured her right ankle while ice skating. Admitted to the hospital for treatment, spokesmen report her condition as good.

THREE LITTLE "between-meal nibblers" were rushed to the hospital emergency room after eating unique "snacks."

Paul Find, 3, of 609 S. Newberry, Arlington Heights, swallowed an unknown amount of cleansing powder. Admitted to the hospital, his condition is listed as good.

James Knaack, 2, of 40 Glenbrook, Prospect Heights, drank rubbing alcohol. His stomach was washed and he was released.

An unknown amount of disinfectant was the "tidbit" drank by Geoffrey Wisch, 15 months, of 241 N. Boyton, Palatine.

Hospital record-keepers still are confused as to how Garold Elledge, 18, of 213 Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, managed to catch his head in a car door. The injury apparently was not connected with any traffic mishap.

Elledge received several head cuts, both on his face and scalp. The lacerations, one at least three-inches in length, were cleaned, sutured and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

A tetanus toxoid shot was also given Gunnar Jacobson, 2600 Park, Rolling Meadows. The shot was required because Jacobson had received a flesh wound — he came to the emergency room to have a splinter removed from his finger. (B9

Guide to College Planning Offered

The Parents' Guide to College Planning, a 64-page book containing information on preparing a child for college plus facts on admission procedures and financing, is being offered free of charge by the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The book is being offered by Thomas B. Maver, the society's local representative, as a means of acquainting area residents with Equitable's new dual approach to college financing.

"It is conservatively estimated that a college education is worth at least $100,000 over a person's lifetime," Maver said. "In intellectual terms, it is basic to the understanding of the growing political, social, and scientific complexities of life."

BECAUSE MORE and more people are realizing the importance of a college degree, the competition for admission is increasing rapidly, Maver continued.

"To meet this competition, parents who expect to send their children to college must be aware of the scholastic and financial preparation that will be required to get a child into college and see him through to graduation," he said. "This planning cannot start too early."

Maver said that anyone wishing a copy of the book should fill out the coupon positioned elsewhere in this newspaper, or call CL 3-3768. (B9

Netters Edge Old Pro's in Volleyball

The Netters were nearly dropped out of first place in the Arlington Heights Park District Wednesday mens volleyball league when they ran up against the Old Pros.

The margin of victory was a slim two points in the Netters favor, 27-25.

In a make-up game, the Netters suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of the Servers 30-17.

The Setters remained in top contention as they stopped the Servers 31-14.

The 755th Radar Jammers took a forfeit win from the Greens 11, while the Old Men were idle.

Youth Pose Rural Behavior Problem

by DICK HOFFMANN

(The Cook County Board of Commissioners Tuesday conducted a public hearing to determine the merits of passing a curfew ordinance for the unincorporated areas of the county. Since there were no teenagers present nor anyone to present their views, we thought it would be interesting to speculate on how one might have responded to some of the conversation that transpired.)

COMMISSIONER SEYMOUR SIMON (presiding for absent Board President John J. Duffy): This is a children's curfew ordinance which the State's Attorney has drafted upon the urging of (Cook County) Sheriff Frank Sain. To summarize, it applies to persons who have not reached the age of 17. It makes it unlawful for them to be out after 11:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, and after 10:30 p.m. on week nights. On the first occasion, a warning is given to the violator and his parents; the second violation carries a fine of from $5 to $100.

What's the fine for breathing?

Lt. John F. Romano, of the sheriff's juvenile bureau, will tell you something about the need for the curfew.

LT. ROMANO: In the past three years in the unincorporated area, we've had many juveniles roaming the area, found on deserted roads, and so forth.

Just give me a home where the buffalo roam.

Surrounding towns have a curfew as early as 9 p.m. so these kids automatically head to the unincorporated area where we have a lot of drive-in restaurants, theaters, and pizza parlors that stay open until 2 and 3 in the morning.

A guy gets hungry.

This will be another weapon authorities can use to combat delinquency. If we stop these kids now, they say, "You have no curfew." They start telling you what their rights are. The youngest one of them is an attorney.

Everyone's entitled to counsel. It's a constitutional right.

Parents are often naive, weak, misinformed. When their youngster gets into trouble, it surprises them. These kids take the family automobile and they're mobile. The curfew will give us a good weapon to work with parents and children.

There's that word again.

COMMISSIONER William N. Erickson: If a high school dance is planned for the area, is special permission granted?

ROMANO: Yes. We detail juvenile officers to the site of the high school dance.

ERICKSON: How many youngsters would you say are involved in this? How many do you pick up, interrogate? Five hundred a month? Give us some idea of how many are involved.

ROMANO: In District 2, from Lake St. on the north to 128 St. on the south, we pick up 150 to 175 juveniles a month. Fifteen per cent of them go to Family Court, but the majority are station adjustments.

SIMON: How about under 17 years old? Are there records kept on them if there is no offense? How about these kids picked up in the pizza joints?

Don't you ever get hungry?

ROMANO: Eighty-five per cent are station adjustments. Thirty per cent of the children picked up are incorrigible; they take the car without permission or stay out late at night. We have no permanent record on the number that stay out late at night.

SIMON: I view a curfew as preventive. Some parents won't stand up and tell their children when to be home. A curfew will give parents and the community added leverage to get them home early.

It's not a weapon anymore?

Anyone under 17.

COMMISSIONER Edward M. Sneed: What are you going to do about drive-in theaters where they show two pictures? What's to stop parents from taking the keys out of the car? This is a long, drawn-out thing.

ROMANO: Juveniles will have a second set of keys or they'll start a car without any keys. We work with the drive-in theaters. The pizza man doesn't want kids hanging out in his place. It spoils the adult business.

Even if they're hungry? What are we, second-class citizens?

SNEED: After 9 p.m., I can't find any place to go.

ERICKSON: You ought to be home in bed.

Unless you happen to like pizza.

SNEED: As a youth, we had a curfew. We were picked up, and the parents came down and we got a lickin' then and there. Maybe I'm just old-fashioned.

So's my old man.

SIMON: A curfew law is never enforced absolutely; it's enforced at the discretion of the officer. The view had been expressed that an ordinance will cause disrespect if it isn't enforced strictly. The Chicago curfew ordinance is not strictly enforced, but it has the added power of breaking up assemblies of kids; it gives parents additional authority because they have to comply with the law.

My old man doesn't need additional authority.

COMMISSIONER Jerome Huppert: We had some bad incidents in West Rogers Park. The curfew helped police to disperse the crowds. These kids are corner lawyers.

Want to hear me recite the Fifth?

A curfew is good if it's enforceable, but it seems you have to have an incident before the police act. California and Devon (Aves.) is one of the worst spots in West Rogers Park.

So that's where Tony Accardo lives.

MRS. CONKEY: I inquired about a law to license outdoor theaters. I wanted the revenue for the county, but I was also interested in the children who inhabit the cars. I was told we have no police power to stop this, no power to arrest or take them out of the car, so what good is a curfew?

What is this, a police state?

ROMANO: Three theaters in the area do allow our surveillance of cars.

Peeping Toms.

ASSISTANT State's Attorney Tom Hett: The last session of the legislature granted the power to county boards to enact prescribed curfew times. This has been modeled after the city's ordinance. In our opinion, it is constitutional.

You're the Supreme Court?

MRS. CONKEY: Do you have the power to go inside theater grounds to look for children under age?

HETT: This would be trespassing on private property unless the officer was called by the proprietor or some serious offense had been committed on the grounds. There is a grave question in the courts about private property open to the public being 'a public place.'

Hey, a point for our side.

MRS. CONKEY: But is it possible underage children could hide on the theater grounds?

HETT: Yes.

It's dark in there.

SIMON: I think it would be a good idea to place a time limit of a year or 18 months on the penalty provision. This public hearing is adjourned. We'll consider its passage at a subsequent meeting.

I'll hold my breath — unless there's a law against it.

Workman at Randhurst Falls 2 Stories; Condition 'Fair'

A fall of almost two stories injured a construction workman at the Randhurst development last week.

Gino Pellegrina of 12608 Laflin, Chicago, was rushed to Northwest Community hospital by the nurse stationed at the gigantic construction project. Mount Prospect police formed an escort for the emergency trip.

Still at the hospital, spokesmen indicated Pellegrina was in "fair" condition.

Another construction accident found Libero Santucci more fortunate in his injuries. Santucci, who lives at 4700 N. Oak Park, Harwood Heights, was hurt when he was caught in a cave-in of a trench bank. Rushed to the hospital emergency room, he was examined, X-rayed and released.

Falls in the home proved to be more hazardous than work accidents for several patients in the hospital.

A fall down porch stairs brought Lawrence Gulotta, 3537 N. Oakley, Chicago, to the hospital for treatment of bruises of the chest. After several days of treatment, he was released.

Home injuries were not confined to adults. Cheryl Jordan, 10 months, of 203 Harvard Lane, Roselle, fell down steps at home and was rushed to the emergency room for examination.

David Wolff, 4, of 1201 Carswell, Elk Grove Village, fell cutting his scalp. The wound was treated and dressed.

A fall down stairs at home brought three-year-old Roy Mrozinski of 1419 St. James, Arlington Heights, to the hospital emergency room. Attendants found a broken left collarbone and a cast was applied.

A fall against a wall cut the scalp of Stephen True, 3, of 68 Warwick Lane, Weathersfield. At the hospital emergency room the cut was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot was given.

TETANUS TOXOID shots were also given Dayle Rogers, 12, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village, and Kathryn McAlleer, 6, of 1355 Gloria, Palatine. Dayle stepped on a coffee can and was treated for a laceration of his big toe. Kathryn cut her finger on a metal cabinet.

School and playtime accidents brought several children to the emergency room for treatment.

Gary DeBerge, 14, of 900 Victoria, Elk Grove Village, dislocated his right wrist while wrestling. The youth is now modeling a long arm cast. Kenneth Hawkes, 11, of 411 N. Carlyle, Arlington Heights, fractured his left elbow in a school accident.

Cathy Graham, 10, of 315 N. Wilshire, Arlington Heights, was taken to the emergency room for examination after she fell on the school playground. Jeanne Pollard, 11, of 624 S. George, Mount Prospect, fell at school, cutting her right eyelid. The wound was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

A playtime fall brought little Patricia King, 4, of 20 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, to the hospital with a 1½-inch cut on her forehead. The laceration was treated and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

Another "playtime" accident victim was Mrs. Arline Hauth, 512 N. Yale, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Hauth fractured her right ankle while ice skating. Admitted to the hospital for treatment, spokesmen report her condition as good.

THREE LITTLE "between-meal nibblers" were rushed to the hospital emergency room after eating unique "snacks."

Paul Find, 3, of 609 S. Newberry, Arlington Heights, swallowed an unknown amount of cleansing powder. Admitted to the hospital, his condition is listed as good.

James Knaack, 2, of 40 Glenbrook, Prospect Heights, drank rubbing alcohol. His stomach was washed and he was released.

An unknown amount of disinfectant was the "tidbit" drank by Geoffrey Wisch, 15 months, of 241 N. Boyton, Palatine.

Hospital record-keepers still are confused as to how Garold Elledge, 18, of 213 Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, managed to catch his head in a car door. The injury apparently was not connected with any traffic mishap.

Elledge received several head cuts, both on his face and scalp. The lacerations, one at least three-inches in length, were cleaned, sutured and dressed and a tetanus toxoid shot given.

A tetanus toxoid shot was also given Gunnar Jacobson, 2600 Park, Rolling Meadows. The shot was required because Jacobson had received a flesh wound — he came to the emergency room to have a splinter removed from his finger. (B9

Guide to College Planning Offered

The Parents' Guide to College Planning, a 64-page book containing information on preparing a child for college plus facts on admission procedures and financing, is being offered free of charge by the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The book is being offered by Thomas B. Maver, the society's local representative, as a means of acquainting area residents with Equitable's new dual approach to college financing.

"It is conservatively estimated that a college education is worth at least $100,000 over a person's lifetime," Maver said. "In intellectual terms, it is basic to the understanding of the growing political, social, and scientific complexities of life."

BECAUSE MORE and more people are realizing the importance of a college degree, the competition for admission is increasing rapidly, Maver continued.

"To meet this competition, parents who expect to send their children to college must be aware of the scholastic and financial preparation that will be required to get a child into college and see him through to graduation," he said. "This planning cannot start too early."

Maver said that anyone wishing a copy of the book should fill out the coupon positioned elsewhere in this newspaper, or call CL 3-3768. (B9

Netters Edge Old Pro's in Volleyball

The Netters were nearly dropped out of first place in the Arlington Heights Park District Wednesday mens volleyball league when they ran up against the Old Pros.

The margin of victory was a slim two points in the Netters favor, 27-25.

In a make-up game, the Netters suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of the Servers 30-17.

The Setters remained in top contention as they stopped the Servers 31-14.

The 755th Radar Jammers took a forfeit win from the Greens 11, while the Old Men were idle.

Idle I.B.T. Holds Lead In Arlington

I.B.T. remained undefeated after the first complete round of play in the Arlington Heights Park District Sportsmans basketball league.

The leaders were idle last week while the second place Hawkeyes bounced back from their first defeat and swamped Chamberlain Press, 61-39. Irv Siemers of the Hawkeyes was high in the game with 28 points.

Arlington Roofing won its second straight by downing the Jay-Cees, 55-30. Jim Summers collected 22 markers for the roofers.

Bible Sent to Russian Ruler

MILWAUKEE, (UPI)— A Milwaukee Methodist church congregation is sending a Russian edition of the New Testament to Russian Premier Khruschchev.

A letter with the "gift" will express the hope that "your nation, our nation and all nations cease fearing and start loving one another."

"We are sending you a copy of the New Testament (We understand perfectly that you can obtain it in Russia), but we want to give you this book as a sign of our concern for your well-being," the letter said.

The book is being sent by the Wesley Methodist church. (B8

Realtor Says Time Is Ripe for Move

The time is ripe for persons who have been thinking about upgrading their housing to do it — to go ahead with plans to graduate to a better home. Arthur C. Kelter, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, said Thursday.

Kelter, who attended the annual inaugural meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Washington, D. C. last week with about 1,000 other Realtor leaders, based his statement on reports at the meeting that the climate is favorable for an active real estate market in 1962.

"Current conditions are conducive to action for persons who have been considering moving to another section of the city because it would be closer to their work, because it's a better neighborhood, because the design of a particular house has caught their eye, or because they have outgrown their present home or it has become too large for them," Kelter said.

HE NOTED that a recent national survey of the mortgage market by NAREB's Department of Research shows that the supply of funds for conventional home mortgage loans will continue to be ample and interest rates stable in the immediate future. "With more money available for mortgages, it will be easier for people to sell their present home," Kelter stated. "And with personal savings nearing record totals, more families are able to meet down payment requirements."

He Pays Price For Changing Cents to Dimes

AUSTIN, TEX., (UPI)—Federal Judge Ben H. Rice Jr., sentenced Fred Heissner of Milwaukee to three years in prison last Friday for altering pennies and passing them as dimes.

Heissner, 41, pleaded guilty to four counts of altering, passing and possessing defaced coins.

He used acid to reduce the pennies to the size of dimes and then gave them to merchants in rolls with a real dime at each end. Heissner had several hundred of the altered coins in a motel room when arrested in Austin last month on a tip from a policeman's wife. She recognized Heissner from a newspaper description when he came into a bank where she was a teller. (B-8

Realtor Says Time Is Ripe for Move

The time is ripe for persons who have been thinking about upgrading their housing to do it — to go ahead with plans to graduate to a better home. Arthur C. Kelter, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, said Thursday.

Kelter, who attended the annual inaugural meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Washington, D. C. last week with about 1,000 other Realtor leaders, based his statement on reports at the meeting that the climate is favorable for an active real estate market in 1962.

"Current conditions are conducive to action for persons who have been considering moving to another section of the city because it would be closer to their work, because it's a better neighborhood, because the design of a particular house has caught their eye, or because they have outgrown their present home or it has become too large for them," Kelter said.

HE NOTED that a recent national survey of the mortgage market by NAREB's Department of Research shows that the supply of funds for conventional home mortgage loans will continue to be ample and interest rates stable in the immediate future. "With more money available for mortgages, it will be easier for people to sell their present home," Kelter stated. "And with personal savings nearing record totals, more families are able to meet down payment requirements."

He Pays Price For Changing Cents to Dimes

AUSTIN, TEX., (UPI)—Federal Judge Ben H. Rice Jr., sentenced Fred Heissner of Milwaukee to three years in prison last Friday for altering pennies and passing them as dimes.

Heissner, 41, pleaded guilty to four counts of altering, passing and possessing defaced coins.

He used acid to reduce the pennies to the size of dimes and then gave them to merchants in rolls with a real dime at each end. Heissner had several hundred of the altered coins in a motel room when arrested in Austin last month on a tip from a policeman's wife. She recognized Heissner from a newspaper description when he came into a bank where she was a teller. (B-8

Being Busy Essential For Submarine Duties

MILWAUKEE, (UPI) — A Navy psychiatrist said Monday that keeping busy is one of the most important needs of a person in a submarine, space craft or fallout shelter.

Lt. Cmdr. Earl H. Ninow, attached to the medical research laboratory at the New London, Conn., submarine base, said "You have very little time to sit around and feel sorry for yourself if you're busy."

Ninow, scheduled to speak at the annual meeting of the Milwaukee Academy of General Practitioners, said crew members of the Nuclear Fleet ballistic missile submarines work four hours and are off eight hours, but have little time to relax.

DURING THEIR eight hours off, they have maintenance duties, study for qualification and advancement, and sandwich in their sleep, Ninow said.

Each crewman gets about six hours of sleep during a 24-hour period and extra sleep is discouraged because it tends to make the person withdrawn from the rest of his group, the psychiatrist said.

"The lone-wolf type doesn't belong on a sub," he said.

ONLY ABOUT eight per cent of the volunteers for submarine training are rejected because of psychological reasons, he said. Fifteen to 30 per cent of the initial volunteers are rejected because of physical requirements and lack of motivation.

"An intensive screening process, including the escape training tank and pressure chamber, eliminates anyone with claustrophobia or severe neurotic traits," he said, "while the space limitation aboard nuclear subs is the same as that of conventional submarines. "Ninow said living conditions aboard the new underwater craft have improved.

The screening process has resulted in a low incidence of psychiatric crackups. During the second world war, only 56 out of 125,000 man patrols suffered from psychiatric disturbances, or one-tenth of one per cent.

"Here again because of the smallness of the crew size, a change in character or abnormality can be spotted quickly," he said, "and are treated rather than waiting for a man to crack up."

Ninow, a native of Chilton, Wis., and a graduate of Marquette University, said the reason that sailors volunteer for submarine duty include better pay, better food, faster advancement and more specialized training.

Also, he said sailors who are sea-sick types like to volunteer because at 100 feet below the surface, it's generally calm and cool. (A-14

Hawaii Tour Deadline Set

Hawaii, America's most popular vacation spot, will soon be the destination of many suburbanites as the deadline for tour reservations approaches.

Paddock Publications "Hawaiian Holiday" leaves the morning of March 9. Hotel and air line accommodations are being held until February 9.

The second annual tour departs O'Hare field via United Airlines regularly scheduled flight to San Francisco where the day is spent in visiting the interesting sights of America's most interesting city, cocktails at the famous "Top O' the Mark," a gourmet dinner at Fisherman's Wharf, Chinatown at night, and a restful sleep at the New Hilton Inn before departing the next morning for Oahu.

LUXURIOUS Hilton Hawaiian Village with its wide sandy beaches, rolling surf, five pools, awaits, and here the visitors will make their headquarters cept for a four-day hop to the outer islands.

These lush tropical islands with their leisurely, carefree atmosphere will endear themselves to the most hardened travelers. The Polynesian pageantry, perfection in climate, profusion of flowers and the kind hospitality of these unspoiled people lend themselves to a delightful vacation of graceful leisure.

TO THOSE who responded with a rash of inquiries and requests for the colorful brochure detailing the tour's itinerary, Paddock Publications urges that final arrangements be completed in early February while space is still available. (A14

FAA Grants $5 Million For Fields

WASHINGTON, D.C., (UPI)— The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has earmarked $5,518,250 for improvements at Chicago's three airports, Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., announced Friday.

The Lions share — $4,081,250 — was budgeted for improvements at O'Hare.

Midway was marked for $750,000, for approach lighting systems, and Meigs field on the lakeshore for $687,500 to expand the parking apron. (A-14

Student Returns from Study Trip

A Palatine high school graduate, now a junior at Dartmouth college, has just returned from a semester of study at the University of Salamanca, Spain, under the auspices of the Dartmouth College Foreign Study Program and the Experiment in International Living.

The student is William A. Coates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Coates, 350 N. Cumnock Road, Palatine. Coates graduated from Palatine Township High school in June, 1959.

The Foreign Study Plan, available to French, Spanish, and German majors since 1958, opened its doors this fall to qualified majors in other related fields. Coates was one of 28 men from Dartmouth, located in Hanover, N. H., to study this program this fall.

Commenting on why he decided to take the trip, Coates said that "I have always had a keen interest in the Spanish language and culture and I felt that this trip to Spain would be the highlight of my Spanish studies."

WILLIAM A. COATES

COATES SAILED from the United States on September 12 and went directly to Salamanca. This city was chosen by Dartmouth because of its fine educational facilities and its provincial environment, in contrast to the capital cities whose cosmopolitan character and large number of American visitors make more difficult the integration of students, like Coates, into the life of the foreign country.

While there Coates was able to allocate some of his time to traveling as well as to studying. He visited Granada, Seville, Valencia, and the famed Valley of the Fallen.

Upon passing an examination based on his study abroad, Coates will receive full credit for a term's work toward his college degree.

DARTMOUTH IS the first Ivy League college to initiate its own foreign study plan, and has taken the lead as one of the first major American colleges to associate itself with the Experiment in International Living which arranges for the students' transportation and selects families with whom the students will live.

Coates mentioned that "the trip was broadening because you see how the Spanish people live. Living with a family enables you to get a new perspective on foreign life by a process of assimilation."

A Spanish major at Dartmouth, Coates is a member of Phi Delta Alpha fraternity.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Brownie troop 708, of which Mrs. Henry Prochaska is leader, made and decorated pincushions as Valentine gifts for their mothers. The troop conducted a second-year star ceremony and, in conjunction with their work on Tenderfoot requirements, all members have learned the Girl Scout motto, handshake and slogan.

Intermediate troop 142, with Mrs. Eugene Vogt as leader, now has a troop crest called "Star of Bethlehem." The troop badges were awarded as follows: cooking, Diane Donato and Kristen Leistikow; pet, Jill Grunewald and Karen Leistikow. The girls will send a gift to the new son of Leader Mrs. Jack Buyers.

Brownie troop 534, under the leadership of Mrs. Edward Shaler, crayoned pictures and decorated them with popcorn for a third dimensional effect.

TROOP 464, led by Mrs. Guy B. Courtney, is working on the good grooming badge and each patrol is presenting a skit on this theme. Last week, the five members of one patrol did a pantomime entitled "How To Read, Sew and Study With Good Lighting."

Troop 559, led by Mrs. Frank D. McDade, enjoyed a skating party at Lions Park January 22. Hot chocolate and cupcakes were served.

Brownie Troop 139, with Mrs. Paul E. Dempsey Jr., as leader, put on a puppet show January 24, with every member participating.

Troop 477, led by Mrs. Floyd Caldini, held a court of awards January 25. Mrs. Caldini helped 13 members to earn world gifts badges. Mrs. Nelson Harper, a troop mother, helped four to earn cyclist badges and Mrs. James Ulrich, also a troop mother, helped one member to win the interior decorating badge. Two members received the garden flowers badge and one the child care badge.

Troop 557, led by Mrs. Donald Duffy, is working on the dramatics badge. Members did nosebag skits January 18 and met in patrols January 25 to work out pantomimes for presentation today. Goal of the troop is the presentation of a full-fledged play.

NORTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Third grade brownies of troop 293 braved the cold and snow to skate at Lions Park on a recent Monday afternoon. The girls thawed out with hot chocolate and cupcakes after their outing. Mrs. Annabelle Gafford is leader and Mrs. Katie Dahlquist is co-leader of troop 293.

Leaders of brownie troop 850, Mrs. W. E. Kunze and Mrs. Louis Richards, invested their newest member, Phyllis Ford. Phyllis' mother, Mrs. Frederick Ford, was invited to attend the ceremony.

W. E. Kunze and Louis Richards will supervise the father-daughter sledding party planned for Saturday, Feb. 3, at Deer Grove Forest Preserve. After a morning of sledding, the girls and their fathers will return to the Richards home for luncheon.

PALATINE

Excitement reigns on Mariner Ship 334 in Palatine. Six of its mates have been selected to attend Round Up in Buttons Bay, Vt. and one has been chosen as an alternate. Sue Yates of Arlington Heights has been chosen as leader of the International patrol.

Sue has a long list of accomplishments along with her cohort, Sue Larson also of Arlington Heights, who has been eslected as patrol leader of one of the American patrols.

Both girls have received their helmsman rating which is the highest rating in Mariners, have been in scouting 10 years, active in the blind swim program and in patrol leaders training, and having completed two years counselor in training course.

Both of these Mariners have served as captain of their ships and as presidents of senior planning board and were chosen as Susie Scouts. Sue Yates was chosen one out of the two girls in the state of Illinois for All State Encampment in 1961, while Sue Larson has been the most outstanding in promoting singing throughout the area.

SUE CRAWFORD, selected assistant patrol leader, serves as secretary of senior planning board, has had one year CIT training. Sandra Johnson, in her second year as a Mariner, holds a midshipmite rating, is a troop delegate on senior planning board, and has assisted in the blind swim program.

Jayne Wittenberg of Palatine is a curved bar scout, holds a seaman rating, is treasurer of her troop, has had one year CIT, and worked in the blind swim. Jackie Miller, has had one year CIT training. Alternate Marcy Lafely has assisted as counselor in Brownie day camp. All of these scouts underwent a training especially designed to prepare them for the Round Up.

ROLLING MEADOWS

During an investiture ceremony January 23, troop 858 went on a Brownie hunt under the leadership of Mrs. Harold Casper and Mrs. J. L. Eichorst. The search proved fruitful for they found the following Brownies that wish to be useful: Lynn Bridanhogan, Carol Casper, Leslie Green, Kathleen Groves, Margaret Jensen, Gale Kamin, Patty Lockomy, Debra Newman, Sharon Olson, Pamela Patberg, Elodie Preston, Susan Padgitt, Candice Raeside, Linda Roper, Karin Soderberg and Lorraine Tucker.

Many of the girls' parents were there to watch the investiture. Afterwards they enjoyed light refreshments which were served by the scouts.

Taking advantage of the deep snow and sunny day January 28 was Troop 633 when nine families assembled at Deer Grove for an afternoon of toboganning and sledding. Hot chocolate provided a welcome intermission. The youngest of the group, 7-month-old Russell Ervin decided he would just be an observer this year.

State Gets Delinquent Truck Fees

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — An additional $106,611 in delinquent truck license fees for 1952 were collected last year, Secretary of State Charles Carpentier said this week.

A total of $21 million delinquent fees accumulated in 1952 because of litigation following the enactment of a sharply increased license fee schedule for trucks by the 1951 general assembly session.

A total of $18.1 million has been collected.

Carpentier said deaths and dissolution of business will probably make it impossible to collect the entire amount.

Student Returns from Study Trip

A Palatine high school graduate, now a junior at Dartmouth college, has just returned from a semester of study at the University of Salamanca, Spain, under the auspices of the Dartmouth College Foreign Study Program and the Experiment in International Living.

The student is William A. Coates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Coates, 350 N. Cumnock Road, Palatine. Coates graduated from Palatine Township High school in June, 1959.

WILLIAM A. COATES

The Foreign Study Plan, available to French, Spanish, and German majors since 1958, opened its doors this fall to qualified majors in other related fields. Coates was one of 28 men from Dartmouth, located in Hanover, N. H., to study this program this fall.

Commenting on why he decided to take the trip, Coates said that "I have always had a keen interest in the Spanish language and culture and I felt that this trip to Spain would be the highlight of my Spanish studies."

COATES SAILED from the United States on September 12 and went directly to Salamanca. This city was chosen by Dartmouth because of its fine educational facilities and its provincial environment, in contrast to the capital cities whose cosmopolitan character and large number of American visitors make more difficult the integration of students, like Coates, into the life of the foreign country.

While there Coates was able to allocate some of his time to traveling as well as to studying. He visited Granada, Seville, Valencia, and the famed Valley of the Fallen.

Upon passing an examination based on his study abroad, Coates will receive full credit for a term's work toward his college degree.

DARTMOUTH IS the first Ivy League college to initiate its own foreign study plan, and has taken the lead as one of the first major American colleges to associate itself with the Experiment in International Living which arranges for the students' transportation and selects families with whom the students will live.

Coates mentioned that "the trip was broadening because you see how the Spanish people live. Living with a family enables you to get a new perspective on foreign life by a process of assimilation."

A Spanish major at Dartmouth, Coates is a member of Phi Delta Alpha fraternity.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Brownie troop 708, of which Mrs. Henry Prochaska is leader, made and decorated pincushions as Valentine gifts for their mothers. The troop conducted a second-year star ceremony and, in conjunction with their work on Tenderfoot requirements, all members have learned the Girl Scout motto, handshake and slogan.

Intermediate troop 142, with Mrs. Eugene Vogt as leader, now has a troop crest called "Star of Bethlehem." The troop badges were awarded as follows: cooking, Diane Donato and Kristen Leistikow; pet, Jill Grunewald and Karen Leistikow. The girls will send a gift to the new son of Leader Mrs. Jack Buyers.

Brownie troop 534, under the leadership of Mrs. Edward Shaler, crayoned pictures and decorated them with popcorn for a third dimensional effect.

TROOP 464, led by Mrs. Guy B. Courtney, is working on the good grooming badge and each patrol is presenting a skit on this theme. Last week, the five members of one patrol did a pantomime entitled "How To Read, Sew and Study With Good Lighting."

Troop 559, led by Mrs. Frank D. McDade, enjoyed a skating party at Lions Park January 22. Hot chocolate and cupcakes were served.

Brownie Troop 139, with Mrs. Paul E. Dempsey Jr., as leader, put on a puppet show January 24, with every member participating.

Troop 477, led by Mrs. Floyd Caldini, held a court of awards January 25. Mrs. Caldini helped 13 members to earn world gifts badges. Mrs. Nelson Harper, a troop mother, helped four to earn cyclist badges and Mrs. James Ulrich, also a troop mother, helped one member to win the interior decorating badge. Two members received the garden flowers badge and one the child care badge.

Troop 557, led by Mrs. Donald Duffy, is working on the dramatics badge. Members did nosebag skits January 18 and met in patrols January 25 to work out pantomimes for presentation today. Goal of the troop is the presentation of a full-fledged play.

NORTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Third grade brownies of troop 293 braved the cold and snow to skate at Lions Park on a recent Monday afternoon. The girls thawed out with hot chocolate and cupcakes after their outing. Mrs. Annabelle Gafford is leader and Mrs. Katie Dahlquist is co-leader of troop 293.

Leaders of brownie troop 850, Mrs. W. E. Kunze and Mrs. Louis Richards, invested their newest member, Phyllis Ford. Phyllis' mother, Mrs. Frederick Ford, was invited to attend the ceremony.

W. E. Kunze and Louis Richards will supervise the father-daughter sledding party planned for Saturday, Feb. 3, at Deer Grove Forest Preserve. After a morning of sledding, the girls and their fathers will return to the Richards home for luncheon.

PALATINE

Excitement reigns on Mariner Ship 334 in Palatine. Six of its mates have been selected to attend Round Up in Buttons Bay, Vt. and one has been chosen as an alternate. Sue Yates of Arlington Heights has been chosen as leader of the International patrol.

Sue has a long list of accomplishments along with her cohort, Sue Larson also of Arlington Heights, who has been eslected as patrol leader of one of the American patrols.

Both girls have received their helmsman rating which is the highest rating in Mariners, have been in scouting 10 years, active in the blind swim program and in patrol leaders training, and having completed two years counselor in training course.

Both of these Mariners have served as captain of their ships and as presidents of senior planning board and were chosen as Susie Scouts. Sue Yates was chosen one out of the two girls in the state of Illinois for All State Encampment in 1961, while Sue Larson has been the most outstanding in promoting singing throughout the area.

Snow and Ice Keep Hospital Emergency Staff Working

Snow and ice continue to bring victims to the emergency room of Northwest Community Hospital during the prolonged winter weather.

Among the patients admitted to the hospital for care was Mrs. Frieda Podzimek, 307 N. Vail, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Podzimek broke her arm in a fall on the ice.

YOUNG LEO Murray, 11, of 1402 W. Grove, Arlington Heights, also was admitted to the hospital after a fall on the ice. The youth was put under observation for a possible concussion.

A fall on the ice sent Mrs. Marian Noehre, 248 Fern Drive, Elk Grove Village, to the emergency room with a sprained right ankle.

Charles Stocking, 13, of 20 N. Rammer, Arlington Heights, is sporting a long arm cast as a souvenir of his trip to the hospital emergency room. He broke his right arm in a fall on the ice.

Other victims of falls and accidents resulting from icy conditions included Mrs. Lyda Waters, 703 Ridge, Elk Grove Village; Mrs. Patricia Mayer, 25 Wareham, Roselle; Michael Freese, 6, of 347 Hiawatha, Buffalo Grove; and Michael Palmer, 10, of 2807 Owl Lane, Rolling Meadows.

EMERGENCY room patients from Palatine who were injured in ice or snow accidents included Wilfred A. Muller, 349 N. Plum Grove; Charles Hedberg, 24 E. Hellen; Edwin Bagley, 116 S. Elmwood; and Joseph Gruspier, 108 S. Ash.

Falls on the ice brought Arlington Heights patients to the emergency room as well. These patients were Mrs. Fannie Weissmuller, 115 W. Sigwalt; Herbert Beasley, 311 N. Douglas; Don Vogel, 724 N, Kaspar; Mrs. Nancy Gibson, 1818 N. Kaspar; and Bryan Frawley, 6, of 311 N. Derbyshire.

Heading the list of Mount Prospect patients was Edward Grimm of 8 N. Elm St. Other Mount Prospect emergency room patients injured in ice accidents were Mrs. Lina Masosol, 908 Meyer; Mrs. Evelyn Nelson, 711 N. Russell; Kenneth Sophie, 11, of 703 S. See-Gwun; Robert Harig, 116 We-Go Trail; and Mrs. Jerry Anne Hugh of 615 N. Prospect Manor.

Another emergency room patient was Paul Fackler, 3009 Eagle, Rolling Meadows. (B9

Cook Paces Counties in Road Deaths

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) -Cook County led the list in Illinois traffic deaths for the week ending Monday, the state Traffic Safety division reported Tuesday, with five fatalities.

The total for the week was 22 highway deaths, eight fewer than the same week last year. Of the 22 deaths, one stemmed from an accident prior to last week. In addition, one person was killed Tuesday, one Wednesday, three Thursday, 10 Friday, two Saturday, three Sunday and one Monday.

The total deaths for this year to date is 89, compared to 117 at this time last year.

Following Cook County in traffic fatalities were Rock Island and St. Clair counties, each reporting three deaths. Lake County had two. Single fatalities were reported in Champaign, Henderson, LaSalle, Macoupin, Madison, Peoria, Perry, Sangamon and Washington. (B8

Cook Paces Counties in Road Deaths

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) -Cook County led the list in Illinois traffic deaths for the week ending Monday, the state Traffic Safety division reported Tuesday, with five fatalities.

The total for the week was 22 highway deaths, eight fewer than the same week last year. Of the 22 deaths, one stemmed from an accident prior to last week. In addition, one person was killed Tuesday, one Wednesday, three Thursday, 10 Friday, two Saturday, three Sunday and one Monday.

The total deaths for this year to date is 89, compared to 117 at this time last year.

Following Cook County in traffic fatalities were Rock Island and St. Clair counties, each reporting three deaths. Lake County had two. Single fatalities were reported in Champaign, Henderson, LaSalle, Macoupin, Madison, Peoria, Perry, Sangamon and Washington. (B8

Indian Guide Expert Added to YMCA Staff

DAVE SHELDON

Dave Sheldon, formerly program director at Elmhurst YMCA, has been added to the staff at Northwest Suburban YMCA since January 1. His job is to launch a Y-Indian Guide program in all of the towns which Northwest Suburban 'Y' serves.

Sheldon is on special assignment from the Chicago office of the YMCA to give impetus to the Indian Guide movement, the fastest growing youth program in the country. It is unique in that its purpose is to plan programs for "lads and dads" together, stressing companionship between fathers and sons.

Y-INDIAN GUIDES form a home-centered program for boys in grades 1-2-3 and their dads. It increases the number of activities which fathers and sons can do together at an age when a boy thinks his dad is the greatest man in the world and needs masculine influence in the growing-up process.

While at Elmhurst 'Y' Sheldon directed the growth of the Indian Guide program from seven tribes involving 112 fathers and sons to a nation of 60 tribes with over 1,000 persons involved.

HE IS A graduate of Macalester college in St. Paul, Minn., with a degree in sociology. He also did graduate work at McCormick Theological seminary, Chicago, graduating with a BD degree.

Any father interested in the Y-Indian Guides may call Sheldon at the 'Y' office, CYpress 6-3376. (B8

Accident Victims Spend Overnight in Hospital

A "night out" - all night - for Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Magnus, 801 E. Central Road, Arlington Heights, was the results of a traffic accident last weekend.

The couple both spent a night in Northwest Coommunity Hospital for observation following an accident at Central and Roosevelt Roads in Arlington Heights. They were both released the following day.

ANOTHER OVER - night "guest" of the hospital as a result of an accident was Mrs. Norma Gubbins, 480 Lance, Mount Prospect. Mrs. Gubbins was injured in a motor scooter accidnet.

State Police brought four accident victims to the hospital emergency room following an accident at Algonquin and Rohlwing Roads. Lloyd Lindstrom of Roselle was admitted to the hospital for treatment of a fractured nose. Hospital spokesmen term his condition good.

The other victims of the accident were William J. Gosney, 8 S. Reuter; Paul Chaffee, 317 N. Yale; and Arthur Travis, 25 S. Reuter; all of Arlington Heights. The three men were examined, X-rayed, treated for bruises and released.

TWO YOUNG adults were examined, treated for bruises and released following an accident at Route 58 and Busse Road. They were Walter DePoeck of 1020 Main St., and Miss Judy McAdams, 1870 Orrington, both of Evanston.

A truck accident on the Northwest Tollroad near the 11-mile post brought LeRoy Porter of Woodlawn to the hospital emergency room. Porter was treated for bruises of the hand.

Rolling Meadows police sent three persons to the emergency room following an accident in that city. Robert Newman, 16, of 3005 Starling, Rolling Meadows, was treated for bruises of the forehead. Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Chase, 2609 Park St., Rolling Meadows, were released after examination and X-rays. (B9

Expectant Parents Class Is Organized

"What to do when the baby comes" is not a joke at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

The hospital is organizing another of their series of Expectant Parents Classes aimed at telling new parents just what to do when that baby does come.

The new six-week class will start Thursday, Feb. 15, at the hospital. Classes run from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Thursday.

REGISTRATION is open to all expectant parents of the area. The hospital requires each couple to present a letter of certification from their doctor. Couples are asked to contact the hospital to register for the course.

Class instructor is Mrs. Charlene Komay, registered nurse. The classes follow a schedule recommended by the American Red Cross. (B-9

Disciples' Membership Falls Off

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., (UPI)—The International Convention of Christian Churches, known as the Disciples of Christ denomination, reported last Friday a slight decline in world membership in the last fiscal year.

Membership dropped from about 2,016,000 to 2,011,000 officials said.

However, financial contributions increased during the year by $2.5 million to about $87.5 million in the United States and Canada.

The denomination's international headquarters is located here. (A-14

Kids Escape Injury In Auto-Bus Mishap

Luckily, none were hurt in the school bus collision with a car driven by an Arlington Heights motorist at 8:40 a.m. January 23 on Rand road at Thomas-Willow road.

The bus, driven by Constance E. Boryles, 34, of 697 S. Merle Lane, Wheeling, was going northwest on U.S. 12. It made a right turn into Thomas-Willow road, according to state police.

In making the turn, police said, it crossed the double yellow line 2 1/2 feet with the left front wheel and struck a car, driven by Victor Wallace Hughes, 43, of 1403 N. Highland, Arlington Heights. The car was going southeast on U. S. 12.

Damage to the bus was $130 and to the car, $300. The bus driver was charged with making an improper right turn.

CHILDREN, THE oldest of whom were eight, who were passengers included: Thomas Sweeney, Michael Wood, Claudia Frank, Judith Nyhus, Timothy Smith, Marilyn Jouse, Cynthia Ondracek, Charles Richmond, Edward Seifert, Patricia Voss, Randall Wubs, Robin Anderson, Marc Caruso, Diane Hawkins.

Jan Maria Lesniak, Daniel Linder, Allen Zasadny, Paul Galowitch, Constance Scalbom, Randall Hansen, Judith Hensley, Gary Krieg, Karen Sjoquist, James Churillo, Donna Cory, James Gaitis, Ronna Linder, Melinda Sorenson, Ty Field, Christie Sweeney, Kenneth Wood, Peter DeBree, Wayne Jouse, Leon Zasadny, Barbara Dean.

Scott Frank, Edward Hembd, Sam Sargis, Lola Waggoner, Ronald Hemb, Jeanette Less, Ken Laughlin, Nancy Voss, Robert Sargis, Carey Wood, Elizabeth Wood.

THEY WERE passengers on the Ritzenthaler Bus No. 2, owned by the bus company of the same name.

In a second accident, which occurred at 3:30 p.m. January 22, Clarence Lindstrom, 65, of Elmhurst, was southbound on Illinois 83.

At the junction of 83 and U. S. 12, according to state police, he failed to stop his car at a red light, and his car was struck by a vehicle driven by Gloria M. Lisi, 30, of 1525 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

Lindstrom was injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital. He was charged with failure to yield. Damage to the first car was $600; to the second, $500.

ON JANUARY 24 at 4:10 p.m., Robert W. Riebe, 19, of 1315 Belmont, Arlington Heights, was traveling north on Busse road. Eastbound on Illinois 58 was John T. Davies, 21, of Evanston. Riebe's car was struck by the other while crossing 58.

Injured were two passengers in the second car, Judy McAdams, 21, of Arkansas, and Walter A. DeRoeck, 19, of Evanston. They were taken to the Northwest Community hospital. Damage to the first car was $350; to the second, the same.

Riebe was charged with failure to yield right of way.

IN ANOTHER accident which occurred at 6:56 a.m., January 25, William J. Gosney, 32, of 8 S. Reuter dr., Arlington Heights, was parked on the inner lane, waiting for a traffic light change.

The scene was Illinois 62 at Illinois 53. When Gosney attempted to make a left turn as the light turned green, his car collided with another, driven by Lloyd E. Lindstorm, 30, of Route 1, Box 330 D, Roselle, in the middle of the intersection.

Injured were both drivers and two passengers in the Gosney car, Paul Chaffee, 33, of 317 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, and Arthur D. Francis, 35, of 25 S. Reuter dr., Arlington lington Heights. They were taken to the Northwest Community hospital.

DAMAGE TO the first car was $1000; to the other, $1200. Lindstrom was charged with disobeying a traffic light.

Refusing first aid was a victim in another traffic accident, which occurred at 11:15 p.m., January 25 on Illinois 72 at Oakton.

A car driven by Robert S. Meger, 28, of 17 Wellesley, RR 1, Roselle, was disabled at the red light, and a second car, driven by Kenneth J. Hotvedt, 41, of 941 Higgins, Elk Grove, failed to stop, according to state police.

Police charged Hotvedt with driving under the influence of liquor, driving too fast for conditions and having improper registration. Although injured, he refused first aid. Damage to the Meger car was $250; to the other, it was the same. (B8

Savings Official To Address Board

Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors has scheduled a lecture February 8 on financing real estate transactions geared to the salesperson's point of view.

Speaker will be Frank Muriello, vice president of Oak Park Federal Savings and Loan Association. He will address the board at 7 p.m. in the Elks club, 495 Lee st., Des Plaines.

Kids Escape Injury In Auto-Bus Mishap

Luckily, none were hurt in the school bus collision with a car driven by an Arlington Heights motorist at 8:40 a.m. January 23 on Rand road at Thomas-Willow road.

The bus, driven by Constance E. Boryles, 34, of 697 S. Merle Lane, Wheeling, was going northwest on U.S. 12. It made a right turn into Thomas-Willow road, according to state police.

In making the turn, police said, it crossed the double yellow line 2 1/2 feet with the left front wheel and struck a car, driven by Victor Wallace Hughes, 43, of 1403 N. Highland, Arlington Heights. The car was going southeast on U. S. 12.

Damage to the bus was $130 and to the car, $300. The bus driver was charged with making an improper right turn.

CHILDREN, THE oldest of whom were eight, who were passengers included: Thomas Sweeney, Michael Wood, Claudia Frank, Judith Nyhus, Timothy Smith, Marilyn Jouse, Cynthia Ondracek, Charles Richmond, Edward Seifert, Patricia Voss, Randall Wubs, Robin Anderson, Marc Caruso, Diane Hawkins.

Jan Maria Lesniak, Daniel Linder, Allen Zasadny, Paul Galowitch, Constance Scalbom, Randall Hansen, Judith Hensley, Gary Krieg, Karen Sjoquist, James Churillo, Donna Cory, James Gaitis, Ronna Linder, Melinda Sorenson, Ty Field, Christie Sweeney, Kenneth Wood, Peter DeBree, Wayne Jouse, Leon Zasadny, Barbara Dean.

Scott Frank, Edward Hembd, Sam Sargis, Lola Waggoner, Ronald Hemb, Jeanette Less, Ken Laughlin, Nancy Voss, Robert Sargis, Carey Wood, Elizabeth Wood.

THEY WERE passengers on the Ritzenthaler Bus No. 2, owned by the bus company of the same name.

In a second accident, which occurred at 3:30 p.m. January 22, Clarence Lindstrom, 65, of Elmhurst, was southbound on Illinois 83.

At the junction of 83 and U. S. 12, according to state police, he failed to stop his car at a red light, and his car was struck by a vehicle driven by Gloria M. Lisi, 30, of 1525 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

Lindstrom was injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital. He was charged with failure to yield. Damage to the first car was $600; to the second, $500.

ON JANUARY 24 at 4:10 p.m., Robert W. Riebe, 19, of 1315 Belmont, Arlington Heights, was traveling north on Busse road. Eastbound on Illinois 58 was John T. Davies, 21, of Evanston. Riebe's car was struck by the other while crossing 58.

Injured were two passengers in the second car, Judy McAdams, 21, of Arkansas, and Walter A. DeRoeck, 19, of Evanston. They were taken to the Northwest Community hospital. Damage to the first car was $350; to the second, the same.

Riebe was charged with failure to yield right of way.

IN ANOTHER accident which occurred at 6:56 a.m., January 25, William J. Gosney, 32, of 8 S. Reuter dr., Arlington Heights, was parked on the inner lane, waiting for a traffic light change.

The scene was Illinois 62 at Illinois 53. When Gosney attempted to make a left turn as the light turned green, his car collided with another, driven by Lloyd E. Lindstorm, 30, of Route 1, Box 330 D, Roselle, in the middle of the intersection.

Injured were both drivers and two passengers in the Gosney car, Paul Chaffee, 33, of 317 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, and Arthur D. Francis, 35, of 25 S. Reuter dr., Arlington lington Heights. They were taken to the Northwest Community hospital.

DAMAGE TO the first car was $1000; to the other, $1200. Lindstrom was charged with disobeying a traffic light.

Refusing first aid was a victim in another traffic accident, which occurred at 11:15 p.m., January 25 on Illinois 72 at Oakton.

A car driven by Robert S. Meger, 28, of 17 Wellesley, RR 1, Roselle, was disabled at the red light, and a second car, driven by Kenneth J. Hotvedt, 41, of 941 Higgins, Elk Grove, failed to stop, according to state police.

Police charged Hotvedt with driving under the influence of liquor, driving too fast for conditions and having improper registration. Although injured, he refused first aid. Damage to the Meger car was $250; to the other, it was the same. (B8

Target: Slum Landlords

Welfare Department Pursues Crackdown

The Cook County Department of Public Aid is continuing to wage its campaign to hit the slum landlord where it hurts — his pocketbook.

This was revealed at a press conference convened Tuesday at the State of Illinois building in Chicago by Raymond M. Hilliard, public aid director.

SINCE A special inspection task force of public aid, building, health and fire department officials began ferreting out slum property late last summer, a total of $15,737.95 in montthly rent payments has been withheld in cases involving 309 families and 818 welfare recipients.

The payments were withdrawn while court orders were entered to demolish buildings and relocate families or until landlords complied with minimum standards for housing, Hilliard explained. These moves were initiated in various sections of the city, he added.

Hilliard also noted these accomplishments achieved under the welfare department's program of rehabilitation, and assistance:

—A slum clean-up program, assigning 969 persons to this project. They represent part of the 5,343 relief recipients the public aid department currently has earning assistance grants on work relief;

—A HOUSEKEEPING teacher service has been introduced to teach rudiments of good housekeeping and rules of sanitation;

—A crackdown was undertaken on deserting fathers with the cooperation of the Municipal Court of Chicago in which emphasis has been shifted from merely entering court support orders to reuniting families. Offenders receive maximum sentences, but if the father returns to the family and provides for them, the sentence is vacated. (B8

Moose Inaugural Draws Big Crowd

A capacity crowd was reported to have filled Carpenters Hall in Des Plaines for the inaugural dance of the Prospect Heights Moose Lodge.

The twist dance provided the main engrossment for the evening. Sam DeLucca of Wheeling and Miss Sherry Brown of Arlington Heights were awarded a prize for their rendition of the twist.

LLOYD SCHULTZ of Prospect Heights was the winner of a Polaroid camera kit. The keynotes furnished the music.

Lodge governor is Joseph Gorski. (ACM

Presbyterian Church Elects First Boards

One hundred and eighteen persons, received by the Southminster United Presbyterian Church at its service of formal organization last Sunday, will constitute the new church's initial membership roll.

They were presented by the Rev. Dr. William T. Jones, organizing minister, to the Commission of the Presbytery of Chicago, presided over by the Rev. Dr. Clare E. Tallman, moderator.

FOLLOWING THE reception of the members, the names of 36 men were presented to the congregation by the Committee on Nominations, of which Nicholas M. Lattof was chairman and Mrs. Gladys Carlisle, secretary. These 36 were then elected to the three official boards of the church.

Elected as elders to constitute the Session of the Church were: W. Lorne Box, Robert B. Carney, A. Paul Fellingham, Gordon O. Gullicksen, Chester K. Hayes, J. David Heuer, Carl W. Hilton, Nicholas M. Lattof, James W. Lee, Robert J. Malcomson, Edwin B. Rose and Carl M. Teutsch.

Elected to the board of trustees were: Carl H. Bowen, Carl P. Clare, Dr. Harrie L. Hall, Neal P. Hawkins, W. Richard Impey, Charles W. Johnson, John H. Kuiper, Jack V. Keller, Dennis R. Malcolmson, Lloyd C. Peterson, Peter V. Toffoli, and Harold B. Rose.

ELECTED TO THE board of deacons were: David G. Brooke, James R. Cantley, Robert P. Copenhefer, Roger L. Carlson, Newell P. Crockett, Fred M. Daneke, James D. Denson, Donald C. Garland, Fred W. Gareiss, George I. Kangas, Warren H. Lattof, and Eldon C. Robson.

The members of the session were ordained and installed by the Rev. Simon C. Jepson, Elmwood Park Presbyterian Church. The members of the boards of deacons and the trustees will be installed by Dr. Jones at the morning service, February 4.

Action was also taken at the meeting Sunday authorizing the trustees to proceed with the necessary steps to incorporate the church as a religious corporation under the laws of the State of Illinois, and authority given to the session and trustees to appoint a general building committee which will proceed immediately to formulate plans for the building of the church's first unit on the site at Central Road and Dryden Ave.

The church's charter roll will remain open for additional signatures until Easter. (A- EG

Symphony Concert Sunday at Maine

The Northwest Symphony orchestra will present a concert Sunday, Feb. 4, at 3:30 p.m. in the Maine Township high school east auditorium for the benefit of Lutheran General hospital, Park Ridge.

The concert will open with the "Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue" by Bach. Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" will follow. After the intermission, mezzo-soprano Carol Oyster of Park Ridge will sing "Adieux Forets" from "Jeanne d'Arc" by Tschaikowsky and "O Don Fatale" from "Don Carlos" by Verdi. The program will close with "Francesca da Rimini" by Tschaikowsky.

NORTHWEST AREA members of the symphony include Violinist F. Colton Chunn, English Horn and Oboe Player R. H. Duncan, and Trombonist Bruce Harry of Arlington Heights: Violinist Christine Cosma, Flutist Paul Bolman, Horn Player Earle G. Cromer Jr., Trumpeter Carol May Stein, and Clarinetist Elwyn King of Mount Prospect; and Celloist Joseph Pfandner of Prospect Heights.

Tickets for the concert, which is sponsored by the hospital's Service league, may be purchased at the hospital gift shop or by calling Mrs. Sterling Bassett at TA 3-4826. (B8

One hundred and eighteen persons, received by the Southminster United Presbyterian Church at its service of formal organization last Sunday, will constitute the new church's initial membership roll.

They were presented by the Rev. Dr. William T. Jones, organizing minister, to the Commission of the Presbytery of Chicago, presided over by the Rev. Dr. Clare E. Tallman, moderator.

FOLLOWING THE reception of the members, the names of 36 men were presented to the congregation by the Committee on Nominations, of which Nicholas M. Lattof was chairman and Mrs. Gladys Carlisle, secretary. These 36 were then elected to the three official boards of the church.

Elected as elders to constitute the Session of the Church were: W. Lorne Box, Robert B. Carney, A. Paul Fellingham, Gordon O. Gullicksen, Chester K. Hayes, J. David Heuer, Carl W. Hilton, Nicholas M. Lattof, James W. Lee, Robert J. Malcomson, Edwin B. Rose and Carl M. Teutsch.

Elected to the board of trustees were: Carl H. Bowen, Carl P. Clare, Dr. Harrie L. Hall, Neal P. Hawkins, W. Richard Impey, Charles W. Johnson, John H. Kuiper, Jack V. Keller, Dennis R. Malcolmson, Lloyd C. Peterson, Peter V. Toffoli, and Harold B. Rose.

ELECTED TO THE board of deacons were: David G. Brooke, James R. Cantley, Robert P. Copenhefer, Roger L. Carlson, Newell P. Crockett, Fred M. Daneke, James D. Denson, Donald C. Garland, Fred W. Gareiss, George I. Kangas, Warren H. Lattof, and Eldon C. Robson.

The members of the session were ordained and installed by the Rev. Simon C. Jepson, Elmwood Park Presbyterian Church. The members of the boards of deacons and the trustees will be installed by Dr. Jones at the morning service, February 4.

Action was also taken at the meeting Sunday authorizing the trustees to proceed with the necessary steps to incorporate the church as a religious corporation under the laws of the State of Illinois, and authority given to the session and trustees to appoint a general building committee which will proceed immediately to formulate plans for the building of the church's first unit on the site at Central Road and Dryden Ave.

The church's charter roll will remain open for additional signatures until Easter. (A- EG

Symphony Concert Sunday at Maine

The Northwest Symphony orchestra will present a concert Sunday, Feb. 4, at 3:30 p.m. in the Maine Township high school east auditorium for the benefit of Lutheran General hospital, Park Ridge.

The concert will open with the "Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue" by Bach. Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" will follow. After the intermission, mezzo-soprano Carol Oyster of Park Ridge will sing "Adieux Forets" from "Jeanne d'Arc" by Tschaikowsky and "O Don Fatale" from "Don Carlos" by Verdi. The program will close with "Francesca da Rimini" by Tschaikowsky.

NORTHWEST AREA members of the symphony include Violinist F. Colton Chunn, English Horn and Oboe Player R. H. Duncan, and Trombonist Bruce Harry of Arlington Heights: Violinist Christine Cosma, Flutist Paul Bolman, Horn Player Earle G. Cromer Jr., Trumpeter Carol May Stein, and Clarinetist Elwyn King of Mount Prospect; and Celloist Joseph Pfandner of Prospect Heights.

Tickets for the concert, which is sponsored by the hospital's Service league, may be purchased at the hospital gift shop or by calling Mrs. Sterling Bassett at TA 3-4826. (B8

60 YEARS AGO
Jan. 25, 1902

Arlington Heights: A Chicago party proposes to establish a pickle factory at Arlington Heights, provided he can contract with the farmers of this vicinity to raise enough pickles to warrant the venture. He is now ready to make contracts. He will furnish good seed and pay the highest market price for all the pickles he can get. For particulars and seed apply to W. A. Pfluger, Arlington Heights.

Obituary: Mr. Wm. Pate, ill six weeks, died here January 19, 1902. He had lived in this vicinity since 1848, coming to Chicago at that time from Cambridge, England, where he was born September 12, 1824. He settled on a farm at Wheeling Center in 1850. As one of the oldest settlers here he was well and widely known. He was always an industrious, hardworking man, honest in all of his dealings with his fellows; very retiring and home-loving. His memory is a sacred treasure to his family. The funeral, conducted by Rev. Reynolds, took place from his late residence Tuesday afternoon, with interment at Dunton cemetery.

Palatine: Rev. W. H. Smith of Park Ridge is assisting Rev. Holmes in revival meetings every night this week at the Methodist church.

A carload of wet malt is received every week by Batterman, Abelman & Ost.

Itasca: Shall the city fathers sell a crop of park pond ice? If not, why not?

The city fathers lost no time in having the snow scraped off the park pond so the youngsters might go right on with their fun.

L. F. Rosenwinkel has placed two carloads of cinders around his store. There will be no mud on him. He will soon have the best property in town.

Wanted in Itasca: a harness shop, washer woman, second-hand skates and cutters, rain water to fill empty cisterns, better railway service, second tombstone for a dead town.

Schaumburg: Henry Wille was to Palatine with a load of oats.

A number of our cyclists were out riding last Sunday.

Arlington Heights: Mr. and Mrs. John Klehm celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary Thursday, Jan. 11, 1912. They were married January 11, 1862 in Chicago with Mr. George Klehm (now of Niles Center) a brother of Mr. Klehm and Eliza Stitz (now Mrs. Scheer of Calif.,) a sister of Mrs. Klehm, as witnesses. The young couple returned to Arlington Heights that same evening, and started life in their home, this house now being occupied by Mrs. Jahn. To them were born five children, of whom are living George, Charles and Henry and they with their families and some 60 relatives and friends helped to make the day a joyous one. Golden chains of crepe paper, fern leaves and yellow flowers adding to the luster all around the beautifully decorated rooms. Occupying the place of honor at the bride's table there was arranged a large basket of jonquils, yellow tulips and hyacinths. By the request of the bride that "no presents" were to be made her wishes were respected in a general way, but some friends wishing to give expression to the occasion sent a handsome clock which stood in the center of a table made by Mr. John Klehm when they first started in double harness 50 years ago. A sugar basin too, first used in the early days of married life was prettily decorated and much in demand. This esteemed couple are blessed with a happy united family: George Klehm and wife and four children; Charles Klehm and wife and six children, and Henry Klehm and wife and four children.

Burkitt's Garage advertises five passenger touring car, E.M.F., Studebaker Corp., $1100 fob Detroit, and a Flanders 5-passenger touring car for $800 fob Detroit.

Schaumburg: The roads are very fine to haul big loads.

All our autos are having a rest now. The old plugs are the handiest for a time again.

Meacham: Herman Landwehr sold a civilized horse to Henry Burmeister.

Of course you are coming to Meacham Friday evening, Jan. 26. An oyster supper will be served at the home of U. S. Baker (up on the hill). Come and enjoy the supper and a pleasant evening, and all for the modest sum of 25 cents.

Wood Dale: C. Neuman bought a new fur coat.

Otto Heuer killed a horse to make sausage but he found nothing but bones.

Louis Dammeier has the best black trotter in Wood Dale. He runs 60 minutes in one hour.

40 YEARS AGO

Roselle: Roselle Mill & Lumber Co. kept an extra force busy last week, putting in the line shaft and installing the wood saw and machinery in the new building just erected for the manufacture of storm sash, screen doors, tanks, cisterns, all kinds of scroll work and wood turning.

Bensenville: At the annual congregation meeting of Frieden's congregation, a committee was appointed to buy a new pipe organ to cost not less than $3,500.

Mrs. Sandhagen, an old resident of this community, died Monday. Funeral was held Thursday and body laid to rest at Frieden's cemetery.

Mrs. F. Kossack, an old resident of this vicinity, died January 13 and was buried at St. John's cemetery January 17.

Grandma Dierking celebrated her 83rd birthday January 17 and enjoyed the company of relatives and friends. Mr. Henry Dierking will celebrate his 87th birthday March 17. This venerable and highly esteemed couple will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary May 4, 1922, a long and happy wedded life.

Arlington Heights: Did you notice the magnificent sunsets last week?

In a contest entered into by two, selected from 16 different business colleges, Amanda Ellerbrake, a graduate of Arlington Heights High School won the gold medal. The test was given last week Tuesday.

Palatine: The value of a good fire siren was demonstrated Sunday when the Arlington Heights fire signal was heard in Palatine. It was a fire at Bray & Kates factory. (Now Creamery Package Co.)

Is Palatine to have its own ice company this year? Seip and Brown are busy storing ice at the Wolff farm and if the latter is not sold before summer, we can look for some cheap ice.

Arlington Heights: Gustav Heidorn, at present a justice of the peace, has been appointed assessor to fill the unexpired term of Jacob Schwingel, deceased. The town board of auditors, including justices of the peace, the supervisor and town clerk met on Tuesday afternoon and Mr. Heidorn received the majority of the vote cast; there were two applications from the village of Wheeling, and two from Arlington Heights. Mr. Heidorn automatically vacates his position of justice of the peace when he assumes his new position.

A special meeting of the Board of Education of Dist. 25, Arlington Heights, was held in the school office Tuesday night, to consider with certain leaders from the Parent-Teacher association, the matter of a drive for school funds through the sale of tax anticipation warrants. Mr. Humphrey Ashton, a member of the P.T.A., has agreed to act as chairman of a committee to canvass the school district.

From Observer's Notes: Funny isn't it?—here we are in old forsaken Illinois enjoying genuine California winter weather. Dandelions blooming on the lawns, crickets hopping up the doorsteps; the lawns spread green as April; tulips and other bulbs up five or six inches, and green onions in the garden. At Hennepin, Illinois, one family has been eating new second crop potatoes from their garden. From the N. C. Volz's in California we hear that this has been the most disagreeable winter they have spent in California. "January 15, a regular April shower, but with a degree of freezing and ever so sloppy." "One more evidence of Spring's approach, a picture in the morning paper of girls jumping rope and boys playing marbles. Of course the pessimists will tell us that we have often had our heaviest snows and coldest weather in March. What of it? Later will come the robins and violets."

There has been a grave misunderstanding cleared up and everyone is happy and relieved. The story of last week relative "Ban on Milk for Hungry Children" has had a happy ending. Milk is being regularly delivered to the Relief Dining Room and all is well. The milk producer and the Association ironed things out, and everything is o.k.

Palatine: Brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schwantz gathered January 10 at the home of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cosman for a grand surprise on their fortieth wedding anniversary.

Hicks road is closed to traffic, but the residents along that road have the experience of seeing tents erected over the newly constructed road culverts. Heaters are placed in the tents and with the mild weather outside, the contractors hope to hasten the construction of the highway. The culverts are sixty feet wide.

Movie shows in Seip Auditorium have been discontinued owing to lack of patronage.

Arlington Heights: Blackout instructions for Arlington: EVERYONE must do his part. One individual can offset the loyal efforts of hundreds. The fire siren will be used for both Fire Alarms and Air Raid Alarms. Fire alarms are given by a continued running of the siren—up and down the entire range with no pauses between. The air raid signal will be three separate calls, with a two-second pause between calls. All clear will be the same as the regular noon siren—one long call. Electric power in your home must be disconnected. Your refrigerators, radios, oil-burners and other appliances will not be affected by the blackout. Turn out your lights or shield them absolutely from outside view. Do this as quickly as possible. Remain calm, walk—don't run. A blackout warden has been appointed for each block in the village. If you are driving your car when the siren is sounded, pull to the side of the street, stop your car and turn out every light on it. Do not attempt to drive during the practice. Do not overload the telephone company by calling your neighbors. In case of emergency the telephone system will be vital to the welfare of the community. Henry F. Muller, Staff Officer, Geo. F. Schneberger, Unit Chairman.

Defense stamps now on sale at Arlington High School. Supt. Conger reports a very brisk sale and considerable enthusiasm.

Police car gets first tires from rationing board. Two tires were allotted by the local board for Wheeling township, the January quota being six tires. The allotment of truck tires is ten. Only one has been certified. It went to a local man who is engaged in hauling defense materials. (A14

LIMA, ILL., (UPI)—Ken Schumaker, who operates a garage here decided to put out a 1962 calendar for his customers.

However when Schumaker generously distributed the calendars he did not notice that his garage telephone number printed on the top was the same as the village's volunteer fire department.

Now when a customer calls, the village's automatic fire alarm is sounded and the volunteer firemen come running.

Last Thursday there were three false alarms. (A-14

Foreign Affairs Briefing Is Set

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Kennedy administration foreign affairs officials will conduct a regional conference on international developments in Chicago this Thursday, Feb. 1.

The conference, for the states of Illinois and Indiana, is sponsored by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and will be held at the Pick-Congress hotel beginning at 9:15 a.m.

The briefing team includes: Chester Bowles, Special Assistant to the President; Paul H. Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Affairs; Edwin M. Martin, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs; Donald M. Wilson, Deputy Director of the United States Information Agency; Carl T. Rowan, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, and Charles Bohlen, Special Assistant to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Representing Paddock Publications at the conference will be Richard C. Hoffman, associate editor.

Spur Mental Health Need In Building

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Gov. Otto Kerner met with some of his directors Tuesday to set up a committee to coordinate and expedite the mental health building bond program.

Kerner told reporters after the meeting that the directors will appoint representatives to the committee and the group will meet Feb. 13 for the first time.

The departments involved are mental health, registration and education, personnel, public health and public works.

COORDINATING efforts, Kerner said, for example, will include the functions of the Registration and Education department in the licensing of technical personnel for planned new facilities.

Kerner said his representative to the committee would be Legal Assistant Dawn Clark.

The mental health bond program totals $150 million for new and improved facilities. It was approved by voters in the 1960 general election. (A-14

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

DEARTH; scarcity; lack. "He found that there was a dearth of good books in the man's home."

PROBATIONARY; pertaining to a trial or period of trial. "A probationary period will be required before we can adopt this plan."

EMULOUS; ambitious to equal another; also, characterized by, or due to, emulation. (Accent first syllable). "Rather than pursue your present emulous course, why don't you try to be just yourself?"

Need Revenue Revision

Urge Constitutional Convention at Meet

(UPI)—A conference studying the Illinois Constitution has urged adoption of a new revenue article and a state Constitutional Convention "at the earliest possible date."

Twenty-one educators, legislators and civic leaders attending the final day of the conference at Monticello Friday called revision of the revenue article "of critical importance," but differed sharply on what its new form should be.

ELEVEN FAVORED a broad amendment which would permit a graduated state income tax; five wanted to specifically bar such a tax and five did not vote.

The assembly, sponsored by the University of Illinois, also proposed that a mandatory statewide referendum be held on the question of holding a Constitutional Convention at regular intervals, such as every 20 years.

THE GROUP also favored holding gubernatorial elections in off-years rather than in presidential election years and recommended a short ballot making such elected state officers as auditor and superintendent of public instruction appointive.

Delegates endorsed the judicial amendment that will be voted on by the voters this fall.

Volz's in California we hear that this has been the most disagreeable winter they have spent in California. "January 15, a regular April shower, but with a degree of freezing and ever so sloppy." "One more evidence of Spring's approach, a picture in the morning paper of girls jumping rope and boys playing marbles. Of course the pessimists will tell us that we have often had our heaviest snows and coldest weather in March. What of it? Later will come the robins and violets."

There has been a grave misunderstanding cleared up and everyone is happy and relieved. The story of last week relative "Ban on Milk for Hungry Children" has had a happy ending. Milk is being regularly delivered to the Relief Dining Room and all is well. The milk producer and the Association ironed things out, and everything is o.k.

Palatine: Brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schwantz gathered January 10 at the home of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cosman for a grand surprise on their fortieth wedding anniversary.

Hicks road is closed to traffic, but the residents along that road have the experience of seeing tents erected over the newly constructed road culverts. Heaters are placed in the tents and with the mild weather outside, the contractors hope to hasten the construction of the highway. The culverts are sixty feet wide.

Movie shows in Seip Auditorium have been discontinued owing to lack of patronage.

Arlington Heights: Blackout instructions for Arlington: EVERYONE must do his part. One individual can offset the loyal efforts of hundreds. The fire siren will be used for both Fire Alarms and Air Raid Alarms. Fire alarms are given by a continued running of the siren—up and down the entire range with no pauses between. The air raid signal will be three separate calls, with a two-second pause between calls. All clear will be the same as the regular noon siren—one long call. Electric power in your home must be disconnected. Your refrigerators, radios, oilburners and other appliances will not be affected by the blackout. Turn out your lights or shield them absolutely from outside view. Do this as quickly as possible. Remain calm, walk—don't run. A blackout warden has been appointed for each block in the village. If you are driving your car when the siren is sounded, pull to the side of the street, stop your car and turn out every light on it. Do not attempt to drive during the practice. Do not overload the telephone company by calling your neighbors. In case of emergency the telephone system will be vital to the welfare of the community. Henry F. Muller, Staff Officer, Geo. F. Schneberger, Unit Chairman.

Defense stamps now on sale at Arlington High School. Supt. Conger reports a very brisk sale and considerable enthusiasm.

Police car gets first tires from rationing board. Two tires were allotted by the local board for Wheeling township, the January quota being six tires. The allotment of truck tires is ten. Only one has been certified. It went to a local man who is engaged in hauling defense materials. (A14

LIMA, ILL., (UPI)—Ken Schumaker, who operates a garage here decided to put out a 1962 calendar for his customers.

However when Schumaker generously distributed the calendars he did not notice that his garage telephone number printed on the top was the same as the village's volunteer fire department.

Now when a customer calls, the village's automatic fire alarm is sounded and the volunteer firemen come running.

Last Thursday there were three false alarms. (A-14

Foreign Affairs Briefing Is Set

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Kennedy administration foreign affairs officials will conduct a regional conference on international developments in Chicago this Thursday, Feb. 1.

The conference, for the states of Illinois and Indiana, is sponsored by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and will be held at the Pick-Congress hotel beginning at 9:15 a.m.

The briefing team includes: Chester Bowles, Special Assistant to the President; Paul H. Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Affairs; Edwin M. Martin, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs; Donald M. Wilson, Deputy Director of the United States Information Agency; Carl T. Rowan, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, and Charles Bohlen, Special Assistant to Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Representing Paddock Publications at the conference will be Richard C. Hoffman, associate editor.

Spur Mental Health Need In Building

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Gov. Otto Kerner met with some of his directors Tuesday to set up a committee to coordinate and expedite the mental health building bond program.

Kerner told reporters after the meeting that the directors will appoint representatives to the committee and the group will meet Feb. 13 for the first time.

The departments involved are mental health, registration and education, personnel, public health and public works.

COORDINATING efforts, Kerner said, for example, will include the functions of the Registration and Education department in the licensing of technical personnel for planned new facilities.

Kerner said his representative to the committee would be Legal Assistant Dawn Clark.

The mental health bond program totals $150 million for new and improved facilities. It was approved by voters in the 1960 general election. (A-14

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

DEARTH; scarcity; lack. "He found that there was a dearth of good books in the man's home."

PROBATIONARY; pertaining to a trial or period of trial. "A probationary period will be required before we can adopt this plan."

EMULOUS; ambitious to equal another; also, characterized by, or due to, emulation. (Accent first syllable). "Rather than pursue your present emulous course, why don't you try to be just yourself?"

Need Revenue Revision

Urge Constitutional Convention at Meet

(UPI)—A conference studying the Illinois Constitution has urged adoption of a new revenue article and a state Constitutional Convention "at the earliest possible date."

Twenty-one educators, legislators and civic leaders attending the final day of the conference at Monticello Friday called revision of the revenue article "of critical importance," but differed sharply on what its new form should be.

ELEVEN FAVORED a broad amendment which would permit a graduated state income tax; five wanted to specifically bar such a tax and five did not vote.

The assembly, sponsored by the University of Illinois, also proposed that a mandatory statewide referendum be held on the question of holding a Constitutional Convention at regular intervals, such as every 20 years.

THE GROUP also favored holding gubernatorial elections in off-years rather than in presidential election years and recommended a short ballot making such elected state officers as auditor and superintendent of public instruction appointive.

Delegates endorsed the judicial amendment that will be voted on by the voters this fall.

Despite Weather, Routes To and From Village are Busy

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate
Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

Routes to and from Arlington Heights are busy despite the weather and happiness travels in both directions. Happy to be heading this way are the collegians, coming home for a week of post-exams recuperation. Just as happy to be going the opposite direction are local winter vacationers, seeking escape from snow shovels and frost bite.

Carol Condon, one of last week's exam survivors, had as a vacation-at-home guest her college roommate, Lucia Swanson of Moline. The girls, University of Wisconsin coeds, returned to Madison Sunday after a week of relaxing as fast as they could at the Condon home 314 W. Fairview.

Doug Hansen returned Monday to Purdue university after a week crammed full of no-cramming, post-exam loafing at 15 W. Orchard, also known as home sweet home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dalton, 522 S. Dunton and the Kevin Daltons, 718 W. Catino, returned Saturday night from two weeks in Mexico. They had three days in Mexico City, overnight and a day in Taxco and spent the remainder of their vacation in Acapulco. Everything was ideal. The weather was perfect, sightseeing exciting and when they went deep-sea fishing they caught deep-sea fish.

Even when they went not-so-deep sea fishing 200 feet off shore they caught deep-sea type fish, specifically a 12-foot shark.

MRS. JAMES Dalton hooked the 225-pounder and with the kind of light tackle not intended for such shenanigans, fought the shark for two hours, repeatedly bringing it almost-but-not-quite within harpoon range before she finally made it.

Her catch was of the Hammerhead species, generally considered harmless, but working on the theory that nothing 12 feet long with teeth is harmless, the Dalton party abruptly gave up swimming in those waters. Fortunately, the incident came at the end of their vacation, not the beginning, and everyone had enough swimming anyway.

While their mother was shark fighting and otherwise resting up from the rigors of housewifery the Dalton children stayed at home doing battle with semester exams. A local aunt, Mrs. R. Spencer Davis, kept them company. A. small sized, pre-school Dalton stayed with another aunt in McHenry, and currently Daltons of all sizes are regarding Mom with renewed respect.

Weekend visitors in the William Dieters home, 844 S. Chestnut, were Mr. and Mrs. George Barfoot of Whitehall, Mich. The Dieters family are former Whitehallites as are the Charles Schwartzes, 421 S. Patton, and a small "old home week" session was part of the weekend fun.

CARROLL Westfall's between semesters vacation from Lawrence college will allow her to attend the wedding Saturday of a Delta Gamma sister in the Chicago area. Carroll arrived home at 843 S. Highland Tuesday and she'll return to Appleton, Wis. Sunday.

The Paul Barnes family, 702 S. Dunton, recently returned from a month-long vacation in Florida and a "side trip" to Fredonia, N. Y., home town area of both Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. They enjoyed reunions in St. Petersburg and Fort Lauderdale with former neighbors, the John Daleys and Robert Lides, spending the Christmas holiday with the Lides.

Soon after the holidays the Barneses began their up-the-coast trip to Fredonia. More reunions there and in nearby Dunkirk climaxed the vacation.

THREE pre-nuptial showers feted the former Karen Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer, 706 N. Mitchell, who was married Saturday in St. Peter Lutheran church to Howard Berg Jr. of Mount Prospect. Aunt of the then bride-to-be, Mrs. Walter Landmeier began the "marry-go-round" of parties with a miscellaneous shower in her home, 702 N. Chestnut. Twenty-four family members and close friends were present.

In the festive atmosphere of the holiday season a second party was given for Miss Meyer by her maid of honor and a bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Averill and Miss Joy VanBuren. Like the first one, this shower was intended as a surprise and the secret was well-kept until the moment 12 close personal friends of the bride-elect greeted her arrival at the Averill home in Mount Prospect.

Mother of the groom, the senior Mrs. Howard Berg, climaxed the shower season with a dinner party last month, given at Patricco's in Chicago. Again Miss Meyer was successfully surprised. Guests who showered her with miscellaneous gifts, were friends, neighbors and former neighbors of the groom-elect and his family.

MISS Suzanne McQueen, who will be married Saturday in St. James Catholic church to Thomas Markwiese of Milwaukee, was honored at pre-nuptial parties given recently in Indiana and Wisconsin. The bride-elect, daughter of the James McQueens 1704 Fredrick, was feted first at a miscellaneous shower given by a cousin, Mrs. Jerome Bauer and Mrs. Bauer's mother, Mrs. P. C. Diltz, both of Mishawaka, Ind. Guests in the Bauer home were 37 family members from that area.

Fifteen former Marquette university dormitory mates next feted Miss McQueen at a kitchen shower given by the groom's mother in the Markwiese home in Milwaukee.

Mr. Markwiese received his degree in civil engineering at Marquette university last month and will be employed in Waukegan where he and his bride will make their home.

A NO-SLEEP slumber party last Thursday night, celebrating the end of high school exam week, also marked the sweet 16 birthdays of two of the guests, Miss Jacky Kleinofen and Miss Barbara Condy. It took no effort at all for the partyites to stay awake until midnight so that one minute later they could "Happy Birthday" Jacky on the proper date.

For Barbara the congratulations were a day early. The non-stop snacking, relaxing, chattering and awake-staying was by courtesy of Kathy Dean and Ellen Retterer. Scene of the marathon was the Dean home, 357 S. Belmont, and guests were Michelle and Marcia Hoggay, Sue Colvin, Sue Low and the birthday girls.

DR. AND MRS. Edwin Baumann, 416 E. Euclid, returned Saturday night from a weather-perfect 15 days in Mexico. They were joined in Mexico City by their son, Ron who flew from his home in the east to enjoy with them a snow-free, warm and sunny vacation. They toured and relaxed in the most popular vacation spots in Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco, but especially enjoyed a stay in the lesser-known San Jose in the state of Purua.

Mrs. Richard Shrove left here Sunday after a 4-day visit with her mother and sister, Mrs. R. H. Heberling and Mary Jane, 819 W. Fairview. Mrs. Shrove's husband, a captain in the air force, has recently been transferred from the air base in Biloxi to one in Glendale, Ariz. and she was on her way to join him as she stopped here.

THE ANNUAL Stonegate dinner dance held Saturday in Itasca country club, was one of the gay and cheerful social events of January.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kellin, 105 S. Stratford, working with the decorating committee, were among those that helped make the dance a success. Before the dance, they were hosts at a cocktail party from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and after the dance, welcomed guests back to their home for breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, 115 S. Brighton, were also hosts at an informal gathering of friends before the dance. Guests included the J. David Heuers, the Robert Sheftes and the William Rubachs.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Needleman, 402 S. Gibbons, returned from a vacation on the west coast in time to attend the dance. Mr. Needleman, a talented musician, directed the music during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton, also entertained a pre-dance cocktail party. Their guests were the Robert E. Mitchells, Warren Klines, Don Dobbs and Miss Judy Stebbins of Park Ridge.

MRS EDWARD O. McKown, of Pittsburgh, is spending a month in Arlington Heights visiting her son and daughter-in-law, the junior McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kroll, 326 S. Derbyshire, gave a supper party and bridge Saturday for eight Chicago friends.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Koenig, 1312 Woodford, were Sgt. and Mrs. George Boroski of Fort Eustis, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunlop, 1115 Mayfair, gave a dinner party Saturday for the William Blews of Palos Heights, the James Listons of Prospect Heights and Robert Campbells of Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Heuerl 102 S. Brighton, welcomed her mother, Mrs. Sidney Riddle, for a week's visit. Mrs. Riddle has just returned from an extended vacation in the Orient, during which she visited Japan, Singapore, Sumatra and India. After her visit here she will return to her home in Memphis.

MR. AND MRS. William A. Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, drove to Bloomington, Ill. Sunday to the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Kouzmanoff, where they held a double birthday celebration. Both Mrs. Kelly and her daughter, the former Maurita Kelly, have January birthdays.

Miss Barbara Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton, and Miss Janet Reed, 1017 Mayfair, spent the weekend in Chicago as guests of Barbara's aunt, Miss Gretchen Walker.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stahnke were hosts at a reunion of all the Stahnke relatives living in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Todd, 103 S. Brighton, entertained at a dinner Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaffer of Glenview. Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Shaffer were classmates at the National College of Education in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Carey, 103 S. Derbyshire, will be hosts February 16 at a potluck supper party and reunion of Mrs. Carey's classmates from Evanston high school.

MR. AND MRS. Charles H. Oestmann, 320 S. Burton, flew to Florida January 20 for a 10-day business and pleasure trip. While Mr. Oestmann attended to business affairs in Miami, Mrs. Oestmann went to Gainsville, where she was guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Clark. Joining the Clark household were their two older children, Harold and Polly, home from Florida State University for a between-semester vacation.

The Oestmanns concluded their vacation with a weekend with the Clarks at their beach home at Crescent Beach. Here they had an opportunity to watch the preparations of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's orbital flight at Cape Canaveral, and then hear word of the postponement.

Mrs. Larry Kussow, 815 Burton, returned Sunday from West Islip, Long Island, where she spent two weeks visiting her son-in-law and daughter, the Ronald Petersons and their three young children.

MR. AND MRS. J. Kemp Blackwell, 518 S. Dryden, drove to Kalamazoo Wednesday bringing back their daughter, Barbara, for a 10 day vacation from Western Michigan university.

Jim Clabaugh returned to Coe college Sunday after a 4-day visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Clabaugh, 510 S. Beverly.

David Brunner, 357 Burton, and Don Ahmer of Arlington Heights drove to Carbondale last weekend for a surprise visit with David's sister, Joyce, a student at the University of Southern Illinois and with friends of Mr. Ahmer's.

Mrs. Warren Burr Marvin of Cincinnati, and her daughter, Diana, arrived in Arlington Heights Sunday for a 2-week visit with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Keys, 526 S. Pine.

MR. AND MRS. Dwight Guilfoil, 633 Burton, returned this week from a 10-day visit to the west coast. They flew to Santa Monica, Cal. first to attend an annual Junior Chamber of Commerce convention at which the 10 most outstanding young men of the nation were chosen. Mr. Guilfoil, who was chosen last year for this honor, presided as one of the judges this year.

While in California, they visited former Scarsdale residents, the Joseph Raffels, who now live in Rolling Hills. Leaving California, the Guilfoils flew to Arizona for a visit with more former Scarsdale neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raichert of Scottsdale. (A

Who cares about the Groundhog—most of us would rather see a neighbor's shadow appearing over the snow piles. But, in spite of the weather, the babies have been moving in. Jack Wood is passing out cigars since the arrival of Scott Lewis January 26. He teams up with baby sitter, Sherry, and baby sister, Janet, to make it a threesome for Jack and Jean.

The score's four at the Rupps, 1531 N. Kaspar—three girls, and now an 8 pound 3¼ ounce boy. He's Steven Durham, born January 25 to Denny and Judy.

There's a new grandson for Audrey and Walter Kramer, 1620 N. Chestnut. He is Walter Thomas Bremer born January 2 to their daughter, Lorraine, and her husband, Charles Bremer, of Rolling Meadows.

Carrie McBride, daughter of Rob and Ruth McBride, 239 W. Maude, has had measles.

IT WAS A birthday, January 27, for Debbie Beuder, 1525 N. Ridge. She was 8 January 30, but she celebrated her birthday Saturday with a 12 o'clock luncheon for Debbie Elsholz, Sally Reta, Debbie Colmer, Gini Elder, and her sister Diana Beuder. Joanne Jarecki was ill and had to miss the party.

It's understood a pretty sharp game of pin the tail on the donkey went on at Billy Rogan's birthday party January 27. Bill's birthday fell on the 31st but he partied early with his sister, Shannon, Mary Dan, Pat Smith, Mark Seger, Mary Ann Dolack and Ricky Barbaro.

Peter Patterson, 704 Lynwood Ave., was 5 Sunday, but had his party Saturday with Mark McCullagh, Gary LeClair, Dan Prather, Robbie Skiera, Doug Alderson and Chuckie Purcell as guests. Included also was a cousin, Larry Wallin of Oak Park, his weekend "buddy."

Chuck Purcell, 1504 N. Ridge, dispensed cake and ice cream and balloons to his friends who came visiting for his fifth birthday, January 17. They were Peter and Cindy Patterson, Doug and Dave Alderson, and Linda Halleck. Of course his sister, Kathleen, was also included.

Birthdays, senior level, included Ken Meister's. Wife Joan honored him at a party January 22. Party-participants were Chuck and "Pete" Steed, Dick and Lavergne Kanak and Harry and Ginny Brodhead.

CAROLINE Walker's mother, Mrs. A. J. Loving, celebrated her birthday while she and Caroline's dad were guests at the Walker household, 1542 N. Kaspar, the past weekend. The Lovings arrived Friday and left for Mattoon, their home, on Sunday.

It was a good group that met with Sylvia and Ed Nolan for cocktails last Saturday, before going on to a gay evening of dancing in Rolling Meadows.

"Whooo" were Drolshagen guests Saturday night? John and Bea entertained John's co-workers from the Red Owl stores.

It was a "striking" evening with fun to "spare" last Sunday for bowlers Ralph and Carol McCullagh and Frank and Gayle Pustaver.

Jim and June Riemenschneider had June's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tucker of Madison, Wis., as weekend visitors at 1505 N. Kaspar.

The Swensons, Bob and Dolores, 1615 N. Kennicott, entertained last Friday for George and Barbara Hauser who will be moving to Nashville, Tenn. They invited "Buzz and Jane Anderson, Marge and Walt Draxler, Rae and John Madar, Dorothy and Bill Fallon, Bob and Betty Atwood and Gloria Daniel to add their good wishes and good-byes. (A

Celebrating a birthday last Sunday was 8-year-old Glenn Warman, 1115 N. State Road. Attending his afternoon party were Mark Foreman, Paul Bunnelle, Scott Wolfmeyer, Steve Lett, John Blair, Peter Manchee and his brothers and sisters.

Also celebrating his eighth birthday last Friday was Craig Lasher, 1104 N. Douglas, who observed the occasion with a family party.

Miss Diana Kelly, 1142 N. Hickory, arrived home last Thursday from classes at Bradley University, Peoria, to begin mid-term vacation. She plans to return this weekend to complete her senior year.

Also home for a 10-day holiday is Bruce O'Neil of 908 E. Oakton, a freshman at the University of Illinois.

The Harry Gildemeister family, 615 E. Olive, were among the 40 relatives and friends who attended the 35th wedding anniversary party for an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerke, in Chicago.

MRS. PAUL Hood, 1208 N. Hickory, jetted home Monday afternoon from a 3-day visit in New York City. Her first trip East, Mrs. Hood enjoyed sightseeing and visiting in the area.

The Seymour Rechts, 683 E. Clarendon, hosted members of their poker club, the Edward Kunzes and the Ed Hausleins of Chicago, last Saturday evening.

Douglas Eric, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hembd, 671 E. Clarendon, was christened at St. James Catholic Church last Sunday afternoon by Rev. George Roth. Godparents were an aunt, Mrs. Thomas Ryan of Chicago, and brother, Paul. The dinner party later in the day also included the grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Leach of Chicago.

Visiting in the Greens early this week was a former resident, Mrs. Ed Webb of Milford. She was the overnight guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Waffle, 1154 N. Dryden, and joined the group of friends and former neighbors at the coffee Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Walt Brown, 1146 N. Dryden. (A

Q. Just how can I, without appearing downright rude, break off a telephone conversation with someone who keeps talking on and on?

A. You can always resort to such statements as, "I hear the doorbell ringing," or, "I'm sorry, but I must rush now. I have a very important engagement."

Weekend visitors in the William Dieters home, 844 S. Chestnut, were Mr. and Mrs. George Barfoot of Whitehall, Mich. The Dieters family are former Whitehallites as are the Charles Schwartzes, 421 S. Patton, and a small "old home week" session was part of the weekend fun.

CARROLL Westfall's between semesters vacation from Lawrence college will allow her to attend the wedding Saturday of a Delta Gamma sister in the Chicago area. Carroll arrived home at 843 S. Highland Tuesday and she'll return to Appleton, Wis. Sunday.

The Paul Barnes family, 702 S. Dunton, recently returned from a month-long vacation in Florida and a "side trip" to Fredonia, N. Y., home town area of both Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. They enjoyed reunions in St. Petersburg and Fort Lauderdale with former neighbors, the John Daleys and Robert Lides, spending the Christmas holiday with the Lides.

Soon after the holidays the Barneses began their up-the-coast trip to Fredonia. More reunions there and in nearby Dunkirk climaxed the vacation.

THREE pre-nuptial showers feted the former Karen Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer, 706 N. Mitchell, who was married Saturday in St. Peter Lutheran church to Howard Berg Jr. of Mount Prospect. Aunt of the then bride-to-be, Mrs. Walter Landmeier began the "marry-go-round" of parties with a miscellaneous shower in her home, 702 N. Chestnut. Twenty-four family members and close friends were present.

In the festive atmosphere of the holiday season a second party was given for Miss Meyer by her maid of honor and a bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Averill and Miss Joy VanBuren. Like the first one, this shower was intended as a surprise and the secret was well-kept until the moment 12 close personal friends of the bride-elect greeted her arrival at the Averill home in Mount Prospect.

Mother of the groom, the senior Mrs. Howard Berg, climaxed the shower season with a dinner party last month, given at Patricco's in Chicago. Again Miss Meyer was successfully surprised. Guests who showered her with miscellaneous gifts, were friends, neighbors and former neighbors of the groom-elect and his family.

MISS Suzanne McQueen, who will be married Saturday in St. James Catholic church to Thomas Markwiese of Milwaukee, was honored at pre-nuptial parties given recently in Indiana and Wisconsin. The bride-elect, daughter of the James McQueens 1704 Fredrick, was feted first at a miscellaneous shower given by a cousin, Mrs. Jerome Bauer and Mrs. Bauer's mother, Mrs. P. C. Diltz, both of Mishawaka, Ind. Guests in the Bauer home were 37 family members from that area.

Fifteen former Marquette university dormitory mates next feted Miss McQueen at a kitchen shower given by the groom's mother in the Markwiese home in Milwaukee.

Mr. Markwiese received his degree in civil engineering at Marquette university last month and will be employed in Waukegan where he and his bride will make their home.

A NO-SLEEP slumber party last Thursday night, celebrating the end of high school exam week, also marked the sweet 16 birthdays of two of the guests, Miss Jacky Kleinofen and Miss Barbara Condy. It took no effort at all for the partyites to stay awake until midnight so that one minute later they could "Happy Birthday" Jacky on the proper date.

For Barbara the congratulations were a day early. The non-stop snacking, relaxing, chattering and awake-staying was by courtesy of Kathy Dean and Ellen Retterer. Scene of the marathon was the Dean home, 357 S. Belmont, and guests were Michelle and Marcia Hoggay, Sue Colvin, Sue Low and the birthday girls.

DR. AND MRS. Edwin Baumann, 416 E. Euclid, returned Saturday night from a weather-perfect 15 days in Mexico. They were joined in Mexico City by their son, Ron who flew from his home in the east to enjoy with them a snow-free, warm and sunny vacation. They toured and relaxed in the most popular vacation spots in Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco, but especially enjoyed a stay in the lesser-known San Jose in the state of Purua.

Mrs. Richard Shrove left here Sunday after a 4-day visit with her mother and sister, Mrs. R. H. Heberling and Mary Jane, 819 W. Fairview. Mrs. Shrove's husband, a captain in the air force, has recently been transferred from the air base in Biloxi to one in Glendale, Ariz. and she was on her way to join him as she stopped here.

THE ANNUAL Stonegate dinner dance held Saturday in Itasca country club, was one of the gay and cheerful social events of January.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kellin, 105 S. Stratford, working with the decorating committee, were among those that helped make the dance a success. Before the dance, they were hosts at a cocktail party from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and after the dance, welcomed guests back to their home for breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, 115 S. Brighton, were also hosts at an informal gathering of friends before the dance. Guests included the J. David Heuers, the Robert Sheftes and the William Rubachs.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Needleman, 402 S. Gibbons, returned from a vacation on the west coast in time to attend the dance. Mr. Needleman, a talented musician, directed the music during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wilcox, 210 S. Brighton, also entertained a pre-dance cocktail party. Their guests were the Robert E. Mitchells, Warren Klines, Don Dobbs and Miss Judy Stebbins of Park Ridge.

MRS EDWARD O. McKown, of Pittsburgh, is spending a month in Arlington Heights visiting her son and daughter-in-law, the junior McKowns, 206 S. Gibbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kroll, 326 S. Derbyshire, gave a supper party and bridge Saturday for eight Chicago friends.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Koenig, 1312 Woodford, were Sgt. and Mrs. George Boroski of Fort Eustis, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dunlop, 1115 Mayfair, gave a dinner party Saturday for the William Blews of Palos Heights, the James Listons of Prospect Heights and Robert Campbells of Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. J. David Heuerl 102 S. Brighton, welcomed her mother, Mrs. Sidney Riddle, for a week's visit. Mrs. Riddle has just returned from an extended vacation in the Orient, during which she visited Japan, Singapore, Sumatra and India. After her visit here she will return to her home in Memphis.

MR. AND MRS. William A. Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, drove to Bloomington, Ill. Sunday to the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Kouzmanoff, where they held a double birthday celebration. Both Mrs. Kelly and her daughter, the former Maurita Kelly, have January birthdays.

Miss Barbara Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton, and Miss Janet Reed, 1017 Mayfair, spent the weekend in Chicago as guests of Barbara's aunt, Miss Gretchen Walker.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stahnke were hosts at a reunion of all the Stahnke relatives living in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Todd, 103 S. Brighton, entertained at a dinner Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaffer of Glenview. Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Shaffer were classmates at the National College of Education in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Carey, 103 S. Derbyshire, will be hosts February 16 at a potluck supper party and reunion of Mrs. Carey's classmates from Evanston high school.

MR. AND MRS. Charles H. Oestmann, 320 S. Burton, flew to Florida January 20 for a 10-day business and pleasure trip. While Mr. Oestmann attended to business affairs in Miami, Mrs. Oestmann went to Gainsville, where she was guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Clark. Joining the Clark household were their two older children, Harold and Polly, home from Florida State University for a between-semester vacation.

The Oestmanns concluded their vacation with a weekend with the Clarks at their beach home at Crescent Beach. Here they had an opportunity to watch the preparations of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's orbital flight at Cape Canaveral, and then hear word of the postponement.

Mrs. Larry Kussow, 815 Burton, returned Sunday from West Islip, Long Island, where she spent two weeks visiting her son-in-law and daughter, the Ronald Petersons and their three young children.

MR.. AND MRS. J. Kemp Blackwell, 518 S. Dryden, drove to Kalamazoo Wednesday bringing back their daughter, Barbara, for a 10 day vacation from Western Michigan university.

Jim Clabaugh returned to Coe college Sunday after a 4-day visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Clabaugh, 510 S. Beverly.

David Brunner, 357 Burton, and Don Ahmer of Arlington Heights drove to Carbondale last weekend for a surprise visit with David's sister, Joyce, a student at the University of Southern Illinois and with friends of Mr. Ahmer's.

Mrs. Warren Burr Marvin of Cincinnati, and her daughter, Diana, arrived in Arlington Heights Sunday for a 2-week visit with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Keys, 526 S. Pine.

MR. AND MRS. Dwight Guilfoil, 633 Burton, returned this week from a 10-day visit to the west coast. They flew to Santa Monica, Cal. first to attend an annual Junior Chamber of Commerce convention at which the 10 most outstanding young men of the nation were chosen. Mr. Guilfoil, who was chosen last year for this honor, presided as one of the judges this year.

While in California, they visited former Scarsdale residents, the Joseph Raffels, who now live in Rolling Hills. Leaving California, the Guilfoils flew to Arizona for a visit with more former Scarsdale neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raichert of Scottsdale. (A

Who cares about the Groundhog—most of us would rather see a neighbor's shadow appearing over the snow piles. But, in spite of the weather, the babies have been moving in. Jack Wood is passing out cigars since the arrival of Scott Lewis January 26. He teams up with baby sitter, Sherry, and baby sister, Janet, to make it a threesome for Jack and Jean.

The score's four at the Rupps, 1531 N. Kaspar—three girls, and now an 8 pound 3¼ ounce boy. He's Steven Durham, born January 25 to Denny and Judy.

There's a new grandson for Audrey and Walter Kramer, 1620 N. Chestnut. He is Walter Thomas Bremer born January 2 to their daughter, Lorraine, and her husband, Charles Bremer, of Rolling Meadows.

Carrie McBride, daughter of Rob and Ruth McBride, 239 W. Maude, has had measles.

IT WAS A birthday, January 27, for Debbie Beuder, 1525 N. Ridge. She was 8 January 30, but she celebrated her birthday Saturday with a 12 o'clock luncheon for Debbie Elsholz, Sally Reta, Debbie Colmer, Gini Elder, and her sister Diana Beuder. Joanne Jarecki was ill and had to miss the party.

It's understood a pretty sharp game of pin the tail on the donkey went on at Billy Rogan's birthday party January 27. Bill's birthday fell on the 31st but he partied early with his sister, Shannon, Mary Dan, Pat Smith, Mark Seger, Mary Ann Dolack and Ricky Barbaro.

Peter Patterson, 704 Lynwood Ave., was 5 Sunday, but had his party Saturday with Mark McCullagh, Gary LeClair, Dan Prather, Robbie Skiera, Doug Alderson and Chuckie Purcell as guests. Included also was a cousin, Larry Wallin of Oak Park, his weekend "buddy."

Chuck Purcell, 1504 N. Ridge, dispensed cake and ice cream and balloons to his friends who came visiting for his fifth birthday, January 17. They were Peter and Cindy Patterson, Doug and Dave Alderson, and Linda Halleck. Of course his sister, Kathleen, was also included.

Birthdays, senior level, included Ken Meister's. Wife Joan honored him at a party January 22. Party-participants were Chuck and "Pete" Steed, Dick and Lavergne Kanak and Harry and Ginny Brodhead.

CAROLINE Walker's mother, Mrs. A. J. Loving, celebrated her birthday while she and Caroline's dad were guests at the Walker household, 1542 N. Kaspar, the past weekend. The Lovings arrived Friday and left for Mattoon, their home, on Sunday.

It was a good group that met with Sylvia and Ed Nolan for cocktails last Saturday, before going on to a gay evening of dancing in Rolling Meadows.

"Whooo" were Drolshagen guests Saturday night? John and Bea entertained John's co-workers from the Red Owl stores.

It was a "striking" evening with fun to "spare" last Sunday for bowlers Ralph and Carol McCullagh and Frank and Gayle Pustaver.

Jim and June Riemenschneider had June's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tucker of Madison, Wis., as weekend visitors at 1505 N. Kaspar.

The Swensons, Bob and Dolores, 1615 N. Kennicott, entertained last Friday for George and Barbara Hauser who will be moving to Nashville, Tenn. They invited "Buzz and Jane Anderson, Marge and Walt Draxler, Rae and John Madar, Dorothy and Bill Fallon, Bob and Betty Atwood and Gloria Daniel to add their good wishes and good-byes. (A

Arlington Greens

Celebrating a birthday last Sunday was 8-year-old Glenn Warman, 1115 N. State Road. Attending his afternoon party were Mark Foreman, Paul Bunnelle, Scott Wolfmeyer, Steve Lett, John Blair, Peter Manchee and his brothers and sisters.

Also celebrating his eighth birthday last Friday was Craig Lasher, 1104 N. Douglas, who observed the occasion with a family party.

Miss Diana Kelly, 1142 N. Hickory, arrived home last Thursday from classes at Bradley University, Peoria, to begin mid-term vacation. She plans to return this weekend to complete her senior year.

Also home for a 10-day holiday is Bruce O'Neil of 908 E. Oakton, a freshman at the University of Illinois.

The Harry Gildemeister family, 615 E. Olive, were among the 40 relatives and friends who attended the 35th wedding anniversary party for an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerke, in Chicago.

MRS. PAUL Hood, 1208 N. Hickory, jetted home Monday afternoon from a 3-day visit in New York City. Her first trip East, Mrs. Hood enjoyed sightseeing and visiting in the area.

The Seymour Rechts, 683 E. Clarendon, hosted members of their poker club, the Edward Kunzes and the Ed Hausleins of Chicago, last Saturday evening.

Douglas Eric, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hembd, 671 E. Clarendon, was christened at St. James Catholic Church last Sunday afternoon by Rev. George Roth. Godparents were an aunt, Mrs. Thomas Ryan of Chicago, and brother, Paul. The dinner party later in the day also included the grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Leach of Chicago.

Visiting in the Greens early this week was a former resident, Mrs. Ed Webb of Milford. She was the overnight guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Waffle, 1154 N. Dryden, and joined the group of friends and former neighbors at the coffee Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Walt Brown, 1146 N. Dryden. (A

Q. Just how can I, without appearing downright rude, break off a telephone conversation with someone who keeps talking on and on?

A. You can always resort to such statements as, "I hear the doorbell ringing," or, "I'm sorry, but I must rush now. I have a very important engagement."

MINER JUNIOR HIGH

Ralph E. Clabaugh's discussion of the question, "Are European Schools Better than Ours?" was the highlight of the Miner PTA meeting January 23. Mr. Clabaugh told his audience humorous stories of his trip abroad last November, but concluded on a serious note as he discussed the changes taking place in European education today and the need for equality of opportunity in the field of education for the children of this country.

During the business portion of the meeting, the proposed ammendments to the by-laws were adopted and plans for a bake sale to be held in March were announced by ways and means chairman, Mrs. Oscar Miller. (A

Dr. Puffer Advocates Allaying Kids' Fear

The need to allay the fears of today's children concerning possible nuclear attacks is more important than fallout shelter programs, which are likely to be a waste of valuable time, effort and money, one of the nation's leading educational administrators contended this week.

Dr. Noble J. Puffer, superintendent of the Cook county schools, the country's second largest county educational system, in an interview on disaster survival programs in the schools, said that the current craze for the construction of fallout shelters has a questionable effect on the attitude of youth.

"THE ATOMIC bomb scare breeds restlessness," he claimed. "It is also conducive to the attitude of 'Me First.' If we can teach our children to think of safety in the calm, normal course of instruction and to think of the safety of others, we will go far in causing them to think of the well-being of children in other countries."

Fallout shelters for schools were of little, if any value, Dr. Puffer maintained. "In the event of an attack, parents want their children at home with them," he said. "Our efforts in planning survival disaster programs are directed toward that end."

Mass go-home drills for school districts in the county to conduct these drills with the same calm regularity and routine given to fire drills," he added. "No undue emphasis should be given to the mass go-home drills. They should be presented to the children and accepted by them as ordinary school procedure.

"We are not completely overlooking the possibilities of fallout shelters and some school districts have already submitted plans which include them in their disaster survival programs. A building protection plan, however, that does not fall into the exact category of fallout shelters is being discussed at workshops and other meetings for local school authorities, as well as an in-service program for teachers."

Dr. Puffer said he felt that much of the fear among school children concerning nuclear attacks could be allayed by a greater emphasis on current events in the schools. He advocated the organization of current events clubs in the high schools, open to all students, for informal discussions.

"Lack of knowledge has always bred fear," he stated. "Youngsters should be made aware of how much our government and our allies are doing to prevent a nuclear war." (B8

Grocery Survives 'Phoney' Business

SPRING LAKE, MICH., (UPI) - The way the police and fire departments of Spring Lake got the news Monday, the Howard Hansen Grocery was up to here in problems.

The first report to firemen was that the store had burned down.

Then police received a report that it was held up.

AFTER THAT, a concrete truck pulled up with $46 worth of cement. A coal truck came with three tons of coal. After that, another cement truck with 500 concrete blocks, 100 corner blocks and 20 sacks of mortar.

A check with the store revealed nothing had happened.

Today, state police arrested two boys who admitted all the phone calls were a hoax. They were turned over to juvenile authorities. (B8

REMEMBER SOME OF THE BIG NAMES and big men in Illinois high school basketball last winter?

There was 6-11 Haskell Tison of Geneva, one of the finest centers ever produced in this state and currently a frosh standout at Duke University in Durham, N. C.

Other skyscrapers who were high on the "most wanted" list of college recruiters included 6-10 Skip Thoren of East Rockford, 6-8 Larry Bauer of Springfield, 6-6 Bogie Redmon of Collinsville, and 6-8 Jim Pitts of Chicago Marshall. Thoren, Bauer, and Redmon went to the University of Illinois with Pitts now at Northwestern.

It was a banner year for the talented big men who are so important in the molding of strong hardwood representatives.

HASKELL TISON

This season's skyscraper crop doesn't appear to measure up either in height or quantity. At least we haven't heard many glowing reports on the talents of the big pivot men throught the state.

The most highly-regarded pivotman in this area has been 6-6 Lonnie Lynn of Chicago DuSable, whose prep career ended last week with graduation. However, we may not hear much more about Lynn since he's in the lower 15 per cent of his class. The new Big Ten aid program, based on academic potential, stops him cold but he may land somewhere else. He's leaning toward Upper Iowa in Fayette.

According to reliable sources, the tallest prep of 1962 is 6-10½ Craig Spitzer of Lake Forest. Craig is only a 16-year-old junior so should hit seven feet as a senior. He's still far from a polished performer but he continues to improve with each game.

Other lanky young men are Don Rose of Moline and Fred Hollander of Chicago St. Patrick. Both stand 6-9 and although we haven't heard any exceptional reports on either boy, Moline and St. Pat's boast strong teams this winter with balanced attacks and don't have to rely on the efforts of one performer.

In the 6-8 category are Keith Sponholtz of West Chicago, Johnny Scholten of Chicago Calumet and Frank Stevenson of Joppa. Included at the 6-7 level are Ron Kozlicki of Palatine, Gary Williams of Peoria Richwoods, Dave Burke of Pontiac, Leon Clark of Thornton, Curtis Clark of Tilden Tech, Vernon Pease of Pittsfield, and Dennis Flynn of Danville.

Kozlicki, fresh from 37 and 28-point performances over the weekend, is averaging around 22 markers per game this winter and this talented young man is only a junior. Ron certainly is one of the top college prospects in this area and with another year of experience he should be able to write his own ticket.

Included in the 6-6 class are Ken Trudeau of Sheldon, Fred Chana of LaGrange, Dave Keeley of Dixon, Dave Muller of Glenbard West, Lyle Templeton of Forreston, Jack Hutchinson of Wheaton, Ron Millik of Pawnee, Dick Marshall of Beardstown, Barry Jackson of Belleville, Dave Lentz of Cahokia, Dick Weber of Libertyville, Fred Kusch of McHenry, and Don Hawkins of Grayslake.

There are some good big men in Illinois schoolboy ranks but of the names mentioned none appears in the class with Tison, Thoren, Redmon, Bauer and Pitts.

WHEATON AND MORTON WEST, co-leaders in the Interim league title chase, square off Friday night at Morton in one of the headliners of the Chicago Suburban area. Both clubs stand 10-1 and are two full games on top of third place Maine West.

Wheaton hasn't shown as much class as anticipated this season but still owns those big boys in the front-line who are vital in controlling the backboards. Morton doesn't have the exceptional size but does have 6-1 Jim Vopicka drilling from the outside and the presence of Vopicka would make any team dangerous.

Morton threw a stall at the rangy Tigers in its first meeting and came out on top, 27-25. Whether the Falcons will utilize the same tactics Friday remains to be seen, but we're sure Wheaton will be ready for that slowed-down game this time.

In another suburban area headliner York will journey to Hinsdale and attempt to rebound from last Friday's setback to LaGrange. York is still in title contention in the West Suburban conference, but another loss would be disastrous for the Dukes.

York matched LaGrange in field goal production last Friday, but the rangy Lions connected on 19 of 27 free throws in their 65-57 victory. In addition, LaGrange fired at a 53 per cent clip from the floor as they successfully avenged a 22-point loss to York earlier in the season.

LaGrange and Hinsdale rule the roost in the WSC, but this title scramble isn't over by any stretch of the imagination.

Arlington Routs St. Charles in Two Frosh Games

Arlington's frosh basketball squads enjoyed their biggest offensive efforts of the season Monday afternoon when they pounded two out-manned St. Charles teams.

Coach Bob Rees' frosh "A" squad exploded in the second period with Bob Conner whipping in six baskets and breezed in with a 52-12 victory, and Brendan Flynn's "Bs" posted an effortless 50-22 decision.

It was the first time that either team had hit 50 this season. Arlington's "As" now stand 6-3 for the season with the "Bs" boasting a 6-1 standaru.

ARLINGTON held an 8-4 first period lead in the "A" game but broke the contest wide open with a 23-point explosion in the second stanza keyed by Conner's six baskets. From then on, it was strictly no contest for Rees' aggregation.

Conner tossed in 22 points on eleven baskets to top Arlington and Mike Frase chipped in with 11. Roberto Benavides collected nine to round out the top three for the locals.

Arlington blanked St. Charles in the final period while pouring in 13 points.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	8	15	16	13—52
St. Charles	4	5	3	0—12

JOHNNY Jamison was the key man offensively for Arlington's "B" squad with ten baskets and 20 points. He was the only local able to crash double figures although both Jeff Galyon and Morrisett collected six each.

Arlington's two frosh basketball teams will host Downers Grove this Saturday morning at 9:30.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	9	12	19	10—50
St. Charles	5	9	4	4—22

Arlington to Host Prospect In Gymnastics

Two powerful high school gymnastics teams will square off Saturday afternoon when Arlington high school's Cardinals host Prospect high's Knights.

The District 214 representatives, both boasting impressive records this winter, will tangle in varsity and frosh-soph competition with action slated to get under way at 2 p.m. in the Arlingotn gymnasium.

The meeting will mark the first time that Arlington and Prospect athletic teams have battled in a regularly-scheduled contest. The two schools have engaged in the same tournaments, but a regional basketball meeting in 1960 was the only time they have actually met head-on.

BOTH SCHOOLS will bring impressive dual meet standards into Saturday's headliner. Heading into last Tuesday's test with East Leyden, Arlington's varsity gymnasts had picked up five victories in six outings, dropping a ten-point affair to Evanston for their only setback.

Prospect owns six victories in seven duals with its only setback a 67½-64½ outing with Willowbrook. The Knights will host Niles West this Friday, Feb. 2, in addition to the Saturday spectacular at Arlington.

The two schools have tangled with one common opponent, Willowbrook. Arlington topped the Warriors 71-61 while the Villa Park entry posted that three-point decision over the Knights.

BOTH OUTFITS boast their talented performers with senior Jerry Russell heading the Arlington cast. Russell, the Most Valuable Gymnast at AHS as a junior, is a versatile young man who works the high bar, parallel bar, rings and, on occasion, the side horse.

Arlington finished third in the state gym meet last winter but lost three state champs via graduation. Russell claimed a third on the parallel bars in state competition and Bob Cordaro, picked up a sixth on the trampoline. That duo represents the only points Arlington has returning from the 1961 state meet.

Prospect finished sixth in the state competition and has two boys back who scored points. Ray Strobel, a standout on both the tramp and in tumbling, claimed a third and Paul Shaw recorded a seventh on the trampoline.

The trampoline should be one of the top events Saturday as both schools boast solid performers.

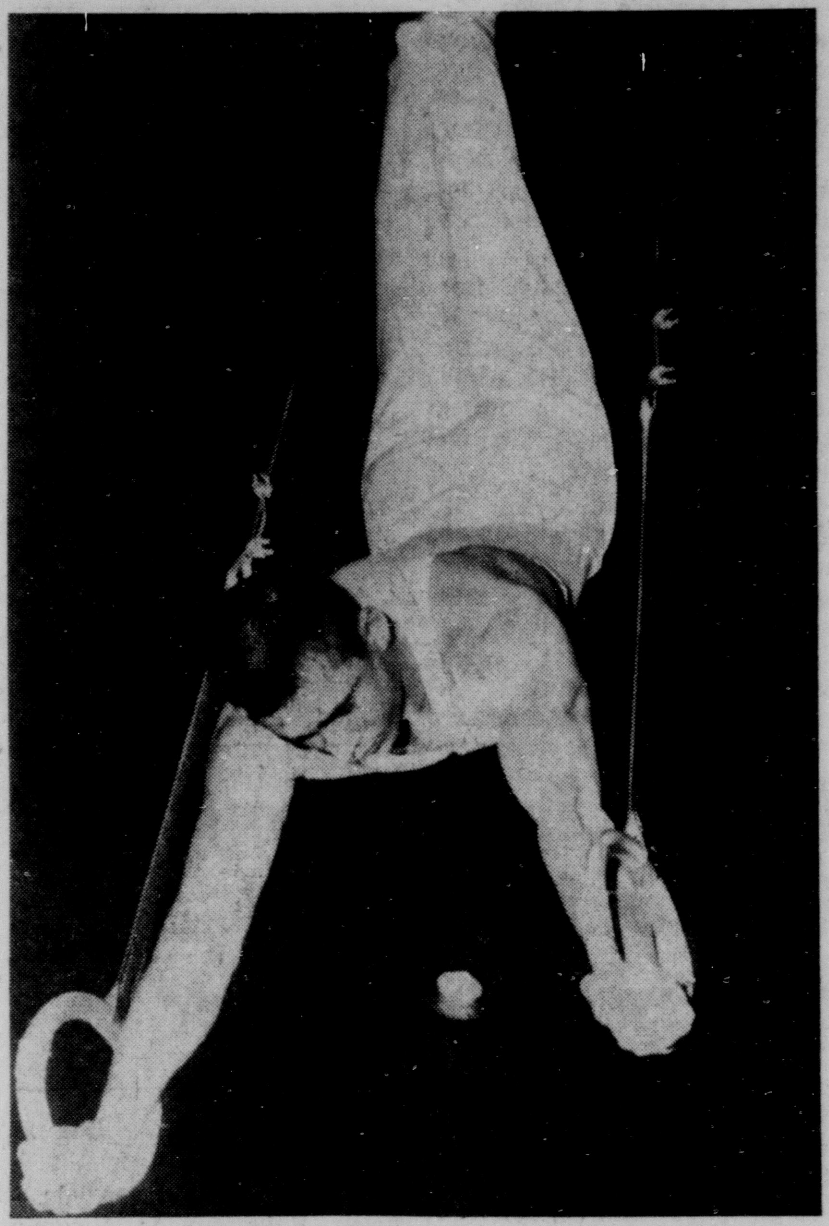
THE FROSH-SOPH competition should also provide some excitement as both Arlington and Prospect possess strong units. The Cards' sophs were unbeaten in their first six duals and Prospect has gained six victories in seven efforts.

Date Night Friday at St. Viator

Friday will be Date Night at St. Viator high school in Arlington Heights as the freshman and sophomore basketball teams entertain St. Joseph of Westchester.

The games will begin at 6:30 p.m. with one ticket for 75 cents admitting student and date.

Fans are urged to come out and back the Lions of Ron Feiereisel and Larry Nomellini



DAN MALLOY, a freshman at Illinois State Normal University from Prospect Heights, is the top performer on the rings for the Redbird gymnastics team this season. In action thus far the Prospect Heights performer has scored a first in dual competition against Eastern Illinois and a third against the University of Indiana. Dan was a standout for the Prospect high school gymnastics squads under the direction of Coach Rick Farris.

At Morton West

Knights Open Indoor Track Slate Tuesday

The ambitious indoor track campaign at Prospect high school will get under way next Tuesday afternoon when the varsity and frosh-soph Knights journey to Morton West for meets at 4:30.

Seven dual meets in addition to several bigger affairs have been lined up by Coach Bob Scott for his Foundry rd. aggregations with the indoor cinder campaign slated to terminate on Friday, March 30, with the Big Ten Meet at Morton.

Arlington high school will follow a limited indoor schedule with the frosh cindermen kicking off the schedule with a dual meet against Maine East on Monday, March 19.

JOHN LATTA and Jim Hendricks, two of the Cardinals' standouts, and Fred Logan, distance ace from York high in Elmhurst, have been working out in the Prospect fieldhouse with the Knights.

Following next Tuesday's opener, Scott's varsity and frosh-soph squads will be idle until Tuesday, Feb. 20, when they entertain Glenbrook in the home opener.

Prospect will hook up in duals against Morton West, Glenbrook, Palatine, Niles West, Downers Grove, Waukegan, and Libertyville and will also engage in frosh-soph and frosh invitationals at Evanston, the Evanston Relays, and Big Ten and conference affairs at Morton West.

SCOTT AND HIS staff currently are working with about 90 boys at all levels with more expected to join the squad following the termination of the winter sports campaigns. Working with Scott this year are Bill Beckman, Rusty Dowell, and J. O. Jackson.

Seven lettermen have been engaged in the practice sessions at Prospect although one noticeable absentee is pole vaulter Tom Flynn who has dropped out of school. Tom qualified for the state finals last spring and finished fifth in the Interim league pole vault event.

Jim Peters, Prospect's other state qualifier in 1961, is back this year and will team up with Bruce Andrise to give the Knights some solid strength in the shot put. Peters and Andrise finished 2-3 behind Maine West's Ken McLaughlin in the Interim test.

BOB SCOTT

OTHER MONOGRAM winners working out are Jim Anderson in the hurdles, Rod Luedke in the 880 yard run, George Renner in the 440, Cliff Stock in the mile, and Gary Marks. Marks, only a junior, is being tested in the hurdles this winter although he also is available for duty in the middle-distance events.

Cagers Face League Foes

Prospect high's Knights, eyeing fourth place in the Interim, and Arlington's Cardinals, carrying hopes for a possible share of third in the West Suburban, will engage in league basketball action Friday evening and attempt to achieve their respective goals.

Prospect will be at home in the Foundry rd. fieldhouse for a rough encounter with the Glenbrook Spartans of Northbrook.

Arlington will hit the road and tackle the winless but still dangerous Downers Grove Trojans.

Preliminary action at both sites will begin at 7 p.m. with Prospect's jayvees seeking to cement their hold on first place and Arlington's sophs attempting to climb up a notch into a tie for fifth.

ALTHOUGH major attention in the Interim will be focused on Morton West tomorrow evening as the Wheaton Tigers clash with the host Falcons with first place at stake, the jockeying for position in the rest of the loop also has created some interest this season.

Maine West holds third place with a 9-3 standard and should add its tenth victory in competition with the hapless Deerfield Warriors, but East Leyden (7-3) is in danger of falling from fourth to fifth unless it can come up with a victory over Niles West.

Prospect's Knights, standing 7-4 in Interim action, need a win over Glenbrook if they entertain any hopes of passing the Franklin Park Eagles this week. Coach Dick Kinneman's outfit is perched in fifth, a half-game behind East Leyden.

HOWEVER, Prospect won't have an easy job attempting to bump the Glenbrook Spartans of Coach Howie Helfrich. Glenbrook stands 5-5 in league warfare and boasts one of the most productive offensive attacks in the Interim.

The Spartans have averaged 60.6 points per game in their ten conference outings and with the insertion of Don Ohlmeyer in the lineup in the past three weeks Helfirch has come up with a consistent scorer to supplement the usually effective work of Denny Pietrzak and Doug Rader.

Ohlmeyer netted 16 points two weeks ago as the Spartans crushed Deerfield, then potted 22 last Friday in Glenbrook's 49-42 victory over Niles West.

PIETRZAK IS still the big gun in the Glenbrook attack with 146 points in ten games, but the emergence of Ohlmeyer as a dependable scorer has aided the Spartan attack.

Prospect edged Glenbrook 56-55 in an earlier meeting and another down-to-the-wire encounter is expected Friday.

The Knights pounded Deerfield into submission last week with everyone getting into the act, including 6-foot-4 junior Bob Hope, who was playing in his first varsity game. Hope collected 13 points and finished as the Knights' second leading scorer behind dependable Tommy Thomas who bagged 17.

Thomas needs 16 points against Glenbrook Friday to become Prospect's top single season scorer in a 12-game Interim card. Tommy has 207 markers this season in 11 league games and All-Stater George Pomey rimmed 222 in the 12-game season last winter.

ALTHOUGH Downers Grove is buried in the cellar of the West Suburban conference, Arlington's Cards won't be taking Coach Guy Wellman's Trojans for granted tomorrow evening.

Coach Norm Patberg's outfit, 11-5 for the season, needed a second half rally to handle Downers in an earlier meeting and a Wellman-coached team is always dangerous.

Russ Doscotch, 6-foot-4 senior center, is the Trojans' top point-producer in West Suburban play with 90 points and 11.3 per game average. Backing Doscotch are guard Glenn Wirtanen with 82 and forward Bill Hartin with 63.

RICH BOLLOW, a 6-foot-3 junior forward, saw extensive action against Glenbard West last Friday and found time to register 13 points. Rich could be in the starting alignment against Arlington.

Thanks to a tight, 44-42 victory over Maine East last Friday, Arlington held on to undisputed fourth place in the West Suburban with a 5-3 standard. The Cards are a full game behind third place York but an Arlington victory Friday coupled with a York loss to Hinsdale would boost the locals into a third place deadlock.

In addition, Glenbard West (4-4) keeps putting the pressure on the Cards in the struggle for fourth, and with the Hilltoppers hooked up with first place LaGrange tomorrow, Arlington is likely to pick up some ground if it can get by Downers Grove.

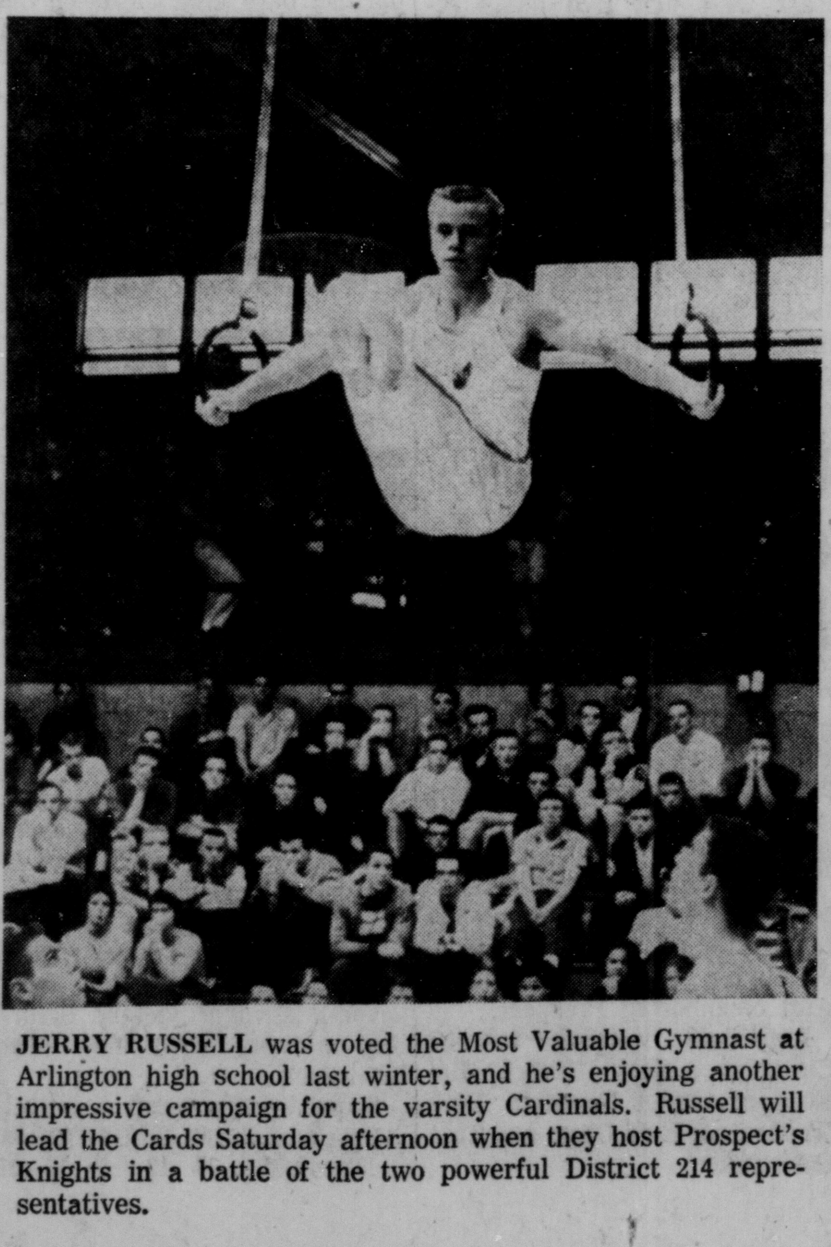
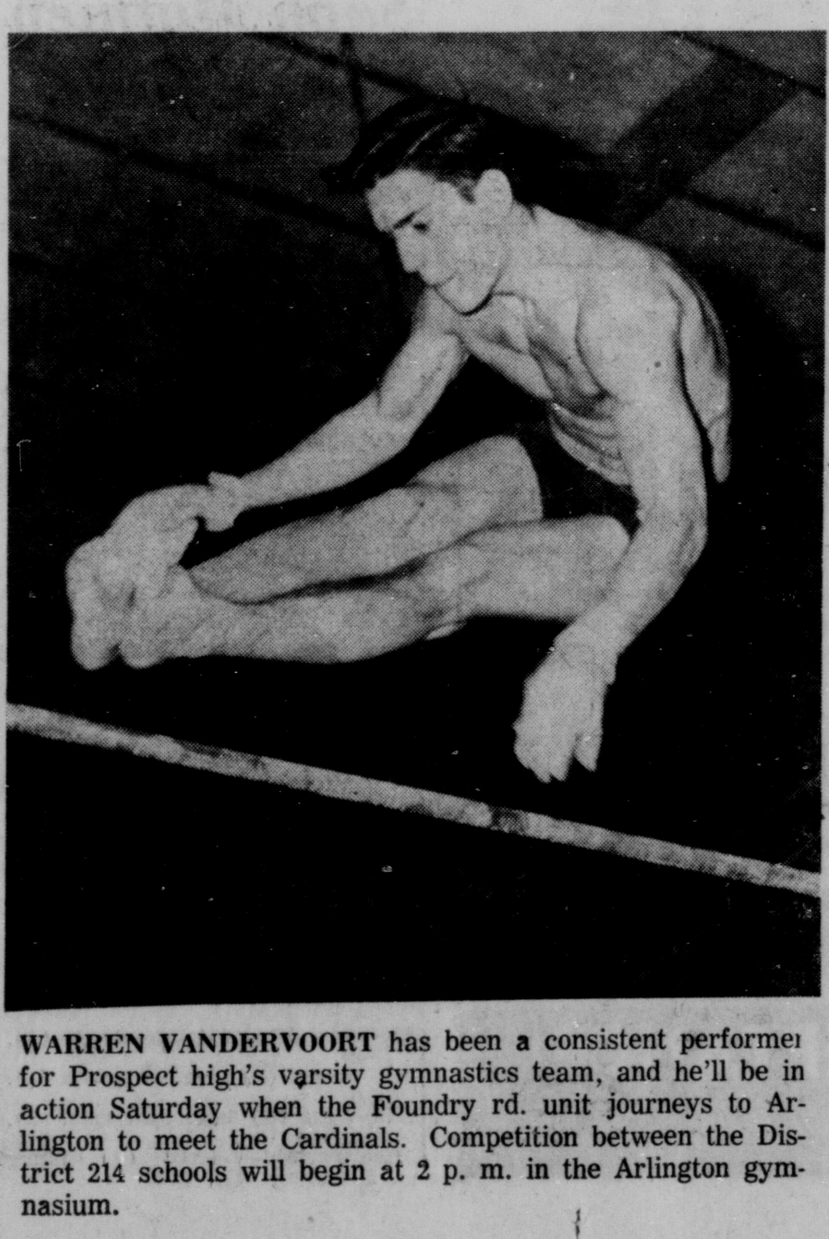
Two of District's Best



JERRY RUSSELL was voted the Most Valuable Gymnast at Arlington high school last winter, and he's enjoying another impressive campaign for the varsity Cardinals. Russell will lead the Cards Saturday afternoon when they host Prospect's Knights in a battle of the two powerful District 214 representatives.



WARREN VANDERVOORT has been a consistent performer for Prospect high's varsity gymnastics team, and he'll be in action Saturday when the Foundry rd. unit journeys to Arlington to meet the Cardinals. Competition between the District 214 schools will begin at 2 p. m. in the Arlington gymnasium.

Leaders Roll On In Arlington's Classic League

Garden Liquors and Pro Sports Center made it six in a row to retain top position in the Arlington Heights Park District Classic basketball league.

Pro Sport Center had a tough battle all the way with the 45th Artillery Brigade. At halftime both were deadlocked at 32-all and at the end of the third quarter Pro Sports had taken a three point lead. The Pro win was topped with a 22-point fourth period which made the final score 71-62. Al Lawson and Bob Magnus were high for the Sports Center with 19 and 18 points respectfully.

Garden Liquors trounced the Tigers 72-36. Ron Feiereisel led with 20 points.

In other games the Teachers "63"won their first game of the season beating Hoffman Estates 56-37. Pederson's "66" over came a 13 point deficit to edge out the Pure Oilers 53-52. The 755th Radar Squadron downed Meyer's Dairy 44-39, and Klehm's Nursery went on a scoring spree sqamping Lynnwood 103-48. Bob Phillips scored 30 points for Klehm's.

Mattresses Needed for Track at PHS

Innerspring mattresses, for use in the pole vault and high jump pits in the fieldhouse, are needed at Prospect high school in Mt. Prospect.

Anyone who can donate a mattress to the athletic department should contact the school switchboard (CLearbrook 5-9700) and leave his name, address, and phone number. The school will pick up each mattress.

There are some good big men in Illinois schoolboy ranks but of the names mentioned none appears in the class with Tison, Thoren, Redmon, Bauer and Pitts.

WHEATON AND MORTON WEST, co-leaders in the Interim league title chase, square off Friday night at Morton in one of the headliners of the Chicago Suburban area. Both clubs stand 10-1 and are two full games on top of third place Maine West.

Wheaton hasn't shown as much class as anticipated this season but still owns those big boys in the front-line who are vital in controlling the backboards. Morton doesn't have the exceptional size but does have 6-1 Jim Vopicka drilling from the outside and the presence of Vopicka would make any team dangerous.

Morton threw a stall at the rangy Tigers in its first meeting and came out on top, 27-25. Whether the Falcons will utilize the same tactics Friday remains to be seen, but we're sure Wheaton will be ready for that slowed-down game this time.

In another suburban area headliner York will journey to Hinsdale and attempt to rebound from last Friday's setback to LaGrange. York is still in title contention in the West Suburban conference, but another loss would be disastrous for the Dukes.

York matched LaGrange in field goal production last Friday, but the rangy Lions connected on 19 of 27 free throws in their 65-57 victory. In addition, LaGrange fired at a 53 per cent clip from the floor as they successfully avenged a 22-point loss to York earlier in the season.

LaGrange and Hinsdale rule the roos in the WSC, but this title scramble isn't over by any stretch of the imagination.

Arlington Routs St. Charles in Two Frosh Games

Arlington's frosh basketball squads enjoyed their biggest offensive efforts of the season Monday afternoon when they pounded two out-manned St. Charles teams.

Coach Bob Rees' frosh "A" squad exploded in the second period with Bob Conner whipping in six baskets and breezed in with a 52-12 victory, and Brendan Flynn's "Bs" posted an effortless 50-22 decision.

It was the first time that either team had hit 50 this season. Arlington's "As" now stand 6-3 for the season with the "Bs" boasting a 6-1 standaru.

ARLINGTON held an 8-4 first period lead in the "A" game but broke the contest wide open with a 23-point explosion in the second stanza keyed by Conner's six baskets. From then on, it was strictly no contest for Rees' aggregation.

Conner tossed in 22 points on eleven baskets to top Arlington and Mike Frase chipped in with 11. Roberto Benavides collected nine to round out the top three for the locals.

Arlington blanked St. Charles in the final period while pouring in 13 points.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	8	15	16	13—52
St. Charles	4	5	3	0—12

JOHNNY Jamison was the key man offensively for Arlington's "B" squad with ten baskets and 20 points. He was the only local able to crash double figures although both Jeff Galyon and Morrisett collected six each.

Arlington's two frosh basketball teams will host Downers Grove this Saturday morning at 9:30.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	9	12	19	10—50
St. Charles	5	9	4	4—22

Arlington to Host Prospect In Gymnastics

Two powerful high school gymnastics teams will square off Saturday afternoon when Arlington high school's Cardinals host Prospect high's Knights.

The District 214 representatives, both boasting impressive records this winter, will tangle in varsity and frosh-soph competition with action slated to get under way at 2 p.m. in the Arlingotn gymnasium.

The meeting will mark the first time that Arlington and Prospect athletic teams have battled in a regularly-scheduled contest. The two schools have engaged in the same tournaments, but a regional basketball meeting in 1960 was the only time they have actually met head-on.

BOTH SCHOOLS will bring impressive dual meet standards into Saturday's headliner. Heading into last Tuesday's test with East Leyden, Arlington's varsity gymnasts had picked up five victories in six outings, dropping a ten-point affair to Evanston for their only setback.

Prospect owns six victories in seven duals with its only setback a 67½-64½ outing with Willowbrook. The Knights will host Niles West this Friday, Feb. 2, in addition to the Saturday spectacular at Arlington.

The two schools have tangled with one common opponent, Willowbrook. Arlington topped the Warriors 71-61 while the Villa Park entry posted that three-point decision over the Knights.

BOTH OUTFITS boast their talented performers with senior Jerry Russell heading the Arlington cast. Russell, the Most Valuable Gymnast at AHS as a junior, is a versatile young man who works the high bar, parallel bar, rings and, on occasion, the side horse.

Arlington finished third in the state gym meet last winter but lost three state champs via graduation. Russell claimed a third on the parallel bars in state competition and Bob Cordaro, picked up a sixth on the trampoline. That duo represents the only points Arlington has returning from the 1961 state meet.

Prospect finished sixth in the state competition and has two boys back who scored points. Ray Strobel, a standout on both the tramp and in tumbling, claimed a third and Paul Shaw recorded a seventh on the trampoline.

The trampoline should be one of the top events Saturday as both schools boast solid performers.

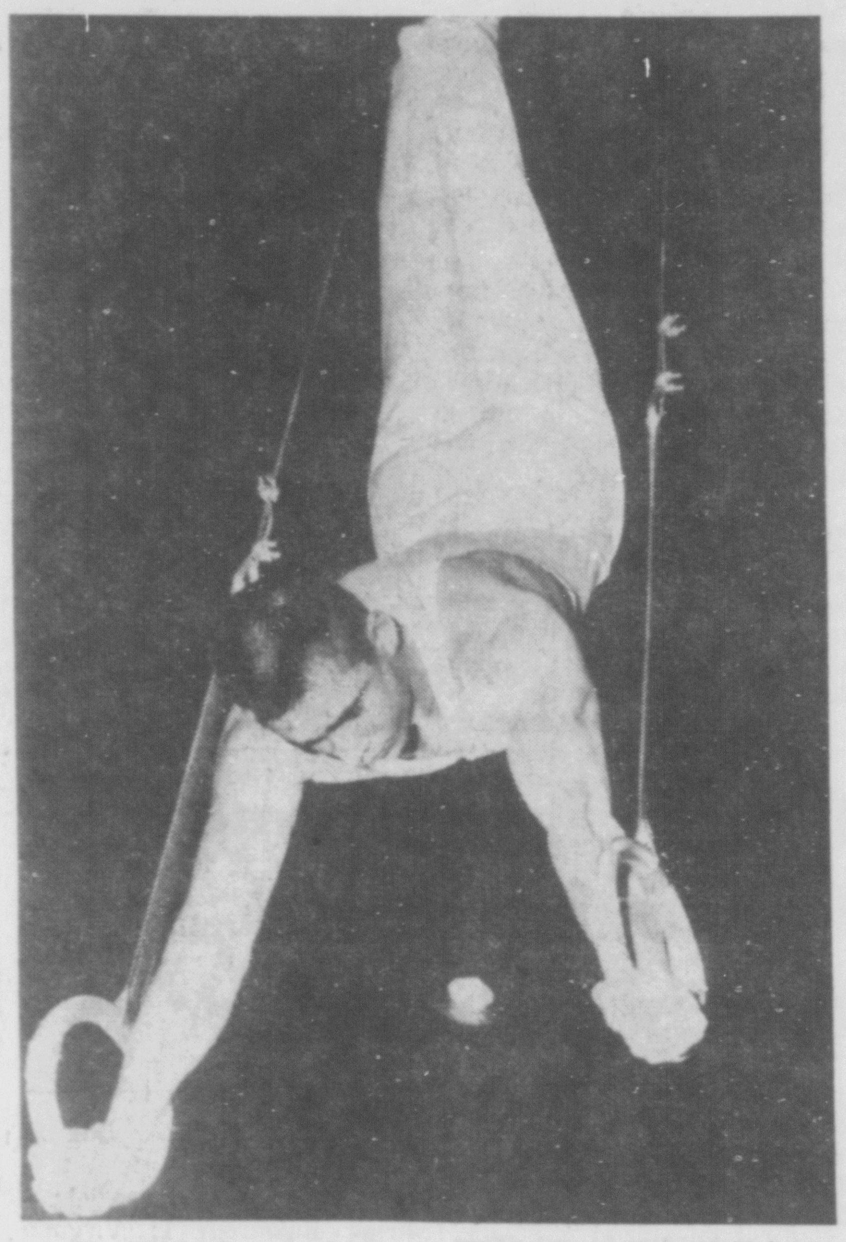
THE FROSH-SOPH competition should also provide some excitement as both Arlington and Prospect possess strong units. The Cards' sophs were unbeaten in their first six duals and Prospect has gained six victories in seven efforts.

Date Night Friday at St. Viator

Friday will be Date Night at St. Viator high school in Arlington Heights as the freshman and sophomore basketball teams entertain St. Joseph of Westchester.

The games will begin at 6:30 p.m. with one ticket for 75 cents admitting student and date.

Fans are urged to come out and back the Lions of Ron Feiereisel and Larry Nomellini



DAN MALLOY, a freshman at Illinois State Normal University from Prospect Heights, is the top performer on the rings for the Redbird gymnastics team this season. In action thus far the Prospect Heights performer has scored a first in dual competition against Eastern Illinois and a third against the University of Indiana. Dan was a standout for the Prospect high school gymnastics squads under the direction of Coach Rick Farris.

At Morton West

Knights Open Indoor Track Slate Tuesday

The ambitious indoor track campaign at Prospect high school will get under way next Tuesday afternoon when the varsity and frosh-soph Knights journey to Morton West for meets at 4:30.

Seven dual meets in addition to several bigger affairs have been lined up by Coach Bob Scott for his Foundry rd. aggregations with the indoor cinder campaign slated to terminate on Friday, March 30, with the Big Ten Meet at Morton.

Arlington high school will follow a limited indoor schedule with the frosh cindermen kicking off the schedule with a dual meet against Maine East on Monday, March 19.

JOHN LATTA and Jim Hendricks, two of the Cardinals' standouts, and Fred Logan, distance ace from York high in Elmhurst, have been working out in the Prospect fieldhouse with the Knights.

Following next Tuesday's opener, Scott's varsity and frosh-soph squads will be idle until Tuesday, Feb. 20, when they entertain Glenbrook in the home opener.

Prospect will hook up in duals against Morton West, Glenbrook, Palatine, Niles West, Downers Grove, Waukegan, and Libertyville and will also engage in frosh-soph and frosh invitationals at Evanston, the Evanston Relays, and Big Ten and conference affairs at Morton West.

SCOTT AND HIS staff currently are working with about 90 boys at all levels with more expected to join the squad following the termination of the winter sports campaigns. Working with Scott this year are Bill Beckman, Rusty Dowell, and J. O. Jackson.

Seven lettermen have been engaged in the practice sessions at Prospect although one noticeable absentee is pole vaulter Tom Flynn who has dropped out of school. Tom qualified for the state finals last spring and finished fifth in the Interim league pole vault event.

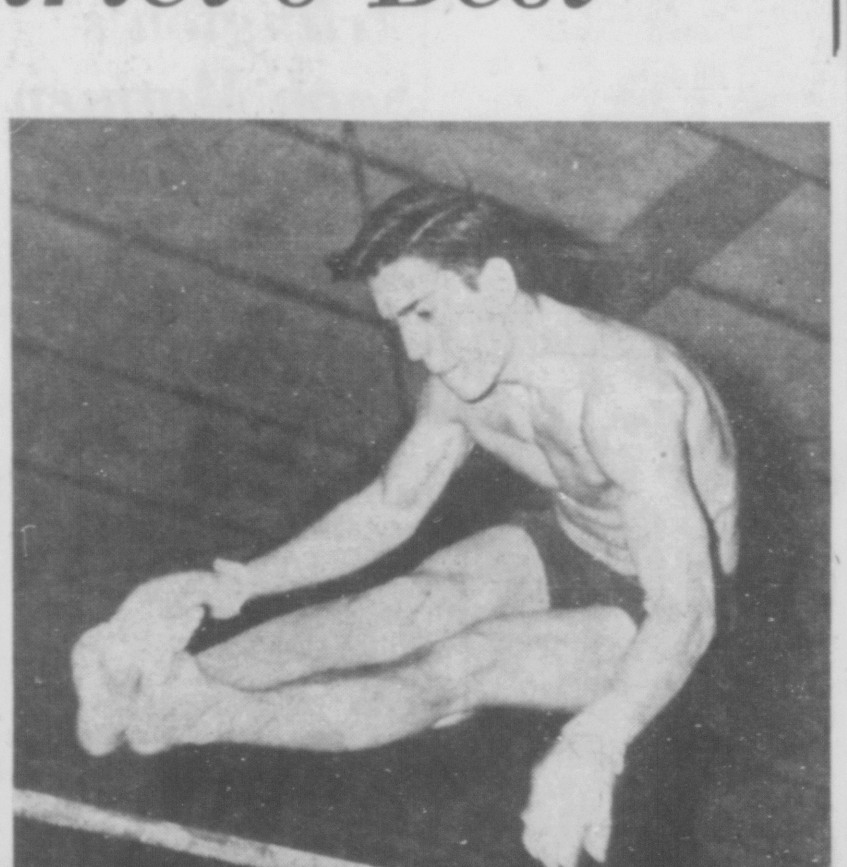
Jim Peters, Prospect's other state qualifier in 1961, is back this year and will team up with Bruce Andrise to give the Knights some solid strength in the shot put. Peters and Andrise finished 2-3 behind Maine West's Ken McLaughlin in the Interim test.

BOB SCOTT

OTHER MONOGRAM winners working out are Jim Anderson in the hurdles, Rod Luedke in the 880 yard run, George Renner in the 440, Cliff Stock in the mile, and Gary Marks. Marks, only a junior, is being tested in the hurdles this winter although he also is available for duty in the middle-distance events.

Two of District's Best

JERRY RUSSELL was voted the Most Valuable Gymnast at Arlington high school last winter, and he's enjoying another impressive campaign for the varsity Cardinals. Russell will lead the Cards Saturday afternoon when they host Prospect's Knights in a battle of the two powerful District 214 representatives.



WARREN VANDERVOORT has been a consistent performer for Prospect high's varsity gymnastics team, and he'll be in action Saturday when the Foundry rd. unit journeys to Arlington to meet the Cardinals. Competition between the District 214 schools will begin at 2 p. m. in the Arlington gymnasium.

Cagers Face League Foes

Prospect high's Knights, eyeing fourth place in the Interim, and Arlington's Cardinals, carrying hopes for a possible share of third in the West Suburban, will engage in league basketball action Friday evening and attempt to achieve their respective goals.

Prospect will be at home in the Foundry rd. fieldhouse for a rough encounter with the Glenbrook Spartans of Northbrook.

Arlington will hit the road and tackle the winless but still dangerous Downers Grove Trojans.

Preliminary action at both sites will begin at 7 p.m. with Prospect's jayvees seeking to cement their hold on first place and Arlington's sophs attempting to climb up a notch into a tie for fifth.

ALTHOUGH major attention in the Interim will be focused on Morton West tomorrow evening as the Wheaton Tigers clash with the host Falcons with first place at stake, the jockeying for position in the rest of the loop also has created some interest this season.

Maine West holds third place with a 9-3 standard and should add its tenth victory in competition with the hapless Deerfield Warriors, but East Leyden (7-3) is in danger of falling from fourth to fifth unless it can come up with a victory over Niles West.

Prospect's Knights, standing 7-4 in Interim action, need a win over Glenbrook if they entertain any hopes of passing the Franklin Park Eagles this week. Coach Dick Kinneman's outfit is perched in fifth, a half-game behind East Leyden.

HOWEVER, Prospect won't have an easy job attempting to bump the Glenbrook Spartans of Coach Howie Helfrich. Glenbrook stands 5-5 in league warfare and boasts one of the most productive offensive attacks in the Interim.

The Spartans have averaged 60.6 points per game in their ten conference outings and with the insertion of Don Ohlmeyer in the lineup in the past three weeks Helfirch has come up with a consistent scorer to supplement the usually effective work of Denny Pietrzak and Doug Rader.

Ohlmeyer netted 16 points two weeks ago as the Spartans crushed Deerfield, then potted 22 last Friday in Glenbrook's 49-42 victory over Niles West.

PIETRZAK IS still the big gun in the Glenbrook attack with 146 points in ten games, but the emergence of Ohlmeyer as a dependable scorer has aided the Spartan attack.

Prospect edged Glenbrook 56-55 in an earlier meeting and another down-to-the-wire encounter is expected Friday.

The Knights pounded Deerfield into submission last week with everyone getting into the act, including 6-foot-4 junior Bob Hope, who was playing in his first varsity game. Hope collected 13 points and finished as the Knights' second leading scorer behind dependable Tommy Thomas who bagged 17.

Thomas needs 16 points against Glenbrook Friday to become Prospect's top single season scorer in a 12-game Interim card. Tommy has 207 markers this season in 11 league games and All-Stater George Pomey rimmed 222 in the 12-game season last winter.

ALTHOUGH Downers Grove is buried in the cellar of the West Suburban conference, Arlington's Cards won't be taking Coach Guy Wellman's Trojans for granted tomorrow evening.

Coach Norm Patberg's outfit, 11-5 for the season, needed a second half rally to handle Downers in an earlier meeting and a Wellman-coached team is always dangerous.

Russ Doscotch, 6-foot-4 senior center, is the Trojans' top point-producer in West Suburban play with 90 points and 11.3 per game average. Backing Doscotch are guard Glenn Wirtanen with 82 and forward Bill Hartin with 63.

RICH BOLLOW, a 6-foot-3 junior forward, saw extensive action against Glenbard West last Friday and found time to register 13 points. Rich could be in the starting alignment against Arlington.

Thanks to a tight, 44-42 victory over Maine East last Friday, Arlington held on to undisputed fourth place in the West Suburban with a 5-3 standard. The Cards are a full game behind third place York but an Arlington victory Friday coupled with a York loss to Hinsdale would boost the locals into a third place deadlock.

In addition, Glenbard West (4-4) keeps putting the pressure on the Cards in the struggle for fourth, and with the Hilltoppers hooked up with first place LaGrange tomorrow, Arlington is likely to pick up some ground if it can get by Downers Grove.

Leaders Roll On In Arlington's Classic League

Garden Liquors and Pro Sports Center made it six in a row to retain top position in the Arlington Heights Park District Classic basketball league.

Pro Sport Center had a tough battle all the way with the 45th Artillery Brigade. At halftime both were deadlocked at 32-all and at the end of the third quarter Pro Sports had taken a three point lead. The Pro win was topped with a 22-point fourth period which made the final score 71-62. Al Lawson and Bob Magnus were high for the Sports Center with 19 and 18 points respectfully.

Garden Liquors trounced the Tigers 72-36. Ron Feiereisel led with 20 points.

In other games the Teachers "63" won their first game of the season beating Hoffman Estates 56-37. Pederson's "66" over came a 13 point deficit to edge out the Pure Oilers 53-52. The 755th Radar Squadron downed Meyer's Dairy 44-39, and Klehm's Nursery went on a scoring spree sqamping Lynnwood 103-48. Bob Phillips scored 30 points for Klehm's.

Mattresses Needed for Track at PHS

Innerspring mattresses, for use in the pole vault and high jump pits in the fieldhouse, are needed at Prospect high school in Mt. Prospect.

Anyone who can donate a mattress to the athletic department should contact the school switchboard (CLearbrook 5-9700) and leave his name, address, and phone number. The school will pick up each mattress.

by G. A. McELROY

THE SOUTHEAST CONFERENCE, a new suburban circuit, has been added to the Association of Suburban Conferences Members of this conference are Crete-Monee, Thornton Fractional North, Thornton Fractional South, Rich Central, Bradley and Tinley Park (second school in the Bremen district.) This league is in action for the first time this season.

Another new conference planning to start play next September takes schools from the Big Eight, the Interim, and the Little Seven. The new circuit, we predict, will develop into one of the best in the suburban area. Members will be Elgin and the new second school in that city, East and West Aurora, DeKalb of the North Central Conference, Naperville of the Little Seven, and Wheaton and Glenbard East of the Interim Association.

The loss of three schools from the Big Eight will cause a revision of membership in that league. Rumor has it that the Big Eight will become largely a Rockford area circuit. Rockford East, West and Auburn are already in the Big Eight and a fourth school will open in September. These four with Freeport and LaSalle-Peru are certain members, with Harlem of suburban Rockford and Belvidere, a close neighbor, likely to fill the gap left by the loss of the Auroras.

These changes mean that the Little Seven loses two members in Naperville and Belvidere. Kaneland has already been accepted for membership bringing the total back to seven schools. Others are Sycamore, Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, Mooseheart and West Chicago.

The Interim Association was about to split into two divisions but loss of Wheaton and Glenbard East may change the situation. Others in this league are Morton West, West Proviso, East and West Leyden, West Niles, Maine West, Prospect, Glenbrook, Deerfield and Willowbrook. New schools expected to open in September in this league are in the Arlington and Glenbrook districts.

ITEMS FROM HERE AND THERE

Palatine has accepted an invitation to play in the DeKalb Holiday basketball tournament next December . . . It will be a neighborhood deal when the two Maine schools and the two schools of the Arlington district put on the Prospect district wrestling tournament with Palatine the only other competitor. Winners and runnersup go to the Palatine sectional with the first and second going to the state meet at Arlington. A real chance for local boys to go a long way tournament-wise without traveling more than 10 miles from home . . . Denny Freund who was leading scorer in the Northwest Conference a few years ago at Wauconda is scoring well for DePaul University this year . . . Fred Gluck, 95 pound wrestler, for Palatine is undefeated this season and so is his brother Mike who wrestles at the same weight on the sophomore team. Both are consistent honor roll students . . . After reading the Sunday press we concluded anything is possible in sports for Rayl of Indiana scored 56 to win an overtime game and Peter Snell of New Zealand broke the world mile record with 3:54.4 minutes.

20 YEARS AGO

Palatine is again undisputed leader in the varsity cage standings. The Pirates beat Wauconda 25-22 in two overtimes as "Bucky" Harris got a "sudden death" basket. Meanwhile Barrington knocked Antioch out of the lead with a 42-39 victory. Palatine lightweights won 13-5 to remain tied with Barrington for the lead. The crucial Barrington-at Palatine double bill coming up Friday has championships in both divisions riding on the outcome. Barrington has no losses since a 34-18 setback to Palatine early in the campaign . . . Arlington crushed Woodstock 53-23 with Becker tallying 14. Bensenville easily defeated Ela 39-23 as Baumann scored 12 and Gutnik 11.

10 YEARS AGO

Palatine took two close ones, beating Antioch 29-26 and Grant 40-39, to move up to a 6-5 league record. Paul Schrage was carried from the floor on the shoulders of his teammates at Grant when he sank the winning free throw for Palatine with 5 seconds to play. Barrington clinched the title with two one-sided wins for a 11-0 record. With three games to go Nolan of Wauconda has already shattered the Northwest scoring record . . . Arlington had a bad weekend losing to York and Downers Grove . . . Hebron leads the state rating with a 17-1 record.

Prospect Jayvees Wallop Deerfield

Prospect's junior varsity basketeers won their tenth conference game of the season Friday, whipping Deerfield 59-27.

The win left Coach Ted Wissen's Knights in sole possession of first place in the Interim league with a 10-1 record.

Ron Neubert, John Davis, and Dick Smith scored seven points apiece in the first half to build up a fat 28-16 lead for Prospect.

The lead expanded to 42-19 in the third quarter as the hapless Deerfield squad had trouble finding the basket. Prospect's reserves finished the contest, outscoring their hosts 17-8 in the final quarter.

Davis wound up as the high scorer for the evening with 13 points. Center Ron Koepke got 12, and Neubert had 11. Schlessinger had eight for Deerfield.

Wissen's team will try to keep its first place berth out of reach this Friday when it hosts the Glenbrook Spartans in a preliminary game at 7 p.m. in the Foundry rd. fieldhouse.

East Leyden Tops Prospect Knights On Varsity Mat

East Leyden's Eagles, a perennial varsity wrestling power, showed their class recently with an impressive 26-16 victory over Prospect's Knights.

The Franklin Park crew never trailed and snapped a 10-all deadlock after six bouts with three straight victories.

Prospect fell behind 3-0 after one bout and the Eagles held their three-point advantage with a deadlock at 103. The Knights movedd into a tie at 112 as Bob McKinnon posted an impressive 4-0 victory.

Another tie resulted at 120 but East Leyden regained the lead at 127. Capt. Doug Vaughan bossted the Knights back into another deadlock with a 4-2 victory at 133 and that's when the hosts went to work.

A decision, pin, and another decision gave the Eagles a 21-10 lead after nine bouts and Prospect couldn't close the gap despite victories by Ron Aukamp at 165 and Wayne Johnson at heavyweight.

Knights Top Niles West in Frosh Mat Test

In a makeup of a meet postponed because of a severe December snowstorm Prospect high's frosh wrestling team clobbered Niles West of Skokie Tuesday afternoon, 35-20.

Coach Maurie Levy's plebes trailed briefly at the outset of the meet but took the lead at 103 thanks to Jim Zaehler's snappy pin and never trailed thereafter.

The victory was Prospect's sixth of the season as compared to a pair of setbacks.

Individual victors for the young Knights were Zaehler at 103, John Haight at 120, John Mellen at 133, Paul Boult at 154, and Bob Davis at 180. George Beattie claimed two points with a tie at 145.

Prospect also won two matches by forfeit.

Prospect In Soph Mat Win

Claiming the lead for the first time at 120 pounds. Prospect high's frosh-soph wrestlers went on to record a 26-19 victory over Deerfield last Saturday morning.

The visitors jumped into an early lead with two straight decisions but fell behind at 120 and never climbed on top again in the Interim league mat tussle.

Registering the victories for Coach Maurie Levy's sophs, now 5-3 for the season, were John Schwan at 112, George Freeland at 120, Dick Greene at 133, Jim McMillan at 138, Dan Mtichell at 154, and Ray Jackson at heavyweight.

RON KOZLICKI (33) of Palatine fires up a jump shot from the side during the first half of Friday's game but play is stopped by referee's signal of a personal foul against Woodstock. Kozlicki whipped in 28 points as the Pirates throttled the Streaks, 71-52.

Eagles Handle Prospect High's Swimming Squads

In swimming competition last week at the East Leyden high school pool the host Eagles registered a pair of victories over Prospect's Knights.

The Franklin Park entry rolled up a 70-24 victory on a varsity level and 56-30 conquest in the younger class.

Prospect's varsity squad outscored the Eagles in two events thanks to firsts by Ken Holmes in the 400-yard free style and Bob Brown in the 100-yard butterfly.

COLLECTING SECONDS for Coach Don Barrett's Foundry rd. outfit were Wayne Peterson in the 200-yard free style, Jay Magnuson in the 100-yard free style, and Mike Aiman in diving.

Prospect's sophs racked up three firsts and three seconds Jim Cashmore the individual standout. The talented sophomore headed the field in diving and gained a second in the 100-yard individual medley for eight team points.

Hugh Wesler topped the 50-yard butterfly event and Dick Peterson ruled the 50-yard backstroke.

Three Teams Head Community Leagues

Universal Oil Products, Beacon Tap, and First Savings of Park Ridge rank as the front-runners this week in the two divisions of the Northwest Community basketball league.

Universal Oil and Beacon Tap are tied for the top slot in the Algonquin school division with identical 6-1 standards and First Savings stansd 6-0 in the Chippewa school bracket.

In the only tight contest of the Chippewa division Geno's Lounge, sparked by ex-Northwestern star Larry Kurka's 15 points, broke a three-way tie for second place by dumping St. Paul Lutheran Church, 42-36.

First Savings continued their winning ways with an effortless 60-33 victory over the Rim Rammers, and Burchard's Cleaners waltzed over the Independents, 64-31. Ex-Chicago Cub first baseman Ed Bouchee tossed in 20 points for the victors.

In the Algonquin division three runaway games marked the evening's action as Beacon Tap rolled over O'Hare Tower, 59-39; Universal Oil routed the 640th Troop Carrier Squadron, 51-38; and Delta Airlines dumped American Airlines, 69-27.

Maine East Wins Frosh Mat Tussle

Arlington's frosh wrestlers held an 18-10 lead over Maine East with just five bouts remaining last Saturday morning when the roof caved in.

Maine collected ten points via forfeits and 15 more with pins and racked up a decisive 35-18 victory over the young Cardinals of Coach John Fish.

The loss was the fifth straight for Arlington with the locals hosting Palatine this Saturday morning, Feb. 3, in the season finale.

Cards' Soph Gymnasts in Easy Victory

Arlington high's sophomore gymnasts humbled a hapless East Leyden team Tuesday afternoon, 93-30, recording their seventh straight victory in the process.

Coach Mike Karon's Cardinals posted maximum 16 totals in four of the events as they turned up for Saturday's headliner with neighboring Prospect.

Individual winners for the Cards were Gary Holveck, Jim Koeppen, Frank Scardina, Dick Wollerman, Reid Olson and Tom Ostermann.

Prospect Rolls Over Maine West

Prospect's frosh - soph gymnasts continued to exhibit some impressive team strength last Friday as they rolled over host Maine West, 80-52.

Coach Don Arseneau's outfit, now 6-1 for the season, outscored the Warriors in five of the six events with a sweep of the top three slots on the high bar.

Individual winners for Prospect were Scott Paris on the horizontal bar, Bill Kist on the parallel bars, Ron Carda on the still rings, and Pat Kivland in tumbling.

Prospect Sophs in 65-37 Win

Thirteen boys broke into the scoring column last Saturday morning as Prospect's frosh-soph basketball express rolled on with a one-sided 65-37 victory over Deerfield.

Coach Bob Hoese's Knights jumped off to a 16-6 first period lead, held that 10-point advantage at halftime, and coasted in with their tenth victory in 11 outings.

Tom McClellan and Ron Moehling shared scoring honors for the balanced attack with 13 points each. Center Dan Sherman chipped in with nine.

Prospect's frosh-soph cagers will be shooting for their seventh straight victory Saturday morning when they host Glenbrook.

Score by quarters:

Prospect	16	12	18	19—65
Deerfield	6	12	7	12—37

Arlington High's Jayvees Dumped In Two Contests

In a study of extremes Arlington's junior-varsity basketball team dropped two recent games to Maine East and St. Charles.

Maine ran past the Cardinals on Saturday by 30 points, 61-31, but the locals hooked up in a cliff-hanger Monday afternoon, finally dropping a 47-45 decision to the Fighting Saints.

Coach Rog Steingraber's outfit boasting two victories in eight games this season, will host Downers Grove this Saturday morning

Arlington stayed even with Maine for one period last Saturday before the Blue Demons opened up and coasted in with the victory.

Ken Seeger and Phil O'Connell represented all but four points in Arlington's limited offensive attack with 18 and nine respectively. Ken Wessler contributed the other four with a pair of baskets.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	10	8	5	8—31
Maine East	13	22	14	12—61

Last Monday Arlington played without two regulars but still battled St. Charles down to the wire before falling by two, 47-45.

With the victory the Saints avenged a previous 14-point setback to the Cardinals.

Seeger again paced Arlington with 17 points and O'Connell collected 12. Tom Tully tossed in five baskets for ten points.

Score by quarters:

Arlington	17	11	3	14—45
St. Charles	15	14	3	15—47

Prospect Crushes Niles West, 46-0

A snowstorm last December 23 postponed a frosh-soph wrestling meet between Prospect and Niles West.

That meet was finally staged Tuesday afternoon.

As far as Niles West is concerned, another snowstorm would have been a welcome sight in view of the eventual outcome.

Coach Maurie Levy's Prospect sophs crushed an outmanned Niles team, 46-0, recording one of the few shutouts on the area mat scene this winter.

The young Knights piled up seven decisions, three pins, and two forfeits in humbling the hosts from Skokie.

The summary:

Knights' Frosh 'As' Win, 42-37

Back in stride after a mid-season slump, Prospect high school's frosh "A" basketball team dumped Deerfield last Saturday morning, 42-37.

The victory was the sixth of the season for Coach Ken Arneson's plebes with the locals slated to hook up with Glenbrook this Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Prospect railed by three at halftime against Deerfield but pulled away in the third period.

Greg Kowal paced the young Knights with 12 points, seven in the final half. Backing Kowal were Wayne Kuklinski with eight and Bill Reising with six.

Mac Says

by G. A. McELROY

THE SOUTHEAST CONFERENCE, a new suburban circuit, has been added to the Association of Suburban Conferences Members of this conference are Crete-Monee, Thornton Fractional North, Thornton Fractional South, Rich Central, Bradley and Tinley Park (second school in the Bremen district.) This league is in action for the first time this season.

Another new conference planning to start play next September takes schools from the Big Eight, the Interim, and the Little Seven. The new circuit, we predict, will develop into one of the best in the suburban area. Members will be Elgin and the new second school in that city, East and West Aurora, DeKalb of the North Central Conference, Naperville of the Little Seven, and Wheaton and Glenbard East of the Interim Association.

The loss of three schools from the Big Eight will cause a revision of membership in that league. Rumor has it that the Big Eight will become largely a Rockford area circuit. Rockford East, West and Auburn are already in the Big Eight and a fourth school will open in September. These four with Freeport and LaSalle-Peru are certain members, with Harlem of suburban Rockford and Belvidere, a close neighbor, likely to fill the gap left by the loss of the Auroras.

These changes mean that the Little Seven loses two members in Naperville and Belvidere. Kaneland has already been accepted for membership bringing the total back to seven schools. Others are Sycamore, Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, Mooseheart and West Chicago.

The Interim Association was about to split into two divisions but loss of Wheaton and Glenbard East may change the situation. Others in this league are Morton West, West Proviso, East and West Leyden, West Niles, Maine West, Prospect, Glenbrook, Deerfield and Willowbrook. New schools expected to open in September in this league are in the Arlington and Glenbrook districts.

ITEMS FROM HERE AND THERE

Palatine has accepted an invitation to play in the DeKalb Holiday basketball tournament next December . . . It will be a neighborhood deal when the two Maine schools and the two schools of the Arlington district put on the Prospect district wrestling tournament with Palatine the only other competitor. Winners and runnersup go to the Palatine sectional with the first and second going to the state meet at Arlington. A real chance for local boys to go a long way tournament-wise without traveling more than 10 miles from home . . . Denny Freund who was leading scorer in the Northwest Conference a few years ago at Wauconda is scoring well for DePaul University this year . . . Fred Gluck, 95 pound wrestler, for Palatine is undefeated this season and so is his brother Mike who wrestles at the same weight on the sophomore team. Both are consistent honor roll students . . . After reading the Sunday press we concluded anything is possible in sports for Rayl of Indiana scored 56 to win an overtime game and Peter Snell of New Zealand broke the world mile record with 3:54.4 minutes.

20 YEARS AGO

Palatine is again undisputed leader in the varsity cage standings. The Pirates beat Wauconda 25-22 in two overtimes as "Bucky" Harris got a "sudden death" basket. Meanwhile Barrington knocked Antioch out of the lead with a 42-39 victory. Palatine lightweights won 13-5 to remain tied with Barrington for the lead. The crucial Barrington-at Palatine double bill coming up Friday has championships in both divisions riding on the outcome. Barrington has no losses since a 34-18 setback to Palatine early in the campaign . . . Arlington crushed Woodstock 53-23 with Becker tallying 14. Bensenville easily defeated Ela 39-23 as Baumann scored 12 and Gutnik 11.

10 YEARS AGO

Palatine took two close ones, beating Antioch 29-26 and Grant 40-39, to move up to a 6-5 league record. Paul Schrage was carried from the floor on the shoulders of his teammates at Grant when he sank the winning free throw for Palatine with 5 seconds to play. Barrington clinched the title with two one-sided wins for a 11-0 record. With three games to go Nolan of Wauconda has already shattered the Northwest scoring record . . . Arlington had a bad weekend losing to York and Downers Grove . . . Hebron leads the state rating with a 17-1 record.

Prospect Jayvees Wallop Deerfield

Prospect's junior varsity basketeers won their tenth conference game of the season Friday, whipping Deerfield 59-27.

The win left Coach Ted Wissen's Knights in sole possession of first place in the Interim league with a 10-1 record.

Ron Neubert, John Davis, and Dick Smith scored seven points apiece in the first half to build up a fat 28-16 lead for Prospect.

The lead expanded to 42-19 in the third quarter as the hapless Deerfield squad had trouble finding the basket. Prospect's reserves finished the contest, outscoring their hosts 17-8 in the final quarter.

Davis wound up as the high scorer for the evening with 13 points. Center Ron Koepke got 12, and Neubert had 11. Schlessinger had eight for Deerfield.

Wissen's team will try to keep its first place berth out of reach this Friday when it hosts the Glenbrook Spartans in a preliminary game at 7 p.m. in the Foundry rd. fieldhouse.

East Leyden Tops Prospect Knights On Varsity Mat

East Leyden's Eagles, a perennial varsity wrestling power, showed their class recently with an impressive 26-16 victory over Prospect's Knights.

The Franklin Park crew never trailed and snapped a 10-all deadlock after six bouts with three straight victories.

Prospect fell behind 3-0 after one bout and the Eagles held their three-point advantage with a deadlock at 103. The Knights movedd into a tie at 112 as Bob McKinnon posted an impressive 4-0 victory.

Another tie resulted at 120 but East Leyden regained the lead at 127. Capt. Doug Vaughan bossted the Knights back into another deadlock with a 4-2 victory, at 133 and that's when the hosts went to work.

A decision, pin, and another decision gave the Eagles a 21-10 lead after nine bouts and Prospect couldn't close the gap despite victories by Ron Aukamp at 165 and Wayne Johnson at heavyweight.

Knights Top Niles West in Frosh Mat Test

In a makeup of a meet postponed because of a severe December snowstorm Prospect high's frosh wrestling team clobbered Niles West of Skokie Tuesday afternoon, 35-20.

Coach Maurie Levy's plebes trailed briefly at the outset of the meet but took the lead at 103 thanks to Jim Zaehler's snappy pin and never trailed thereafter.

The victory was Prospect's sixth of the season as compared to a pair of setbacks.

Individual victors for the young Knights were Zaehler at 103, John Haight at 120, John Mellen at 133, Paul Boult at 154, and Bob Davis at 180. George Beattie claimed two points with a tie at 145.

Prospect also won two matches by forfeit.

Eagles Handle Prospect High's Swimming Squads

In swimming competition last week at the East Leyden high school pool the host Eagles registered a pair of victories over Prospect's Knights.

The Franklin Park entry rolled up a 70-24 victory on a varsity level and 56-30 conquest in the younger class.

Prospect's varsity squad outscored the Eagles in two events thanks to firsts by Ken Holmes in the 400-yard free style and Bob Brown in the 100-yard butterfly.

COLLECTING SECONDS for Coach Don Barrett's Foundry rd. outfit were Wayne Peterson in the 200-yard free style, Jay Magnuson in the 100-yard free style, and Mike Aiman in diving.

Prospect's sophs racked up three firsts and three seconds Jim Cashmore the individual standout. The talented sophomore headed the field in diving and gained a second in the 100-yard individual medley for eight team points.

Hugh Wesler topped the 50-yard butterfly event and Dick Peterson ruled the 50-yard backstroke.

Three Teams Head Community Leagues

Universal Oil Products, Beacon Tap, and First Savings of Park Ridge rank as the front-runners this week in the two divisions of the Northwest Community basketball league.

Universal Oil and Beacon Tap are tied for the top slot in the Algonquin school division with identical 6-1 standards and First Savings stansd 6-0 in the Chippewa school bracket.

In the only tight contest of the Chippewa division Geno's Lounge, sparked by ex-Northwestern star Larry Kurka's 15 points, broke a three-way tie for second place by dumping St. Paul Lutheran Church, 42-36.

Prospect Crushes Niles West, 46-0

A snowstorm last December 23 postponed a frosh-soph wrestling meet between Prospect and Niles West.

That meet was finally staged Tuesday afternoon.

As far as Niles West is concerned, another snowstorm would have been a welcome sight in view of the eventual outcome.

Coach Maurie Levy's Prospect sophs crushed an outmanned Niles team, 46-0, recording one of the few shutouts on the area mat scene this winter.

The young Knights piled up seven decisions, three pins, and two forfeits in humbling the hosts from Skokie.

The summary:

Prospect 46, Niles West 0

95 Pounds—Demar (P) beat Mueller (N), 6-3
103—Richie (P) won by forfeit
112—Schwan (P) beat Simmons (N), 9-2
120—Freeland (P) beat Kuehn (N), 6-5
127—Virta (P) beat Wu (N), 9-2
133—Greene (P) beat Rosenow (N), 4-2
138—McMillan (P) beat Thomas (N), 9-1
145—Rozek (P) beat Lerner (N), 5-2
154—Johannesen (P) pinned Ownes (N), 1:22
165—Mitchell (P) pinned Zimmerman (N), 5:15
180—Beier (P) pinned Jaeger (N), 4:55
Heavyweight—Jackson (P) won by forfeit

Knights' Frosh 'As' Win, 42-37

Back in stride after a midseason slump, Prospect high school's frosh "A" basketball team dumped Deerfield last Saturday morning, 42-37.

The victory was the sixth of the season for Coach Ken Arneson's plebes with the locals slated to hook up with Glenbrook this Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Prospect railed by three at halftime against Deerfield but pulled away in the third period.

Greg Kowal paced the young Knights with 12 points, seven in the final half. Backing Kowal were Wayne Kuklinski with eight and Bill Reising with six.

East Leyden Tankers Top Cards' Units

East Leyden's over-all balance offset some impressive performances by a trio of Arlington juniors Tuesday afternoon and the Eagles' varsity swimmers racked up a 56-39 victory.

The Franklin Park tankers picked up four individual firsts and claimed both relay events in handing Coach Ralph Eakins' Cardinals their fifth straight dual meet setback.

East Leyden also picked up a victory in frosh-soph competition with an effortless 65-12 conquest of the young Cards.

ALTHOUGH THE Eagles won the varsity struggle, Arlington did come out on top in individual awards thanks to the efforts of Doug Rice, Bill Raasch, and Ken Brown, three dependable third-year performers at AHS.

Rice was an easy winner in both the 400 yard free style and 200 yard individual medley and Raasch ruled the 200 and 100 yard free style events. Brown picked up five team points with a 1:11.7 clocking in the 100 yard breast stroke.

Arlington's varsity posted four seconds in the individual events with Cliff Hadick in the 50 yard free style, Bill Traux in the 100 yard butterfly, Greg Inman in the 100 yard back stroke, and Cliff Holbrook in diving. Of that group Hadick and Holbrook are juniors. Truax is a sophomore, and Inman only a freshman.

WITH THE wealth of young talent on the varsity squad Arlington's frosh-soph unit has been having its trouble piling up many points and the latest setback was its fifth straight by a one-sided score this season.

However, there were some encouraging performances by the younger edition as Jim Larson collected another first in the 100 yard free style and Bill Swarthout added a second in the 150 yard free style. Larson now has recorded three straight firsts in his specialty.

Arlington's varsity and frosh-soph squads, still seeking those first victories of their initial campaign of interscholastic swimming, will journey to Niles West next Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 6.

Arlington Coasts To Easy Victory Over East Leyden

In what amounted to iittle more than a little exercise Arlington high's varsity gymnasts overpowered an outmanned East Leyden team Tuesday afternoon, 92½-23½.

Coach Gay Hughes' Cardinals outscored the visitors in every event and actually posted shutouts on the trampoline and in tumbling where East Leyden failed to come up with any entries.

Hughes experimented with his alignment as the locals rolled to their sixth dual meet success in seven tries this winter. Arlington will host a powerful Prospect team this Saturday afternoon, Feb. 3 at 2 o'clock.

BILL KELLEY was the individual standout for Arlington Tuesday with a pair of firsts on the horizontal bar and rings. Other individual victors for the Cardinals were Paul Garrity on the tramp, Bill Berg on the side horse, Jerry Russell on the parallel bar, and Pete Engle in tumbling.

Collecting seconds were Clay Chrisman on the tramp and in tumbling. Bob Paddock on the side horse, Russell on the horizontal bar and rings and Dave Wollerman on the parallel bar.

Maine East Sophs Handle Arlington In League Game

Maine East's frosh-soph basketball team climbed past Arlington in the West Suburban standings last Friday evening with a 46-38 victory over the visiting Cardinals.

Both clubs entered the league fray with identical 2-5 records.

The hosts piled up a 22-19 halftime lead and utilized an effective press to give them some breathing room in the early stages of the final half. Maine carried a 34-26 lead heading into the final seven minutes of play.

CENTER GREG Buczynski was Arlington's key man in the first half with nine points and he wound up with 14 for the evening.

The Cards' front-line contributed most of the scoring with 32 of the 38 points. Backing Buczynski were Paul Splittorff and Dick Anderson with nine each.

Arlington's frosh-soph Cardinals, now 2-6 in the league and 6-6 overall, will journey to Downers Grove Friday evening to meet the West Suburban's top sophomore aggregation. Downers bumped Arlington in an earlier meeting, 56-44.

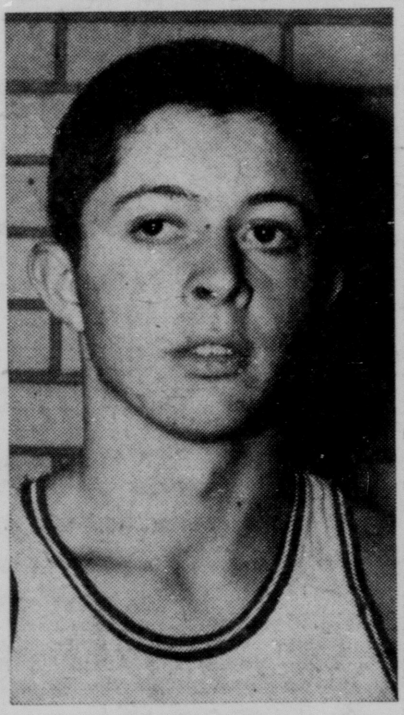
Cards Record Fifth Loop Victory, 44-42

by BOB FRISK

A good way to work up an ulcer is to follow that Arlington high school varsity basketball team.

The Cardinals have won 11 of 16 games, including a five-of-eight effort in the rough West Suburban conference.

Nine of those games have been dcided by four or less points. Two have gone into overtime. Twelve have been decided by ten or less points.



GARY BRODNAN

The latest cliff-hanger was staged in Park Ridge last Friday evening and in keeping with the general scheme of things this winter, Arlington won by two points. Coach Norm Patberg's outfit jumped off to a big first period lead, held the advantage for all but ninety seconds of the contest, and registered a 44-42 victory over the hosts from Maine township East.

IT MARKED the sixth time this year that Arlington had held an opponent under 50 markers during the 32 minutes of action, an impressive statistic in this day of run-and-shoot basketball.

With the victory Arlington held on to its fourth place ranking in the well-balanced West Suburban although Glenbard West (4-4) is still within striking distance. The loss dropped the defending league champions from Maine East five full games off the pace set by La Grange and Hinsdale and three games behind fourth place Arlington.

Junior Gary Brodnan, somewhat silent offensively since his impressive showing in the Pontiac holiday tournament, played a major role in the Cardinals' latest victory with some clutch work in the final eight minutes of play.

MAINE EAST had battled back from a nine-point first period deficit to knot the count at 31-all heading into the decisive segment.

Ross Retterer, who also chipped in with some clutch points Friday, gave Arlington the lead again with a 10-footer at the 6:51 mark. For the next ninety seconds both teams paraded back and forth to the free throw lines with nothing to show for their exercise.

With 5:14 remaining in the game Retterer again displayed his coolness under pressure as he bagged two charity throws that gave the Cards a 35-31 advantage.

BRODNAN initiated his heroics with a nifty drive and Arlington was up by six, 37-31, with 4:45 showing on the clock. Dick Johnson gave Maine its first points of the final period with a five-footer at the 4:33 mark and cut the Blue Demons' deficit to three (37-34) with a free throw.

Brodnan netted a 12-foot jump shot to give the Cards a five-point bulge again but a George Collins free throw kept Coach Bernie Brady's Blue Demons within striking distance.

With 1:46 remaining Rusty Blix, who filled in when Vince Furlong fouled out seconds before, collected two free throws and Arlington was up by six. Steve Smith got back one of those points for Maine and Brodnan matched Smith's effort with one of his own from the charity line with 1:19 remaining.

JOHNNY HANSON canned a 10-footer to cut the Cards' lead to four (42-38) and a crucial jump ball resulted with 48 seconds left in the game.

Maine controlled the tip, missed its first shot, but slipped in a layup and now the Cards were in serious trouble. Putting the pressure on all over the court, the hosts managed to force a jump ball with 14 seconds remaining and Arlington on top by two, slim points, 42-40.

In the scuffle at mid-court for the loose ball Maine's Smith fouled Brodnan and now it was time for the junior guard to perform under pressure. Twelve seconds remained and the Cards had a two-point lead.

GARY CALMLY dropped in both free throws and although Maine's Hanson came down the floor and popped in a 15-foot jumper, the Cards still had the victory, their second straight over the defending WSC champs.

Arlington staged an impressive first quarter and raced off to a 14-5 lead as Retterer collected a 10-foot jump shot, Chuck Close a free throw and drive, Furlong a side shot and follow, Don Kolstad a 10-footer, and Brodnan a 15-foot jumper and charity throw.

But Maine kept pecking away at the Car ds' dadnngvaetaa at the Cards' advantage and finally claimed the lead for the first time with two minutes remaining in the third period. Furlong's side shot gave Arlington a 31-30 lead in the waning seconds of that third stanza but Smith knotted the count on a free throw and the two clubs headed into the final eight minutes of play with a 31-all deadlock.

Brodnan topped both teams in scoring with 15 points, nine in the final half. Furlong added ten and Retterer nine for the Cards. Smith, who was held to his lowest total of the season, and Johnson netted ten each for Maine East.

The box score:

Prospect's Soph Tank Squad Wins

Niles West ruled the varsity competition but couldn't topple Prospect high's frosh-sophs in swimming action Tuesday afternoon.

The younger Knights posted a 47-39 victory for their second triumph in six outings this winter.

Niles' varsity aggregation had little trouble recording a 64-31 victory over Prospect with seven individual firsts and a split in the two relay events.

Prospect's sophomores garnered six firsts, five in the individual specialties, in dumping the host Indians. Coach Don Barrett's crew was sparked by freshman Bob Brown who picked up the top awards in the 150 yard and 100 yard free style events.

Other firsts for the local frosh-sophs were registered by Hugh Wesler in the 50 yard butterfly, Dick Peterson in the 50 yard back storke, Jim Cashmore in diving, and the 200 yard medley relay unit of Peterson, Cashmore, Bob Perkins, and Jay Magnuson.

The Foundry rd. varsity had to settle for one individual first and one relay triumph in competition Tuesday.

KEN HOLMES came home with a first in the 400 yard free style for the Knights' only individual success although the locals did claim seven points thanks to the 200 yard free style relay unit of Dick Newgard, Dave Johnston, Bob Liesik, and Ron McRae.

Gaining seconds for Prospect were Johnston in the 50 yard free style, Ron Merriell in the 100 yard back stroke, Fran Wilkinson in the 100 yard free style, and Jeff Cassel in diving.

Prospect's varsity and frosh-soph swimmers will journey to Elmwood Park this Friday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m. and West Leyden next Tuesday at 4:30.

Strictly No Contest

Prospect High Routs Hapless Deerfield

by TOM McSHANE

Prospect high school's basketball team pounded hapless Deerfield 72-27 Friday night in a tune-up for the stretch drive in the 1961-62 Interim league basketball race.

Coach Dick Kinneman's on-again, off-again Knights barely worked up a sweat in chopping up a Warrior team that has not won a game this year.

For the Knights, the Deerfield contest was a prelude to a trio of battles with Glenbrook, Maine West, and East Leyden that will spell success or failure in the conference this year.

PROSPECT WINS the next three Fridays nights, along with victories in the season finales against Deerfield and Niles West, would assure the Knights of at least a third place tie. It also would boost Knight hopes in the post-season tournaments.

The Deerfield rout was no indication of what might be expected from Kinneman's lads in their closing games. It was strictly no contest from the opening tip.

Forward Tommy Thomas led his Prospect teammates to a 22-10 advantage at the end of the first period. The lanky senior, second leading scorer in the conference, made seven points in the opening eight minutes.

THOMAS ADDED six more in the second period as the Knights took a commanding 37-14 lead.

Kinneman kept his regulars in through the third period, and Knights held their opponents to three free throws. In the middle sixteen minuets of the contest, Deerfield scored only two baskets.

The Prospect reserves took over in the final period with a 49-17 lead, and proceeded to do even more damage.

JUNIOR CENTER Bob Hope, playing his first varsity game after a fine season with the junior varsity, hit for two baskets and five free throws during this stretch to lead the reserves' assault. He was helped by Senior Doug Spaulding who scored three baskets in the 23-point Prospect finish. Deerfield managed only 10 points in closing.

Prospect's high point man for the night was Thomas with 17. Hope finished with 13. Dave Ash was high for Deerfield with nine.

St. Peter Routs St. Andrew, 83-29

St. Peter of Arlington Heights cruised to victory over cellar dweller St. Andrew of Park Ridge last Sunday, 83-29.

The St. Peter quintet virtually scored at will as Dan Meyer popped in 22 points and Don Sass 20.

St. Paul of Mt. Prospect emerged victorious in its encounter with St. Paul of Norwood Park, 62-26. The game was tight in three periods but Mt. Prospect scored its opponents 30-4 in the third stanza.

Dan Moritz and Chuck Cosman paced the victors with 12 points each. Each member of the 11-man squad contributed at least two markers.

Immanuel of Des Plaines moved into a fourth place tie with Our Savior of Norwood by defeating the latter, 52-43. Markworth paced Immanuel with 19 points.

Prospect's Wrestlers Win, 28-14

Prospect high's varsity wrestling squad terminated its Interim league schedule last Friday with a decisive 28-14 victory over Deerfield's Warriors.

With several new faces in the alignment Coach Dick Mudge's wrestlers recovered from an early 11-0 deficit, gained the lead for the first time at the 154-pound division, then turned on the power for the victory.

Although Prospect is slated to meet Glenbrook this Friday and Maine West next week, neither test will count in the Interim league standings. The Knights, 7-3-1 in league action, have battled both the Spartans and Warriors earlier this season, chalking up a tie and victory.

PROSPECT FELL behind 11-0 after the first three bouts last Friday when Bob Johnson claimed a pin in 5:04 of the 120-pound tussle. The Knights closed the gap to three points with Art Elman's 8-0 win at 127 but Deerfield rebounded at 133 and carried a 14-8 lead into the final half of the varsity meet.

It was all Prospect in those final six bouts.

Soph Greg Field gave the Knights three more markers on a 12-2 decision at 138 and the Foundry rd. grapplers claimed a deadlock with Gary Jernberg's 10-2 conquest at 145.

Johnny Stafsnes used riding time for a 5-4 win at 154 and Ron Aukamp claimed a tight, 3-2 victory at 165. Prospect moved into a 23-14 lead with Mike Dawson's 9-2 triumph at 180 and concluded the scoring with Wayne Johnson's pin in 3:45 at heavyweight.

Tri-City Ladies

The Tri-City ladies golf league will hold an opening meeting brunch at Mt. Prospect country club on Tuesday, April 10, at 9:30 a.m., according to an announcement at the division's board meeting this week.

First day of play is slated for May 8 with the competition terminating on Aug. 28. Guest day has been arranged for June 26 with a closing luncheon on Sept. 11.

The board will meet again Feb. 13 at the Mt. Prospect country club.

Deerfield Falls to PHS Frosh

Prospect's frosh wrestlers, trailing through the first seven bouts, rallied to gain a tie at 145 pounds and then went on to register a 29-15 victory over Deerfield last Saturday morning.

The young Knights, coached by Maurie Levy, won the final six bouts of the meet in posting their fifth victory of the 1961-62 campaign.

Collecting the points for Prospect were Becker, Bob Coon, Dick Lytle, Wayne Owren, George Beattie, Paul Boult, Bob Davis, and Richard Elia.

Maine East Sophs Handle Arlington In League Game

Maine East's frosh-soph basketball team climbed past Arlington in the West Suburban standings last Friday evening with a 46-38 victory over the visiting Cardinals.

Both clubs entered the league fray with identical 2-5 records.

The hosts piled up a 22-19 halftime lead and utilized an effective press to give them some breathing room in the early stages of the final half. Maine carried a 34-26 lead heading into the final seven minutes of play.

CENTER GREG Buczynski was Arlington's key man in the first half with nine points and he wound up with 14 for the evening.

The Cards' front-line contributed most of the scoring with [illegible] of the 38 points. Backing Buczynski were Paul Splittorff and Dick Anderson with nine each.

Arlington's frosh-soph Cardinals, now 2-6 in the league and 6-6 overall, will journey to Downers Grove Friday evening to meet the West Suburban's top sophomore aggregation. Downers bumped Arlington in an earlier meeting, 56-44.

Handle Maine East

Cards Record Fifth Loop Victory, 44-42

by BOB FRISK

A good way to work up an ulcer is to follow that Arlington high school varsity basketball team.

The Cardinals have won 11 of 16 games, including a five-of-eight effort in the rough West Suburban conference.

Nine of those games have been dcided by four or less points. Two have gone into overtime. Twelve have been decided by ten or less points.

The latest cliff-hanger was staged in Park Ridge last Friday evening and in keeping with the general scheme of things this winter, Arlington won by two points. Coach Norm Patberg's outfit jumped off to a big first period lead, held the advantage for all but ninety seconds of the contest, and registered a 44-42 victory over the hosts from Maine township East.

IT MARKED the sixth time this year that Arlington had held an opponent under 50 markers during the 32 minutes of action, an impressive statistic in this day of run-and-shoot basketball.

With the victory Arlington held on to its fourth place ranking in the well-balanced West Suburban although Glenbard West (4-4) is still within striking distance. The loss dropped the defending league champions from Maine East five full games off the pace set by La Grange and Hinsdale and three games behind fourth place Arlington.

Junior Gary Brodnan, somewhat silent offensively since his impressive showing in the Pontiac holiday tournament, played a major role in the Cardinals' latest victory with some clutch work in the final eight minutes of play.

MAINE EAST had battled back from a nine-point first period deficit to knot the count at 31-all heading into the decisive segment.

Ross Retterer, who also chipped in with some clutch points Friday, gave Arlington the lead again with a 10-footer at the 6:51 mark. For the next ninety seconds both teams paraded back and forth to the free throw lines with nothing to show for their exercise.

With 5:14 remaining in the game Retterer again displayed his coolness under pressure as he bagged two charity throws that gave the Cards a 35-31 advantage.

BRODNAN initiated his heroics with a nifty drive and Arlington was up by six, 37-31, with 4:45 showing on the clock. Dick Johnson gave Maine its first points of the final period with a five-footer at the 4:33 mark and cut the Blue Demons' deficit to three (37-34) with a free throw.

Brodnan netted a 12-foot jump shot to give the Cards a five-point bulge again but a George Collins free throw kept Coach Bernie Brady's Blue Demons within striking distance.

With 1:46 remaining Rusty Blix, who filled in when Vince Furlong fouled out seconds before, collected two free throws and Arlington was up by six. Steve Smith got back one of those points for Maine and Brodnan matched Smith's effort with one of his own from the charity line with 1:19 remaining.

JOHNNY HANSON canned a 10-footer to cut the Cards' lead to four (42-38) and a crucial jump ball resulted with 48 seconds left in the game.

GARY BRODNAN

Maine controlled the tip, missed its first shot, but slipped in a layup and now the Cards were in serious trouble. Putting the pressure on all over the court, the hosts managed to force a jump ball with 14 seconds remaining and Arlington on top by two, slim points, 42-40.

In the scuffle at mid-court for the loose ball Maine's Smith fouled Brodnan and now it was time for the junior guard to perform under pressure. Twelve seconds remained and the Cards had a two-point lead.

GARY CALMLY dropped in both free throws and although Maine's Hanson came down the floor and popped in a 15-foot jumper, the Cards still had the victory, their second straight over the defending WSC champs.

Arlington staged an impressive first quarter and raced off to a 14-5 lead as Retterer collected a 10-foot jump shot, Chuck Close a free throw and drive, Furlong a side shot and follow, Don Kolstad a 10-footer, and Brodnan a 15-foot jumper and charity throw.

But Maine kept pecking away at the Car ds' dadnngvaetaa at the Cards' advantage and finally claimed the lead for the first time with two minutes remaining in the third period. Furlong's side shot gave Arlington a 31-30 lead in the waning seconds of that third stanza but Smith knotted the count on a free throw and the two clubs headed into the final eight minutes of play with a 31-all deadlock.

Brodnan topped both teams in scoring with 15 points, nine in the final half. Furlong added ten and Retterer nine for the Cards. Smith, who was held to his lowest total of the season, and Johnson netted ten each for Maine East.

Prospect's Soph Tank Squad Wins

Niles West ruled the varsity competition but couldn't topple Prospect high's frosh-sophs in swimming action Tuesday afternoon.

The younger Knights posted a 47-39 victory for their second triumph in six outings this winter.

Niles' varsity aggregation had little trouble recording a 64-31 victory over Prospect with seven individual firsts and a split in the two relay events.

Prospect's sophomores garnered six firsts, five in the individual specialties, in dumping the host Indians. Coach Don Barrett's crew was sparked by freshman Bob Brown who picked up the top awards in the 150 yard and 100 yard free style events.

Other firsts for the local frosh-sophs were registered by Hugh Wesler in the 50 yard butterfly, Dick Peterson in the 50 yard back storke, Jim Cashmore in diving, and the 200 yard medley relay unit of Peterson, Cashmore, Bob Perkins, and Jay Magnuson.

The Foundry rd. varsity had to settle for one individual first and one relay triumph in competition Tuesday.

KEN HOLMES came home with a first in the 400 yard free style for the Knights' only individual success although the locals did claim seven points thanks to the 200 yard free style relay unit of Dick Newgard, Dave Johnston Bob Liesik, and Ron McRae.

Gaining seconds for Prospect were Johnston in the 50 yard free style, Ron Merriell in the 100 yard back stroke, Fran Wilkinson in the 100 yard free style, and Jeff Cassel in diving.

Prospect's varsity and frosh-soph swimmers will journey to Elmwood Park this Friday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m. and West Leyden next Tuesday at 4:30.

Strictly No Contest

Prospect High Routs Hapless Deerfield

by TOM McSHANE

Prospect high school's basketball team pounded hapless Deerfield 72-27 Friday night in a tune-up for the stretch drive in the 1961-62 Interim league basketball race.

Coach Dick Kinneman's on-again, off-again Knights barely worked up a sweat in chopping up a Warrior team that has not won a game this year.

For the Knights, the Deerfield contest was a prelude to a trio of battles with Glenbrook, Maine West, and East Leyden that will spell success or failure in the conference this year.

PROSPECT WINS the next three Fridays nights, along with victories in the season finales against Deerfield and Niles West, would assure the Knights of at least a third place tie. It also would boost Knight hopes in the post-season tournaments.

The Deerfield rout was no indication of what might be expected from Kinneman's lads in their closing games. It was strictly no contest from the opening tip.

Forward Tommy Thomas led his Prospect teammates to a 22-10 advantage at the end of the first period. The lanky senior, second leading scorer in the conference, made seven points in the opening eight minutes.

THOMAS ADDED six more in the second period as the Knights took a commanding 37-14 lead.

Kinneman kept his regulars in through the third period, and Knights held their opponents to three free throws. In the middle sixteen minuets of the contest, Deerfield scored only two baskets.

The Prospect reserves took over in the final period with a 49-17 lead, and proceeded to do even more damage.

JUNIOR CENTER Bob Hope, playing his first varsity game after a fine season with the junior varsity, hit for two baskets and five free throws during this stretch to lead the reserves' assault. He was helped by Senior Doug Spaulding who scored three baskets in the 23-point Prospect finish. Deerfield managed only 10 points in closing.

Prospect's high point man for the night was Thomas with 17. Hope finished with 13. Dave Ash was high for Deerfield with nine.

St. Peter Routs St. Andrew, 83-29

St. Peter of Arlington Heights cruised to victory over cellar dweller St. Andrew of Park Ridge last Sunday, 83-29.

The St. Peter quintet virtually scored at will as Dan Meyer popped in 22 points and Don Sass 20.

St. Paul of Mt. Prospect emerged victorious in its encounter with St. Paul of Norwood Park, 62-26. The game was tight in three periods but Mt. Prospect scored its opponents 30-4 in the third stanza.

Dan Moritz and Chuck Cosman paced the victors with 12 points each. Each member of the 11-man squad contributed at least two markers.

Immanuel of Des Plaines moved into a fourth place tie with Our Savior of Norwood by defeating the latter, 52-43. Markworth paced Immanuel with 19 points.

Prospect's Wrestlers Win, 28-14

Prospect high's varsity wrestling squad terminated its Interim league schedule last Friday with a decisive 28-14 victory over Deerfield's Warriors.

With several new faces in the alignment Coach Dick Mudge's wrestlers recovered from an early 11-0 deficit, gained the lead for the first time at the 154-pound division, then turned on the power for the victory.

Although Prospect is slated to meet Glenbrook this Friday and Maine West next week, neither test will count in the Interim league standings. The Knights, 7-3-1 in league action, have battled both the Spartans and Warriors earlier this season, chalking up a tie and victory.

PROSPECT FELL behind 11-0 after the first three bouts last Friday when Bob Johnson claimed a pin in 5:04 of the 120-pound tussle. The Knights closed the gap to three points with Art Elman's 8-0 win at 127 but Deerfield rebounded at 133 and carried a 14-8 lead into the final half of the varsity meet.

It was all Prospect in those final six bouts.

Soph Greg Field gave the Knights three more markers on a 12-2 decision at 138 and the Foundry rd. grapplers claimed a deadlock with Gary Jernberg's 10-2 conquest at 145.

Johnny Stafsnes used riding time for a 5-4 win at 154 and Ron Aukamp claimed a tight, 3-2 victory at 165. Prospect moved into a 23-14 lead with Mike Dawson's 9-2 triumph at 180 and concluded the scoring with Wayne Johnson's pin in 3:45 at heavyweight.

Tri-City Ladies

The Tri-City ladies golf league will hold an opening meeting brunch at Mt. Prospect country club on Tuesday, April 10, at 9:30 a.m., according to an announcement at the division's board meeting this week.

First day of play is slated for May 8 with the competition terminating on Aug. 28. Guest day has been arranged for June 26 with a closing luncheon on Sept. 11.

The board will meet again Feb. 13 at the Mt. Prospect country club.

Deerfield Falls to PHS Frosh

Prospect's frosh wrestlers, trailing through the first seven bouts, rallied to gain a tie at 145 pounds and then went on to register a 29-15 victory over Deerfield last Saturday morning.

The young Knights, coached by Maurie Levy, won the final six bouts of the meet in posting their fifth victory of the 1961-62 campaign.

Collecting the points for Prospect were Becker, Bob Coon, Dick Lytle, Wayne Owren, George Beattie, Paul Boult, Bob Davis, and Richard Elia.

Tom Tangney Wins Trophy At Waukesha

With no Illinois speed skating meets scheduled last week due to the National Outdoor Championships at St. Paul, a group of 16 skaters on the Mt. Prospect Skating club, anxious to keep in condition, journeyed to the Waukesha, Wis., 5th Annual Speed Skating Meet on Sunday.

Tom Tangney, one of the promising young Mt. Prospect skaters in the Pony Boys Division, scored six points and tied the Illinois Boys champion, Ray Timpone of the U. C. T. Skating club, for the meet trophy in this age class. Gary Jonland of the Mt. Prospect squad scored a third and two points in this same Pony Boys Division.

Other Mt. Prospect skaters who reached the finals but failed to score were Dick Solley, Jerry Haenisch, Mary Lou Haenisch, Linda Sommers and Janet Bickler.

IN THE NATIONAL Outdoor Speed Skating Championships at St. Paul on Jan. 27 and 28, two members of the Mt. Prospect Skating club were represented.

Jim Rybarczyk skated his way to the finals in the 220 yard event of the Junior Boys Division and finished fifth. He also qualified for the semi-finals in the ¾ mile race but failed to advance further.

Jim Zuckermandel qualified for the semi-finals in his 440 yard and 880 yard heats in the Junior Boys Division, but he was unable to advance to the finals.

To Televise State Basketball Finals

Sports fans throughout most of Illinois will once again see the state high school basketball championships on television Saturday, March 24.

Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association, said the Illinois Bell Telephone Company will sponsor the program. Illinois Bell originated the telecast in 1952 in cooperation with the IHSA and has sponsored it every year since.

An estimated 2,500,000 viewers will watch this year's tournament televised over a 12-station network from Huff Gymnasium in Champaign-Urbana. WBKB (Channel 7) will be the Chicago outlet. Sportscasters Jack Drees and Tom Kelly will be joined this year by Bob Rhodes, a Chicago TV sports announcer. He replaces Chick Hearn who has national TV commitments.

The defending state champion is Collinsville, which defeated Thornton of Harvey, 84-50, in last year's title game.

The Saturday telecast of the semifinals will begin at 1 p.m. and the evening program — the third place and championship games — will begin at 7:30.

May Hold Longer Shotgun Season

(UPI) — Conservation Director William T. Lodge said last week a longer shotgun season may be held in the future to keep the state deer herd within bounds.

Lodge said big bucks were apparently the prime target for many Southern Illinois hunters and it is impossible to get an adequate harvest of deer when hunters become too selective.

The department said hunter success was higher in Southern than in Northern Illinois. Figures show the average southern hunter was in the field about seven hours, saw three deer, shot twice and killed more bucks than in the north.

In the north the average hunter was in the field less than two hours, saw one or two deer and shot six times.

The total kill for the season was 4,323, of which 1,772 were adult bucks. Bow hunters added 151 more. Pope County had 811 deer kills. Southern Illinois hunters killed 63 per cent, compared to 53 per cent in Northern Illinois.

Ridge Motors of Des Plaines reversed itself, won all three games in its match from River-Rand Bowl Saturday at Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, and moved into a first place tie in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with Steve's Restaurant of Wheeling.

Steve's Restaurant won a pair from Northfield Bowl, it was Moyle Construction of Carpentersville which provided the fireworks by rolling a 2672 series and submerging Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights three times.

Big guns for Moyle Construction, which was bowling on its home Country Lanes, were Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein with 571 and Marge Calkins of Lake Zurich with a 557 series.

MOYLE WON the opener from Morton, which represents Beverly Lanes of Arlington Heights by a mere 21 pins. Then it had no trouble as Marge Calkins rolled 214 in the second game and Bonnie Kuhn had 213 and Vi Douglas of Palatine 205 in the last game. Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights was high for Morton Pontiac with a 553 series.

Ridge Motors, bowling out of Sims Bowl in Des Plaines, posted a good 2660 series. The closest challenge, 42 pins, came in the last game. Otherwise, Ridge Motors had no trouble as Maxine Moehling of Mt. Prospect opened with a 210 game and Mimi Bairstow had a 211 middle game while Ridge Motors was racking up the night's high team game, 950. Maxine finished with a 567 series and Mimi had 559.

After Steve's Restaurant, the Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling representative, had won the first two games easily, it fell by seven pins in the final outing thanks to a 192 game by Eileen Bruhn for the Northfield Bowl five. Sis Jennings was high for Steve's with 543 and was closely followed by Ann Neumann of Morton Grove and Delores Harris of Wheeling with 541 for the Wheeling team. Sally Prouty of Wilmette paced Northfield Bowl with a 517 total.

Next Saturday play moves to Northfield Bowl in Northfield with action scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p.m.

Glenbard Edges Cards

Arlington Wrestlers Top Wildcats, 32-11

Arlington high's varsity wrestlers, edged in their West Suburban conference outing on Friday evening, rebounded with a resounding 32-11 non-league victory over Libertyville's host Wildcats Saturday.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals used all possible methods of scoring in humbling Libertyville, collecting five decisions, a tie, forfeit, and two pins.

The victory was Arlington's fifth in nine dual meets this winter. The Cardinals' mat squad, standing 2-3 in league comeptition, will entertain Maine East this Friday evening at 7 o'clock and then hook up in a quad at Willowbrook Saturday.

ARLINGTON and Glenbard West battled down to the wire last Friday evening before the Bards wrapped up a thrilling 22-21 decision with a victory in the heavyweight class.

The Cards had moved ahead 21-19 when Hal Selleck nailed his man in just 17 seconds of the 180-pound tussle. Hal counted two quick points on a take down, then put on one of the fastest clinchers in the area this season.

Glenbard's John Hepperly had little trouble with Arlington's Jim Bland in the decisive heavyweight bout, picking up two points in each period and adding another on riding time for a 7-1 victory.

FOLLOWING A 2-2 deadlock at 95 pounds, Arlington moved into a 5-2 lead at 103 when Jim Varnado racked up a snappy pin in 1:09. Glenbard closed the gap on a decision at 112 and gained the lead with a pin at 120.

Ken Adams used a second period escape and riding time for a 2-0 victory at 127 and the Cards climbed into a tie. It was 13-10 Arlington after Terry Witt's 6-0 triumph at 133, but Glenbard knotted the count with a victory at 138.

Glenbard moved ahead 19-13 with two successive decisions before the Cardinals' Roy Woodruff fashioned a 3-1 victory at 165 and cut the locals' deficit to three. Selleck took care of that deficit with his effortless pin, making the junior's eleventh straight victory of the 1961-62 season.

IT WAS A different story on Saturday as Arlington never trailed and rolled past the outmanned Wildcats, 32-11.

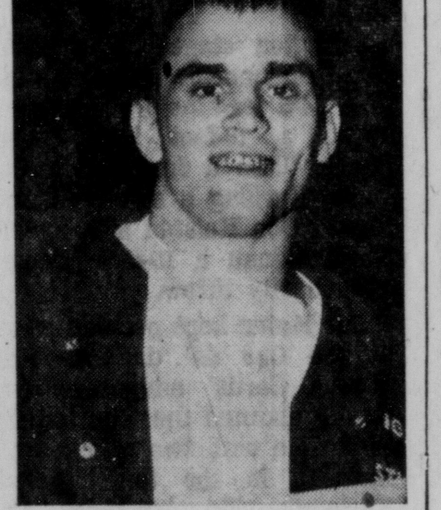
Denny Fitz-Patrick picked up five easy points with a forfeit win at 95 and it was 8-0 when Varnado recorded a 6-0 victory at 103. Libertyville counted on a decision at 112 and both units picked up two points as John Anderson and Fohrman battled to a 2-2 deadlock at 120.

Ken Adams gave Arlington an eight-point lead with an 8-6 win at 127 and Witt claimed his tenth victory of the season with a 6-0 triumph at 133.

Livertyville stayed in contention thanks to a win at 138 but Arlington racked up points in the next four bouts and coasted home with the team triumph.

DICK KELLER pinned his 145-pound opponent in 1:38 and Clark backed that with a 6-0 win at 154. Woodruff followed Clark with an impressive 9-3 win at 165 and then Selleck went into action again with another snappy pin.

In picking up his 12th straight victory Hal disposed of his Wildcat adversary in 1:54 after piling up a 7-2 lead on a take-down, near-fall, and reversal.



HAL SELLECK

Libertyville concluded the scoring with a 3-2 decision in the heavyweight class.

Saturday was a day for second division teams in the Paddock Classic Traveling League during action at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine.

First place S. M. Kahn Electrical Contractors of Chicago picked up only one point against three for sixth place Moyle Construction of Carpentensville. Second place Pro Sport Center of Mount Prospect lost all four points to Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling which escaped last place.

Martinetti's Restaurant of Crystal Lake divided the four points with Wheeling Furniture of Wheeling but still moved into a second place tie with Pro Sport Center. And in the fourth match, Nelson Realty of Mount Prospect won three points from last place Beverly Lanes of Arlington Heights to move within a half point of the first division.

THE NELSON REALTY-Beverly Lanes match was the high scoring one. Beverly rolled 2906 and yet won only one game. Nelson Realty, representing Bowlway in Elgin, had the night's high series, 2941.

Nelson Realty started with a 1026 game on a 241 by Casper Dewitz of Chicago, 224 by Buck Perkins of Barrington Woods and 215 by LeRoy Papineau of Algonquin. Perkins then responded with a 234 on his way to the night's high individual series, 636, as Nelson Realty won the second game by 100 pins.

Then Beverly got busy in the last game, rolling 1041, the night's high team game. Lee Adams of Mount Prospect posted 235, Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights 219, John Seidel of Palatine 214 and Dick Nickol of Palatine, who had the night's high individual game, 247, in the opener, 203. Besides Perkins' 636 series, Dewitz posted 620 and Papineau 603 for Nelson Realty. Nickol had a 621 total and Seidel one pin less for Beverly Lanes.

MOYLE Construction, rolling out of Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, had the night's only other good series, 2919, behind a 626 series by Frank Graff of Palatine and 622 by Herb Lohman of Lake Zurich.

After dropping the opener to Kahn, which bowls at River-Rand in Des Plaines, when two Des Plaines men, Mike Wagner and Bob Rogers hit 242 and 235, respectively, Moyle came on strong to win the last two games.

Lohman had 219 and Graff 216 as Moyle won easily with a 980 total. Then Graff came back with 221 and Lohman with 213 to lock up the final game against the league leaders.

JEFFERY LANES had no trouble taking all four points from Pro Sport Center which had an "off" night with Earl Fenimore of Arlington Heights getting the only 200 game, 211.

A 206 by George Stone of Deerfield, 201 by Dick Nethaway of Prospect Heights and 200 by Hec Healey of Northbrook paced Jeffery to the opening win. Even though a 193 by Bill Harris of Wheeling was high, Jeffery won the next game by 60 pins. Then Nethaway's 198 paced Jeffery to the final triumph. Nethaway led Jeffery with 586 and John Ribando of Mount Prospect was high for Pro Sport Center with 571.

Wheeling Furniture's 62 pin first game victory was enough for two points as the Furnituremen eked out a seven-pin difference for the point for high series.

Ted Zimmerman of Des Plaines with 226 and Herb Engstrom of Elgin with 224 paced the Wheeling Furniture win. Then, thanks to a 200 game by John Majewski of Barrington, Martinetti's Restaurant, which represents Ten Pin in Barrington, won by 18 pins. In the final, Chris Pulos of Crystal Lake hit 202 as Martinetti's won, but not by enough pins to take the point for high series. Majewski paced Martinetti's with a 600 series. He was tied by Marv Perry of Palatine who had a 234 final game.

Dons Record Split; Face Proco Friday

by Tom Trebat

The Notre Dame basketball Dons displayed two extremes last weekend. On Friday, they staged one of their best shows of the season by blasting St. Edward, 64-39. On Saturday, they played what was unquestionably their worst game by losing to St. Patrick, 54-29.

The weekend split puts the Dons' season record at 7 wins and 6 losses. The St. Edward game, a conference affair, leveled Notre Dame's league record at 3-3.

Tomorrow night, the Dons take on the league-leading St. Procopius Redwings with an eye to Saturday's encounter with the Hurricanes of Marian Central.

LED BY Center Bruce Dickman, the Dons jumped off to an early lead in the St. Edward game and maintained it for the balance of the contest. Dickman poured in 30 points on the evening and dominated the backroads throughout the game. Senior Jay Coakley and Soph Len Loboy were next in the scoring line as they totaled 11 and 9 points respectively. Larry Evans led the Green Wave attack with 18 points.

Dickman and Evans are staging what amounts to a two man race for the conference scoring title. At present, Evans leads 143 to 125 with Dickman having played one less game due to injury.

Notre Dame led 14-5 at the end of the first quarter, then pulled to a 10-point lead, 26-16, at the half. The Dons used their height to a good advantage outscoring the Green Wave 22-15 in the third quarter. Dickman and most of the regulars set out the fourth quarter, which nonetheless went to the Dons, 16-8.

Nothing went right in the next evening's encounter with St. Patrick of Chicago. Although the Dons are generally recognized as a "tall" team, they were outsized tremendously by St. Pat's. Nobody feels like checking, but the Dons' measly total of 29 may be an all-time low for a school team. The Dons hope to revenge this unwanted record by setting an all-time high tomorrow night against St. Procopius.

Joliet Takes Top Position In Cage Poll

Joliet township climbed to the top this week in the high school basketball poll conducted by the Suburban Press and Radio association.

The Steelmen of the South Suburban conference, authors of victories over Argo and Joliet Catholic over the weekend, collected 294 points in the balloting for a 46-point margin over runnerup LaGrange.

1. Joliet (15-1)	294
2. LaGrange (11-2)	248
3. No. Chicago (12-1)	212
4. York (13-2)	178
5. Hinsdale (13-2)	170
6. New Trier (10 2)	142
7. Naperville (16-2)	110
8. Carl Sandburg (14-3	86
9. Proviso East (12-2)	41
10. Loyola Acad. (15-1)	21

Honorable Mention — Zion-Benton, Rich East, Wheaton, Arlington, Palatine, Joliet Catholic, Morton West, St. Patrick (Chicago)

The West Suburban Lions added an impressive victory over York Friday to a rout of Hinsdale the previous week and climbed from seventh to second in the balloting of suburban sportswriters and broadcasters.

NORTH CHICAGO'S Warhawks, producers of 178 points in an explosive weekend, held on to their third place position with York's Dukes, first place team last week, dumped to fourth after their eight-point loss to LaGrange.

Hinsdale clobbered Riverside-Brookfield on Friday but still dropped a slot from fourth to fifth as LaGrange made its move into the elite five. Hinsdale could pick up some solid support this weekend with a victory over fourth-ranked York. The Devils bumped the Dukes by one point in an earlier meeting.

New Trier's Indians, showing more class with each outing, and Naperville gained the sixth and seventh slots with Carl Sandburg, Proviso East, and Loyola Academy rounding out the top ten. Loyola moved back into the top ten after an absence of several weeks and owns 15 victories in 16 games this season.

Eight teams were named to the honorable mention list, including area entries Arlington and Palatine.

Arlington picked up its 11th victory in 16 games with a 44-42 decision over Maine East and Palatine rolled to victories No. 14 and 15 with effortless conquests of Woodstock and Crystal Lake. The Pirates have dropped three.

Tom Tangney Wins Trophy At Waukesha

With no Illinois speed skating meets scheduled last week due to the National Outdoor Championships at St. Paul, a group of 16 skaters on the Mt. Prospect Skating club, anxious to keep in condition, journeyed to the Waukesha, Wis., 5th Annual Speed Skating Meet on Sunday.

Tom Tangney, one of the promising young Mt. Prospect skaters in the Pony Boys Division, scored six points and tied the Illinois Boys champion, Ray Timpone of the U. C. T. Skating club, for the meet trophy in this age class. Gary Jonland of the Mt. Prospect squad scored a third and two points in this same Pony Boys Division.

Other Mt. Prospect skaters who reached the finals but failed to score were Dick Solley, Jerry Haenisch, Mary Lou Haenisch, Linda Sommers and Janet Bickler.

IN THE NATIONAL Outdoor Speed Skating Championships at St. Paul on Jan. 27 and 28, two members of the Mt. Prospect Skating club were represented.

Jim Rybarczyk skated his way to the finals in the 220 yard event of the Junior Boys Division and finished fifth. He also qualified for the semi-finals in the ¾ mile race but failed to advance further.

Jim Zuckermandel qualified for the semi-finals in his 440 yard and 880 yard heats in the Junior Boys Division, but he was unable to advance to the finals.

To Televise State Basketball Finals

Sports fans throughout most of Illinois will once again see the state high school basketball championships on television Saturday, March 24.

Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association, said the Illinois Bell Telephone Company will sponsor the program. Illinois Bell originated the telecast in 1952 in cooperation with the IHSA and has sponsored it every year since.

An estimated 2,500,000 viewers will watch this year's tournament televised over a 12-station network from Huff Gymnasium in Champaign-Urbana. WBKB (Channel 7) will be the Chicago outlet. Sportscasters Jack Drees and Tom Kelly will be joined this year by Bob Rhodes, a Chicago TV sports announcer. He replaces Chick Hearn who has national TV commitments.

The defending state champion is Collinsville, which defeated Thornton of Harvey, 84-50, in last year's title game.

The Saturday telecast of the semifinals will begin at 1 p.m. and the evening program — the third place and championship games — will begin at 7:30.

May Hold Longer Shotgun Season

(UPI) — Conservation Director William T. Lodge said last week a longer shotgun season may be held in the future to keep the state deer herd within bounds.

Lodge said big bucks were apparently the prime target for many Southern Illinois hunters and it is impossible to get an adequate harvest of deer when hunters become too selective.

The department said hunter success was higher in Southern than in Northern Illinois. Figures show the average southern hunter was in the field about seven hours, saw three deer, shot twice and killed more bucks than in the north.

In the north the average hunter was in the field less than two hours, saw one or two deer and shot six times.

The total kill for the season was 4,323, of which 1,772 were adult bucks. Bow hunters added 151 more. Pope County had 811 deer kills. Southern Illinois hunters killed 63 per cent, compared to 53 per cent in Northern Illinois.

In the final, Chris Pulos of Crystal Lake hit 202 as Martinetti's won, but not by enough pins to take the point for high series. Majewski paced Martinetti's with a 600 series. He was tied by Marv Perry of Palatine who had a 234 final game.

MATCHES SATURDAY
at Northfield Bowl, Northfield

Morton Pontiac vs. Steve's Restaurant
Ridge Motors vs. Northfield Bowl
Moyle Construction vs. River-Rand Bowl

Ridge Motors of Des Plaines reversed itself, won all three games in its match from River-Rand Bowl Saturday at Country Lanes in Lake Zurich, and moved into a first place tie in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with Steve's Restaurant of Wheeling.

Steve's Restaurant won a pair from Northfield Bowl, it was Moyle Construction of Carpentersville which provided the fireworks by rolling a 2672 series and submerging Morton Pontiac of Arlington Heights three times.

Big guns for Moyle Construction, which was bowling on its home Country Lanes, were Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein with 571 and Marge Calkins of Lake Zurich with a 557 series.

MOYLE WON the opener from Morton, which represents Beverly Lanes of Arlington Heights by a mere 21 pins. Then it had no trouble as Marge Calkins rolled 214 in the second game and Bonnie Kuhn had 213 and Vi Douglas of Palatine 205 in the last game. Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights was high for Morton Pontiac with a 553 series.

Ridge Motors, bowling out of Sims Bowl in Des Plaines, posted a good 2660 series. The closest challenge, 42 pins, came in the last game. Otherwise, Ridge Motors had no trouble as Maxine Moehling of Mt. Prospect opened with a 210 game and Mimi Bairstow had a 211 middle game while Ridge Motors was racking up the night's high team game, 950. Maxine finished with a 567 series and Mimi had 559.

After Steve's Restaurant, the Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling representative, had won the first two games easily, it fell by seven pins in the final outing thanks to a 192 game by Eileen Bruhn for the Northfield Bowl five. Sis Jennings was high for Steve's with 543 and was closely followed by Ann Neumann of Morton Grove and Delores Harris of Wheeling with 541 for the Wheeling team. Sally Prouty of Wilmette paced Northfield Bowl with a 517 total.

Next Saturday play moves to Northfield Bowl in Northfield with action scheduled to get under way at 6:30 p.m.

Glenbard Edges Cards

Arlington Wrestlers Top Wildcats, 32-11

Arlington high's varsity wrestlers, edged in their West Suburban conference outing on Friday evening, rebounded with a resounding 32-11 non-league victory over Libertyville's host Wildcats Saturday.

Coach Bob Emmons' Cardinals used all possible methods of scoring in humbling Libertyville, collecting five decisions, a tie, forfeit, and two pins.

The victory was Arlington's fifth in nine dual meets this winter. The Cardinals' mat squad, standing 2-3 in league comeptition, will entertain Maine East this Friday evening at 7 o'clock and then hook up in a quad at Willowbrook Saturday.

ARLINGTON and Glenbard West battled down to the wire last Friday evening before the Bards wrapped up a thrilling 22-21 decision with a victory in the heavyweight class.

The Cards had moved ahead 21-19 when Hal Selleck nailed his man in just 17 seconds of the 180-pound tussle. Hal counted two quick points on a take down, then put on one of the fastest clinchers in the area this season.

Glenbard's John Hepperly had little trouble with Arlington's Jim Bland in the decisive heavyweight bout, picking up two points in each period and adding another on riding time for a 7-1 victory.

FOLLOWING A 2-2 deadlock at 95 pounds, Arlington moved into a 5-2 lead at 103 when Jim Varnado racked up a snappy pin in 1:09. Glenbard closed the gap on a decision at 112 and gained the lead with a pin at 120.

Ken Adams used a second period escape and riding time for a 2-0 victory at 127 and the Cards climbed into a tie. It was 13-10 Arlington after Terry Witt's 6-0 triumph at 133, but Glenbard knotted the count with a victory at 138.

Glenbard moved ahead 19-13 with two successive decisions before the Cardinals' Roy Woodruff fashioned a 3-1 victory at 165 and cut the locals' deficit to three. Selleck took care of that deficit with his effortless pin, making the junior's eleventh straight victory of the 1961-62 season.

IT WAS A different story on Saturday as Arlington never trailed and rolled past the outmanned Wildcats, 32-11.

Denny Fitz-Patrick picked up five easy points with a forfeit win at 95 and it was 8-0 when Varnado recorded a 6-0 victory at 103. Libertyville counted on a decision at 112 and both units picked up two points as John Anderson and Fohrman battled to a 2-2 deadlock at 120.

Ken Adams gave Arlington an eight-point lead with an 8-6 win at 127 and Witt claimed his tenth victory of the season with a 6-0 triumph at 133.

Livertyville stayed in contention thanks to a win at 138 but Arlington racked up points in the next four bouts and coasted home with the team triumph.

DICK KELLER pinned his 145-pound opponent in 1:38 and Clark backed that with a 6-0 win at 154. Woodruff followed Clark with an impressive 9-3 win at 165 and then Selleck went into action again with another snappy pin.

In picking up his 12th straight victory Hal disposed of his Wildcat adversary in 1:54 after piling up a 7-2 lead on a takedown, near-fall, and reversal.

HAL SELLECK

Libertyville concluded the scoring with a 3-2 decision in the heavyweight class.

Dons Record Split; Face Proco Friday

by Tom Trebat

The Notre Dame basketball Dons displayed two extremes last weekend. On Friday, they staged one of their best shows of the season by blasting St. Edward, 64-39. On Saturday, they played what was unquestionably their worst game by losing to St. Patrick, 54-29.

The weekend split puts the Dons' season record at 7 wins and 6 losses. The St. Edward game, a conference affair, leveled Notre Dame's league record at 3-3.

Tomorrow night, the Dons take on the league-leading St. Procopius Redwings with an eye to Saturday's encounter with the Hurricanes of Marian Central.

LED BY Center Bruce Dickman, the Dons jumped off to an early lead in the St. Edward game and maintained it for the balance of the contest. Dickman poured in 30 points on the evening and dominated the backroads throughout the game. Senior Jay Coakley and Soph Len Loboy were next in the scoring line as they totaled 11 and 9 points respectively. Larry Evans led the Green Wave attack with 18 points.

Dickman and Evans are staging what amounts to a two man race for the conference scoring title. At present, Evans leads 143 to 125 with Dickman having played one less game due to injury.

Notre Dame led 14-5 at the end of the first quarter, then pulled to a 10-point lead, 26-16, at the half. The Dons used their height to a good advantage outscoring the Green Wave 22-15 in the third quarter. Dickman and most of the regulars set out the fourth quarter, which nonetheless went to the Dons, 16-8.

Nothing went right in the next evening's encounter with St. Patrick of Chicago. Although the Dons are generally recognized as a "tall" team, they were outsized tremendously by St. Pat's. Nobody feels like checking, but the Dons' measly total of 29 may be an all-time low for a school team. The Dons hope to revenge this unwanted record by setting an all-time high tomorrow night against St. Procopius.

Joliet Takes Top Position In Cage Poll

Joliet township climbed to the top this week in the high school basketball poll conducted by the Suburban Press and Radio association.

The Steelmen of the South Suburban conference, authors of victories over Argo and Joliet Catholic over the weekend, collected 294 points in the balloting for a 46-point margin over runnerup LaGrange.

1. Joliet (15-1)	294
2. LaGrange (11-2)	248
3. No. Chicago (12-1)	212
4. York (13-2)	178
5. Hinsdale (13-2)	170
6. New Trier (10 2)	142
7. Naperville (16-2)	110
8. Carl Sandburg (14-3	86
9. Proviso East (12-2)	41
10. Loyola Acad. (15-1)	21

Honorable Mention — Zion-Benton, Rich East, Wheaton, Arlington, Palatine, Joliet Catholic, Morton West, St. Patrick (Chicago)

The West Suburban Lions added an impressive victory over York Friday to a rout of Hinsdale the previous week and climbed from seventh to second in the balloting of suburban sportswriters and broadcasters.

NORTH CHICAGO'S Warhawks, producers of 178 points in an explosive weekend, held on to their third place position with York's Dukes, first place team last week, dumped to fourth after their eight-point loss to LaGrange.

Hinsdale clobbered Riverside-Brookfield on Friday but still dropped a slot from fourth to fifth as LaGrange made its move into the elite five. Hinsdale could pick up some solid support this weekend with a victory over fourth-ranked York. The Devils bumped the Dukes by one point in an earlier meeting.

New Trier's Indians, showing more class with each outing, and Naperville gained the sixth and seventh slots with Carl Sandburg, Proviso East, and Loyola Academy rounding out the top ten. Loyola moved back into the top ten after an absence of several weeks and owns 15 victories in 16 games this season.

Eight teams were named to the honorable mention list, including area entries Arlington and Palatine.

Arlington picked up its 11th victory in 16 games with a 44-42 decision over Maine East and Palatine rolled to victories No. 14 and 15 with effortless conquests of Woodstock and Crystal Lake. The Pirates have dropped three.

Sims Bowl Plans Mixed Tournament

Sims Bowl of Des Plaines will sponsor a mixed doubles bowling tournament on the weekends of February 9-10 and 16-18, according to Walt Chislin, manager at Sims.

Handicaps for the tourney will be figured on a basis of 75 per cent of the difference of the bowler's average and 200. Total handicap for each couple shall not exceed 250 pins.

Combined entry fee per couple will be $8. An estimated purse of $350 will go to the winner.

Teams interested in reserving starting times during the two weekends may do so by calling Sims Bowl at VA. 7-3171.

600 Club

Men 250 or 600

Women 225 or 550

634-251—DON CHRISTENSEN, bowling for Bruns Realty in Arlington Classic at Arlington, hit 171-251-212 January 25.

631—MIKE WAGNER, bowling for Arl. Hts. National Bank in Arlington Classic at Arlington, hit 246-197-188 January 25.

Sims Bowl Plans Mixed Tournament

Sims Bowl of Des Plaines will sponsor a mixed doubles bowling tournament on the weekends of February 9-10 and 16-18, according to Walt Chislin, manager at Sims.

Handicaps for the tourney will be figured on a basis of 75 per cent of the difference of the bowler's average and 200. Total handicap for each couple shall not exceed 250 pins.

Combined entry fee per couple will be $8. An estimated purse of $350 will go to the winner.

Teams interested in reserving starting times during the two weekends may do so by calling Sims Bowl at VA. 7-3171.

Riverside Swimmers Top Cardinal Units

Riverside-Brookfield's varsity and frosh-soph swimming teams posted victories over Arlington last week in competition held at the R-B pool.

The hosts' varsity picked up a 64-30 triumph despite two victory performances by Arlington's Doug Rice and Bill Raasch and the Riverside sophs claimed a decisive 69-11 conquest.

The losses were the fourth straight for both Arlington units with meets slated last Tuesday against East Leyden. Coach Ralph Eakins' outfits will journey to Niles West next Tuesday, Feb. 6, for tests at 4:15 p.m.

ALTHOUGH Riverside had little trouble in the varsity competition, Arlington still had something to cheer about with some more sparkling performances from its pair of junior standouts, Rice and Raasch.

Rice headed both the 400 yard free style and 200 yard individual medley events and waltzed in with effortless victories. Doug toured the 400 yard event in 4:31.6 and was almost 27 seconds ahead of the runner-up from Riverside. The talented junior came back with a 2:20 clocking in the 200 yard event and another relatively easy victory.

Raasch topped the 200 yard free style at 2:06.1 and the 100 yard free style with a :55.2 clocking.

KEN BROWN, another junior at Arlington, picked up the Cards' other individual first on a varsity level although he had to share honors with a Riverside swimmer in the 100 yard breast stroke. Both boys turned in 1:12.5 clockings.

Although that was the extent of Arlington's firsts for the afternoon, the locals did pick up a second with Gerhard Mache in diving and thirds with Cliff Hadick in the 50 yard free style, Bill Truax in the 100 yard butterfly, and frosh Greg Inman in the 100 yard backstroke.

Riverside had little trouble in the frosh-soph meet with Arlington's top performances a first by Jim Larson in the 100 yard free style and third by Paul Michaels in the 50 yard breast stroke.

The summaries:

Prospect's Gymnasts Stop Maine

Prospect high's varsity gymnasts piled up advantages in five of the six events, boasted four individual winners, and rolled up a 72½-59½ victory over host Maine West last Friday evening.

Coach Rick Farris' Knights exhibited their most strength on the trampoline and horizontal bar as they racked up 29 of their markers.

The victory was Prospect's sixth in seven dual meets this winter. Farris' outfit will host Niles West this Friday at 4:30 p.m. and will journey to Arlington Saturday at 2 p.m.

CLAIMING the individual firsts for the Knights in competition with Maine were Ray Strobel on the tramp, Dick Anderson on the side horse, Dan Price on the horizontal bar, and Gary VanderVoort on the parallel bars.

Ray Strobel added a second in tumbling to his trampoline victory and Gary VanderVoort finished with 12 individual points thanks to his first, third on the high bar, and sixth on still rings.

Racking up other seconds for Prospect's varsity were Warren Vander Voort on the horizontal bar and Wayne Aronson on the still rings. In addition to Gary VanderVoort's effort on the high bar, other thirds for Prospect were garnered by John Strobel on the trampoline and Jim Smith in tumbling.

Maine West outscored the Knights in only one event, the still rings, where it piled up a 13½-8½ advantage thanks in part to DeFlaco's first place.

Arlington Frosh Bump Maine East In Cage Battles

Arlington high's frosh basketball teams journeyed to Maine East last Saturday morning and came home with a pair of hardwood triumphs.

Coach Bob Rees' "A" aggregation bumped the young Blue Demons, 37-29, with a balanced scoring attack and Brendan Flynn's "Bs" chalked up a thrilling, 28-27 overtime decision.

In the "A" encounter Arlington won the game at the free throw line, cashing in with 15 of 30 compared to Maine's five of 14. Maine outscored the Cards from the field.

Jerry Fink turned in a strong defensive game for Arlington and also chipped in eight points. Mike Frase took game honors with ten points.

Also scoring for Arlington were Roberto Benavides and Bob Conner with seven each, Scott Somers and Dick Hoppe with two each, and John McRae with a single free throw.

Arlington held a 23-19 lead heading into the final quarter of the "B" game but was forced into overtime when Maine rallied in the closing minutes.

John Jamison took scoring honors for Flynn's outfit with five baskets and ten points. Backing Jamison were Bill Townley with seven, Jeff Galyon and Jim Welton with four each, and Morrisett with three.

Riverside Swimmers Top Cardinal Units

Riverside-Brookfield's varsity and frosh-soph swimming teams posted victories over Arlington last week in competition held at the R-B pool.

The hosts' varsity picked up a 64-30 triumph despite two victory performances by Arlington's Doug Rice and Bill Raasch and the Riverside sophs claimed a decisive 69-11 conquest.

The losses were the fourth straight for both Arlington units with meets slated last Tuesday against East Leyden. Coach Ralph Eakins' outfits will journey to Niles West next Tuesday, Feb. 6, for tests at 4:15 p.m.

ALTHOUGH Riverside had little trouble in the varsity competition, Arlington still had something to cheer about with some more sparkling performances from its pair of junior standouts, Rice and Raasch.

Rice headed both the 400 yard free style and 200 yard individual medley events and waltzed in with effortless victories. Doug toured the 400 yard event in 4:31.6 and was almost 27 seconds ahead of the runner-up from Riverside. The talented junior came back with a 2:20 clocking in the 200 yard event and another relatively easy victory.

Raasch topped the 200 yard free style at 2:06.1 and the 100 yard free style with a :55.2 clocking.

KEN BROWN, another junior at Arlington, picked up the Cards' other individual first on a varsity level although he had to share honors with a Riverside swimmer in the 100 yard breast stroke. Both boys turned in 1:12.5 clockings.

Although that was the extent of Arlington's firsts for the afternoon, the locals did pick up a second with Gerhard Mache in diving and thirds with Cliff Hadick in the 50 yard free style, Bill Truax in the 100 yard butterfly, and frosh Greg Inman in the 100 yard backstroke.

Riverside had little trouble in the frosh-soph meet with Arlington's top performances a first by Jim Larson in the 100 yard free style and third by Paul Michaels in the 50 yard breast stroke.

The summaries:

Prospect's Gymnasts Stop Maine

Prospect high's varsity gymnasts piled up advantages in five of the six events, boasted four individual winners, and rolled up a 72½-59½ victory over host Maine West last Friday evening.

Coach Rick Farris' Knights exhibited their most strength on the trampoline and horizontal bar as they racked up 29 of their markers.

The victory was Prospect's sixth in seven dual meets this winter. Farris' outfit will host Niles West this Friday at 4:30 p.m. and will journey to Arlington Saturday at 2 p.m.

CLAIMING the individual firsts for the Knights in competition with Maine were Ray Strobel on the tramp, Dick Anderson on the side horse, Dan Price on the horizontal bar, and Gary VanderVoort on the parallel bars.

Ray Strobel added a second in tumbling to his trampoline victory and Gary VanderVoort finished with 12 individual points thanks to his first, third on the high bar, and sixth on still rings.

Racking up other seconds for Prospect's varsity were Warren Vander Voort on the horizontal bar and Wayne Aronson on the still rings. In addition to Gary VanderVoort's effort on the high bar, other thirds for Prospect were garnered by John Strobel on the trampoline and Jim Smith in tumbling.

Maine West outscored the Knights in only one event, the still rings, where it piled up a 13½-8½ advantage thanks in part to DeFlaco's first place.

Arlington Frosh Bump Maine East In Cage Battles

Arlington high's frosh basketball teams journeyed to Maine East last Saturday morning and came home with a pair of hardwood triumphs.

Coach Bob Rees' "A" aggregation bumped the young Blue Demons, 37-29, with a balanced scoring attack and Brendan Flynn's "Bs" chalked up a thrilling, 28-27 overtime decision.

In the "A" encounter Arlington won the game at the free throw line, cashing in with 15 of 30 compared to Maine's five of 14. Maine outscored the Cards from the field.

Jerry Fink turned in a strong defensive game for Arlington and also chipped in eight points. Mike Frase took game honors with ten points.

Also scoring for Arlington were Roberto Benavides and Bob Conner with seven each, Scott Somers and Dick Hoppe with two each, and John McRae with a single free throw.

Arlington held a 23-19 lead heading into the final quarter of the "B" game but was forced into overtime when Maine rallied in the closing minutes.

John Jamison took scoring honors for Flynn's outfit with five baskets and ten points. Backing Jamison were Bill Townley with seven, Jeff Galyon and Jim Welton with four each, and Morrisett with three.

AT ARLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Dramatists Use Theatre for Classroom

FRAMED BY ELECTRICIAN'S ladder, students Alan Massie and Gerry DeZonna show the concentration and work their educational theatre training has brought. Massie, acting as a messenger, and Miss DeZonna, assistant to the director, are carefully following action during rehearsal of "Antigone" slated for public presentation February 15 and 16 at the Arlington high Little Theatre. (ACM

Director of Speech Explains Approach

by HELENE BRISTOL

Arlington high school dramatists use a theatre for a classroom and take their examinations with over 300 persons watching.

Good plays are considered teaching devices at Arlington, according to Lyovonne Trad, director of the school's speech activities.

Miss Trad took breaks from her current production, Jean Anouilh's "Antigone," to explain what she and her collegues term "educational theater."

"You have to start with good dramatic literature," she asserts, defining her requirement as plays "which not only allow but inspire the actors to be creative."

She insists that high school dramatists should perform in plays which are applicable to their lives. "Creon (the tyrant in Antigone) can be anyone from Castro to the neighborhood bully. The actor's job is not only to perform, but to interpret and understand."

POINTING OUT that many high school productions are merely the projection of the director's ideas, Miss Trad explained that she refuses to say lines for her students, who are often seeking interpretations to mock.

"Often after talking about a particular line during weeks of rehearsal, the actor will suddenly understand what he is saying. Then, of course, he must learn to project his interpretation."

The director maintains that dramatic roles should be a challenge to young thespians. Students playing roles of older persons are told to watch the actions of the elderly and not mimic stereotyped characteristics.

CREATIVITY IS not limited to actors, however. Students serving as technical directors are given the same freedom of expression.

Miss Trad explains that for "Antigone" costume designer Margaret Moeller, lighting director Robert Johnston, and choreographer Jim Kilbary first read the play, discussed style, and then came up with their own interpretations.

Kilbary composed original music for the Arlington "Antigone," and the costuming will reflect "Marge" Moeller's ideas.

PERHAPS THE hardest workers on a play are the student directors, Miss Trad feels. "But they gain more than anyone else connected with the show."

Students Jerry Dezonna and Rita Klabe help guide the cast through rehearsals and then literally "take over" the nights of production. The director becomes a member of the audience.

Miss Trad feels that too few students take advantage of the creative appeal offered by dramatics. She points out, however, that all students do not adapt to this approach. "Many lack creativity or initiative, but if they want to work on a play they can join a crew which has a good leader."

THE SPEECH activities director is excited about the February 15, 16 production of the modern version of the ancient Greek legend.

After the two-night stand, the actors will take a cutting from the drama to the District Speech contest where they will compete with other area schools. "Besides offering a spirit of competition, the contest gives the young actors an opportunity to see what other schools are doing," Miss Trad feels.

"They become familiar with more plays, enriching their literary background and dramatic appreciation, which is one of our department's primary goals," she concluded.

THE FIERCE DETERMINATION of Antigone, as portrayed by Sue Allison (on stage at right), to bury her brother in spite of its threat of death to her, is obvious even in this early play rehearsal scene. Diane Orzechowski, in the role of her sister Ismene, uselessly attempts to dissuade her. Carefully following the action are Rita Klabe in the wings and Gerry DeZonna and Miss Lyovonne Trad, director of the play and speech activities at Arlington high school. Miss Klabe and Miss DeZonna are assistants to the play director and will "take over" completely by the time of its public presentation February 15 and 16. The almost timeless story, popular since ancient times, will be given as an important facet of Arlington's educational theatre program. (ACM

Target Date Is September

Arlington - Prospect high school board members are engaged in a collective finger-crossing action.

Object of their concern is the new completion schedule for Forest View high school, slated to open in September for almost 1,500 students.

The original final completion date of July 1 for the entire school has been moved to "substantial completion" of the academic building by July 17 and the combination gymnasium-auditorium building by August 16.

EXTENSION OF the building dates was given Sproul Construction company which charged they had encountered 100 days of delay in construction through board or architect postponement of vital decisions.

This was strongly denied by board members, but agreement between the school district and construction firm attorneys brought an apparent amicable solution to the argument.

Completion dates now set are April 17 for the shop and art building, June 15 for the cafeteria, and May 16 for the business education - administration building.

THESE DATES are "substantial completion" targets with final completion set for "as soon as reasonably possible."

During meeting discussion it was discovered that orders for all school lockers had not yet been placed due to a misunderstanding between the architect and school board members.

The board approved the final locker bid many weeks ago, but a requested change in some locker sizes apparently resulted in the delay of placing the order.

School spokesmen expressed confidence the lockers could be delivered by February 15. A later delivery date could further set back the completion date.

THE LOCKERS, for both corridor and physical-education area use, will be purchased from Lyon-Metal Products of Chicago. Total amount of the contract, including waste lockers and fire extinguishers, is $31,753.89.

As a part of the new agreement with Sproul Construction the school board agreed to assume the cost of heating the school starting tomorrow, with the board to pay for fuel oil and actual custodial cost only. Only building section served by the permanent heating system would be heated. (ACM

Dramatists Use Theatre for Classroom

FRAMED BY ELECTRICIAN'S ladder, students Alan Massie and Gerry DeZonna show the concentration and work their educational theatre training has brought. Massie, acting as a messenger, and Miss DeZonna, assistant to the director, are carefully following action during rehearsal of "Antigone" slated for public presentation February 15 and 16 at the Arlington high Little Theatre. Director of Speech Explains Approach

by HELENE BRISTOL

Arlington high school dramatists use a theatre for a classroom and take their examinations with over 300 persons watching.

Good plays are considered teaching devices at Arlington, according to Lyovonne Trad, director of the school's speech activities.

Miss Trad took breaks from her current production, Jean Anouilh's "Antigone," to explain what she and her collegues term "educational theater."

"You have to start with good dramatic literature," she asserts, defining her requirement as plays "which not only allow but inspire the actors to be creative."

She insists that high school dramatists should perform in plays which are applicable to their lives. "Creon (the tyrant in Antigone) can be anyone from Castro to the neighborhood bully. The actor's job is not only to perform, but to interpret and understand."

POINTING OUT that many high school productions are merely the projection of the director's ideas, Miss Trad explained that she refuses to say lines for her students, who are often seeking interpretations to mock.

"Often after talking about a particular line during weeks of rehearsal, the actor will suddenly understand what he is saying. Then, of course, he must learn to project his interpretation."

The director maintains that dramatic roles should be a challenge to young thespians. Students playing roles of older persons are told to watch the actions of the elderly and not mimic stereotyped characteristics.

CREATIVITY IS not limited to actors, however. Students serving as technical directors are given the same freedom of expression.

Miss Trad explains that for "Antigone" costume designer Margaret Moeller, lighting director Robert Johnston, and choreographer Jim Kilbary first read the play, discussed style, and then came up with their own interpretations.

Kilbary composed original music for the Arlington "Antigone," and the costuming will reflect "Marge" Moeller's ideas.

PERHAPS THE hardest workers on a play are the student directors, Miss Trad feels. "But they gain more than anyone else connected with the show."

Students Jerry Dezonna and Rita Klabe help guide the cast through rehearsals and then literally "take over" the nights of production. The director becomes a member of the audience.

Miss Trad feels that too few students take advantage of the creative appeal offered by dramatics. She points out, however, that all students do not adapt to this approach. "Many lack creativity or initiative, but if they want to work on a play they can join a crew which has a good leader."

THE SPEECH activities director is excited about the February 15, 16 production of the modern version of the ancient Greek legend.

After the two-night stand, the actors will take a cutting from the drama to the District Speech contest where they will compete with other area schools. "Besides offering a spirit of competition, the contest gives the young actors an opportunity to see what other schools are doing," Miss Trad feels.

"They become familiar with more plays, enriching their literary background and dramatic appreciation, which is one of our department's primary goals," she concluded.

THE FIERCE DETERMINATION of Antigone, as portrayed by Sue Allison (on stage at right), to bury her brother in spite of its threat of death to her, is obvious even in this early play rehearsal scene. Diane Orzechowski, in the role of her sister Ismene, uselessly attempts to dissuade her. Carefully following the action are Rita Klabe in the wings and Gerry DeZonna and Miss Lyovonne Trad, director of the play and speech activities at Arlington high school. Miss Klabe and Miss DeZonna are assistants to the play director and will "take over" completely by the time of its public presentation February 15 and 16. The almost timeless story, popular since ancient times, will be given as an important facet of Arlington's educational theatre program. (ACM

Art Classes Begin This Saturday

Art classes for children and adults begin this Saturday and Monday, sponsored by Countryside Art Center, at Pioneer park fieldhouse. Registration can be made at the first class session.

Children's classes will begin Saturday, February 3. Fee for the course, which includes all materials, is $20. The classes will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

ADULT PAINTING classes will begin February 5. Fee is $20 for members and $22 for non-members. The class will meet from 9:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Adult classes in basic skills such as drawing, sketching and composition will begin Monday also, meeting in the afternoon from 1 to 3. Fee is $14 for members and $16 for non-members. (A

Get Ready for the THAW

Spring Primaries are Fast Approaching . . .

The same standards of news writing and news judgment which Paddock Publications exercises in its regular news will also apply to news of political activity and campaign releases. Our coverage of the primary election will not permit the news columns to be used as propaganda tools for any particular candidate, party, or interest group.

All political releases will be subject to editing, rewriting, and condensation by our own staff. Each political release will be judged on its own merit, its news value and timeliness.

To be considered for publication, political releases must be restricted to discussion of pertinent issues confronting the party; announcements of meetings, rallies, open houses, and other legitimate activities; announcement of slates, candidates, party platforms; specific qualifications of candidates. No releases which libel, smear, indulge in innuendo and inference, attack personalities or include "name calling" will be considered for publication. The newspaper will not publish unverified charges, unsubstantiated accusations, etc. Particular questions with respect to local news coverage should be taken up with the local editors.

The volume of primary election news will be controlled to maintain a proper balance between campaign news and other community activities and events.

Strict control will be exercised over use of "The Fence Post" columns (letters to the editor) as vehicles for political opinion. Letters must be restricted to a brief discussion of pertinent issues, no personalities.

Requests for photo assignments will be weighed solely on their news value and will be up to the judgment and discretion of local news editors.

Candidates and campaign managers are requested NOT to contact editors at home to discuss election coverage. If editors are not at the office, please leave your name and number with the switchboard operator.

Absolute final deadline for political hand-outs to be considered for current week's publications is Monday NOON. NO EXCEPTIONS to deadline. Material submitted before Monday will receive preferred treatment.

All political releases should be marked to the attention of the local editor assigned responsibility for coverage of the particular township involved.

Our own staff reporters will cover major forums and meetings. Information obtained at such meetings will take precedence over hand-outs. It is suggested that publicity chairmen check in advance to determine if a reporter is going to cover the major event and then plan publicity accordingly.

These are the editors assigned coverage of primary elections for Paddock Publications newspapers:

Wheeling Township	Tom Edwards
Elk Grove Township	Bruce Ladd
Schaumburg Township	Dan Pribilski

Break Ground for Girls' School in Spring

Garden-Courtyard Theme to Be Used

by HELENE BRISTOL

Ground will be broken 24 hours after the first spring thaw for the new Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Girls high school, Mother M. Loyola, school principal, announced this week.

The five-building campus-type school architecturally dramatizes the basic concept of the school. The educational philosophy of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, the order of sisters who will operate the school, is centered on "devotion to the Blessed Mother of Christ," Mother M. Loyola indicated.

In keeping with this philosophy the entire school radiates around a central garden-courtyard with a statue of Mary in the center. Classrooms, cafeteria and the entrance foyer all have full view of the central court.

THE HIGH SCHOOL is expected to be completed by September, 1963. The school is to be located on the north side of Central Road, just east of Salt Creek, in Rolling Meadows. By the time of school opening city officials hope to have the still-unfinished Central Road completed across the creek to extend from Wilke road to Rohlwing road.

The school is now conducting classes in rented quarters at St. Viator Catholic boys high school in Arlington Heights. During the 1961-62 year the school opened with 140 freshmen girls. Registration for next year is now at 190, bringing a total of 330 freshmen and sophomores. At the school opening in 1963 enrollment is expected to reach 550 to 600 for freshmen, sophomore and juniors.

Capacity of the school on opening will be 800 to 1,000 students. Basic facilities — library, gymnasium, cafeteria and heating plant—are designed for enlargement of the school plant to 1,200 capacity.

COST OF THE SCHOOL is expected to be $1,750,000 for the structure alone, Mother M. Loyola said. In addition about $175,000 is to be spent for fixed equipment such as cafeteria, science, business and language equipment. School furniture will be in addition. Site development is estimated at $75,000.

The school will be built on a 14-acre site. This is part of a 40-acre site secured by the Chicago Archdiocese for St. Colette parish in Rolling Meadows and the high school.

Included in the school plans is a separate convent and chapel to house the high school teaching sisters as well as the sisters of the same order who operate the St. Colette parish elementary school. The convent is designed to house 40 nuns. Cost of the convent and chapel will be about $550,000, according to Mother M. Loyola. A portion of the convent cost will be paid by St. Colette parish.

THE CONVENT CHAPEL will be attached to the main building by an enclosed walkway, but will be separated from the convent itself to permit high school students to use the chapel. The school itself will not include a chapel.

Contractor for the new school will be chosen on the basis of competitive bids. Bids will be on an invitational basis.

Architect for the school and convent is Herman J. Gaul Jr. of Arlington Heights. Gaul has designed many Catholic churches and schools in the Chicago area.

THE FIVE BUILDING high-school complex will include a one-story combination administration-library building at the front, a two-story educational building in a left wing devoted to various special classes such as arts and crafts rooms, language laboratory, business-training rooms, biology laboratory, chemistry and physics laboratory and science lecture rooms.

The right two-story classroom wing will include the bulk of standard classrooms.

At the rear of the main-building area is the cafeteria, seating 640 students at one time. The cafeteria building includes kitchen facilities, serving areas, sisters dining room, lay-teachers dining room and a special guest dining room. The large capacity of the cafeteria will permit keeping lunch periods down to only two shifts and will make the cafeteria more useful for school social events, Gaul pointed out.

THE CAFETERIA as well as the entrance building have special glass-wall views of the central court.

Crosswalks in the court, covering about ¾ acre, will be used for passing periods in good weather. In addition outdoor classroom sessions will be held in the area, particularly in the arts and crafts department, which has a special door opening to the court.

To the east of the four central buildings is the combination gymnasium - auditorium. This building, with separate entrances for use of the public in after-school programs, will adjoin the parking area and also serve as a bus-waiting space for students.

INCLUDED IN THE building is a professional-type stage with adjoining dressing rooms. Seating capacity for auditorium programs will be 1,200. The central floor covers an area of 110x86 feet. The floor, of hard maple, will have a cork underlayment. The ceiling will be treated acoustically.

A folding door is planned to divide the gymnasium into two class areas.

Adjoining the gymnasium are locker rooms, private dressing rooms and showers. Available to the entrance corridor is a women's lounge and washroom and washrooms for men.

Parking facilities for 300 cars are planned at the far east edge of the school property. This is smaller than many schools, Gaul indicated, since surveys indicate girl students do not drive personal automobiles in the same percentage as male high school pupils.

One of the most unusual features of the new school is a television broadcasting system permit broadcast and reception of television from any room in the school. This will permit outstanding lectures to be carried to more than one classroom, Gaul pointed out. The broadcast system will include facilities for questions to be broadcast back to the lecturer or speaker.

EXPANSION OF the school is planned to the rear of the left classroom building in a similar manner to the gymnasium addition to the right classroom wing. The addition will include a choral room as well as classrooms.

Design of both the high school and convent is similar, Gaul emphasized. Great use of vertical lines is employed in both buildings. Materials are brick and limestone, with liberal use of glass along both the central school court and convent garden.

Mother M. Loyola emphasized the design of the building was aimed at lasting architectural style—a building which would be satisfactory for "many years" rather than one which would be "dated" quickly.

THE NEW HIGH school represents the first venture in secondary education of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary in the midwest. The French-established order has its mother house at Tarrytown, N. Y., where they operate Marymount College.

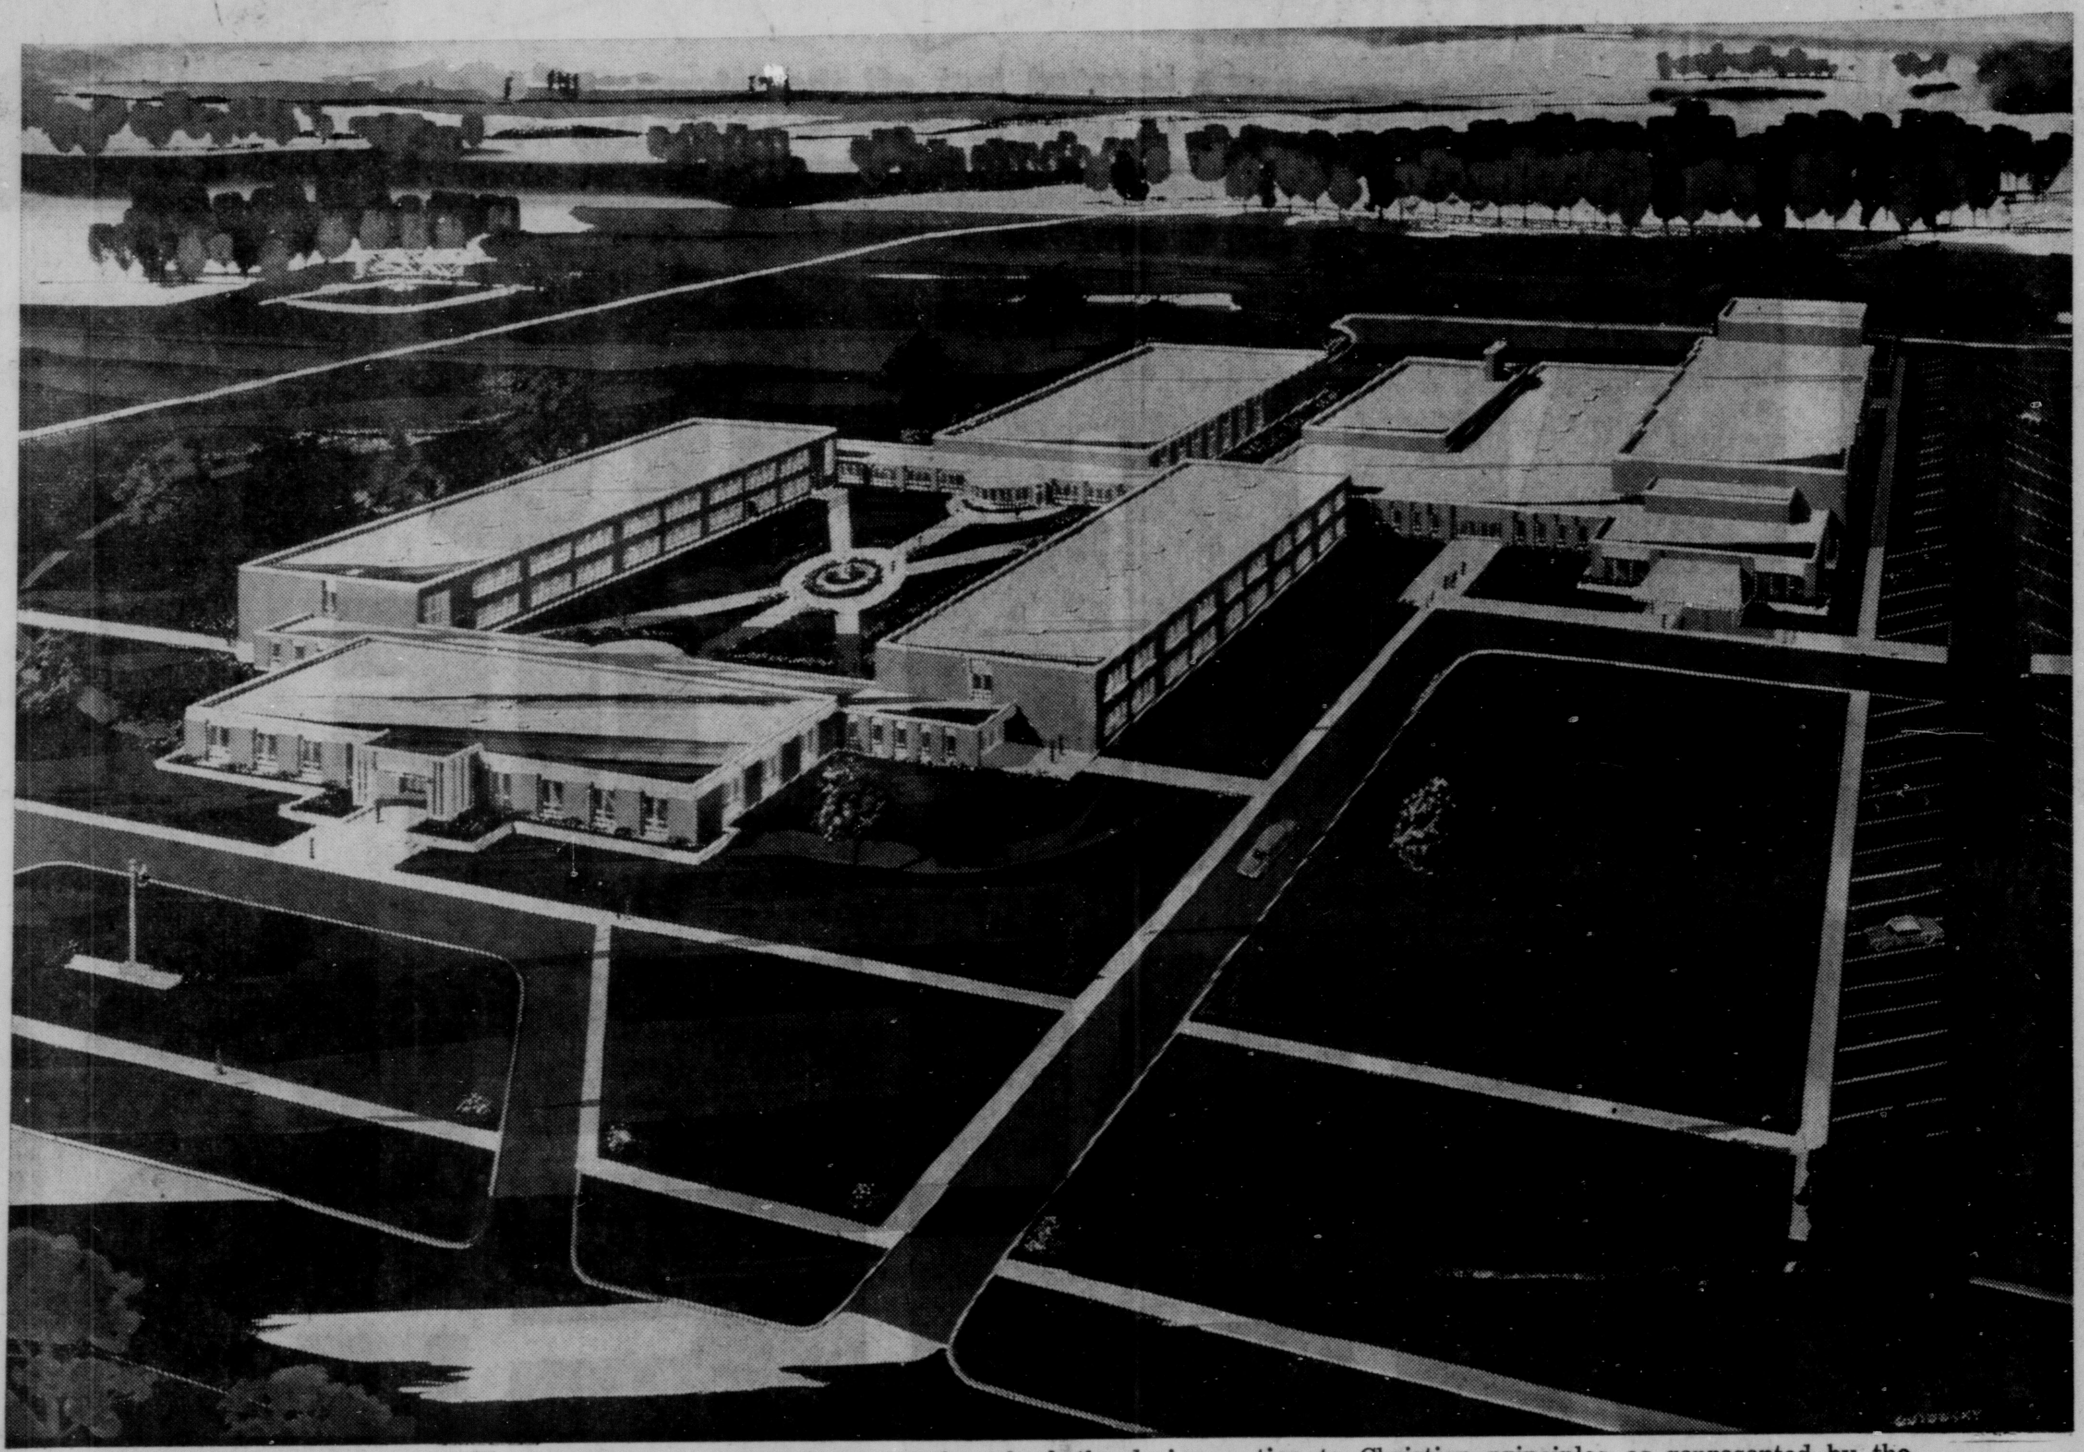
Emphasis of the order's teaching in the United States has been on small, select academy-type high schools with many students from influential families.

High intellectual attainments are stressed at the schools, Mother M. Loyola said, in addition to development of "Christian women who radiate Christ." Graduates are expected to have a "dignified concept of their lives" she continued. In the school program this is reflected by courses which show some of the refinements of life such as drama, art and speech.

This does not indicate the school neglects physical fitness, she pointed out, since a full program of athletics including basketball, volleyball and field hockey is included. Facilities for physical education show a large outdoor playing field area between the school and the convent.

THE ENTIRE HIGH school plant and convent will be built to the south of the existing St. Colette church, school and rectory. The rear of the high school gymnasium lies about 250 feet south of the Rolling Meadows parish rectory. The St. Colette elementary school was completed last fall, and marked the first time a Catholic school had been operated in Rolling Meadows.

Students of the high school come from the entire northwest suburban area, Mother M. Loyoyla said. Some of the most distant points reflected in enrollment are Libertyville, Carpentersville, Roselle and Wood Dale. In addition to the girls from Cook county suburbs in the Chicago archdiocese there are 23 girls from the Joliet diocese of the Catholic church.



RADIATING LIKE SPOKES of a wheel, the design of the new Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic girls high school in Rolling Meadows centers on the shrine of St. Mary in the center of the enclosed garden-court. The architectural theme of the building reflects the teaching philosophy of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, who will conduct the school. According to the order this is a philosophy of intellectual attainment around devotion to Christian principles as represented by the "Sacred Heart of Mary." Ground will be broken for the 1,000-student building at the first spring thaw, with completion of the $2.5 million school and convent slated for September, 1963. Architect Herman J. Gaul Jr. of Arlington Heights designed the plant which will be constructed on Central Road between Rohlwing and Wilke. (A14

Set Youth Conference For Chicago

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — The 31st Annual Governor's Conference on Youth will be held May 3-4 in Chicago, John A. Troike, chairman of the Illinois Youth Commission said Monday.

The conference, which annually attracts nearly 1,000 persons, is part of the educational program of the youth commission's division of community service.

Edward H. Stullken, a member of the De Paul University faculty, is chairman of the program committee for the conference. (A-14

Offense Against God

And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward men. Acts 24:16

These enduring words were used by the Apostle Paul in his defense before the governor of Jerusalem where he stood accused by the Jews of causing disturbances in the temple.

There are few, if any, of us who can say our conscience is free of offense against God. Although many of them may be unintentional and unavoidable, our offenses against man are numerous. One of our greatest offenses is pursuit of pleasure without conscience.

This happens in all phases of society, but is nationally known in the entertainment world and among personages in the "international set". This mad pursuit leads them from one party to another, one escapade to another, one marriage to another.

This is selfishness to the utmost degree. This is offensive to God and man, whether it be an international figure or your neighbor down the block. In this madness we are failing to fulfil the design which is God's plan for man on earth.

SACRED HEART OF MARY CATHOLIC

Break Ground for Girls' School in Spring

Garden-Courtyard Theme to Be Used

by HELENE BRISTOL

Ground will be broken 24 hours after the first spring thaw for the new Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Girls high school, Mother M. Loyola, school principal, announced this week.

The five-building campus-type school architecturally dramatizes the basic concept of the school. The educational philosophy of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, the order of sisters who will operate the school, is centered on "devotion to the Blessed Mother of Christ," Mother M. Loyola indicated.

In keeping with this philosophy the entire school radiates around a central garden-courtyard with a statue of Mary in the center. Classrooms, cafeteria and the entrance foyer all have full view of the central court.

THE HIGH SCHOOL is expected to be completed by September, 1963. The school is to be located on the north side of Central Road, just east of Salt Creek, in Rolling Meadows. By the time of school opening city officials hope to have the still-unfinished Central Road completed across the creek to extend from Wilke road to Rohlwing road.

The school is now conducting classes in rented quarters at St. Viator Catholic boys high school in Arlington Heights. During the 1961-62 year the school opened with 140 freshmen girls. Registration for next year is now at 190, bringing a total of 330 freshmen and sophomores. At the school opening in 1963 enrollment is expected to reach 550 to 600 for freshmen, sophomore and juniors.

Capacity of the school on opening will be 800 to 1,000 students. Basic facilities — library, gymnasium, cafeteria and heating plant—are designed for enlargement of the school plant to 1,200 capacity.

COST OF THE SCHOOL is expected to be $1,750,000 for the structure alone, Mother M. Loyola said. In addition about $175,000 is to be spent for fixed equipment such as cafeteria, science, business and language equipment. School furniture will be in addition. Site development is estimated at $75,000.

The school will be built on a 14-acre site. This is part of a 40-acre site secured by the Chicago Archdiocese for St. Colette parish in Rolling Meadows and the high school.

Included in the school plans is a separate convent and chapel to house the high school teaching sisters as well as the sisters of the same order who operate the St. Colette parish elementary school. The convent is designed to house 40 nuns. Cost of the convent and chapel will be about $550,000, according to Mother M. Loyola. A portion of the convent cost will be paid by St. Colette parish.

THE CONVENT CHAPEL will be attached to the main building by an enclosed walkway, but will be separated from the convent itself to permit high school students to use the chapel. The school itself will not include a chapel.

Contractor for the new school will be chosen on the basis of competitive bids. Bids will be on an invitational basis.

Architect for the school and convent is Herman J. Gaul Jr. of Arlington Heights. Gaul has designed many Catholic churches and schools in the Chicago area.

THE FIVE BUILDING high-school complex will include a one-story combination administration-library building at the front, a two-story educational building in a left wing devoted to various special classes such as arts and crafts rooms, language laboratory, business-training rooms, biology laboratory, chemistry and physics laboratory and science lecture rooms.

The right two-story classroom wing will include the bulk of standard classrooms.

At the rear of the main-building area is the cafeteria, seating 640 students at one time. The cafeteria building includes kitchen facilities, serving areas, sisters dining room, lay-teachers dining room and a special guest dining room. The large capacity of the cafeteria will permit keeping lunch periods down to only two shifts and will make the cafeteria more useful for school social events, Gaul pointed out.

THE CAFETERIA as well as the entrance building have special glass-wall views of the central court.

Crosswalks in the court, covering about 3/4 acre, will be used for passing periods in good weather. In addition outdoor classroom sessions will be held in the area, particularly in the arts and crafts department, which has a special door opening to the court.

State Losing Top Personnel To Private Industry: Kerner

(UPI)—Gov. Otto Kerner said in Chicago Friday that Illinois has failed to recruit and retain competent employes because of an inability to meet the pay offered by private industry.

Kerner, in a speech prepared for the Union League club, said dwindling state funds have hampered the state.

"We continually have lost our highly trained and capable men and women to jobs in private business and industry and in other governmental jurisdictions simply because these employers offered higher salaries," Kerner said.

HE ONCE again urged a new state revenue article as the best way to meet the state's financial problems, for hiring employes for meeting other state fiscal problems.

"The days of plush state funds are gone and with them the easy method of meeting problems by appropriating money without thinking about the source of revenue to meet them," he said.

"These procedures merely postponed the day of reckoning that finally has dawned clear and cold, and that at last has forced us to face the one big issue of our time—how to meet the high costs of living in 1962 with an appallingly inadequate income geared to a much simpler life in another century."

Kerner said he had reluctantly asked the Legislature for several new taxes in 1961, including the half-cent sales tax increase, to pay the state's bills.

"THE NECESSITY of this program was, and still is, in my judgment the most powerful argument for a new revenue article," he said.

Kerner said Illinois is trying to make ends meet by paring state expenditures, getting people off the costly unemployment rolls by re-training them for other jobs and re-studying the state financial needs. (A-14

Bible Church Sets Concert on Sunday

Ed Lyman, "the Golden Voice of Sacred Song," will present a concert this Sunday night, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m. at the Mt. Prospect Bible church, 505 W. Golf rd., two blocks west of highway 83.

Mr. Lyman's tenor voice has been heard on record through his recordings with RCA Victor, WORD, and Zondervan. He studied under Neville Landon of the famous Juilliard School of Music, and Samuel Morgolis, teacher and coach of many Metropolitan Opera singers such as Robert Merrill and Jerome Hines.

He sang the leading role in Mr. Hines' opera, "I Am the Way," and has sung in several sacred musicals as well. He was also honored with being recommended by Maestro G. Spadoni, Opera Coach of Italy and teacher of the late Mario Lanza.

He attended Rutgers University and it was here that he sang under the baton of Erich Leinsdorf and the Philadelphia and Rochester Orchestras, being awarded the Gold "R" for this participation. He graduated from Rutgers with a bachelor of science degree.

A licensed Baptist minister, Mr. Lyman is the president of a missionary organization. It is interesting to note that Mr. Lyman travels extensively throughout Central and South America singing in Spanish.

Film on Communism Slated by Church

The 33-minute sound-color film "Communist Encirclement" produced by the National Education Program, a division of Harding college, Searcy, Ark., will be shown at the Mt. Prospect Bible church, 505 W. Golf rd., Mt. Prospect, on Sunday night, Feb. 4 at 7 p.m.

The film is distributed by the midwest regional office of the National Association of Evangelicals, representing about 40 of the conservative Protestant demoninations, which has strongly endorsed the film with one word of caution.

"COMMUNIST Encirclement," a documentary from the workshops of the National Education Service, is a presentation of the Communist menace as it affects the entire world, and especially Americans.

It does not, however, present the real answer to this problem, and churches presenting this film should be prepared following its showing, to call its membership to reconsecration and prayer, and present Christ as the one answer to the problems of the world, including Communism," an NES spokesman said.

The film traces the growth of international Communism from Lenin's takeover of Moscow through the takeover of eastern Europe, the masses of Asia, and finally, the beginning and development of the encirclement of the United States with Latin America strongholds.

Included are the Cuban takeover by Castro and his followers, and the recent Communist-incited riots in San Francisco and other places.

EVERY STEP of the advance is documented and platted upon a map of the world. Dramatic cartography and color photography are a feature of the film. The public is cordially invited to the showing of the film. (A-14

Student Peace Strike Called

Carbondale, Ill., (UPI)-The Southern Illinois University - Student Peace Union joined in a 57-hour vigil in support of a "World-wide strike for peace" Monday.

James Peake, Jr., 23, president of the SIU Peace Union chapter, said the vigil will last until 5 p.m. Wednesday, shifting from the campus during the day to downtown Carbondale at night.

PEAKE, a junior wheelchair student from Lafayette, Ind., said about 30 students have volunteered to carry the pacards around the clock. The placards read: "We Want United Nations, Not Ignited Nations," "No More Tests East and West," and "Mr. K and JFK Give and Take, Our World's At Stake."

Peake said the SIU chapter was formed in December. The vigil is part of a demonstration for world disarmament and an end to nuclear tests. (A-14

Slatemaking Is Lauded By Auditor

LISLE, ILL., (UPI) — State auditor Michael J. Howlett said last Friday that Slatemaking is a mark of party leadership and party responsibility.

"An endorsement of a candidate 'does not prohibit anyone else from running for the same office in the same primary," Howlett told the Lisle Township Democratic club. "The primary itself is an opportunity for the voters to overrule the party leadership if they don't approve of the leadership decision.

"A Political party leadership which cannot make a decision is not leadership at all," he said. (A

FEPC Commission Is Seeking A Secretary

(UPI)—The Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission met for the first time in Chicago Friday and set about the task of finding an executive secretary.

The commission, chairmanned by Chicago business executive Charles Gray, decided to meet twice a month during February. March and April and then closed its doors to newsmen to consider several complaints.

The commission, created by the Legislature last year, already had received "fewer than 20" complaints of racial discrimination in employment, Gray said.

THE STATE Senate rejected two of Gov. Otto Kerner's appointments to the five-member commission on grounds his selections had been mentioned before the House Committee on Un-American Activities during its investigations. Kerner's new appointees were not ratified by a legislative committee until earlier this month.

Gray said the commission in its executive session considered an ex-officio advisory committee and discussed the appointment of an executive secretary in addition to the complaints.

"We're hopeful that we can solve a majority of these complaints in private consultation without having to go into a public hearing," Gray said.

THE CHAIRMAN said four or five persons had applied for the executive secretary position, which under the FEPC act could pay up to $15,000 a year. Gray said the salary would be open for negotiation, and added he hoped to get a qualified person for less than maximum pay.

The commission will hold its next meeting at Springfield February 14, Gray said. (A-14

Small Airports on The Wane: Governor

NORMAL, ILL., (UPI) —The number of small airports in Illinois is not increasing in proportion to the number of planes Gov. Otto Kerner said Saturday.

In a talk prepared for delivery to a safety course at Illinois State Normal University, Kerner said that, despite an increase in private planes, a number of private airports have been converted to other uses by private owners because it is more profitable.

"Illinois has spent well over $20 million in the development and improvement of airports since 1945," Kerner said. "But the demands of general aviation will no doubt increase in the years to come."

Kerner questioned whether Illinois airports would be able to meet the needs of the future. The state is interested in assisting in the development of public airports for general aviation, he said. (A14

State Losing Top Personnel To Private Industry: Kerner

(UPI)—Gov. Otto Kerner said in Chicago Friday that Illinois has failed to recruit and retain competent employes because of an inability to meet the pay offered by private industry.

Kerner, in a speech prepared for the Union League club, said dwindling state funds have hampered the state.

"We continually have lost our highly trained and capable men and women to jobs in private business and industry and in other governmental jurisdictions simply because these employers offered higher salaries," Kerner said.

HE ONCE again urged a new state revenue article as the best way to meet the state's financial problems, for hiring employes for meeting other state fiscal problems.

"The days of plush state funds are gone and with them the easy method of meeting problems by appropriating money without thinking about the source of revenue to meet them," he said.

"These procedures merely postponed the day of reckoning that finally has dawned clear and cold, and that at last has forced us to face the one big issue of our time—how to meet the high costs of living in 1962 with an appallingly inadequate income geared to a much simpler life in another century."

Kerner said he had reluctantly asked the Legislature for several new taxes in 1961, including the half-cent sales tax increase, to pay the state's bills.

"THE NECESSITY of this program was, and still is, in my judgment the most powerful argument for a new revenue article," he said.

Kerner said Illinois is trying to make ends meet by paring state expenditures, getting people off the costly unemployment rolls by re-training them for other jobs and re-studying the state financial needs. (A-14

Bible Church Sets Concert on Sunday

Ed Lyman, "the Golden Voice of Sacred Song," will present a concert this Sunday night, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m. at the Mt. Prospect Bible church, 505 W. Golf rd., two blocks west of highway 83.

Mr. Lyman's tenor voice has been heard on record through his recordings with RCA Victor, WORD, and Zondervan. He studied under Neville Landon of the famous Juilliard School of Music, and Samuel Morgolis, teacher and coach of many Metropolitan Opera singers such as Robert Merrill and Jerome Hines.

He sang the leading role in Mr. Hines' opera, "I Am the Way," and has sung in several sacred musicals as well. He was also honored with being recommended by Maestro G. Spadoni, Opera Coach of Italy and teacher of the late Mario Lanza.

He attended Rutgers University and it was here that he sang under the baton of Erich Leinsdorf and the Philadelphia and Rochester Orchestras, being awarded the Gold "R" for this participation. He graduated from Rutgers with a bachelor of science degree.

A licensed Baptist minister, Mr. Lyman is the president of a missionary organization. It is interesting to note that Mr. Lyman travels extensively throughout Central and South America singing in Spanish.

Film on Communism Slated by Church

The 33-minute sound-color film "Communist Encirclement" produced by the National Education Program, a division of Harding college, Searcy, Ark., will be shown at the Mt. Prospect Bible church, 505 W. Golf rd., Mt. Prospect, on Sunday night, Feb. 4 at 7 p.m.

The film is distributed by the midwest regional office of the National Association of Evangelicals, representing about 40 of the conservative Protestant demoninations, which has strongly endorsed the film with one word of caution.

"COMMUNIST Encirclement," a documentary from the workshops of the National Education Service, is a presentation of the Communist menace as it affects the entire world, and especially Americans.

It does not, however, present the real answer to this problem, and churches presenting this film should be prepared following its showing, to call its membership to reconsecration and prayer, and present Christ as the one answer to the problems of the world, including Communism," an NES spokesman said.

The film traces the growth of international Communism from Lenin's takeover of Moscow through the takeover of eastern Europe, the masses of Asia, and finally, the beginning and development of the encirclement of the United States with Latin America strongholds.

Included are the Cuban takeover by Castro and his followers, and the recent Communist-incited riots in San Francisco and other places.

EVERY STEP of the advance is documented and platted upon a map of the world. Dramatic cartography and color photography are a feature of the film. The public is cordially invited to the showing of the film. (A-14

Student Peace Strike Called

Carbondale, Ill., (UPI)-The Southern Illinois University - Student Peace Union joined in a 57-hour vigil in support of a "World-wide strike for peace" Monday.

James Peake, Jr., 23, president of the SIU Peace Union chapter, said the vigil will last until 5 p.m. Wednesday, shifting from the campus during the day to downtown Carbondale at night.

PEAKE, a junior wheelchair student from Lafayette, Ind., said about 30 students have volunteered to carry the pacards around the clock. The placards read: "We Want United Nations, Not Ignited Nations," "No More Tests East and West," and "Mr. K and JFK Give and Take, Our World's At Stake."

Peake said the SIU chapter was formed in December. The vigil is part of a demonstration for world disarmament and an end to nuclear tests. (A-14

Slatemaking Is Lauded By Auditor

LISLE, ILL., (UPI) — State auditor Michael J. Howlett said last Friday that Slatemaking is a mark of party leadership and party responsibility.

"An endorsement of a candidate does not prohibit anyone else from running for the same office in the same primary," Howlett told the Lisle Township Democratic club. "The primary itself is an opportunity for the voters to overrule the party leadership if they don't approve of the leadership decision.

"A Political party leadership which cannot make a decision is not leadership at all," he said. (A

FEPC Commission Is Seeking A Secretary

(UPI)—The Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission met for the first time in Chicago Friday and set about the task of finding an executive secretary.

The commission, chairmanned by Chicago business executive Charles Gray, decided to meet twice a month during February. March and April and then closed its doors to newsmen to consider several complaints.

The commission, created by the Legislature last year, already had received "fewer than 20" complaints of racial discrimination in employment, Gray said.

THE STATE Senate rejected two of Gov. Otto Kerner's appointments to the five-member commission on grounds his selections had been mentioned before the House Committee on Un-American Activities during its investigations. Kerner's new appointees were not ratified by a legislative committee until earlier this month.

Gray said the commission in its executive session considered an ex-officio advisory committee and discussed the appointment of an executive secretary in addition to the complaints.

"We're hopeful that we can solve a majority of these complaints in private consultation without having to go into a public hearing," Gray said.

THE CHAIRMAN said four or five persons had applied for the executive secretary position, which under the FEPC act could pay up to $15,000 a year. Gray said the salary would be open for negotiation, and added he hoped to get a qualified person for less than maximum pay.

The commission will hold its next meeting at Springfield February 14, Gray said. (A-14

Small Airports on The Wane: Governor

NORMAL, ILL., (UPI) —The number of small airports in Illinois is not increasing in proportion to the number of planes Gov. Otto Kerner said Saturday.

In a talk prepared for delivery to a safety course at Illinois State Normal University, Kerner said that, despite an increase in private planes, a number of private airports have been converted to other uses by private owners because it is more profitable.

"Illinois has spent well over $20 million in the development and improvement of airports since 1945," Kerner said. "But the demands of general aviation will no doubt increase in the years to come."

Kerner questioned whether Illinois airports would be able to meet the needs of the future. The state is interested in assisting in the development of public airports for general aviation, he said. (A14

Pastor Urges Concern For Social Problems

The Congregational Church of Arlington Heights held its third annual meeting last Thursday, Jan. 25, at Pioneer park fieldhouse.

Pastor of the church, the Rev. W. Rowland Koch, told the members that "local juvenile problems, the needs of our family service organization, the growing concern of migratory labor are all social issues facing or soon to face the community."

He said these problems should have the combined attention of all local ministers and churches.

IN OTHER business the Rev. Mr. Koch said the three-year growth of the church, especially the church school, has been encouraging. He said there is a good possibility that the congregation will have the first unit of the worship, school and fellowship facilities completed by Christmas, 1962.

The church has a four-acre building site on Kirchoff rd.

Officers and committee members elected were:

Clerk, Helen Styron; financial secretary, Dorothy Hickman; director, every member canvass, Eugene Bottje; deacons, Joseph Carroll and Robert Bergstrom; deaconesses, May Beile and Janet Jacobson.

Trustees, Ronald Ehrke and Edward Jackson; chief usher, John Taylor; historian, Everett Huff; representatives at large to the council, Paul LaPlant and Charles Aldag; members, board of Christian education, Sally Joyce and Kay Dobricka.

MEMBER MUSIC committee, Genevieve Huff; members, missions and stewardship committees, Rex Ford and Wes Neave; members, social action committee, Kim Brown, Sue McEuen and John Wood; members, evangelism committee, Virginia Willman and Frank Livermore.

Delegate to Chicago Congregational Association, Laura Taylor; delegate to Illinois Conference, Dorothy Rice; members, nominating committee, Lee Hoehle, Ione Wille and Betty Dorn; superintendent of church school, Bruce Whiting.

The Congregational Church of Arlington Heights meets Sundays at 10 a.m. at South junior high school. (A

With the halfway mark passed in the current bridge tournament, five couples are bunched for first place honors. Dorothy and Herman Raasch are leading with 12,390 points, closely followed by Marguerite and Bob Scott with 10,990. Next three high scorers are Virginia and Dick Vlach with 8,390; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Luker 8,670 and Delores and Homer Nielsen with 8,420.

Three of the high first five-place couples sought to retain their standings Saturday night when the Vlaches were hosts to the Raasches, Nielsens and Alice and Norman Esthus, for January tournament play.

A week ago Saturday Virginia and Dick Vlach attended the formal cabaret dinner dance of the Chicago Traffic Club at the South Shore Country Club.

A WELCOME to the community is extended to new neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. David Deasy, who moved into the residence at 740 N. Beverley ave. Anne and Dave and their three children, Patrick, Kathie and Pam came here from Pittsburgh a week ago. Pat is a student at St. James Catholic school.

This evening Mrs. Donald Narquis will be hostess in her home at 703 E. Euclid to the fellowship bridge group of the American Assn. of University Women. The group will donate the proceeds from the evening of bridge to the fellowship program of the AAUW, which provides funds for graduate study for both American and foreign women.

The Bible study group to which Nita Barnes is hostess each Thursday in her home at 419 N. Lincoln lane feted one of its members, Melba Powell, at a potluck luncheon at its meeting last week. The Powells, who are the Barnes next-door neighbors, are leaving Arlington Heights to make their home in El Dorado, Ark.

BEING co-chairman of the Mr. and Mrs. dinner dance at Villa Venice is keeping Mrs. Wallace Hawley of 502 N. Beverly lane occupied these days. The affair sponsored by St. James Church will be held February 10.

Despite the sub-zero cold on January 16, the fire lit room of Henrici's at O'Hare Inn provided a cozy setting for Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Neas' 20th wedding anniversary celebration.

Before attending the benefit dinner for the new St. Thomas Villanova parish Saturday night in St. Colette's parish hall, Mrs. Rose Baier, Mrs. Anna Anetsberger and Mrs. Gabrielle Weast were guests for cocktails in the home of Joe and Ethel Burda. (A

Set Open House For Candidate

An open house and coffee hour will be held next week in the home of Mrs. C. A. Hendrickson, 743 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights, to honor State Rep. Marion E. Burks (R., 7th), one of five GOP candidates for Congress from the 13th congressional district.

The affair will be held Wednesday, Feb. 7, at 10 a.m. Mrs. Hendrickson has invited all Republicans to attend. Burks lives in Evanston. (ACM

Dorcas Aid Marks 40th Anniversary

Dorcas Aid Society of St. Peter Lutheran church recently celebrated the 40th anniversary of its founding with a dinner at the Campbell Hearthside Restaurant in Palatine.

The organization was founded December 4, 1921 with 18 charter members. Five of the charter members, Miss Minnie Clausing, Mrs. Hugo Heimsoth, Mrs. Edwin Jannusch, Mrs. William Lussman and Mrs. William Wilke, are still active in the society. At present the Aid has 94 members.

"AS ITS name implies, this organization is a real aid in the manifold work of the Lord," commented Mrs. Edwin Jannusch, president of the group. The monthly groups serve the local Lions' Club, sponsor a bazaar, bake sales, rummage sales and dinners throughout the year. Proceeds are given to the church and charitable organizations.

Besides Mrs. Jannusch, present officers are Mrs. Ray Feddeler, first vice president; Mrs. Ralph Meyer, second vice president; Mrs. Kurt Germer, secretary; and Miss Lillian Plass, treasurer. (A

Village Aid Effort To Merit TV Show

Peruvian Program Gains New Support

As a direct result of the growing success of Arlington Heights' program of aid and friendship to the town of Pampa de Comas, Peru, the village will be featured on the Lee Phillip television show on Channel 2 at 12:15 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16.

This announcement was made Monday night by Wayne Brennan at a meeting of the Arlington Heights Inter-American Friendship Program committee. Brennan, representing the Chamber of Commerce, was originator of the organization.

New village groups were added Monday night to the rolls of those supporting the program, and a bylaws committee was elected to formulate rules of order and operation.

Elected to this committee were the Rev. John Lane, assistant pastor at St. James Catholic church; Chet Bawlik, of Southwest Civic Association; Faye Cornell, of the Newcomers Club; William Murdock, of St. James CFM; and Jean Lindeman, of the Junior Women's Club.

BRENNAN WAS elected temporary chairman of the organiza- mas party for the children — "a tion, and Mrs. Lindeman temporary secretary.

As a preliminary to formal organization of the group, Brennan reviewed its principal purpose: To promote the general welfare and understanding between our people and those of Latin America by a broader exchange of ideas and products on a people-to-people basis.

To accomplish this the group intends to organize a pen pal program; exchange letters, photos and tape recordings; send educational supplies such as books, paper and pencils; send minor drug items and vitamins to help equip the town's dispensary.

MORE AMBITIOUS projects include shipment of supplies to equip a new technical school being built where the impoverished young men can learn skills such as carpentry and mechanics, thus allowing Arlington Heights residents to help Pampa de Comas residents to help themselves.

Another major project is establishing a commercial market in Arlington Heights for the products of native Peruvian handicraft.

As accomplishments of the fledgling organization, Brennan cited:

1. Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights officially adopted Pampa de Comas as a "sister suburb" in a resolution dated Oct. 16, 1961.

2. USED CLOTHING collected, processed and ready for shipment.

3. Collected $113 and sent it to the school director for a Christ- real success."

4. Medical supplies being collected by Arlington Heights Nurses' Club.

5. Phonograph and 50 records secured by Howard Faber for use at the Pampa de Comas grade school.

6. THIRD GRADE pupils at Kensington school in process of establishing a pen pal program.

7. Tool committee established for equipping the technical school.

8. Secured permission for a Peruvian flag to be flown under the United States flag at Dunton and Davis streets.

9. Secured permission to erect a sign at Davis and Dunton streets commemorating our sister suburb program.

BRENNAN SAID the group has purchased the Peruvian flag and it will be raised in an appropriate ceremony as soon as the sign is completed. The sign is being constructed by Arlington High School students.

It was also announced that there is a good chance Arlington Heights will receive the benefit of statewide and nationwide publicity through CBS if the projects are successful.

This, Brennan said, would certainly enhance the village's chances of capturing an "All American City" award.

THERE WAS a discussion of ways and means of raising money to finance the program and it was decided to hold an annual Ambassador's Ball with the Peruvian consul general in Chicago as guest; sponsor penny dinners several times a year; establish a small membership fee for participating organizations; hold a fund drive.

The group's bylaws committee will meet February 5 and report its recommendations to the membership at the next general meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 12. (A

Hints About Cooking In Books at Library

By BETTY AINSLIE

There's something about a cook book with full-colored illustrations that makes me want to get out the flour and fat to whip up something exotic.

The Arlington Heights public library presents a tempting outlay of taste - tempting for the bored cook who would like to try something "different."

MAYBE you're familiar with the large type cook books, the ones with colored pictures so real you can practically taste the food. Books like "The World's Fine Foods" written by staff members of Holiday magazine.

Emily Post has a cook book, large economy sized and brightly illustrated and called just plain "Cook Book." Then there is "Life's Picture Cook Book" which is a treat from cover to cover.

Here are three brand new cook books which might help you to liven up winter meat-and-potatoe fare: Betty Crocker's "New Picture Cook Book;" Seranne and Gaden "The Blender Cook Book," with five hundred recipes and suggested menus, all aimed to making you run out and buy a blender; and last the "Luncheon Cook Book" by Ruth Holberg, which goes into everything from a simple luncheon to cooking for 25 or more.

THREE shelves in our library are practically bulging with books on magic cookery. Here are a few you might enjoy: "Best of All Cook Book" by Florence Brobeck, "Woman's Day Cook Book," the popular "Candy Book" by Antoinette and Francois Pope, "Pressure Cooking" by Ida Baily Allan, "Harvest of American Cooking" by Mary Margaret Mc - Bride and the slim, tantalizing books by Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

"In all things, success depends upon previous preparation, and without such preparation there is sure to be failure," so Confucius said many years ago.

So, gals, if the daily menu looks as monotonous as all the snow we've been having, hie yourself to the library for a handful of palate-pleasing cook books. (A

Ridge Park—Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

Not only is the weather curtailing the social life of Ridge Parkers, but flue, measles and chicken pox have swooped down on the "small fry" which in turn have kept their parents dependent on TV for entertainment.

And then there are those like the Kenneth Zadwicks, who formerly lived at 1017 N. Illinois before moving to the wect coast, who send back work to their Arlington Heights friends that while we were digging out from under the snow, they were enjoying sunny weather in southern California. In fact, they spent Christmas afternoon on the beach—a far cry from a year ago when they were shoveling snow back here.

Lil Lurtz and Helen Krilcic report it was a jolly crowd who braved the winter night a week ago Wednesday to attend the card party at St. John United Church of Christ.

JACK Miller became a teenager Sunday but celebrated the day before when he invited Kenneth Koeneman, Jerry and Bobby Bebber and his brother, Art, to a luncheon of hot dogs and all the trimmings. When the last hot dog disappeared, the boys went roller-skating at the rink on the highway, coming back to the Millers' for cake and ice cream afterward. Jack is the son of the John A Millers, 915 N. Fernandez.

Mindy Corda's birthday also fell on Sunday, and she, too, celebrated the day before at a party to which she invited Janice Dunn, Patty Givens, Kathleen and Eileen McNamara, her sister, Diane, and brother, Michael. The children went to the movies first and then came back to the Cordas' home for ice cream, cake and games. Ten-year-old Mindy is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Corda, 923 N. Kaspar.

The Bill Frosts, who formerly lived at 1225 W. Oakton, have moved into their new home at 800 S. Beverly Lane and say they "just love it."

THE WELCOME mat is out to the Bob Fletchers, who moved into the Walker house at 1106 W. Elm the end of December. The Fletchers called Clinton, Iowa home before moving to Arlington Heights. He is connected with the Dole Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dwyer of Canton, Mass., were welcome guests over the weekend at the home of the Walter Dohrmanns, 921 N. Salem. On a cross-country tour, the Dwyers put Arlington Heights and the home of her sister and her family on their "must" list.

With the end of the semester at the University of Illinois, John Mockenhaupt headed for home—818 N. Harvard. His cousin, John Hickey, spent last weekend with the Mockenhaupts. He too, is a junior, but at the University of Notre Dame. (A

Wayside Women Schedule Day Of Recollection

Fr. Harold T. O'Hara, pastor of Our Lady of the Wayside Church, announces the annual Day of Recollection for parish women this Sunday, Feb. 4. Spiritual exercises will be conducted by Father John McPhee, Superior of Villa Redeemer Retreat House.

The day begins at 1 p.m. in the school hall, includes a coffee break and closes at 4:30. There will be two conferences and a question box followed by a holy hour and benediction.

The spiritual development committee of the Catholic Woman's Club under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Leo Rodell and Mrs. Willis Jensen hope for a large attendance at this spiritual function as a fitting preparation for the coming season of Lent. (A

The women's guild of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 6, to hear Walter Bjork speak on the Bethphage home in Axtell, Neb. Bjork, brother of Mrs. Wray, chairman of the meeting, has visited the Bethphage home and is currently teaching school in Chicago.

Bjork will tell his audience that the home is for hopeless and helplessly retarded persons of all ages who cannot live in normal homes. He will tell how the residents are treated as guests rather than patients and describe their living conditions.

A FILM on the home, "These, Too, Are Beautiful," prepared by the Augustana Lutheran Church, will aso be shown.

Mrs. Daniel Anderson will be devotional leader for the meeting and hostesses will be members of circle one. (A

Association Says:

Manager Government Appears to Prosper

Council-manager local government, the type utilized in Arlington Heights and some surrounding villages, continues to gain support, it was reported last week by the International City Managers' association.

The "1962 Directory of Council-Manager Cities" just published by the association lists 76 more cities and local governments under this system than did the 1961 directory.

A total of 1,814 local governments is now listed, 1,757 in the United States and 57 in Canada.

ARLINGTON Heights adopted this system by ordinance in 1954. About two years later, amid a stir of controversy, the village board almost did away with the system but public pressure succeeded in getting the issue put before the voters.

In the subsequent referendum, the council-manager system was approved by a significant margin.

Palatine and Mount Prospect have a council-manager form, but by ordinance, not referendum. Those village boards can throw out the system by merely repealing the ordinance.

IN ADDITION, the manager has only those specific powers given him by the mayor or board, and in some cases is so severely restricted in power as to be little more than an office manager with little real authority.

When installed by referendum, however, the manager's functions are outlined in state statutes and he cannot be arbitrarily stripped of his powers. He still can be removed from office by a majority vote of the village board, but the board cannot do away with the system itself. This can be done only through a referendum.

Since 1950, the number of cities using the council-manager plan has increased at an average rate of about 70 per year.

AT PRESENT, more than one-half of the cities between 25,000 and 250,000 population — 344 out of 678 — have the council-manager plan.

A survey reported in the new directory indicates that most of the men appointed as managers during 1961 had previous public administrative experience, usually as a manager in another city, an assistant manager, or a department head. Most of the new appointees were under 40 years of age at the time of their appointment.

Golden Diplomas

Today's average college graduate earns $435,000 in a lifetime; a high school graduate, $257,000.

Vaccinations to Continue Here

Smallpox vaccinations for first, fourth and seventh grade students in Arlington Heights elementary schools will continue next week. Students from grades other than these may be vaccinated upon written request from their parents. No vaccination will be given without written consent from the student's parents.

A fee of 50 cents will be charged for each vaccination, made possible through cooperation of all local doctors. The schedule for schools other than North Westgate, and Dryden which already have been served is:

MINER JUNIOR high, 8:45 a.m., Friday February 2.

St. James Catholic, 9:30 a.m., February 6.

South junior high, 9 a.m., February 7.

Millinery Classes to Commence

Millinery classes, sponsored by the Arlington Heights park district, will begin February 12, a week from Monday. The course will consist of eight two-hour lessons beginning at 9:30 a.m. for the beginners and at 1 p.m. for the advanced students.

Classes will be held in the Pioneer park fieldhouse. Fee is $5 for the course.

Mrs. William A. Esterquest said the beginner class students will make straw hats and flowered veil creations. Advanced students will block straw hats and will use a wide range of materials in making several Spring and Summer hats.

THE FIRST class in both courses will consist of demonstrations and discussions on current millinery styles, and no materials will be needed.

Zone Charges Are Renewed

The conversion of large, single-family residences into two-flats or other multiple-use dwellings came up for further discussion at the Arlington Heights village hall last week.

It was prompted by an angry letter demanding specific complaints be lodged against four alleged violators.

The letter was from Fred W. Walters, of 415 E. St. James st. It demanded that Village Manager L. A. Hanson file complaints against four couples or persons for the days of January 7-13 — 28 complaints in all.

(EACH DAY of a continuing violation constitutes a separate offense under village ordinances, unless otherwise specified.)

Walters charged that the comprehensive zoning ordinance of the village was being violated by James I. Chase and Sophia C. Chase, of Palatine, owners of property at 332 N. Belmont; Alvina Katz, 311 N. Belmont; Elizabeth Klein and Lawrence J. Klein, 310 N. Belmont; and Oscar R. Blaschke, 308 N. Belmont.

Walters said that each week the situation is not corrected he intends to demand another 28 complaints be prepared and filed by the village.

HANSON SAID after reading the letter that he already has filed a complaint naming each of the parties identified by Walters, and a fifth party. This was filed in December and is awaiting action in circuit court.

Hanson said Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel recommends that no more complaints be filed against these persons until the original complaint is adjudicated. (A

Association Says:

Manager Government Appears to Prosper

Council-manager local government, the type utilized in Arlington Heights and some surrounding villages, continues to gain support, it was reported last week by the International City Managers' association.

The "1962 Directory of Council-Manager Cities" just published by the association lists 76 more cities and local governments under this system than did the 1961 directory.

A total of 1,814 local governments is now listed, 1,757 in the United States and 57 in Canada.

ARLINGTON Heights adopted this system by ordinance in 1954. About two years later, amid a stir of controversy, the village board almost did away with the system but public pressure succeeded in getting the issue put before the voters.

In the subsequent referendum, the council-manager system was approved by a significant margin.

Palatine and Mount Prospect have a council-manager form, but by ordinance, not referendum. Those village boards can throw out the system by merely repealing the ordinance.

IN ADDITION, the manager has only those specific powers given him by the mayor or board, and in some cases is so severely restricted in power as to be little more than an office manager with little real authority.

When installed by referendum, however, the manager's functions are outlined in state statutes and he cannot be arbitrarily stripped of his powers. He still can be removed from office by a majority vote of the village board, but the board cannot do away with the system itself. This can be done only through a referendum.

Since 1950, the number of cities using the council-manager plan has increased at an average rate of about 70 per year.

AT PRESENT, more than one-half of the cities between 25,000 and 250,000 population — 344 out of 678 — have the council-manager plan.

A survey reported in the new directory indicates that most of the men appointed as managers during 1961 had previous public administrative experience, usually as a manager in another city, an assistant manager, or a department head. Most of the new appointees were under 40 years of age at the time of their appointment.

Annual Meeting

Novotny Re-Elected Workshop President

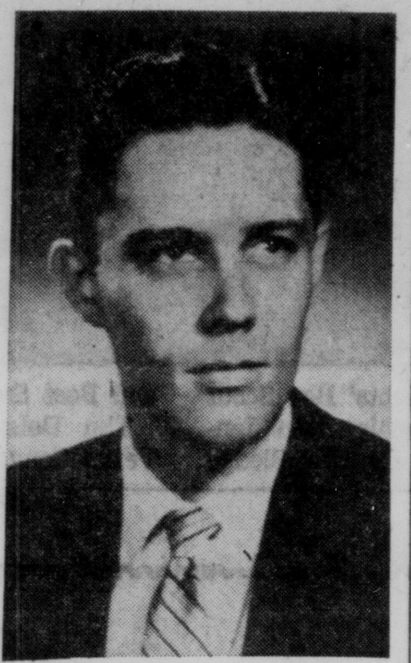
Beginning the second year of its work to provide a political education program for Wheeling Township voters, the Republican Workshop held its annual meeting January 23 at the Arlington Heights Savings and Loan association, some 65 local residents attending.

Featured speakers were Raymond J. Chan, Northfield, state president of the Republican Workshops, and Thomas J. Houser and William Moore, candidates for Republican township committeeman in the April 10 election. Houser and Moore appeared on the same platform for the first time since announcement of their candidacies.

FOLLOWING THE adoption of by-laws for the group, officers were chosen for the coming year. Thomas W. Novotny, 201 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, was re-elected president, and Philo Kane, 207 N. Fairview, Mount Prospect, was named vice-president.

Mrs. Dale Nyberg, 310 W. Thomas, Arlington Heights, was re-elected secretary, and Mrs. Robert Howe, 1515 N. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, was chosen treasurer.

Directors will be Mrs. Jerry Kubin, 271 Renee, Wheling, and Robert Reininga, 1433 N. Vail; Norman Atwater, 5 W. South; and Robert Pritchard, 1801 N. Ridge, all of Arlington Heights.



THOMAS NOVOTNY

NOVOTNY NOTED that during the past year 336 people had attended a discussion series, and that this represented about one per cent of the voters in the township.

Among the organization's objectives for the coming year are expansion of the Workshop discussion series to be held in each precinct, and an increased effort to encourage participants to become active in Republican organizations and affairs.

Novotny stated the Workshop is investigating the possibilities of expanding the discussion technique to areas not now covered in the Workshop program. These would possibly include seminars on inflation, labor legislation, and the functions of local government.

THE GROUP now has 99 paid members, and has recruited 17 trained discussion leaders, who are unpaid volunteers. These leaders serve as moderators for two-part discussion series held in private homes.

Information on holding or attending a Workshop series may be obtained from Norman Atwater, CL. 9-4811. (ACM

Jaycee Award Banquet Slated for Feb. 10

The annual Arlington Heights Jaycee Distinguished Service Award banquet will be held at 8 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 10, in the Roundup Room at Dick's Corral, Rand and Euclid, it was announced this week by Gerry Beauvais, co-chairman.

The award is presented each year by the Jaycees to the young man in the community who, in the opinion of the judges, has best met these qualifications:

Between 21 and 35 years of age; contributed greatly to community welfare in the past year; shown evidence of leadership ability and personal ability; evidenced personal and business progress.

Judging will be completed this week and the winner notified, although his name will not be made public until the night of the banquet. The winner will later be entered in the state DSA contest.

JUDGES ARE Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of public elementary schools and a past DSA winner himself; Briard Strout, a national director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a resident of Arlington Heights; and Dwight Guilfoil Jr., president of Paraplegics Manufacturing Co., Inc., a past winner of the Ten Outstanding Young Men award, and also an Arlington Heights resident.

Guilfoil has just returned from Santa Monica, Calif., where he participated in the presentation of the Ten Outstanding Young Men awards for 1961 as a judge.

Other judges included LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Gardner Cowles, president of Look magazine; Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, chancellor of the University of California at Los Angeles; and the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

WINNERS OF THE 1961 Ten Outstanding Young Men awards were Virgil I. Grissom, one of the United States' astronauts; John Diebold, the man who coined the word "automation;" Peter G. Peterson, president of Bell & Howell; F. Ray Keyser, governor of Vermont; Dr. Arthur E. Lilley, first man to measure the distance to a "radio" star; Dr. Harold Brown, director of defense research and engineering for this country.

Dr. David E. Rogers, professor of medicine and departmental chairman at Vanderbilt university; Dr. Stanley Gordon Sturges, a medical missionary in Africa; Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission; and Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to President Kennedy.

DISCUSSING THE PRINCE by Machiavelli is a member of the Arlington Heights Great Books discussion group. The Great Books foundation brings adults of the community together for interesting and stimulating discussion. The group pictured above is a first year group. It meets every two weeks at Arlington high school. Other groups in the area are as old as eight years. Each year, a separate list of books is discussed.

Host to Parley

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce was host Monday to 18 members of the North Shore Chamber Managers Association. Guests heard the immediate past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber, Robert Y. Paddock, speak on effective public relations. The group met at Cooper's restaurant. (A

Golf Classes Are Still Open Here

There's still time to sign up for the first series of golf lessons being offered by the Arlington Heights park district, with Sam Rauworth, professional, giving the instructions.

There's no better way to be ready for Spring and the golfing season than these lessons, claims Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation.

The classes will meet Mondays and Tuesday, at Recreation park field house with the first sessions getting under way next week, February 5 and 6.

THE COURSE will consist of eight one-hour lessons covering stance, grip, swing, putting, golf etiquette and club selection. Monday classes will meet at 7:15 and 8:15 p.m. Tuesday classes will meet at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Students may bring their own clubs or use those furnished by the pro. Fee is $7 for the eight lessons, and registration can be made at either park district office. (A

Houser Urges GOP Members to Vote

Election of officers for the Wheeling Township Young Republican club will be held Wednesday, Feb. 7, at the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association.

Thomas Houser, president of the club, has reminded club members to check on their eligibility to vote by contacting Joseph Tolson, membership chairman.

"I strongly urge that all eligible club members attend this most important meeting to elect officers for the coming year," Houser said.

THE NOMINATING committee will submit its slate to the members at the meeting. At this time further nominations may be made from the floor.

Membership in the young GOP group is open to Wheeling Township residents between the ages of 21 and 36 interested in forwarding the Republican party ideals. Opportunities to participate in community, township and county level activities are available to club members.

Membership information and applications may be obtained by contacting Tolson, CL 9-3805, or any club member. Meetings are held the first Wednesday of each month. (ACM

First Aid Instruction Is Offered

Red Cross classes in first aid and in home nursing will begin next week at Arlington High School as part of the adult education program. The classes, Red Cross officials state, will be taught by qualified instructors.

The standard and advanced first aid course will begin Monday, February 5. The home nursing course, which will be taught by Miss Ruth Nielsen, will begin Wednesday, February 7. Both classes will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. More information can be obtained from the adult education director. (A

Other judges included LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Gardner Cowles, president of Look magazine; Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, chancellor of the University of California at Los Angeles; and the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

WINNERS OF THE 1961 Ten Outstanding Young Men awards were Virgil I. Grissom, one of the United States' astronauts; John Diebold, the man who coined the word "automation;" Peter G. Peterson, president of Bell & Howell; F. Ray Keyser, governor of Vermont; Dr. Arthur E. Lilley, first man to measure the distance to a "radio" star; Dr. Harold Brown, director of defense research and engineering for this country.

Dr. David E. Rogers, professor of medicine and departmental chairman at Vanderbilt university; Dr. Stanley Gordon Sturges, a medical missionary in Africa; Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission; and Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to President Kennedy.

Host to Parley

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce was host Monday to 18 members of the North Shore Chamber Managers Association. Guests heard the immediate past president of the Arlington Heights Chamber, Robert Y. Paddock, speak on effective public relations. The group met at Cooper's restaurant. (A

DISCUSSING THE PRINCE by Machiavelli is a member of the Arlington Heights Great Books discussion group. The Great Books foundation brings adults of the community together for interesting and stimulating discussion. The group pictured above is a first year group. It meets every two weeks at Arlington high school. Other groups in the area are as old as eight years. Each year, a separate list of books is discussed.

Golf Classes Are Still Open Here

There's still time to sign up for the first series of golf lessons being offered by the Arlington Heights park district, with Sam Rauworth, professional, giving the instructions.

There's no better way to be ready for Spring and the golfing season than these lessons, claims Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation.

The classes will meet Mondays and Tuesday, at Recreation park field house with the first sessions getting under way next week, February 5 and 6.

THE COURSE will consist of eight one-hour lessons covering stance, grip, swing, putting, golf etiquette and club selection. Monday classes will meet at 7:15 and 8:15 p.m. Tuesday classes will meet at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Students may bring their own clubs or use those furnished by the pro. Fee is $7 for the eight lessons, and registration can be made at either park district office. (A

Late Registration For Adult Classes

Late registration for High School District 214's evening adult education program will be conducted at the night school office at Arlington high this week and next, according to Director Tom Shirley.

Shirley emphasized that there are still openings in most classes, although some have been filled.

ALGEBRA I, for high school credit, is being offered to students desiring to complete graduation requirements. Another math course, slide rule, has class openings.

Several home economics courses are still accepting adult registrants. These include knitting, millinery, slip covers, draperies, and bedspreads; and cooking for special occasions.

MEN CAN still sign up for woodshop or machine shop, according to Shirley. Art courses (ceramics, figure drawing, and sculpture) also have openings.

The income tax seminar and notehand instruction are still available, as are square dancing and beginning and intermediate organ instruction. ACM

Weather Doesn't Hamper Elk Grove Unit Session

Despite the abundance of snow and cold weather 27 members of Elk Grove Home Bureau and two guests were able to attend the January 24 meeting in the home of Mrs. Glenn Pasvogel.

An especially interesting topic, "Spending 24 Hours A Day," was presented by Mrs. Claradehl Upham, who advised that every homemakers' hours are varied and should be spent according to personal needs and wants, therefore avoiding exhaustion and frustation.

THROUGH International Farmer to Farmer, Rev. Paul Sanders of Palos Heights, Carl Klehm, Arlington Heights, and the Cook County Farm Bureau are sponsoring a visit here for a young Chilean farmer.

While in the Cook county area, he will learn modern techniques of farming and be taught the use of latest farm equipment. With this new knowledge, he will return to his own country to instruct other farmers.

Home Bureau Units are being asked to contribute to this fund.

"MARRY AND Be Merry" was the title of a dissertation by William Skadden, executive secretary of Illinois Public Health, which highlighted the annual Cook County Home Bureau meeting-luncheon held recently in Elmhurst Country Club.

Eighteen Elk Grove Unit members were in attendance when the group received the coveted blue ribbon award.

MRS. UPHAM has announced that members will have only two months to pay their dues this year, the deadline being April 30. The cook County Home Bureau officers' meeting is set for February 12 in the west side field house in Des Plaines.

Mrs. Edwin Deeke will be the resident hostess in her new home on February 28—the address is 680 Bel Air lane, Mount Prospect. Assisting her as dessert hostesses are Mrs. Scharringhausen, Mrs. H. Seitman and Mrs. T. Sullivan. (FM

Club Dairy Sale Is February 24

Illinois 4-H and FFA members in the market for dairy project calves can buy them at the 14th annual 4-H and FFA Club Sale in Urbana on February 24.

The sale starts at 11 a.m. in the University of Illinois stock pavilion.

THE SALE is sponsored by the Illinois Purebred Dairy Cattle Association to give 4-H'ers and FFA members a chance to get first-rate project stock at a fair price.

U. of I. extension dairy scientist Jerry Cash says about 80 calves will be sold. Consignment by breeds includes 30 Holstein, 20 Guernsey, 15 Jersey, 15 Brown Swiss and 10 Ayrshire calves.

Only bona fide Illinois 4-H and FFA members are eligible to buy calves. However, if the member cannot attend, he may designate another person to buy an animal for him.

ALL PURCHASERS must certify that the calves will be used only for 4-H or FFA dairy projects. For sales catalogs, write to J. G. Cash, Department of Dairy Science, University of Illinois, Urbana. (Fm

School Nurse Talks To 2 Medinah Clubs

Mrs. Richard Hanson of the Itasca Ranchettes, a school nurse, was guest speaker at a combined meeting of the Medinah Merry Maids and Teens January 22 in the kindergarten room of North school.

Mrs. Hanson spoke on emergencies that could occur in the home and what to do about them. She gave the clubs helpful hints on baby sitting and followed the talk with a question and answer period.

BARBARA Fraley gave a demonstration on seams, Cindy Mares showed how to make a pineapple salad and Donna Leesley gave instruction on chocolate cake baking.

All members were reminded to bring ideas and materials with them for the next meetings, Fbruary 12, when special projects are planned. The Maids will meet at Mary Thoresen's home on Thorndale ave. and the Teens at Frieda Andres' on Broker rd. (FM

Anti-Bias Statement Is Signed by 16 Clergymen

Protestant clergymen in Arlington Heights this week issued a joint statement condemning any acts of racial, religious, or economic discrimination.

The broad statement of policy prompted by a recent misunderstanding involving an educator from Haiti who was unable to get a haircut in Arlington Heights, was signed by 16 ministers representing 13 Protestant churches.

TEXT OF the statement released Monday:

"In view of recent events and misunderstanding in our community, we, the undersigned clergy of Arlington Heights, reaffirm our understanding of the Christian Faith as it applies to social and community relations.

"We believe that God, our Father, has 'made of one blood all nations to dwell on all the face of the earth,' and that in the eyes of our Creator, all persons are equal whether they be black or white, red or yellow.

"We further believe that our Lord Jesus Christ lived and died for all mankind, not for a particular race or a privileged few, and that His Holy Spirit dwells in each of us according to the proportion of our faith, not according to the color of our skin or the tongue which we speak.

"We, therefore, abhor and cannot condone any act, by any resident of our community, which has in the past or may in the future, discriminate against any person on grounds of race, creed, color or economic status."

SIGNING THE statement were the following Arlington Heights clergymen:

At Beloit

Miss Karen Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stuart, 302 N. Reuter, Arlington Heights, is one of 16 Beloit college students who will participate in a 4-month seminar in Spain that will take them not only into such Spanish landmarks as the Prado Museum in Madrid and the Alhambra in Granada but into the homes of the Spanish people.

The group will leave from Springfield, Mass. on February 8 and will start classes February 15 at the University of Granada. Miss Stuart is a graduate of Arlington high school. (CC

At Indiana

Jean Gutru, 531 S. Pine, and Judy Schmoyer, 445 S. Pine, both of Arlington Heights, have been elected to offices in their respective social sororities at Indiana University.

Miss Gutru was elected activities chairman, and Miss Schmoyer, membership chairman of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell
Assistant Farm Advisor

Alert Homeowners
Dial Daily 392-3060

If you are a new homeowner, chances are your flower garden has been limited to a few varieties of annuals. The maintenance of an annual garden is simplified by the fact that the plants die each winter and the soil can be reworked in spring. Planning an annual garden is not too exacting because mistakes can be rectified the following year. Annuals, once they start blooming, are effective all summer, but there is no variety through the year. Starting plants from seed each year soon becomes tiresome and if plants are purchased, the selection is limited.

Perennial gardens must be well prepared because they cannot be disturbed each year. Planning is more difficult because once established, perennial plants do not like to be moved and some winter protection is necessary in perennial gardens.

BUT THERE is no annual seeding or planting to worry about. Perennials do not provide the striking mass of color characteristic of annual gardens. The individual species seldom bloom for more than three weeks during the year. As a result, the perennial garden is a subtle, ever-changing picture providing continuous interest all season. This is the reason so many people soon discover the fun of a perennial garden. Since most perennials can be planted in spring, now is the time to start planning your perennial garden.

The list of perennials is long and impressive. Many nurseries list numerous species in their catalogs. Probably the best way to become familiar with many of these plants is to study these catalogs.

But as a little help to get you started, the following descriptions will serve as a guide to some of the more common species.

THERE ARE many species and varieties of lilies which do well in a garden. All lilies grow from bulbs. They can be grouped as to whether they produce stem roots above the bulb or not. This determines planting depth. The soil must be deeply prepared, well drained, and neutral to acid in reaction.

Lily flowers vary in shape but all have three sepals, three petals, one pistil and six stamens. Some varieties of lilies, such as tiger lily are very easy to grow. Others require more care, and some can be classified as difficult. As you may suspect, there is a direct relation between how hard it is to grow a variety, and the beauty of the flowers produced.

Daylilies are not lilies at all but belong to the genus Hemerocallis. The modern daylilies are much superior to the old-fashioned varieties which were orange and spread through the whole garden. The weedy habit has been bred out and the color range extended from yellow to deep red, including many bicolors.

Daylilies will grow in any soil and in either sun or shade. They are not subject to insects or diseases. Single flowers last only 24 hours. The number of flowers on a stem determines the bloom period which may be as long as four weeks. Early varieties begin to bloom in mid-May; late varieties last until mid-August.

CATALOGS LIST both evergreen and deciduous varieties. Evergreen varieties lose their vigor if the leaves are frozen in the winter. Daylilies can be dug and moved at any time of the year. They are tough and will stand mis-treatment.

Selection of varieties is best made if the variety can be seen in bloom.

Iris have always been favorite garden plants. They are easy to grow, require little attention, have attractive foliage and can be counted on for good bloom. Iris can be grouped as bearded, beardless, and crested.

The bearded European varieties are the most easily grown in our gardens. They are the dwarf bearded and the German tall bearded. The dwarf varieties bloom in late April. The tall varieties bloom from early May to June. Colors range from yellow to purple and the newer pinks.

THE ASIAN bearded varieties are not at all like the European types, and they are not well suited to our growing conditions.

Beardless iris are either rhizomaceous or bulbous. The Siberian Iris which likes dry situations and the Japanese Iris which is one of the few which like wet locations are rhizomaceous. Both do well in our area.

The only bulbous iris which do well in our climate are the Spanish species from the mountains of Spain. Dutch iris are hybrids of the Spanish species but are usually not hardy here.

Delphiniums or Larkspur are highly prized spike perennials. There are several species; however, the most spectacular are susceptible to a fungus disease which was until recently uncontrolllable. The Pacific hybrid varieties reach a height of about five feet in this climate. The spikes are about two feet long and covered with flowers. The color range is white, lavender, blue and purple. They bloom in May and June and again in August if the first crop is cut off.

THE PACIFIC varieties cannot be grown unless the soil is treated with the chemical terrachlor before planting and yearly thereafter.

D. belladona and D. bellamosa are resistant to the fungus. Their blooms are not as spectacular as the Pacific hybrids because of shorter spikes and trumpet shaped rather than open flowers.

Some red and yellow species of Delphinium have been found in the mountains of California. Crosses with these species and D. belladona produced a pink variety called Pink Sensation.

Annual and biennial delphinium, more commonly called Larkspur, are not suited to the perennial garden.

PEONIES ARE rated among the most beautiful of all flowers and they are easy to grow. In fact, all they need is a decent soil and they will bloom contentedly for years.

They should be planted only in the fall, so save space for them when making your plan.

The one critical factor which most often causes failures with peonies is planting depth. The top eye or bud on the root should be exactly two inches below the surface of the soil. If planted too deep, peonies fail to bloom.

ALL PEONY flowers are made up of sepals, petals, stamens and pistils. They are classified into distinct groups by the forms which these parts take as singles, Japanese, Anemones, semi-doubles and doubles.

Peonies are large plants and require breathing room for best performance. They should be spaced so that they have a three foot square of their own.

Now that you're in the mood, look in your gardening magazines for the companies that offer catalogs and send for them. Spring isn't far off. (Fm

Vegetable Competition Is Cited

MADISON, WIS., (UPI) — Foreign competition probably will become a more important factor in America's vegetable market, John Schoenemann, University of Wisconsin horticulturist, said last week.

Dehydrated and frozen vegetables can be shipped profitably from Mexico and South America to the United States, he said at a Farm and Home Week program.

To meet changing markets and specialized production, farms are becoming larger and require more capital than they did 10-20 years ago, he said.

Late Registration For Adult Classes

Late registration for High School District 214's evening adult education program will be conducted at the night school office at Arlington high this week and next, according to Director Tom Shirley.

Shirley emphasized that there are still openings in most classes, although some have been filled.

ALGEBRA I, for high school credit, is being offered to students desiring to complete graduation requirements. Another math course, slide rule, has class openings.

Several home economics courses are still accepting adult registrants. These include knitting, millinery, slip covers, draperies, and bedspreads; and cooking for special occasions.

MEN CAN still sign up for woodshop or machine shop, according to Shirley. Art courses (ceramics, figure drawing, and sculpture) also have openings.

The income tax seminar and notehand instruction are still available, as are square dancing and beginning and intermediate organ instruction. ACM

Weather Doesn't Hamper Elk Grove Unit Session

Despite the abundance of snow and cold weather 27 members of Elk Grove Home Bureau and two guests were able to attend the January 24 meeting in the home of Mrs. Glenn Pasvogel.

An especially interesting topic, "Spending 24 Hours A Day," was presented by Mrs. Claradehl Upham, who advised that every homemakers' hours are varied and should be spent according to personal needs and wants, therefore avoiding exhaustion and frustation.

THROUGH International Farmer to Farmer, Rev. Paul Sanders of Palos Heights, Carl Klehm, Arlington Heights, and the Cook County Farm Bureau are sponsoring a visit here for a young Chilean farmer.

While in the Cook county area, he will learn modern techniques of farming and be taught the use of latest farm equipment. With this new knowledge, he will return to his own country to instruct other farmers.

Home Bureau Units are being asked to contribute to this fund.

"MARRY AND Be Merry" was the title of a dissertation by William Skadden, executive secretary of Illinois Public Health, which highlighted the annual Cook County Home Bureau meeting-luncheon held recently in Elmhurst Country Club.

Eighteen Elk Grove Unit members were in attendance when the group received the coveted blue ribbon award.

MRS. UPHAM has announced that members will have only two months to pay their dues this year, the deadline being April 30. The cook County Home Bureau officers' meeting is set for February 12 in the west side field house in Des Plaines.

Mrs. Edwin Deeke will be the resident hostess in her new home on February 28—the address is 680 Bel Air lane, Mount Prospect. Assisting her as dessert hostesses are Mrs. Scharringhausen, Mrs. H. Seitman and Mrs. T. Sullivan. (FM

Club Dairy Sale Is February 24

Illinois 4-H and FFA members in the market for dairy project calves can buy them at the 14th annual 4-H and FFA Club Sale in Urbana on February 24.

The sale starts at 11 a.m. in the University of Illinois stock pavilion.

THE SALE is sponsored by the Illinois Purebred Dairy Cattle Association to give 4-H'ers and FFA members a chance to get first-rate project stock at a fair price.

U. of I. extension dairy scientist Jerry Cash says about 80 calves will be sold. Consignment by breeds includes 30 Holstein, 20 Guernsey, 15 Jersey, 15 Brown Swiss and 10 Ayrshire calves.

Only bona fide Illinois 4-H and FFA members are eligible to buy calves. However, if the member cannot attend, he may designate another person to buy an animal for him.

ALL PURCHASERS must certify that the calves will be used only for 4-H or FFA dairy projects. For sales catalogs, write to J. G. Cash, Department of Dairy Science, University of Illinois, Urbana. (Fm

School Nurse Talks To 2 Medinah Clubs

Mrs. Richard Hanson of the Itasca Ranchettes, a school nurse, was guest speaker at a combined meeting of the Medinah Merry Maids and Teens January 22 in the kindergarten room of North school.

Mrs. Hanson spoke on emergencies that could occur in the home and what to do about them. She gave the clubs helpful hints on baby sitting and followed the talk with a question and answer period.

BARBARA Fraley gave a demonstration on seams, Cindy Mares showed how to make a pineapple salad and Donna Leesley gave instruction on chocolate cake baking.

All members were reminded to bring ideas and materials with them for the next meeting, Fbruary 12, when special projects are planned. The Maids will meet at Mary Thore-

Anti-Bias Statement Is Signed by 16 Clergymen

Protestant clergymen in Arlington Heights this week issued a joint statement condemning any acts of racial, religious, or economic discrimination.

The broad statement of policy prompted by a recent misunderstanding involving an educator from Haiti who was unable to get a haircut in Arlington Heights, was signed by 16 ministers representing 13 Protestant churches.

TEXT OF the statement released Monday:

"In view of recent events and misunderstanding in our community, we, the undersigned clergy of Arlington Heights, reaffirm our understanding of the Christian Faith as it applies to social and community relations.

"We believe that God, our Father, has 'made of one blood all nations to dwell on all the face of the earth,' and that in the eyes of our Creator, all persons are equal whether they be black or white, red or yellow.

"We further believe that our Lord Jesus Christ lived and died for all mankind, not for a particular race or a privileged few, and that His Holy Spirit dwells in each of us according to the proportion of our faith, not according to the color of our skin or the tongue which we speak.

"We, therefore, abhor and cannot condone any act, by any resident of our community, which has in the past or may in the future, discriminate against any person on grounds of race, creed, color or economic status."

SIGNING THE statement were the following Arlington Heights clergymen:

At Beloit

Miss Karen Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stuart, 302 N. Reuter, Arlington Heights, is one of 16 Beloit college students who will participate in a 4-month seminar in Spain that will take them not only into such Spanish landmarks as the Prado Museum in Madrid and the Alhambra in Granada but into the homes of the Spanish people.

The group will leave from Springfield, Mass. on February 8 and will start classes February 15 at the University of Granada. Miss Stuart is a graduate of Arlington high school. (CC

At Indiana

Jean Gutru, 531 S. Pine, and Judy Schmoyer, 445 S. Pine, both of Arlington Heights, have been elected to offices in their respective social sororities at Indiana University.

Miss Gutru was elected activities chairman, and Miss Schmoyer, membership chairman of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell
Assistant Farm Advisor

Alert Homeowners
Dial Daily 392-3060

If you are a new homeowner, chances are your flower garden has been limited to a few varieties of annuals. The maintenance of an annual garden is simplified by the fact that the plants die each winter and the soil can be reworked in spring. Planning an annual garden is not too exacting because mistakes can be rectified the following year. Annuals, once they start blooming, are effective all summer, but there is no variety through the year. Starting plants from seed each year soon becomes tiresome and if plants are purchased, the selection is limited.

Perennial gardens must be well prepared because they cannot be disturbed each year. Planning is more difficult because once established, perennial plants do not like to be moved and some winter protection is necessary in perennial gardens.

BUT THERE is no annual seeding or planting to worry about. Perennials do not provide the striking mass of color characteristic of annual gardens. The individual species seldom bloom for more than three weeks during the year. As a result, the perennial garden is a subtle, ever-changing picture providing continuous interest all season. This is the reason so many people soon discover the fun of a perennial garden. Since most perennials can be planted in spring, now is the time to start planning your perennial garden.

The list of perennials is long and impressive. Many nurseries list numerous species in their catalogs. Probably the best way to become familiar with many of these plants is to study these catalogs.

But as a little help to get you started, the following descriptions will serve as a guide to some of the more common species.

THERE ARE many species and varieties of lilies which do well in a garden. All lilies grow from bulbs. They can be grouped as to whether they produce stem roots above the bulb or not. This determines planting depth. The soil must be deeply prepared, well drained, and neutral to acid in reaction.

Lily flowers vary in shape but all have three sepals, three petals, one pistil and six stamens. Some varieties of lilies, such as tiger lily are very easy to grow. Others require more care, and some can be classified as difficult. As you may suspect, there is a direct relation between how hard it is to grow a variety, and the beauty of the flowers produced.

Daylilies are not lilies at all but belong to the genus Hemerocallis. The modern daylilies are much superior to the old-fashioned varieties which were orange and spread through the whole garden. The weedy habit has been bred out and the color range extended from yellow to deep red, including many bicolors.

Daylilies will grow in any soil and in either sun or shade. They are not subject to insects or diseases. Single flowers last only 24 hours. The number of flowers on a stem determines the bloom period which may be as long as four weeks. Early varieties begin to bloom in mid-May; late varieties last until mid-August.

CATALOGS LIST both evergreen and deciduous varieties. Evergreen varieties lose their vigor if the leaves are frozen in the winter. Daylilies can be dug and moved at any time of the year. They are tough and will stand mis-treatment.

Selection of varieties is best made if the variety can be seen in bloom.

Iris have always been favorite garden plants. They are easy to grow, require little attention, have attractive foliage and can be counted on for good bloom. Iris can be grouped as bearded, beardless, and crested.

The bearded European varieties are the most easily grown in our gardens. They are the dwarf bearded and the German tall bearded. The dwarf varieties bloom in late April. The tall varieties bloom from early May to June. Colors range from yellow to purple and the newer pinks.

THE ASIAN bearded varieties are not at all like the European types, and they are not well suited to our growing conditions.

Beardless iris are either rhizomaceous or bulbous. The Siberian Iris which likes dry situations and the Japanese Iris which is one of the few which like wet locations are rhizomaceous. Both do well in our area.

The only bulbous iris which do well in our climate are the Spanish species from the mountains of Spain. Dutch iris are hybrids of the Spanish species but are usually not hardy here.

Delphiniums or Larkspur are highly prized spike perennials. There are several species; however, the most spectacular are susceptible to a fungus disease which was until recently uncontrolllable. The Pacific hybrid varieties reach a height of about five feet in this climate. The spikes are about two feet long and covered with flowers. The color range is white, lavender, blue and purple. They bloom in May and June and again in August if the first crop is cut off.

THE PACIFIC varieties cannot be grown unless the soil is treated with the chemical terrachlor before planting and yearly thereafter.

D. belladona and D. bellamosa are resistant to the fungus. Their blooms are not as spectacular as the Pacific hybrids because of shorter spikes and trumpet shaped rather than open flowers.

Some red and yellow species of Delphinium have been found in the mountains of California. Crosses with these species and D. belladona produced a pink variety called Pink Sensation.

Annual and biennial delphinium, more commonly called Larkspur, are not suited to the perennial garden.

PEONIES ARE rated among the most beautiful of all flowers and they are easy to grow. In fact, all they need is a decent soil and they will bloom contentedly for years.

They should be planted only in the fall, so save space for them when making your plan.

The one critical factor which most often causes failures with peonies is planting depth. The top eye or bud on the root should be exactly two inches below the surface of the soil. If planted too deep, peonies fail to bloom.

ALL PEONY flowers are made up of sepals, petals, stamens and pistils. They are classified into distinct groups by the forms which these parts take as singles, Japanese, Anemones, semi-doubles and doubles.

Peonies are large plants and require breathing room for best performance. They should be spaced so that they have a three foot square of their own.

Now that you're in the mood, look in your gardening magazines for the companies that offer catalogs and send for them. Spring isn't far off. (Fm

Vegetable Competition Is Cited

MADISON, WIS., (UPI) — Foreign competition probably will become a more important factor in America's vegetable market, John Schoenemann, University of Wisconsin horticulturist, said last week.

Dehydrated and frozen vegetables can be shipped profitably from Mexico and South America to the United States, he said at a Farm and Home Week program.

To meet changing markets and specialized production, farms are becoming larger and require more capital than they did 10-20 years ago, he said.

Congress Field Is Narrowed

Withdrawal of 2 Candidates Told

by BRUCE LADD

The withdrawal of two candidates and the linking of a third to a state's attorney's investigation this week highlighted events in the race for U.S. Representative from the 13th Congressional district.

Announcing their withdrawals from the contest Friday and Tuesday respectively were Robert A. Dwyer of Winnetka, an insurance executive, and William R. Kearney of Skokie, a publisher.

State Rep. Marion E. Burks, R-7th, one of four remaining Republican candidates, broke into the news Monday in connection with the investigation of alleged irregularities in the operation of the Central Casualty Co., an insurance company.

Other GOP candidates in the race are Donald Rumsfeld of Glenview, Edward L. Gordy of Evanston, and Raymond A. Morley of Northbrook. Lone Democratic candidate is John A. Kennedy of Winnetka.

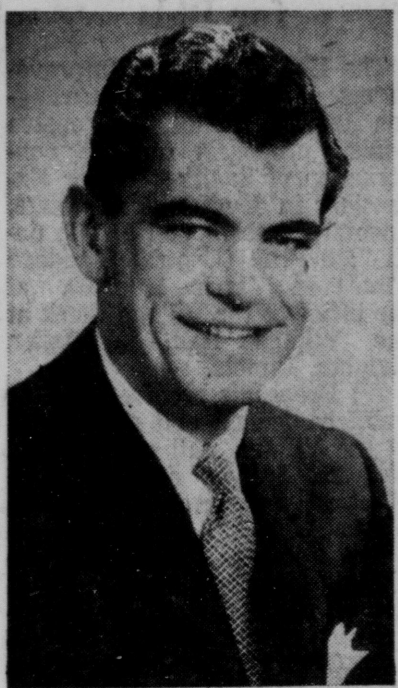
IN ANNOUNCING his withdrawal, Dwyer said, "I have decided to . . . urge my friends and supporters to aid the candidacy of Donald Rumsfeld.

"My decision to withdraw is based on the same reasons that led me to enter the primary; namely, a deep conviction that this district needs and deserves a young, forward looking Republican who would provide positive, progressive representation in Congress.

"I have become convinced that with both Don Rumsfeld and me in the race, a split would occur making it virtually impossible for either of us to withstand the challenge of one township's hand-picked candidate."

WHEN PRESSED to elaborate, Dwyer said his reference to a "hand-picked candidate" was directed at Burks, who was endorsed recently by five township committeemen.

Kearney announced his withdrawal intentions Tuesday, three days after the statutory deadline for withdrawing. He pledged to support Burks and to work to get Burks endorsed by Niles township GOP organizations.



ROBERT DWYER

WILLIAM KEARNEY

MARION BURKS

Kearney said that he had been informed by Robert Cronson, assistant secretary of state, that his withdrawal would be accepted because "precedent and custom" dictate acceptance if the request is made prior to the meeting of the state electoral board. The board meets February 6.

"THERE SEEMS to be a real sentiment in the 13th district favoring Rep. Burks," Kearney observed. "He is the best qualified man to serve the district and should be a sure winner."

Burks, a resident of Evanston and three-term member of the Illinois General Assembly, explained that his connection with Central Casualty began in 1955 when the firm was incorporated.

The company, headed by Charles W. Bray, president, faces litigation threatened by Joseph S. Gerber, Illinois insurance director. The state's attorney's office is also reported to be investigating company transactions.

AMONG ITEMS in question are escrow funds which Gerber said were unlawfully removed and are now unaccounted for, failure of the firm to pay a number of bail bond forfeitures due a week ago, and failure of a sister firm to remit premiums collected for Central Casualty.

"I have had no active part in management of the company," Burks said. "My only activity has been in attending quarterly board meetings and reading financial statements."

He told Paddock Publications he became attorney for the firm in 1955 at the time it was organized. He is now chairman of the company's board.

"I BECAME a member of the board because the law required that three Illinois residents must be board members before the company could get an insurance license in Illinois," Burks pointed out.

He said Bray and his family, owners of 95 per cent of the firm's stock, lived in New Mexico at that time. Burks' wife said.

He added that when he announced his candidacy for Congress on January 2 he also submitted his resignation from office in Central Casualty. He and secretary joined him in membership on the board, he owns one-half of one per cent stock in the company, he said.

THE FIELD of four Republican candidates will be narrowed to one in the April 10 primary election. The 13th district includes the townships of Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Northfield, Niles, New Trier and Evanston, and Chicago's 50th Ward.

It is acknowledged by political observers that Rumsfeld and Burks will fight down to the wire for the GOP nomination.

Closing Arguments Made in Book Suit

Closing arguments were presented this week in the bench trial of the injunction suit seeking to restrain police in Chicago and five northwest suburbs from preventing sale of the Henry Miller novel, "Tropic of Cancer."

Superior Court Judge Samuel B. Epstein is not expected to render his decision for at least two weeks.

AFTER THREE weeks of testimony, oral arguments of summation began Monday of this week. Edward Hofert, village attorney for Mount Prospect, said later in the week that "we have done everything that we could."

Mount Prospect is one of the suburbs which are defendants in the suit.

A week ago, Attorney Elmer Gertz, representing the author and his publisher, Grove Press, filed a motion to declare unconstitutional the municipal anti-obscenity ordinances of all the municipalities whose police chiefs are defendants.

HE SAID that with the exception of Chicago's none of the ordinances contain a definition of obscenity as required in a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, that except for Chicago's and Des Plaines', none require knowledge of the indecent character of a book for the seller to be arrested.

Gertz further argued that Skokie has "in effect confessed the invalidity of its anti-obscenity ordinance existing at the time of the seizure of the books by repealing it in December, 1961, and adopting another." (A-M

Houser, Moore Campaigns Are Marked by Citizen Activity

Formation of two separate Republican citizen committees highlighted this week's activities in the campaigns of Thomas J. Houser and William J. Moore for election as Wheeling township Republican committeeman.

A committee to promote the candidacy of Edmund J. Kucharski for Cook county treasurer was announced by Moore.

The Republican Citizens for Houser organization reported that its membership has grown to 150. Named as members of the organization were Albert C. Peters of Arlington Heights, township supervisor, and Mrs. Walter F. Brown of Arlington Heights, head of the township Women's Republican club.

In announcing the Kucharski committee, Moore was quote as saying, "Kucharski's record of distinguished service to the Republican party and the people of Cook county, and particularly his unflinching opposition to the irregularities practiced within the sanitary district, mark him as the type of candidate for public office that I, and all Republicans, should want to support."

BOTH HOUSER and Moore gave 15-minute addresses at the annual Wheeling township Republican Workshop January 23 in Arlington Heights. Both called for a clean campaign and pledged to work in the best interests of the Republican party if either is elected, it was reported.

Houser outlined a program to "breathe new life into the GOP." His four main points are:

1—A permanent advisory committee, with geographical representation, to aid the committeeman. The township is too large for the committeeman alone to handle Republican activities, he said.

2—More help for precinct captains by the addition of lieutenants and block workers, as many precincts are too large in scope for one man.

3—Toning down patronage. "I am in favor of a change in attitude toward the use of patronage. I do not oppose patronage, but I feel a political organization cannot be based on it.

"IF A MAN proves his worth to the party and a job is open that he is qualified for, he should get it. But patronage jobs should not be dangled in front of people to induce them to come to work for the party."

4—Greater reflection as to public desires in choosing party candidates. As a slatemaker, the committeeman should find out who the people prefer and vote accordingly, Houser said.

Moore asked that the voters maintain an open ear and mind in selecting the candidates they are going to vote for. "Many of you in this room are committed to one candidate or the other. I believe this is a mistake. You must first hear all that the candidates have to say." He cited ability and availability as important factors in weighing the candidates for committeeman, judged in the light of their actions and plans.

THOMAS HOUSER

WILLIAM MOORE

HE ALSO HIT political "machines." "The immoral use of power by officeholders must be combatted. Political machines have humiliated people and have not served the party. Restraint, wisdom and morality must prevail."

Moore also stated party workers should be recruited from every block, and noted that he is available in the township "every day."

Houser, 32, of 416 S. Waterman ave., Arlington Heights, is a trial attorney for a railroad firm, has three children, and attends the Christian Church of Arlington Heights.

HE IS A founder and president of the Wheeling Township Young Republican club, district governor of the Illinois Federation of Young Republican clubs, past member of the board of the Wheeling Township Regular Republican club, and is a precinct captain.

Also, he is a northwest suburban chairman of the Cook county Young Republicans and a member of the township Re-Registration Coordinating committee.

A resident of Arlington since 1959 and formerly of Chicago, Houser served in the U.S. Army Counter Intelligence Corps from 1954 to 1956. He has a bachelors degree in political science from Hanover college in Indiana, and is a graduate of the Northwestern university school of law. In 1961 he was chairman of the Cancer Crusade in Arlington.

MOORE, 31, of 6 S. Waterman Ave., Arlington Heights, has a private law practice with his office in Arlington. He has four children, has been an Arlington resident for five years, and is formerly of Chicago.

He is a trustee on the Arlington village board, a member of the township Regular Republican club and past chairman of its nominating committee, has been a precinct captain 2½ years, and founded the northwest suburban chapter of the Illinois Bar Association.

Also, Moore is active as a Cub Scout leader, and as a member of the Masons, Elks, Lions club, and the Arlington Methodist church.

HE RECEIVED his bachelors degree from Ohio Wesleyan in 1952, and his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1955.

Moore reportedly declared that a resurgence of integrity and responsible discharge of duty by all office-holders must be the Republican keynote in the coming elections "The repudiation of machine politics . . . is our first important step . . ."

Co-chairmen of the Citizens for Houser group are Thomas H. Hanlon and Virginia B. Macdonald of Arlington Heights.

The primary election is April 10. (ACM

Local Man Is Indicted on Fraud Charge

An Arlington Heights man, John B. Carnell, 50, of 735 Burton st., was one of four advertising executives indicted Tuesday by a Federal grand jury in Minneapolis on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with Sister Kenny Foundation fund drives.

Also indicted were three former officials of the foundation.

The four advertising executives were charged with making kickbacks to foundation officers in return for direct mail advertising contracts with the foundation.

MARVIN L. KLINE, former executive director of the foundation and its first president, and Fred Fadell, former publicity agent, were accused of taking $360,000 in kickbacks from charity funds. They also were accused of accepting expensive gifts and expense-paid World Series and fishing jaunts.

The foundation's former auditor, United Press International reported, was charged with preparing false audits which carried fund drive mailing costs under the guise of "medical education and training programs" and "public relations."

The defendants face arraignment in Minneapolis on February 13. The maximum penalty for each defendant, on conviction, would be 80 years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

THE OTHER advertising executives indicted are Abraham L. Koolish, 77, and his son, David, 42, who control four Chicago direct mail firms—Empire Associates, Empire Industries, Inc., LeMarge Mailing Service Co., Inc., and New Century Corp.—and Philip C. Rettig.

Rettig and Carnell are former presidents of New Century.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

"Musical Houses" was played in the Terrace this week when Joe and Jackie Koenig and their children, Pam, Bobby, Tommy and Kenny, picked up and moved from their home at 1255 N. Chicago, which was sold somewhat sooner than they anticipated, to another Terrace residence at 1325 N. Wilke, where they will rent until their new home, under construction in Palatine is completed.

In line with Jackie's departure from Chicago Ave., Shirley Landes and Pat Ross cohosted a surprise "farewell" coffee for Jackie last Friday morning at Pat's home, 1252 N. Chicago. Guests included Carol Clarkson, Adele Yore, Marian Nielsen, Betty Gumz, Inge Schluntz and Pat Mercer.

Last Sunday afternoon Diane, daughter of Len and Ruth Stanley, 1408 N. Oakton, was feted at a family get-together in honor of her fourth birthday. Present, in addition to her brothers, Ronnie and Timothy, were her grandmother, Mrs. Walter Batchelor, and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Marshall, all of Chicago.

NOT ALL OF this week's birthdays could be celebrated properly, however. Stevie, son of Olive and Bill Balow, 1424 N. Illinois, had to be content with counting measle spots in place of eight birthday candles on January 27.

Last Saturday night two Chicago Ave. couples, Jack and Donna Garland with Ted and Marcy Micek, deserted the Terrace for Des Plaines, where they spent a pleasant evening of cards 'n conversation with Donna's brother and family, the Perry Andersons.

Keith, son of Hank and Lorraine Knoll, 1255 N. Wilke, recently celebrated his eighth birthday at a family dinner party. Guests, in addition to his brother, Bruce, included his grandfather, Otto Hrones of Fox Lake, and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Brill, and cousins, Mark, David and Phillip, of Mount Prospect.

SEVERAL OF the Terrace "collegians" home for mid-term holidays include Mike Emmons, 1317 N. Race, from Illinois State Normal university; Diane Lang, 1310 N. Illinois, from Illinois Wesleyan University; and Carl Massa, 1710 W. Olive, from University of Illinois.

Recently Dean and Virginia Arnold, 1410 N. Race, enjoyed a busy, busy week. In conjunction with the National Housewares Manufacturers show, they attended the NHM banquet at the Grand Ballroom of the Palmer House, with performers Phil Ford and Mimi Hines entertaining in an hour-long show, followed with a grand ball held at the Red Lacquer Room in the hotel.

The following night the Arnolds attended another convention function starting with a cocktail party at the Bismark Hotel and continuing the Sheraton Blackstone for dinner and dancing. Their busy week concluded with a cocktail party held in the home of Jim Ollis, a fellow employee of Dean's at Cotter & Co., in honor of the forthcoming marriage of another co-worker, Leonard Bierman of Evanston.

A farewell luncheon party was held last Thursday in honor of Emily De Reimer, in the home of Isabel Nottoli, 1227 N. Race, and co-hosted by Norma Elf. Guests who presented Emily with a gift to enjoy in her new home included Mazie Sikorski, Florence Paul, Carol Narup, Marilyn Schmidt, Darlene Krug, Peggy Mac Millian, Leonra Crowe, Diane Trees and Carolyn Brown.

A BIRTHDAY dinner was held Sunday for Sandra, daughter of Donald and Wilma Stull, 1405 N. Illinois. Guests' helping to extinguish the 13 candles included family friends, the Robert Likens family of Des Plaines.

Martin Corley, 1326 N. Chicago, returned last Saturday from a week-long Coates & Clark combination 150th birthday celebration and sales convention held at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Fla. Between meetings and sales conferences, Martin enjoyed golf outings, deep sea fishing and a poolside luau.

Last Saturday night the Les Bangs and the Bob Murphys attended a benefit dance at St. Colette hall in Rolling Meadows, to benefit the new parish in Winston Park. Following the dance, they returned to the Bangs' at 1315 N. Illinois for a late snack.

A combination luncheon and theatre party celebrated the 11th birthday of Chuck, son of Charles and Diane Moser, 1418 N. Illinois. Guests included Johnny Reinhardt, Bruce Leckie and Chuck's cousin, "Spike" Kane of Wheeling.

The Birthday Club met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Pauline Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race. In addition to the guest of honor, Margay Wilmot, luncheon guests included Isabel Nottoli, Dorothy Ballard, Mazie Sikorski and former Terrace resident, Marilou Crouch.

DUE TO JOB transfers two Terrace families named Thompson left this month. Darrell and Lynda, with children Randy, Traci and Kelly Jean, formerly of 1325 N. Wilke, are now living in South Bend, while Natalie and Ed, with Michael, Adele and Mary Ann, who lived at 1266 N. Chicago, have relocated in Levittown, Pa.

Steven, son of Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, celebrated his sixth birthday last Saturday afternoon with ice cream and cake at home, followed by a trip to the Arlington Theatre to view "Misty." Guests were his brothers, David and Scott, and playmates, Melanie Clarkson, Pam Mercer, Mark De Reimer and Nicky Caprara.

Many Terrace residents felt the loss of a good neighbor and friend last week when Max O'Brien, 1405 N. Race, died suddenly while undergoing emergency heart surgery. Sympathy is extended to his widow, Florence, and their children, Dennis and Donna. (A

Balkans to Launch New Travel Series

The new semester's first travel and adventure series, sponsored by High School District 214's evening adult education program, will feature "The Mysteries of the Balkan World."

Scheduled for Tuesday night February 6 in Prospect high school's Little Theatre, the film-lecture will be narrated by Gene Wiancko, producer, writer, explorer, and radio narrator.

The former exploration geophysicist will conduct the audience through Greece, Turkey, Macedonia, Montenegro, and the mountains of Albania. The color travel-documentary film features the Balkan wanderers: the Shyptars, the gypsies, and the "Children of the Eagle."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS include the national dances, the story of the Delphi oracle, Athens' famous Acropolis and Parthenon by moonlight, Istanbul, the ruins of Ephesus, the Temple of Diana and the Colossus of Rhodes (two of the seven wonders of the ancient world), and Izmir, Turkey.

Tickets for the film-lecture can be purchased at the door. Director Tom Shirley this week informed that "season passes" for the second semester series are still available.

Also scheduled this semester are films of Australia, Poland, Sweden, and Asia.

Attorney Siegel To Address Bar

Attorney Jack Siegel, counsel for the village of Arlington Heights and Schaumburg, will talk on municipal law at the February 14 meeting of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association in Gunnell's restaurant, Illinois 83 and Foundry Road, Mount Prospect.

The public is invited to attend the 8 p.m. supper meeting. (B8

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington Acres Civic association Thursday, it was decided to postpone the regular February 6 meeting to March 9, because the speaker scheduled to appear is unable to come. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klehm will be guest speakers in March.

Happy birthday wishes go to Jessie Bruce who was 5 January 30. No party was planned because of the illness of Jessie's brother, Scott, who spent several days in Northwest Community hospital with a virus infection.

Jessie and Scott are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce, 441 S. Gibbons.

Sharon, daughter of the Francis Conways, 513 S. Prindle, was guest of honor at a belated birthday party Sunday. Guests who shared Sharon's cake and ice cream were Nancy Tait, Cathy Oravetz, Kris and Karen Soukop, Kim and Missy Slusser, Nancy Johnson, Laurie Evanger and Karol McCammon. Shari Landon was unable to attend because of illness. The birthday girl was 6 January 17, but had to postpone her party because she was ill at that time.

CHERIE MERTENS, a senior at the University of Illinois at Champaign, arrived home for a 10-day between semester break a week ago. Monday evening Cherie entertained several sorority sisters for dinner in her home, 425 S. Gibbons, and will return to school next Saturday for pre-registration.

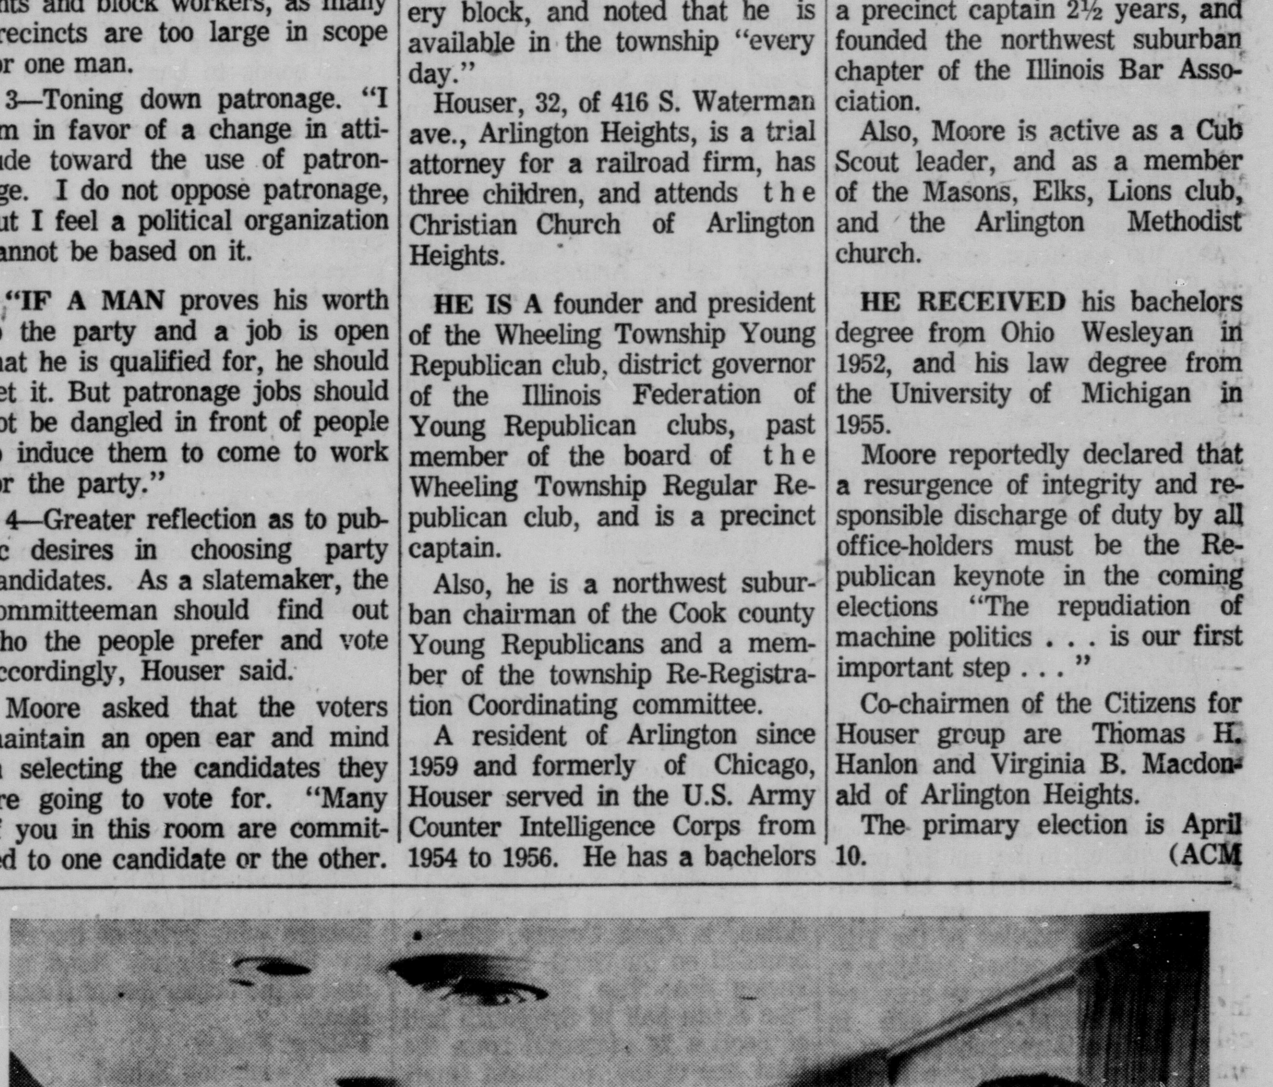
Another co-ed home between semesters is Janice May, a sophomore at Valparaiso. However, Jan's stay is a short one. She arrived last Saturday accompanied by three friends, Mary Ann Houston of Elm Grove, Wis., Darrell Van Dyke of Westchester, Ill., and Arnie Eglie of Fairlawn, N. J.

After spending Saturday in Chicago, the young people stayed overnight in the May home, 509 S. Prindle, and returned to Valparaiso Sunday evening.

Karen Kucera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bayuk, 408 S. Forrest, celebrated her January 25 birthday Saturday afternoon. Guests at her party were Debbie Henseleit, Bonnie Little, Jennifer Johnson, Karen Hagen, Cindy Straub, Pammy Sopchyk, Debbie LaMonica, Joyce Anderson, Rhonda Tihle, Kris Larson and Linda Richardson. Valentine decorations were used and each guest received as a souvenir, a box of valentines, which she could enjoy assembling later.

Teddy Lindquist was 6 Sunday, but his party was held a day earlier. Guests were Paul Obuchowski, Doug Reuhl, Johnny Gaynor, Greg and Kay Durell, Jimmy Kutill and Teddy's brother, Matthew. David Kucera sent regrets because he was ill.

Teddy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindquist, 436 S. Prindle. (A



FINAL ARRANGEMENTS were made last week for the annual Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce dinner dance to be held Saturday night at Rolling Green Country Club. Planning the menu are Wayne Brennan, 1962 Chamber president, and Lou Crump, manager of Rolling Green. Tickets are available from any of the Chamber directors, or from Don Hess, Chamber executive manager.

Congress Field Is Narrowed

Withdrawal of 2 Candidates Told

by BRUCE LADD

The withdrawal of two candidates and the linking of a third to a state's attorney's investigation this week highlighted events in the race for U.S. Representative from the 13th Congressional district.

Announcing their withdrawals from the contest Friday and Tuesday respectively were Robert A. Dwyer of Winnetka, an insurance executive, and William R. Kearney of Skokie, a publisher.

State Rep. Marion E. Burks, R-7th, one of four remaining Republican candidates, broke into the news Monday in connection with the investigation of alleged irregularities in the operation of the Central Casualty Co., an insurance company.

Other GOP candidates in the race are Donald Rumsfeld of Glenview, Edward L. Gordy of Evanston, and Raymond A. Morley of Northbrook. Lone Democratic candidate is John A. Kennedy of Winnetka.

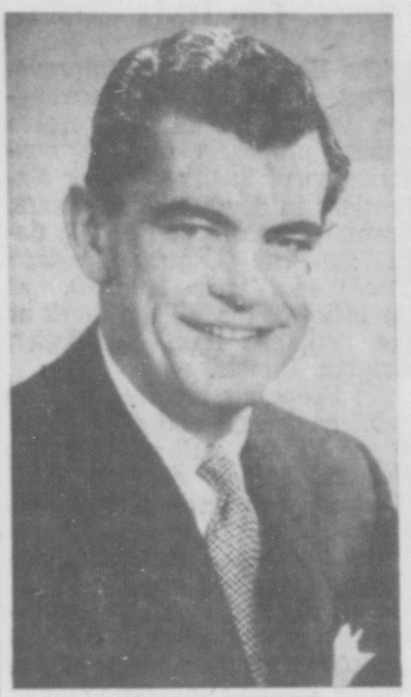
IN ANNOUNCING his withdrawal, Dwyer said, "I have decided to . . . urge my friends and supporters to aid the candidacy of Donald Rumsfeld.

"My decision to withdraw is based on the same reasons that led me to enter the primary; namely, a deep conviction that this district needs and deserves a young, forward looking Republican who would provide positive, progressive representation in Congress.

"I have become convinced that with both Don Rumsfeld and me in the race, a split would occur making it virtually impossible for either of us to withstand the challenge of one township's hand-picked candidate."

WHEN PRESSED to elaborate, Dwyer said his reference to a "hand-picked candidate" was directed at Burks, who was endorsed recently by five township committeemen.

Kearney announced his withdrawal intentions Tuesday, three days after the statutory deadline for withdrawing. He pledged to support Burks and to work to get Burks endorsed by Niles township GOP organizations.



ROBERT DWYER

WILLIAM KEARNEY

MARION BURKS

Kearney said that he had been informed by Robert Cronson, assistant secretary of state, that his withdrawal would be accepted because "precedent and custom" dictate acceptance if the request is made prior to the meeting of the state electoral board. The board meets February 6.

"THERE SEEMS to be a real sentiment in the 13th district favoring Rep. Burks," Kearney observed. "He is the best qualified man to serve the district and should be a sure winner."

Burks, a resident of Evanston and three-term member of the Illinois General Assembly, explained that his connection with Central Casualty began in 1955 when the firm was incorporated.

The company, headed by Charles W. Bray, president, faces litigation threatened by Joseph S. Gerber, Illinois insurance director. The state's attorney's office is also reported to be investigating company transactions.

AMONG ITEMS in question are escrow funds which Gerber said were unlawfully removed and are now unaccounted for, failure of the firm to pay a number of bail bond forfeitures due a week ago, and failure of a sister firm to remit premiums collected for Central Casualty.

"I have had no active part in management of the company," Burks said. "My only activity has been in attending quarterly board meetings and reading financial statements."

He told Paddock Publications he became attorney for the firm in 1955 at the time it was organized. He is now chairman of the company's board.

"I BECAME a member of the board because the law required that three Illinois residents must be board members before the company could get an insurance license in Illinois," Burks pointed out.

He said Bray and his family, owners of 95 per cent of the firm's stock, lived in New Mexico at that time. Burks' wife said.

He added that when he announced his candidacy for Congress on January 2 he also submitted his resignation from office in Central Casualty. He and secretary joined him in membership on the board, he owns one-half of one per cent stock in the company, he said.

THE FIELD of four Republican candidates will be narrowed to one in the April 10 primary election. The 13th district includes the townships of Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Northfield, Niles, New Trier and Evanston, and Chicago's 50th Ward.

It is acknowledged by political observers that Rumsfeld and Burks will fight down to the wire for the GOP nomination.

Closing Arguments Made in Book Suit

Closing arguments were presented this week in the bench trial of the injunction suit seeking to restrain police in Chicago and five northwest suburbs from preventing sale of the Henry Miller novel, "Tropic of Cancer."

Superior Court Judge Samuel B. Epstein is not expected to render his decision for at least two weeks.

AFTER THREE weeks of testimony, oral arguments of summation began Monday of this week. Edward Hofert, village attorney for Mount Prospect, said later in the week that "we have done everything that we could."

Mount Prospect is one of the suburbs which are defendants in the suit.

A week ago, Attorney Elmer Gertz, representing the author and his publisher, Grove Press, filed a motion to declare unconstitutional the municipal anti-obscenity ordinances of all the municipalities whose police chiefs are defendants.

HE SAID that with the exception of Chicago's none of the ordinances contain a definition of obscenity as required in a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, that except for Chicago's and Des Plaines', none require knowledge of the indecent character of a book for the seller to be arrested.

Gertz further argued that Skokie has "in effect confessed the invalidity of its anti-obscenity ordinance existing at the time of the seizure of the books by repealing it in December, 1961, and adopting another."

Houser, Moore Campaigns Are Marked by Citizen Activity

Formation of two separate Republican citizen committees highlighted this week's activities in the campaigns of Thomas J. Houser and William J. Moore for election as Wheeling township Republican committeeman.

A committee to promote the candidacy of Edmund J. Kucharski for Cook county treasurer was announced by Moore.

The Republican Citizens for Houser organization reported that its membership has grown to 150. Named as members of the organization were Albert C. Peters of Arlington Heights, township supervisor, and Mrs. Walter F. Brown of Arlington Heights, head of the township Women's Republican club.

In announcing the Kucharski committee, Moore was quote as saying, "Kucharski's record of distinguished service to the Republican party and the people of Cook county, and particularly his unflinching opposition to the irregularities practiced within the sanitary district, mark him as the type of candidate for public office that I, and all Republicans, should want to support."

THOMAS HOUSER

WILLIAM MOORE

BOTH HOUSER and Moore gave 15-minute addresses at the annual Wheeling township Republican Workshop January 23 in Arlington Heights. Both called for a clean campaign and pledged to work in the best interests of the Republican party if either is elected, it was reported.

Houser outlined a program to "breathe new life into the GOP." His four main points are:

1—A permanent advisory committee, with geographical representation, to aid the committeeman. The township is too large for the committeeman alone to handle Republican activities, he said.

2—More help for precinct captains by the addition of lieutenants and block workers, as many precincts are too large in scope for one man.

3—Toning down patronage. "I am in favor of a change in attitude toward the use of patronage. I do not oppose patronage, but I feel a political organization cannot be based on it.

"IF A MAN proves his worth to the party and a job is open that he is qualified for, he should get it. But patronage jobs should not be dangled in front of people to induce them to come to work for the party."

4—Greater reflection as to public desires in choosing party candidates. As a slatemaker, the committeeman should find out who the people prefer and vote accordingly, Houser said.

Moore asked that the voters maintain an open ear and mind in selecting the candidates they are going to vote for. "Many of you in this room are committed to one candidate or the other. I believe this is a mistake. You must first hear all that the candidates have to say." He cited ability and availability as important factors in weighing the candidates for committeeman, judged in the light of their actions and plans.

HE ALSO HIT political "machines." "The immoral use of power by officeholders must be combatted. Political machines have humiliated people and have not served the party. Restraint, wisdom and morality must prevail."

Moore also stated party workers should be recruited from every block, and noted that he is available in the township "every day."

Houser, 32, of 416 S. Waterman ave., Arlington Heights, is a trial attorney for a railroad firm, has three children, and attends the Christian Church of Arlington Heights.

HE IS A founder and president of the Wheeling Township Young Republican club, district governor of the Illinois Federation of Young Republican clubs, past member of the board of the Wheeling Township Regular Republican club, and is a precinct captain.

Also, he is a northwest suburban chairman of the Cook county Young Republicans and a member of the township Re-Registration Coordinating committee.

A resident of Arlington since 1959 and formerly of Chicago, Houser served in the U.S. Army Counter Intelligence Corps from 1954 to 1956. He has a bachelors degree in political science from Hanover college in Indiana, and is a graduate of the Northwestern university school of law. In 1961 he was chairman of the Cancer Crusade in Arlington.

MOORE, 31, of 6 S. Waterman Ave., Arlington Heights, has a private law practice with his office in Arlington. He has four children, has been an Arlington resident for five years, and is formerly of Chicago.

He is a trustee on the Arlington village board, a member of the township Regular Republican club and past chairman of its nominating committee, has been a precinct captain 2½ years, and founded the northwest suburban chapter of the Illinois Bar Association.

Also, Moore is active as a Cub Scout leader, and as a member of the Masons, Elks, Lions club, and the Arlington Methodist church.

HE RECEIVED his bachelors degree from Ohio Wesleyan in 1952, and his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1955.

Moore reportedly declared that a resurgence of integrity and responsible discharge of duty by all office-holders must be the Republican keynote in the coming elections "The repudiation of machine politics . . . is our first important step . . ."

Co-chairmen of the Citizens for Houser group are Thomas H. Hanlon and Virginia B. Macdonald of Arlington Heights.

The primary election is April 10.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

"Musical Houses" was played in the Terrace this week when Joe and Jackie Koenig and their children, Pam, Bobby, Tommy and Kenny, picked up and moved from their home at 1255 N. Chicago, which was sold somewhat sooner than they anticipated, to another Terrace residence at 1325 N. Wilke, where they will rent until their new home, under construction in Palatine is completed.

In line with Jackie's departure from Chicago Ave., Shirley Landes and Pat Ross cohosted a surprise "farewell" coffee for Jackie last Friday morning at Pat's home, 1252 N. Chicago. Guests included Carol Clarkson, Adele Yore, Marian Nielsen, Betty Gumz, Inge Schluntz and Pat Mercer.

Last Sunday afternoon Diane, daughter of Len and Ruth Stanley, 1408 N. Oakton, was feted at a family get-together in honor of her fourth birthday. Present, in addition to her brothers, Ronnie and Timothy, were her grandmother, Mrs. Walter Batchelor, and aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Marshall, all of Chicago.

NOT ALL OF this week's birthdays could be celebrated properly, however. Stevie, son of Olive and Bill Balow, 1424 N. Illinois, had to be content with counting measle spots in place of eight birthday candles on January 27.

Last Saturday night two Chicago Ave. couples, Jack and Donna Garland with Ted and Marcy Micek, deserted the Terrace for Des Plaines, where they spent a pleasant evening of cards 'n conversation with Donna's brother and family, the Perry Andersons.

Keith, son of Hank and Lorraine Knoll, 1255 N. Wilke, recently celebrated his eighth birthday at a family dinner party. Guests, in addition to his brother, Bruce, included his grandfather, Otto Hrones of Fox Lake, and uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Brill, and cousins, Mark, David and Phillip, of Mount Prospect.

SEVERAL OF the Terrace "collegians" home for midterm holidays include Mike Emmons, 1317 N. Race, from Illinois State Normal university; Diane Lang, 1310 N. Illinois, from Illinois Wesleyan University; and Carl Massa, 1710 W. Olive, from University of Illinois.

Recently Dean and Virginia Arnold, 1410 N. Race, enjoyed a busy, busy week. In conjunction with the National Housewares Manufacturers show, they attended the NHM banquet at the Grand Ballroom of the Palmer House, with performers Phil Ford and Mimi Hines entertaining in an hour-long show, followed with a grand ball held at the Red Lacquer Room in the hotel.

The following night the Arnolds attended another convention function starting with a cocktail party at the Bismark Hotel and continuing the Sheraton Blackstone for dinner and dancing. Their busy week concluded with a cocktail party held in the home of Jim Ollis, a fellow employee of Dean's at Cotter & Co., in honor of the forthcoming marriage of another co-worker, Leonard Bierman of Evanston.

A farewell luncheon party was held last Thursday in honor of Emily De Reimer, in the home of Isabel Nottoli, 1227 N. Race, and co-hosted by Norma Elf. Guests who presented Emily with a gift to enjoy in her new home included Mazie Sikorski, Florence Paul, Carol Narup, Marilyn Schmidt, Darlene Krug, Peggy Mac Millian, Leonra Crowe, Diane Trees and Carolyn Brown.

A BIRTHDAY dinner was held Sunday for Sandra, daughter of Donald and Wilma Stull, 1405 N. Illinois. Guests' helping to extinguish the 13 candles included family friends, the Robert Likens family of Des Plaines.

Martin Corley, 1326 N. Chicago, returned last Saturday from a week-long Coates & Clark combination 150th birthday celebration and sales convention held at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Fla. Between meetings and sales conferences, Martin enjoyed golf outings, deep sea fishing and a poolside luau.

Last Saturday night the Les Bangs and the Bob Murphys attended a benefit dance at St. Colette hall in Rolling Meadows, to benefit the new parish in Winston Park. Following the dance, they returned to the Bangs' at 1315 N. Illinois for a late snack.

A combination luncheon and theatre party celebrated the 11th birthday of Chuck, son of Charles and Diane Moser, 1418 N. Illinois. Guests included Johnny Reinhardt, Bruce Leckie and Chuck's cousin, "Spike" Kane of Wheeling.

The Birthday Club met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Pauline Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race. In addition to the guest of honor, Margay Wilmot, luncheon guests included Isabel Nottoli, Dorothy Ballard, Mazie Sikorski and former Terrace resident, Marilou Crouch.

DUE TO JOB transfers two Terrace families named Thompson left this month. Darrell and Lynda, with children Randy, Traci and Kelly Jean, formerly of 1325 N. Wilke, are now living in South Bend, while Natalie and Ed, with Michael, Adele and Mary Ann, who lived at 1266 N. Chicago, have relocated in Levittown, Pa.

Steven, son of Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, celebrated his sixth birthday last Saturday afternoon with ice cream and cake at home, followed by a trip to the Arlington Theatre to view "Misty." Guests were his brothers, David and Scott, and playmates, Melanie Clarkson, Pam Mercer, Mark De Reimer and Nicky Caprara.

Many Terrace residents felt the loss of a good neighbor and friend last week when Max O'Brien, 1405 N. Race, died suddenly while undergoing emergency heart surgery. Sympathy is extended to his widow, Florence, and their children, Dennis and Donna. (A

Local Man Is Indicted on Fraud Charge

An Arlington Heights man, John B. Carnell, 50, of 735 Burton st., was one of four advertising executives indicted Tuesday by a Federal grand jury in Minneapolis on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with Sister Kenny Foundation fund drives.

Also indicted were three former officials of the foundation.

The four advertising executives were charged with making kickbacks to foundation officers in return for direct mail advertising contracts with the foundation.

MARVIN L. KLINE, former executive director of the foundation and its first president, and Fred Fadell, former publicity agent, were accused of taking $360,000 in kickbacks from charity funds. They also were accused of accepting expensive gifts and expense-paid World Series and fishing jaunts.

The foundation's former auditor, United Press International reported, was charged with preparing false audits which carried fund drive mailing costs under the guise of "medical education and training programs" and "public relations."

The defendants face arraignment in Minneapolis on February 13. The maximum penalty for each defendant, on conviction, would be 80 years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

THE OTHER advertising executives indicted are Abraham L. Koolish, 77, and his son, David, 42, who control four Chicago direct mail firms—Empire Associates, Empire Industries, Inc., LeMarge Mailing Service Co., Inc., and New Century Corp.—and Philip C. Rettig.

Rettig and Carnell are former presidents of New Century.

Balkans to Launch New Travel Series

The new semester's first travel and adventure series, sponsored by High School District 214's evening adult education program, will feature "The Mysteries of the Balkan World."

Scheduled for Tuesday night February 6 in Prospect high school's Little Theatre, the film-lecture will be narrated by Gene Wiancko, producer, writer, explorer, and radio narrator.

The former exploration geophysicist will conduct the audience through Greece, Turkey, Macedonia, Montenegro, and the mountains of Albania. The color travel-documentary film features the Balkan wanderers: the Shyptars the gypsies, and the "Children of the Eagle."

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS include the national dances, the story of the Delphi oracle, Athens' famous Acropolis and Parthenon by moonlight, Istanbul, the ruins of Ephesus, the Temple of Diana and the Colossus of Rhodes (two of the seven wonders of the ancient world), and Izmir, Turkey.

Tickets for the film-lecture can be purchased at the door. Director Tom Shirley this week informed that "season passes" for the second semester series are still available.

Also scheduled this semester are films of Australia, Poland, Sweden, and Asia.

Attorney Siegel To Address Bar

Attorney Jack Siegel, counsel for the village of Arlington Heights and Schaumburg, will talk on municipal law at the February 14 meeting of the Northwest Suburban Bar Association in Gunnell's restaurant, Illinois 83 and Foundry Road, Mount Prospect.

The public is invited to attend the 8 p.m. supper meeting.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall

CLearbrook 5-2936

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington Acres Civic association Thursday, it was decided to postpone the regular February 6 meeting to March 9, because the speaker scheduled to appear is unable to come. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klehm will be guest speakers in March.

Happy birthday wishes go to Jessie Bruce who was 5 January 30. No party was planned because of the illness of Jessie's brother, Scott, who spent several days in Northwest Community hospital with a virus infection.

Jessie and Scott are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bruce, 441 S. Gibbons.

Sharon, daughter of the Francis Conways, 513 S. Prindle, was guest of honor at a belated birthday party Sunday. Guests who shared Sharon's cake and ice cream were Nancy Tait, Cathy Oravetz, Kris and Karen Soukop, Kim and Missy Slusser, Nancy Johnson, Laurie Evanger and Karol McCammon. Shari Landon was unable to attend because of illness. The birthday girl was 6 January 17, but had to postpone her party because she was ill at that time.

Milady's Memos
BY HELEN HALE

Make Food Inviting

Spoon a spunky mixture of pickle relish, shredded sharp cheddar cheese and mustard mayonnaise into canned cling peach halves. Pop them into the broiler and serve with meat loaf for a glamor meal.

Spice canned fruit cocktail with stick cinnamon and some cloves to serve as a relish with any meat course. This may also be used with cottage cheese for salad.

Helen's Favorite:
Picalilly Hot Bread
(Serves 8)

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ⅔ cup milk
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1 tablespoon oil
- ⅓ cup drained sweet pickle relish
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place biscuit mix in large bowl. Combine milk, egg, onion, oil and relish; add all at once to dry mixture. Stir until just moistened. Turn into greased 8-inch layer cake pan. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in a hot (400°F.) oven 17 to 20 minutes, until bread is done and cheese golden. Serve hot.

Grind any leftover meat, spice with soaked instant minced onion and mayonnaise and use as a spread.

Equal parts of canned green beans and kidney beans with chopped pickle, tabasco sauce and mayonnaise make a good, hearty and colorful salad.

Add mustard, worcestershire sauce and ripe olive wedges to macaroni and cheese for a "barbecued macaroni." Broil until cheese bubbles.

Milady's Memos
BY HELEN HALE

Make Food Inviting

Spoon a spunky mixture of pickle relish, shredded sharp cheddar cheese and mustard mayonnaise into canned cling peach halves. Pop them into the broiler and serve with meat loaf for a glamor meal.

Spice canned fruit cocktail with stick cinnamon and some cloves to serve as a relish with any meat course. This may also be used with cottage cheese for salad.

Helen's Favorite:
Picalilly Hot Bread
(Serves 8)

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ⅔ cup milk
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1 tablespoon oil
- ⅓ cup drained sweet pickle relish
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place biscuit mix in large bowl. Combine milk, egg, onion, oil and relish; add all at once to dry mixture. Stir until just moistened. Turn into greased 8-inch layer cake pan. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in a hot (460°F.) oven 17 to 20 minutes, until bread is done and cheese golden. Serve hot.

Grind any leftover meat, spice with soaked instant minced onion and mayonnaise and use as a spread.

Equal parts of canned green beans and kidney beans with chopped pickle, tabasco sauce and mayonnaise make a good, hearty and colorful salad.

Add mustard, worcestershire sauce and ripe olive wedges to macaroni and cheese for a "barbecued macaroni." Broil until cheese bubbles.

Experts Stress New Role of Suburban Press

National Parley Learns Potential

America's new suburbs — and their affect on the press — were spotlighted Thursday and Friday at a National conference of suburban editors and advertising managers.

Representatives of 75 newspapers from 10 major metropolitan areas met at the Sheraton-Chicago hotel for the two-day meeting under auspices of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc.

Twenty members of Paddock Publications news and advertising staffs attended the sessions headed by Robert Y. Paddock, foundation president, and Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, executive director.

MAJOR SPEAKER at the conference was Derick Daniels, city editor of the Detroit Free Press and formerly city editor of the Miami Herald. Both metropolitan dailies are Knight Newspapers.

In a blunt, forthright address, Daniels told the suburban newspapermen: "Your field is the journalism of tomorrow."

Recalling the explosion of suburbia after World War II, the daily newspaper editor declared:

"America tumbled across the city limits and into the cow pastures, looking for elbow room. They found the room and they set up the holler: they demanded everything in the city moved out to them — supermarkets, sewers, movies, department stores. Their roots went down—often before their sewers—and governments sprang up. These were the ingredients of the great newspaper opportunity: impatient people, perceptive merchants, young governments. And all concentrated right in the back yards of the big cities. The cry was there—for news, for advertising, for knowledge of new neighbors. This was the vacuum that demanded to be filled."

DANIELS charged that daily newspaper publishers muffed their opportunity to fill that vacuum because they lacked foresight.

"Editors and reporters compounded the publishers' failure to move in time," he explained. "They clung furiously — and often still do—to the cynicism that Big City newspapermen have for small-town events and people. They looked down their long patrician noses at the suburbs and refused to realize that news doesn't stop at the city limits.

Daniels expressed a concern that suburbanites may find that the combination of suburban newspaper and TV satisfies their news needs. "I now see the growing danger to the daily press in the combination of better television news and the good suburban newspapers," he added.

TO MEET the growing competition, Daniels said his own Detroit newspaper will "fight for its place on the doorstep. We will make the Free Press an indispensable part of the better way of life for the suburban reader," he confided. "We want to provide him meaningful and interesting coverage that touches his daily life, his problems, his triumphs—and above all — every facet of his cost of living. We cannot and we do not try to beat the suburban papers on their own terms."

Stressing the need for editorial investment in suburban newspapers, Daniels ripped "the skinflint who puts out the throw-away shopper and doesn't give a rap for anything but money."

He said some of the freshest examples of progressive newspaper planning are in the suburban field, singling out Paddock Publications and several other newspapers for particular commendation.

ALSO ADDRESSING the two-day conference was Prof. William L. Dulaney of Pennsylvania State University school of journalism and mass media specialist for the Continuing Center for Liberal Education.

He cited the first-rate suburban newspaper as the "least dispensable single news medium for nearly a fourth of this country's population. For 13 million households there is absolutely no substitute for the suburban newspaper."

Dulaney resigned last year as managing editor of Paddock Publications newspapers to assume his present posts at Penn State.

HE ADVISED the newsmen: "While the suburbs have become increasingly newsworthy in the past five years as people, services and industry continue to flee the cities, coverage of suburban growth by the nation's metropolitan papers has improved very little. It's hardly necessary to recount here the record of failure of the metropolitan newspapers to successfully cover the suburbs. The suburban newspaper stands alone as the only medium capable of digging in on a substantial basis and telling suburban residents what's happening in their communities and how it might affect them. The suburban newspaper is the only medium capable of exercising the leadership and giving the explanation of events so badly needed in suburban communities—communities that will account for an estimated 70 per cent of the nation's population by 1970!"

Among areas where Dulaney said there is room for improvement in reporting: local taxes, education, utility rate structures and service; doctors, hospitals, and medicine; mental health, and "ghost" governments, such as obscure township offices.

"Let's air these questions," he declared. "Let's look for answers. Let's note the changes that we're all aware of and interpret them for our confused and sometimes angry readers."

OTHER SPEAKERS at the Foundation conference included Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism, Northwestern university; Dr. Frederick Seibert, dean, college of communication arts, Michigan State university; Dr. Charles L. Allen, head of the journalism department, Oklahoma State university; Richard Harmel, director of marketing, Look Magazine; and Paul Oppermann, executive director of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission, and members of his staff.

Richard C. Hoffmann, associate editor of Paddock Publications, was a member of a discussion panel which explored localization of national and international news in the suburban press.

THE NEED FOR SUBURBAN newsmen to relate appropriate national and international issues to suburban readerships is stressed by Richard C. Hoffman (center), associate editor of Paddock Publications. He discussed localization of such news with James McConnaughey of Dayton, O., Kettering-Oakwood Times (left) and Vernon Meidell of Star Publications, Chicago Heights, at the Suburban Press Foundation's national conference January 25-26.

SHERATON—CHICAGO

"THE SUBURBAN NEWSPAPER stands alone as the only medium capable of digging in on a sustained basis and telling suburban residents what's happening in their communities and how it might affect them," declared Prof. William L. Dulaney of Pennsylvania State University at the Suburban Press Foundation's national conference. Dulaney was formerly managing editor of Paddock Publications .

SHERA—CHICAGO

"SUBURBAN READERS demand hometown news and demand it in depth and in personalized detail," said Derick Daniels, city editor of the Detroit Free Press in a major address to members of the Suburban Press Foundation at a two-day national conference last week.

Salary Hikes For Teachers

The long-awaited and long-promised raises for teachers of Arlington-Prospect high school district 214 are "on the way."

A reaffirmation to devote $125,000 in budget funds for raises in teachers' salaries for the 1962-63 school year came from members of the board of education at their meeting Monday night.

This raise would average $500 for each of the present 250 teachers at the schools.

THE BOARD Monday night restated its policy of not granting raises on a straight "across the board" basis, but to place increases on the combination personal education-experience salary schedule where it might best benefit the school system in attracting and holding good teachers.

The board further recommended abolishment of the present "head of family" al lwocnfoae "head of failmy" "head of family" allowance of $300 per year.

Present staff members drawing the allowance, and new teachers who sign contracts for the 1962-63 year before the "cut off" still to be set, will continue to draw the extra $300 for next year at least.

A TARGET DATE of March 5 was set by the school board for discussion and possible final adoption of the salary schedule for the 1962-63 school year.

The $125,000 slated for salary increases is in addition to $432,000 included in the budget for the hiring of 74 new teachers needed next year for the opening of the new Forest View high school, south of Arlington Heights. An extra $20,000 for coaching increments at the new school and $56,225 for other extra-duty increments also are included in the budget.

Salaries at Arlington and Prospect high schools have slipped in the past few years from their highly-competitive position with other suburban area high schools to a "below average" status.

The extra-salary funds is an admitted attempt by the school board to bring the salary range up again to attract and hold good teachers. (ACM

Check List Provided For Retired Man, 60

By THOMAS COLLINS

On this last day of the year it is fitting that another "Check List for Retirement" be given in this column.

So here is a check list, for everybody who works and who has reached the age of 60.

1. LIFE INSURANCE: Read your policies and see what they say. More than likely you've got fine life insurance for a 38-year-old man and a 36-year-old wife. What can it do for you now? Or in retirement? Check the life insurance company to see if you can convert your policies into retirement income, or something.

2. A will: I'm weary of urging one, and you're probably weary of listening. But you should have had one since the age of 50. Contact a lawyer and write one. It's not for pleasure. It's a duty the older person with money owes his family.

3. INVESTMENTS: Start getting out of what they call "growth" investments and into investments that will pay you a reliable retirement income—of maybe 4 per cent.

4. Cemetery lot: Buy one for husband and wife, in a spot convenient for Mama to visit, since she's likely to live longer.

5. Health: Most people working for big companies have company health insurance policies which will lapse when they retire. The 60-year-old worker who fails to get fully patched up before he loses the insurance hasn't got all his marbles.

6. THE WIDOW: A husband should look into his pension, not later than the age of 60 to see whether he can arrange to have part of his pension paid to his widow in case he dies. This will reduce the pension the husband gets, but . . .

7. Success: The man who works will, as a rule, reach his peak of success by 61 or 62 . . . seldom after that. So, at some point he should stop flirting with a heart attack and ulcers by working so hard. Long-time employees aren't fired when they start relaxing a bit around 62.

8. Retirement town: If you're moving away, it's high time to start deciding where by the age of 60. And from 60 to retirement, get familiar with it. You have no business playing around in California after the age of 60, if you intend to retire to Florida, and vice versa.

9. YOUR HOUSE. If you plan to move out of town when you retire, and you own your house, consider selling it at any time from here on. Because you probably will make a profit on it and it's better to pay the tax on that profit while you still have a salary. Because it may take a year to sell it for the price you want, and if you wait until the day you retire to put it up for sale you may get trapped.

10. Living costs: The working man at 60 should start a slow adjustment to the level of living his pension will require. A slight cutback in spending between 60 and 61, a bit more from 61 to 62, and so on. (A14

Safety Council Eyes Program in Suburbs

The Neighborhood Newspaper Safety Council of Cook County, a not-for-profit corporation chartered to promote grassroots safety, held its first business meeting recently in the Executive House, Chicago.

Among the major points discussed were an educational campaign to cause slow-moving motorists to stay to the right as much as possible, a study of traffic control signals to determine whether their timing meets traffic needs, and a study on the need for painting channel lanes at key intersections.

Matthew C. Sielski, director of safety and traffic engineering for the Chicago Motor Club, explained that there is no law compelling slower moving vehicles to move aside for other traffic.

HE SAID MOST motorists, however, do this as a matter of course and more might do so if it was explained how this would help prevent accidents.

A committee will be appointed to study these problems and report back at the next meeting with recommendations for a program for suburban newspapers to follow to educate their readers concerning specific motoring problems.

Also discussed were changing traffic patterns in the Chicago metropolitan area, and the vital need for a north-south expressway to relieve congestion in the downtown area.

Another area of concern was the pedestrian protection problem. Sielski said that 60 to 70 per cent of all traffic fatalities in Chicago are pedestrians. He said that many cities have lowered their pedestrian casualty rate by enforcing laws which restrict a pedestrian from crossing the street against a traffic signal.

THERE WAS considerable support from delegates for working for uniform traffic regulations.

Attending the meeting were Chicago Motor Club representatives; Herbert J. State Auto Insurance Hiked from $3 to $16

(UPI)—Auto insurance premiums in Illinois will go up an average of $3 to $16 per year for liability coverage on policies secured or renewed after Tuesday.

The Insurance Information Institute located in Chicago blamed the increase on more automobile claims and the higher cost of settling them.

It will be the first boost in auto insurance premiums in Illinois since 1958. Rates were reduced in 1959, and in 1960 insurance companies introduced a "Safe Driver" plan which dropped premiums up to 15 per cent for drivers with good records.

THE STATEWIDE average increase will be 13.6 per cent for liability insurance and 5.5 per cent for collision and comprehensive insurance.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters listed average premium increases for a driver age 25 or over, driving his car for pleasure only and with bodily injury limits of $10,000 per person and $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage liability per accident:

- —Chicago, up $11.
- —Chicago suburbs, up $12.
- —East St. Louis, up $16.
- —Elsewhere in Illinois, up $3 to $8.

Premium increases for comprehensive and collision coverage will average between $1 and $4 a year, with reductions in some cases, the institute said.

"THE PUBLIC really sets its own premium rates," a spokesman said. "If these losses increase - or if repair and medical charges and jury awards rise - then more money must be put in this (insurance) pool."

There is no change in liability premium rates for trucks, the institute said. Collision and comprehensive rates for trucks were adjusted both up and down.

The boost will be put into effect by about 100 insurance companies. Large "independents," such as State Farm Mutual Co. and Allstate Auto Insurance companies were not expected to follow suit.

"No raise in insurance premiums are in sight for us," said a spokesman for State Farm Mutual. (A-14

PRESIDING AT EDITORIAL and advertising clinic sponsored January 25-26 by the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. was Robert Y. Paddock (at podium), vice president of Paddock Publications and president of the Foundation. The two-day conference attracted representatives of more than 75 suburban newspapers from 10 major metropolitan areas, including Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Detroit, Philadelphia, and Chicago.

Experts Stress New Role of Suburban Press

National Parley Learns Potential

America's new suburbs — and their affect on the press — were spotlighted Thursday and Friday at a National conference of suburban editors and advertising managers.

Representatives of 75 newspapers from 10 major metropolitan areas met at the Sheraton-Chicago hotel for the two-day meeting under auspices of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc.

Twenty members of Paddock Publications news and advertising staffs attended the sessions headed by Robert Y. Paddock, foundation president, and Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, executive director.

MAJOR SPEAKER at the conference was Derick Daniels, city editor of the Detroit Free Press and formerly city editor of the Miami Herald. Both metropolitan dailies are Knight Newspapers.

In a blunt, forthright address, Daniels told the suburban newspapermen: "Your field is the journalism of tomorrow."

Recalling the explosion of suburbia after World War II, the daily newspaper editor declared: "America tumbled across the city limits and into the cow pastures, looking for elbow room. They found the room and they set up the holler: they demanded everything in the city moved out to them — supermarkets, sewers, movies, department stores. Their roots went down—often before their sewers—and governments sprang up. These were the ingredients of the great newspaper opportunity: impatient people, perceptive merchants, young governments. And all concentrated right in the back yards of the big cities. The cry was there—for news, for advertising, for knowledge of new neighbors. This was the vacuum that demanded to be filled."

DANIELS charged that daily newspaper publishers muffed their opportunity to fill that vacuum because they lacked foresight.

"Editors and reporters compounded the publishers' failure to move in time," he explained. "They clung furiously — and often still do—to the cynicism that Big City newspapermen have for small-town events and people. They looked down their long patrician noses at the suburbs and refused to realize that news doesn't stop at the city limits.

Daniels expressed a concern that suburbanites may find that the combination of suburban newspaper and TV satisfies their news needs. "I now see the growing danger to the daily press in the combination of better television news and the good suburban newspapers," he added.

TO MEET the growing competition, Daniels said his own Detroit newspaper will "fight for its place on the doorstep. We will make the Free Press an indispensable part of the better way of life for the suburban reader," he confided. "We want to provide him meaningful and interesting coverage that touches his daily life, his problems, his triumphs—and above all — every facet of his cost of living. We cannot and we do not try to beat the suburban papers on their own terms."

Stressing the need for editorial investment in suburban newspapers, Daniels ripped "the skinflint who puts out the throw-away shopper and doesn't give a rap for anything but money."

He said some of the freshest examples of progressive newspaper planning are in the suburban field, singling out Paddock Publications and several other newspapers for particular commendation.

ALSO ADDRESSING the two-day conference was Prof. William L. Dulaney of Pennsylvania State University school of journalism and mass media specialist for the Continuing Center for Liberal Education.

He cited the first-rate suburban newspaper as the "least dispensable single news medium for nearly a fourth of this country's population. For 13 million households there is absolutely no substitute for the suburban newspaper."

Dulaney resigned last year as managing editor of Paddock Publications newspapers to assume his present posts at Penn State.

HE ADVISED the newsmen: "While the suburbs have become increasingly newsworthy in the past five years as people, services and industry continue to flee the cities, coverage of suburban growth by the nation's metropolitan papers has improved very little. It's hardly necessary to recount here the record of failure of the metropolitan newspapers to successfully cover the suburbs. The suburban newspaper stands alone as the only medium capable of digging in on a substantial basis and telling suburban residents what's happening in their communities and how it might affect them. The suburban newspaper is the only medium capable of exercising the leadership and giving the explanation of events so badly needed in suburban communities—communities that will account for an estimated 70 per cent of the nation's population by 1970!"

Among areas where Dulaney said there is room for improvement in reporting: local taxes, education, utility rate structures and service; doctors, hospitals, and medicine; mental health, and "ghost" governments, such as obscure township offices.

"Let's air these questions," he declared. "Let's look for answers. Let's note the changes that we're all aware of and interpret them for our confused and sometimes angry readers."

OTHER SPEAKERS at the Foundation conference included Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, professor of journalism, Northwestern university; Dr. Frederick Seibert, dean, college of communication arts, Michigan State university; Dr. Charles L. Allen, head of the journalism department, Oklahoma State university; Richard Harmel, director of marketing, Look Magazine; and Paul Oppermann, executive director of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission, and members of his staff.

Richard C. Hoffmann, associate editor of Paddock Publications, was a member of a discussion panel which explored localization of national and international news in the suburban press.

THE NEED FOR SUBURBAN newsmen to relate appropriate national and international issues to suburban readerships is stressed by Richard C. Hoffman (center), associate editor of Paddock Publications. He discussed localization of such news with James McConnaughey of Dayton, O., Kettering-Oakwood Times (left) and Vernon Meidell of Star Publications, Chicago Heights, at the Suburban Press Foundation's national conference January 25-26.

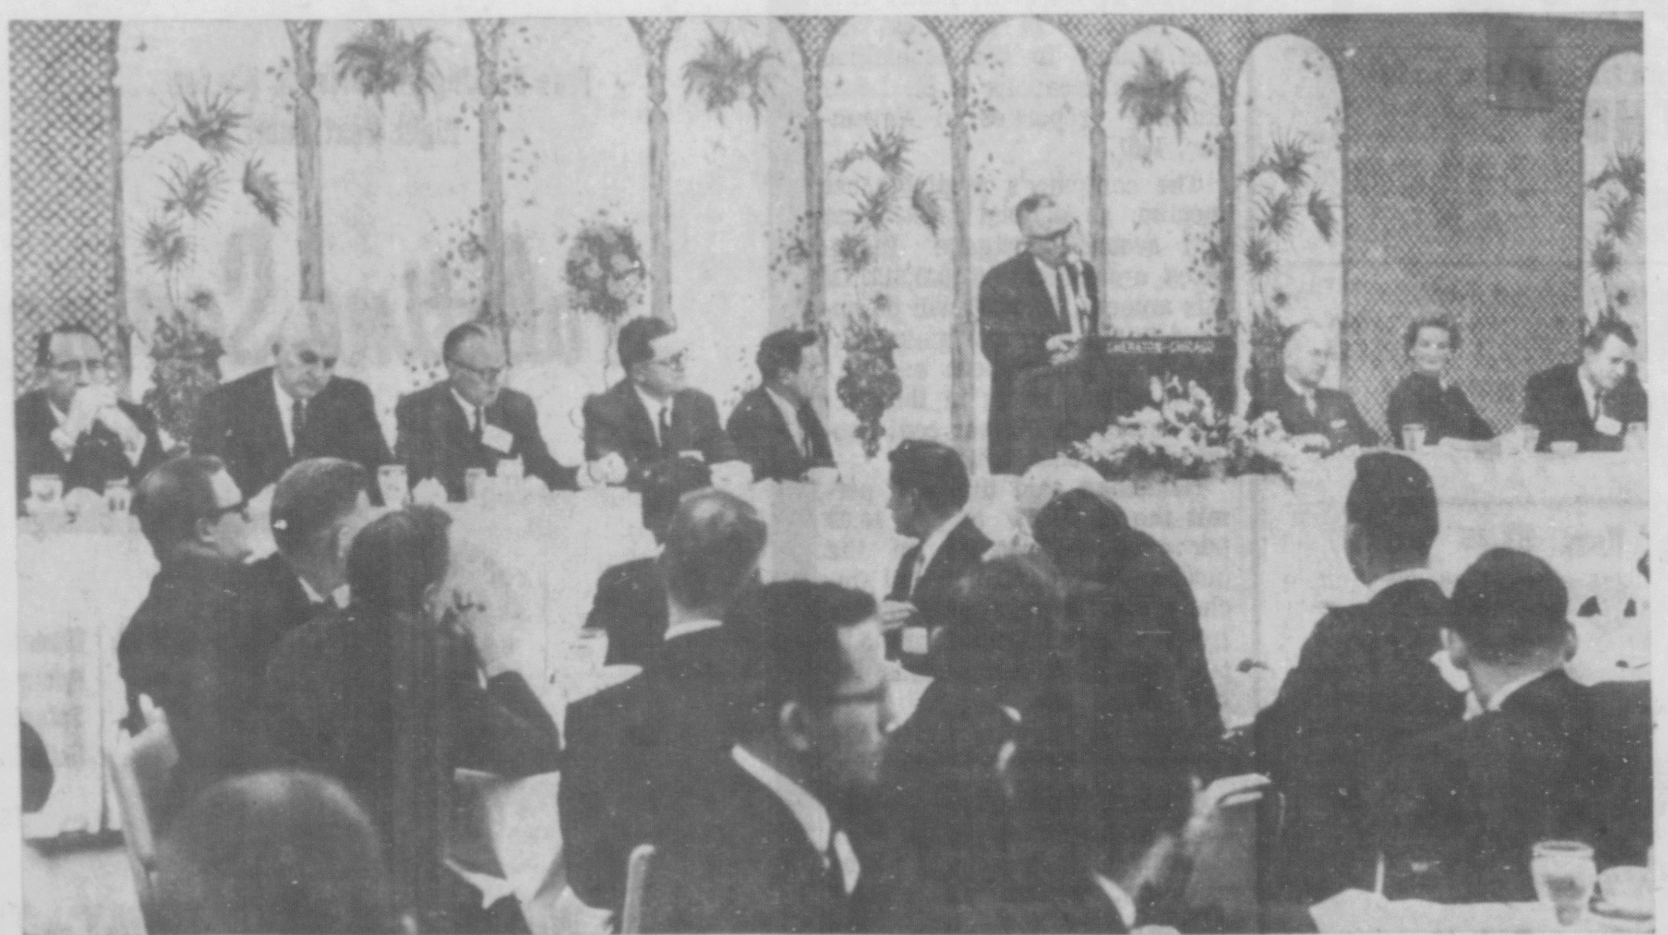
SHERA—CHICAGO

"SUBURBAN READERS demand hometown news and demand it in depth and in personalized detail," said Derick Daniels, city editor of the Detroit Free Press in a major address to members of the Suburban Press Foundation at a two-day national conference last week.



PRESIDING AT EDITORIAL and advertising clinic sponsored January 25-26 by the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. was Robert Y. Set Hearing In Builder Fraud Case

A hearing has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 7, by Circuit Court Judge Cornelius J. Harrington to listen to arguments concerning a complaint by the state's Bureau of Consumer Fraud against a builder accused of securing over $2 million under false pretenses.

David E. Bradshaw, a Palatine attorney and special assistant attorney general, is seeking to secure a temporary injunction against William Ruth, 56, a disbarred New York attorney, to restrain him from dealing in real estate or financing real estate ventures.

RUTH, WHO attempted to develop 10 subdivisions — including one in Palatine township — has, through his attorney, William Doty, filed a motion to strike the injunction move.

In a hearing last Friday, Judge Harrington set the date for oral arguments. Bradshaw said the consumer fraud bureau intends to try to obtain a permanent injunction against Ruth to prevent him from operating in the state.

The subdivision in Palatine township, Joan's Gardens, is located on the south side of Northwest Hwy. just east of Quentin Rd. It was during the course of his financial arrangements for developing subdivisions that Ruth secured the money under false pretenses, the fraud bureau charges. (B8

Suburb GOP Leaders Backing Ed Kucharski

Suburban support for Edmund J. Kucharski was announced Wednesday by John H. Bickley Jr. of Mt. Prospect, chairman of the committee supporting Kucharski's campaign for the Republican nomination for Cook county treasurer.

Thomas J. Houser of Arlington Heights, regular Republican organization candidate for Wheeling township committeeman, has pledged his support to Kucharski, Bickley said.

Others supporting the GOP candidate, according to Bickley, are Max R. Kolin of Rolling Meadows, candidate for Republican committeeman in Palatine township; Edward C. Hofert of Mount Prospect, director and immediate past president of the regular GOP organization in Elk Grove township; and Eugene T. Devitt, regular organization candidate for GOP committeeman in Hanover township.

BICKLEY ALSO announced that John Wall GOP committeeman in Chicago's 11th Ward, and Matthew Slowik, 35th Ward Republican committeeman, have notified Kucharski that their organizations will back him in the April 10 primary election.

Kucharski will address the Niles Township Regular Republican organization Thursday, Feb. 8, in the Skokie town hall, Lincoln and Main streets. He will be introduced by another supporter, Sherwin Willens, Niles GOP committeeman.

Suit Dismissed

Court Supports Church Immunity

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., (UPI)—Attorneys for an injured member of the Cedar Lake Garden club tried to upset the long-established doctrine that a church may not be sued for damages, but the Indiana Appellate court did not meet the challenge.

The court today upheld the Lake Circuit court which ruled in favor of the Holy Name Catholic church at Cook in a $200,000 damage suit filed by Margaret Lynch.

HAMMOND attorneys representing Mrs. Lynch carried the case to the high court, basing an appeal on the argument that the charitable immunity doctrine, which prohibits suing a church, was "born in error, grew up in confusion and is now generally criticized as being erroneous in principle."

Mrs. Lynch fell down a flight of basement steps at the church in 1956 at a time when her garden club rented the basement for $10 to entertain another club.

The high court reviewed the case and concluded that Mrs. Lynch's complaint did not contain sufficient facts to state a cause of action. (A-14

C&NW Wages At $7 Million

(UPI) — The Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and subsidiaries Monday reported earnings of $7,045,612, including special credits for 1961 against $244,450 a year ago.

Excluding the credits on land sales and interest on a federal income tax refund, the road had a net income of $3,075,776 compared with a $7,180,145 net loss in 1960.

Ben W. Heineman, chairman, said the 1961 net was the highest reported by the railroads since 1953.

OPERATING revenues totaled $218,117,122, up from $207,281,897 in 1960. Heineman said the increase in revenues was due mainly to the acquisition of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway properties in November, 1961.

The company's available net income, as defined in its first and second mortgage indentures, amounted to $7,045,612. Of this amount, $270,000 will be applied to the first mortgage sinking fund requirement and $6,775,612 for interest in the second mortgage 4½ per cent convertible income bonds.

Heineman said this will permit the C & NW to pay 10.03 per cent in interest on the bonds. The payment will include the full 4½ per cent for 1961, due April 1, 1962, and 5.53 per cent on accumulations for 1957 and 1959. (A14

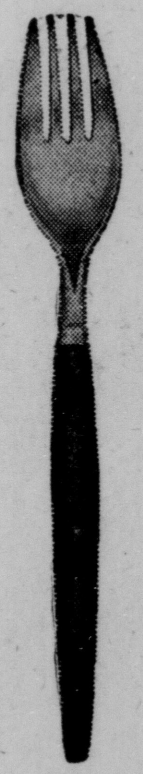
IT'S TIME YOU STARTED A SAVINGS ACCOUNT at

Palatine Savings

ONE OF THESE DAYS—you say—you're going to start putting something aside for that proverbial rainy day. Why put it off one day longer? Why not start saving right away—today—this week sure? Why not open a savings account at Palatine Savings, where your hard-earned savings will be safe and working for you?

IT'S SO EASY. All you have to do is bring your initial savings to friendly, neighborly Palatine Savings. We'll do the rest. (And if you have a savings account at any other savings institution anywhere, just bring in your passbook and let us transfer your account.) Thought-for-today: How about getting the kids off to a thrifty future? They should have their very own Palatine Savings accounts too!



GIFT FOR YOUR THRIFT

There's still time to get your 4-piece Swedish Modern Design Stainless Tableware gift. It's free when you open (or transfer) a savings account for $25.00 or more — or add $25.00 or more to an existing Palatine Savings account. (Offer limited to one free gift per account, under Association rules.)

ATTENTION, Fund Custodians

Palatine Savings welcomes the opportunity to discuss the possibilities of investing all or part of your pension plan and profit sharing funds, welfare and trust funds. Let's talk it over; there's never any obligation.

WHERE YOU SAVE TODAY – TO ENJOY A BETTER TOMORROW

AN AFTERNOON OF drama and choral recitations was the first fine arts presentation at Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic girls high school recently. Shown in the playlet "Gray Bread" are Pat Vondrak, 503 N. Elmhurst, Prospect Heights; Maureen Liston, 13 Glenbrook, Prospect Heights; and Ann Murphy, 830 N. State, Arlington Heights. The new Catholic girls school opened last September, holding classes in temporary quarters at St. Viator Catholic boys high school in Arlington Heights. (B9

Set Hearing In Builder Fraud Case

A hearing has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 7, by Circuit Court Judge Cornelius J. Harrington to listen to arguments concerning a complaint by the state's Bureau of Consumer Fraud against a builder accused of securing over $2 million under false pretenses.

David E. Bradshaw, a Palatine attorney and special assistant attorney general, is seeking to secure a temporary injunction against William Ruth, 56, a disbarred New York attorney, to restrain him from dealing in real estate or financing real estate ventures.

RUTH, WHO attempted to develop 10 subdivisions — including one in Palatine township — has, through his attorney, William Doty, filed a motion to strike the injunction move.

In a hearing last Friday, Judge Harrington set the date for oral arguments. Bradshaw said the consumer fraud bureau intends to try to obtain a permanent injunction against Ruth to prevent him from operating in the state.

The subdivision in Palatine township, Joan's Gardens, is located on the south side of Northwest Hwy. just east of Quentin Rd. It was during the course of his financial arrangements for developing subdivisions that Ruth secured the money under false pretenses, the fraud bureau charges. (B8

Suburb GOP Leaders Backing Ed Kucharski

Suburban support for Edmund J. Kucharski was announced Wednesday by John H. Bickley Jr. of Mt. Prospect, chairman of the committee supporting Kucharski's campaign for the Republican nomination for Cook county treasurer.

Thomas J. Houser of Arlington Heights, regular Republican organization candidate for Wheeling township committeeman, has pledged his support to Kucharski, Bickley said.

Others supporting the GOP candidate, according to Bickley, are Max R. Kolin of Rolling Meadows, candidate for Republican committeeman in Palatine township; Edward C. Hofert of Mount Prospect, director and immediate past president of the regular GOP organization in Elk Grove township; and Eugene T. Devitt, regular organization candidate for GOP committeeman in Hanover township.

BICKLEY ALSO announced that John Wall GOP committeeman in Chicago's 11th Ward, and Matthew Slowik, 35th Ward Republican committeeman, have notified Kucharski that their organizations will back him in the April 10 primary election.

Kucharski will address the Niles Township Regular Republican organization Thursday, Feb. 8, in the Skokie town hall, Lincoln and Main streets. He will be introduced by another supporter, Sherwin Willens, Niles GOP committeeman.

Utility Files Rate Schedule For TV Shows

(UPI)—Illinois Bell Telephone Co. said this week it filed a schedule of rates with the Illinois Commerce Commission at Springfield covering tranmission of closed circuit educational television.

The schedule was designed for use by school districts, colleges and universities effective March 6, the utility said. (A14

Suit Dismissed

Court Supports Church Immunity

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., (UPI) —Attorneys for an injured member of the Cedar Lake Garden club tried to upset the long-established doctrine that a church may not be sued for damages, but the Indiana Appellate court did not meet the challenge.

The court today upheld the Lake Circuit court which ruled in favor of the Holy Name Catholic church at Cook in a $200,000 damage suit filed by Margaret Lynch.

HAMMOND attorneys representing Mrs. Lynch carried the case to the high court, basing an appeal on the argument that the charitable immunity doctrine, which prohibits suing a church, was "born in error, grew up in confusion and is now generally criticized as being erroneous in principle."

Mrs. Lynch fell down a flight of basement steps at the church in 1956 at a time when her garden club rented the basement for $10 to entertain another club.

The high court reviewed the case and concluded that Mrs. Lynch's complaint did not contain sufficient facts to state a cause of action. (A-14

C&NW Wages At $7 Million

(UPI) — The Chicago and North Western Railway Co. and subsidiaries Monday reported earnings of $7,045,612, including special credits for 1961 against $244,450 a year ago.

Excluding the credits on land sales and interest on a federal income tax refund, the road had a net income of $3,075,776 compared with a $7,180,145 net loss in 1960.

Ben W. Heineman, chairman, said the 1961 net was the highest reported by the railroads since 1953.

OPERATING revenues totaled $218,117,122, up from $207,281,897 in 1960. Heineman said the increase in revenues was due mainly to the acquisition of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway properties in November, 1961.

The company's available net income, as defined in its first and second mortgage indentures, amounted to $7,045,612. Of this amount, $270,000 will be applied to the first mortgage sinking fund requirement and $6,775,612 for interest in the second mortgage 4½ per cent convertible income bonds.

Heineman said this will permit the C & NW to pay 10.03 per cent in interest on the bonds. The payment will include the full 4½ per cent for 1961, due April 1, 1962, and 5.53 per cent on accumulations for 1957 and 1959. (A14

New Business Forms Division Announced

A new "business forms" division has been added to the printing services of Paddock Publications, it was announced this week by Warren Rogers, printing sales manager.

Jack G. Flick, of Des Plaines, has been named to head the department to assist the rapidly expanding industrial and mercantile houses in this area to procure modern, time-saving business forms and aid them in reducing administrative costs.

FLICK HAS HAD several years of experience in this field as sales representative for General Manifold and Printing Co., Franklin, Penn.

"Growing firms require trained suppliers of printed forms for the simplification of their operations and we feel that in order to offer the proper service to our customers, we must secure personnel with sufficient background and experience," Rogers stated.

JACK G. FLICK

THE NEWLY-added department will handle carbon interleaved and NCR snapout forms, register forms and peg-board systems.

Paddock Publications has served the needs of business and industrial firms in the northwest area for over 60 years. It produces both letterpress and offset printing and has earned an enviable reputation for service and quality. (BB

OLIVER BRUNING, right, forty-one-year veteran of the Charles Bruning Company, Mount Prospect, was presented with a variety of gifts from his fellow employees upon his recent retirement. Making the presentation at a testimonial dinner in the company cafeteria is Robert A. Munch, company president. The scroll being presented to Mr. Bruning contains the names of the retiree's long-time company associates.

Oliver Bruning Retires, Feted at Company Dinner

Oliver Bruning, a 41-year veteran for Charles Bruning company, Mount Prospect, manufacturer of diazo copying equipment and engineering supplies, was feted recently at a testimonial dinner held in the company's cafeteria.

BRUNING, a nephew of the company founder Charles Bruning, joined the firm in 1920. Since that time he has held various managerial positions until his retirement as administrative manager in the company's marketing and promotion department.

Some 150 employees and company officers honored the Bruning veteran. He received a variety of retirement gifts including a slide projector, portable TV, and an assortment of fishing tackle from his associates.

The 65-year-old Bruning resides with his wife at 808 Chestnut st., Arlington Heights. His two sons, Glen and Val, also work with Bruning company. Retirement plans call for "taking it easy and enjoying life," according to the retiree.

Kimball Hill Announces Plans For Plum Grove Hills Homes

Kimball Hill, developer of Rolling Meadows, is announcing this week a completely new concept for the city's newest subdivision, Plum Grove Hills.

A process of home design which Hill has named "technically engineered custom building" will produce houses satisfactory both to the home owner's tastes and pocketbook.

In addition, Hill promises a trade-in program "so good it will only be told to prospective home buyers." He said it will allow both builder and home owner to have their cake and eat it too.

The 259-lot subdivision is a reorganization of Brookmead, in the southwest corner of Rolling Meadows. Engineering progress has permitted a redesigning of the area to take full advantage of the rolling terrain.

TWO SHOW houses will be built early this spring along Algonquin rd. "They won't be models in the usual sense," Hill noted. "They will demonstrate how houses should be planned in relationship to sloping terrain. They will show the type of construction and type of equipment we use in our homes."

From that point, Hill proposes a brand new approach to choosing a home. The buyer will pick out a lot and make a deposit of $100, then meet with an architect who will work with them in designing a house to fit their particular tastes and budget, working from twelve basic plans that have "almost infinite variations." Rolling Meadows architects Ted Gallis and George Keim will be on the Hill staff.

"If the architect is unable to design a house satisfactory to a buyer," Hill said, "$75 will be refunded."

HE DOESN'T anticipate many refunds. "The plans offer complete flexibility. There are ranches and two-story homes, with or without basements, split levels and split foyer houses. Sizes range from three to five bedrooms. Recreation rooms can be left unfinished; or the house can be completed to the nth degree. There is every type of exterior architecture, traditional or contemporary."

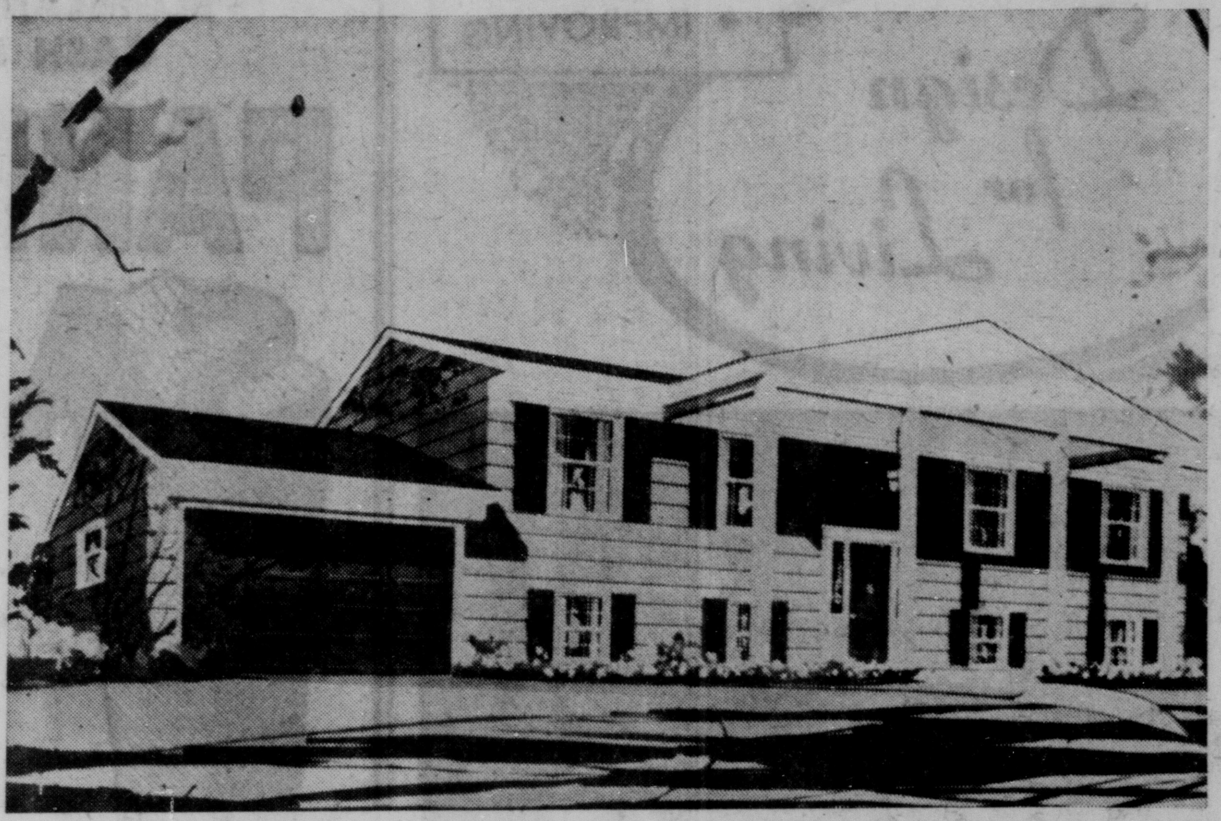
Architects will be charged with adapting the plans to suit individual requirements.

Included in the price of the home is an interior decorating service to plan color selection, special effects, wallpaper and lighting fixtures, all of which can be viewed in a large display room.

The price range will be from $21,400 to $29,000, with 25-year loans available up to 90 per cent. Interest rates are from 5½ per cent to 6¼ per cent.

HOMES UNDER construction are a builder's best advertisement, according to Hill, so in lieu of a big promotion campaign for Plum Grove Hills he is offering to discount the lot price by $1,000 to the first 25 who sign up to have houses started.

Floor plans and elevations will be on display at the Walbrook office, 2209 Kirchoff rd., Rolling Meadows, until the show houses are ready. (BB



THE NATCHEZ is one of the show houses to be erected in Rolling Meadows' newest subdivision, Plum Grove Hills, on Algonquin rd. The five-bedroom home features a mid-level entrance tailored to the sloping lot. Recreation room and two bedrooms are at grade in the rear, and open onto a patio. The lower level also provides a laundry room and storage space. The owner has an option of a wood-burning fireplace in the spacious living room. The upper level also has a separate dining room, built-in kitchen, and three bedrooms. Developer Kimball Hill points out the plan is one of 12 that have "almost infinite variations" to give complete flexibility in designing "technically engineered custom homes. (BB

Lawrence Kunkel Promoted By Kemper Insurance Group

Lawrence W. Kunkel, 412 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, has been elected an officer, with the title of research director, of the two largest companies of the Kemper Insurance group. He also has been appointed a senior executive.

HIS ELECTION with Lumbermens Mutual Casualty company and American Motorists Insurance company was announced by James S. Kemper, board chairman of the companies.

Kunkel has been director of the Kemper market research division since it was established a year and a half ago in the Chicago home office of the companies.

He joined the Kemper organization in 1951 as a fire underwriter in Chicago. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1952 to 1955, achieving the rank of lieutenant (j.g.) After his release from service, he joined the Kemper branch office in Los Angeles as special representative in boiler and machinery and in 1951 was given the additional assignment of fire underwriting manager.

HE HOLDS a bachelor of science degree from the Illinois Institute of Technology, where he studied under a scholarship of the James S. Kemper foundation, and became the first graduate under the foundation's program. He is a member of the Chicago Junior Chamber of Commerce and Industry. (BB

Arlington Savings Is Boon to Economy Here

Just about three of every four dollars of income at Arlington Heights Federal Savings in 1961 went to savers as dividends or were added to reserves for greater financial strength.

So reported President Paul E. Collins to the annual meeting of Federal Savings shareholders January 17.

The fourth dollar of income went for operating expense," he said. "Since this is largely salaries and services, which are for the most part expended locally, this means that practically all of Federal Savings income represents an addition to the economy of the local community."

CHARLES H. WILSON

DIVIDENDS PAID to savers in 1961 reached $684,229, an increase of more than $120,000 over 1960.

Savers added $11,730,000 to their accounts in 1961 and made withdrawals of almost $8,500,000, leaving a net growth of $3,255,000 for the year.

Total assets of the association reached $23,407,260, a 16.4 per cent gain from assets of $20,110,270 reported a year ago.

During 1961, 3,365 new savers were attracted to the association, increasing the total number of savers at year end to 14,983, Collins reported.

TOTAL MORTGAGE lending reached $19,564,747, a 22 per cent increase from the prior year. Of this total, $1,319,800 was used to finance new homes and $4,394,450 was used to finance the purchase of existing homes.

"With these funds," Collins said, "70 new homes and 256 existing homes were purchased last year, almost without exception in our own community."

In the expanding economy expected in 1962, the Federal Savings president pointed out, the tendency of the public will be to spend more and save less. This challenges the association to utilize its resources to stimulate the desire to save among present and potential customers.

COLLINS TOLD shareholders that the association is now using the entire space in its Williamsburg colonial building, erected just three years ago. It will be necessary during 1962, he said, to study plans for enlargement of quarters.

This should pose no real difficulties, he added, for the building was originally designed with future expansion in mind.

At a meeting of the Association directors following the shareholders' meeting, Charles H. Wilson was re-elected chairman of the board. President of Charles H. Wilson, Inc., real estate firm, he was one of the founders of the association and has served as president and, since 1958, as chairman of the board.

IRVING T. Rinker, president of Glennon & Kern, Inc., a Chicago printing firm, was re-elected vice chairman of the Federal Savings board.

Shareholders re-elected for three year terms three board directors whose previous terms had expired.

They are Carl G. Klehm, owner of Charles Klehm & Son nursery and peony farms, Arlington Heights; Donald F. Morton, vice president, Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association; and Arthur J. Schaefer, vice president, DePaul university. (BB

Kimball Hill Announces Plans For Plum Grove Hills Homes

Kimball Hill, developer of Rolling Meadows, is announcing this week a completely new concept for the city's newest subdivision, Plum Grove Hills.

A process of home design which Hill has named "technically engineered custom building" will produce houses satisfactory both to the home owner's tastes and pocketbook.

In addition, Hill promises a trade-in program "so good it will only be told to prospective home buyers." He said it will allow both builder and home owner to have their cake and eat it too.

Automated Teaching Slated For Midwest Business Show

Automated teaching in industry, among other topics, will attract some 30,000 visitors to the 19th annual midwest business show and seminar of Office Management Association of Chicago (OMAC, chapter of National Office Management Association, according to John J. Solon, 614 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, General Chairman of the show.

Teaching machines, of which some 35 variations now exist, are a prominent topic of the conference to be held February 5 to 8 in the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Northwestern University will co-sponsor the seminar which will be attended by several hundred midwest executives interested in programmed learning, automation, personnel and office administration.

MACHINES which instruct personnel may save industry as much as a quarter billion dollars annually within the foreseeable future, according to Solon, vice president of OMAC and superintendent of employe relations for The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. It is estimated that manufacturing firms spend at least $100 annually to train each production worker, a total tab that runs roughly to $2 billion. Much of this work could be done more effectively and economically with teaching machines.

Computor programming, transitor theory, specialized stenography, insurance selling, language and assembly-line procedures are among growing numbers of courses now being taught mechanically. U.S. Industries has perfected a device capable of giving effective instruction and practice in typing or comptometer operations.

JOHN J. SOLON

Industry is the latest field, following education and the military, to develop teaching machines for staff training, and may well be the largest user in time, Solon states.

"Training is an important and necessary expense which now faces a reduction in cost," he says.

SOLON FINDS growth in use of teaching machines as the next logical step in the changeover to automation throughout all phases of industry. He sees the machines as necessary to rapid re-training of technical, office and factory workers for automated systems.

Teaching machines also will help bridge the gap between unfilled technical jobs and unemployed non-technical workers, he states. Such companies as Hughes Aircraft, U. S. Industries, Litton Industries, and Thompson - Rambo-Wooldridge, among others, have developed systems of automated teaching. Dr. Norman Crowder, technical director of U.S. Industries division of Educational Science, who developed his theories while working as a training expert for the Air Force, is a featured speaker at the OMAC Seminar.

Automated instruction has been found to reduce training time by 27 per cent while increasing retention of new techniques by over 10 per cent. As a result, training costs may reduce by a fourth from the current yearly expense of $2 billion, explains Solon.

Sales of teaching machines, expected to exceed $5 million alone for one producer in 1962, are expected to top $100 million by 1970, another reason for OMAC's interest in the machines, states Solon.

MACHINES now sell for a few dollars to as much as $5,000. Courses, called programs, which are inserted in the machine, vary in price according to research required and quantity of a single program produced.

Advantages of automated teaching, as explained by Solon, include freeing instructors from repetitious work such as grading, allowing trainees to proceed at own speed, and offering almost error-free training, each step being presented only after the previous one is mastered.

Many hundreds of latest office machinery will be displayed on the exhibition floor during the four day show and in addition a lecture-demonstration, called "Office Panorama," will be presented each day from 9:30 a.m. (BB

'World's Greatest'

$25 Million Auto Show Opens Feb. 17

The $25 million, 54th annual Chicago Automobile Show will transform vast, new McCormick Place into the world's largest automotive display area from February 17 through 25. The nine days and nights of this most colorful, imaginative exposition of its kind are expected to bring out attendance surpassing last year's record 789,734.

On all counts — attendance, number and variety of exhibits, showmanship of presentation — it is the world's greatest dealer-sponsored Show, held snce 1935 under the sole auspices of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association.

It has been presented more times than any other Automobile Show in the world.

THE UPCOMING renewal relies again on a success formula whose simple elements are these:

The irresistible appeal of the automobile to persons of all ages.

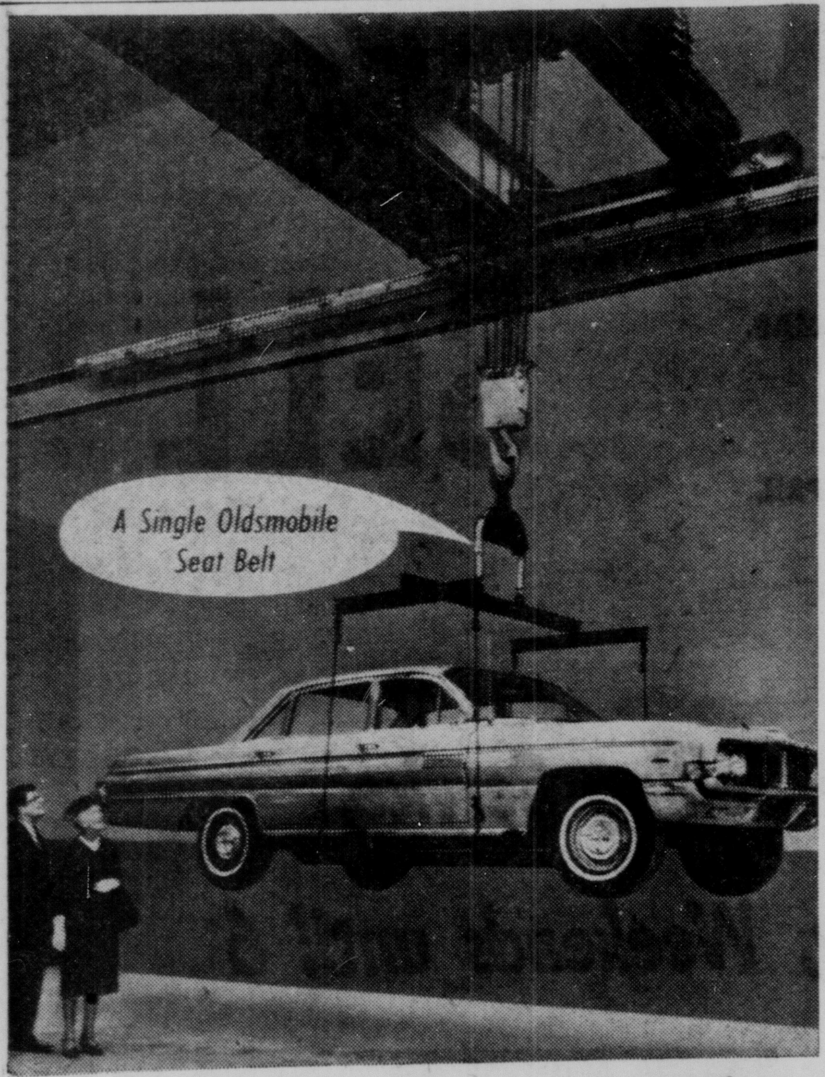
The first chance since late autumn new car introductions to examine and compare all models of all makes ranged side-by-side across a single, vast 300,000 square foot "showroom."

Heart of the 1962 event will be some 450 U. S. passenger cars and trucks and import cars as well as more than 50 accessories, equipment, parts and special automotive-related displays.

There are shows-within-the-show that include popular "try-it-yourself" and other spectator participation devices.

THERE IS A twice-daily "Motorevue of 1962," a musical and variety hour on the stage of the 5,000-seat Arie Crown theater at McCormick Place.

Show hours will be 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. daily after the first Saturday, Feb. 17, when the public will be admitted from 1 p. m. to 11 p. m.



AN OLDSMOBILE caprolan nylon seat belt, no more than a sixteenth of an inch thick and only two inches wide, proved strong enough to lift nearly 2½ tons in this test at Oldsmobile's main plant in Lansing, Mich.

Here, Mrs. Iva Myers, president of The Federation of Women's Clubs, and Paul Mutty of the Oldsmobile product engineering department, observe the dramatic demonstration. Mrs. Myers' interest, of course, was in connection with the General Federation of Women's Clubs' national seat belt campaign.

A "98" Oldsmobile four-door sedan was placed in a sling specially designed for the test. The sling, holding the car, was attached by a safety belt to the hook of a powerful overhead crane and raised from the floor several times. Weight of the Oldsmobile was 4,500 pounds, and the sling, made of iron rope and I-beams, another 200 pounds. Observers watched in amazement as the thin but extremely strong nylon webbing stretched without parting. In a laboratory stress test, Mrs. Myers saw another seat belt resist a pull of over 5,000 pounds.

Each shipment of seat belts, as it comes from the supplier, is similarly stress-tested by the Oldsmobile laboratory staff.

Harry J. Hofer Honored For School Fire Work

A Mount Prospect man, honored for his work following the tragic fire at the Our Lady of Angels School in 1958, recently marked 40 years' service with Illinois Bell Telephone company.

Harry J. Hofer, 116 S. Waverly ave., Mount Prospect, was named "Friend of the Hospital" by the Chicago Hospital council for his work with the injured children following the fire in which 96 were killed.

BY THE DAY after the tragedy, Hofer had visited all the injured children and their parents. He arranged for financial help for the needy and for 22 electric blankets, which were set up as tents over badly-burned children who could not have wool against their bodies.

Hofer ordered radio and TV sets for the children, visited them almost daily for six months and delivered a shipment of blood that had been rushed in by plane from other cities.

HOFER'S WORK with the hospitals was done through the St. Vincent de Paul society, a Catholic charity group. He is president emeritus of the North Particular Council of the Society.

Hofer also has worked with patients at the Dunning State hospital, the Chicago Tubercular Sanitarium, the Veterans Research hospital and the Veterans hospitals at Hines and Downey.

HOFER, a district plant manager in Chicago, is a member of the Western Society of Engineers and the Telephone Pioneers of America, a community service organization of telephone employees with 21 or more years' service.

Hofer and his wife, Caroline, have five children: Mrs. Patricia Griffin, the wife of an Illinois Bell employee in Libertyville; Mrs. Margaret Paus and Mrs. Joan Hansen both of Chicago, and Charles and Charlene, 18-year-old twins who are high school seniors. The Hofers have 10 grandchildren. (BB

Here's How Courts Handle Bankruptcy

(This is another in a series of articles provided as a public service by the Illinois State Bar Association for Paddock Publications.)

Bernard Fisher was becoming frantic. His grocery business was losing money, he was unable to pay his bills as they came due, and he couldn't get new credit. He finally faced the fact that he should abandon the grocery business and return to his job of milkman, but he had heard that if he did so his creditors would obtain judgments against him and tie up his wages.

In desperation Bernard went to talk to a lawyer about bankruptcy.

Bernard's lawyer explained that bankruptcy laws are designed to assist unpaid creditors as well as overburdened debtors. The debtor is given an opportunity to obtain a fresh financial start by having his debts erased, while at the same time creditors are allowed to share on an equal, prorata basis in whatever assets the debtor has at the time the petition in bankruptcy is filed.

All unsecured general creditors will be treated equally so they need not race one another through the courts in order to be first in line for what might be salvaged.

ALL BANKRUPTCY proceedings are instituted in federal courts. They are of two general types, voluntary and involuntary. When the debtor himself institutes the proceeding it is called a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Anyone who is unable to meet his obligations as they come due may bring a voluntary petition.

In contrast an involuntary petition is brought by creditors who force the debtor into the proceeding. An involuntary petition may not be filed until the debtor has committed what is known as an "act of bankruptcy ,"such as making a payment to a creditor on a previously incurred account at a time when both know the debtor is insolvent.

If Bernard decides to bring a voluntary petition, he must prepare a list of all his assets, debts and creditors. He files this in an appropriate court and the clerk of the court sends a notice of the filing of the petition to all creditors listed and of the day set for the first meeting of creditors.

The court will appoint a person to act as Bernard's "trustee in bankruptcy" and it is his duty to collect Bernard's assets. Each creditor must file a written statement setting out his claim against Bernard and a referee appointed by the court hears evidence as to the validity of any claim which is disputed by the trustee.

Likewise, any creditor has the right to question Bernard under oath and to search for hidden assets not listed in the petition.

WHEN BERNARD'S assets and debts have been collected and valued, and if the court is convinced the petition is an honest one, the referee orders the trustee to liquidate the assets and distribute them, prorata, to the creditors. Bernard is then formally discharged from his liabilities.

If, however, it is discovered that he knowingly concealed any assets or engaged in some similar dishonesty the court may refuse to discharge him by denying the petition.

This column is written to inform and not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without consulting his attorney. Even a slight difference in the facts may change the result under the law.

Proposes Quieting Of Wintry Blasts

"Everybody talks about the weather, but no one does anything about it!" This is an often-repeated quotation, but Robert Hood, Cook county assistant farm adviser, proposes that folks can do something about it at least so far as cold winds are concerned.

He suggests that a strip of evergreen trees on the north and west sides of a farmstead will slow down wintry blasts that sweep out of the north and west every season. Such an improvement, Hood says, will not only make stormy periods more comfortable, but also cut fuel and feed costs as well as drifting snow problems.

NORWAY spruce and Douglas fir are the most efficient windbreak evergreens to plant. based upon extensive experience in the state. Hood points out that now, rather than later, is a good time to make plans for planting this coming spring. Location, distance from lots and buildings, fences for protection from livestock and poultry, and future building plans are some of the things to decide ahead of planting time.

In choosing nursery stock, most windbreak planters have found balled - and - burlapped trees to be far superior to the cheaper, bare-rooted ones. With a 14-foot spacing, using the customary three rows of trees, only 22 trees are needed for every 100 feet of windbreak length.

"We shall not be able to grow palm trees in the yard," concluded Hood, "but by quieting the wintry blasts with a windbreak we can certainly make our homes better places to live." (BB

John D. Little of Hollis, N.Y., and Richard Miller of Fort Wayne, Ind., were winners of sales awards recently presented by Flick-Reedy corporation, the nation's largest producer of machine tool-grade, air and hydraulic cylinders. Little and Miller are field engineers for Flick-Reedy.

The awards were presented by Frank Flick, president of the company, at the conclusion of the sales meeting held at Flick-Reedy corporation, Bensenville, on January 5 and 6.

Highlight of the sales meeting was a product knowledge and product presentation contest. Competing against 50 other salesmen, Little won the product knowledge award and Miller the product presentation award. (BB

Gordon Teach Heads Heart Fund Appeal

Gordon Teach Heads—2/30 Itali

Gordon L. Teach, 342 N. Cumnock rd., Inverness, will lead 800 prominent Chicago-area businessmen in a drive to raise $550,000 for the 1952 Heart Fund.

Announcement of Teach's appointment as chairman of the Heart Fund business division was made by general campaign chairman, Donald Erickson of Arthur Andersen & Company.

THE BUSINESS division is organized along 12 industrial sections and further divided into trade groups. Funds raised are used by the Chicago Heart Association for Heart research, education and community service programs.

"The 3-month campaign which began January 1, 1962, will involve the solicitations of corporate, executive and in-plan solicitations at 16,000 Chicago-area firms," Teach said.

He urged that "businessmen consider their contribution not as a charitable gift, but as a sound business investment to help prevent illness resulting in lost time and productivity."

"IT IS ESTIMATED that heart disease, which causes the deaths of over 900,000 Americans annually, is responsible each year for the loss of 195 million work days and $3 billion in productivity," Teach said.

"This cost, in addition to the many other hidden costs it creates, represents the greatest threat to our national economy, aside from defense and foreign aid spendings," he said.

Teach is a partner in A. C. Allyn and Company. He is a member of the Bond club, the Mid-day club, and the Inverness Golf club. This is his ninth year of Heart Association work.

Reid and his wife, Edna, have a daughter, Elizabeth June.

For 'Suburbia Today'

Dr. Spock, European 'Castles' Are Slated

Because "Dr. Spock" is a byword wherever there are babies—and because "Baby And Child Care" has now been followed by "Dr. Spock Talks To Mothers," the February issue of Suburbia Today, which will come to you with the February 8 editions of Paddock Publications leads off with a house call by Editor Marion Lowndes on Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Spock, of Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Concerned with the interests of every suburban family, the supplement then presents a report, by George Fielding Eliot, on the problem of how to make adequate, dignified, living arrangements for our older people that will satisfy everyone.

THEN, THERE'S some hilarious, helpful advice from Albert Brown, Husband and Humorist, on the plight of a man whose wife has left him—for a few days. He tells how—and what—to feed the children, how to get the housework done in a jiffy, and how to get talkative neighbors off the phone.

If you plan to take a vacation abroad, this year, you may be interested in reading "Fit For A King," an article that outlines the advantages of staying at one of the many story-book castles in Europe that are now taking paying guests.

In September, 1961, Suburbia Today published the experience of Mrs. Martha Hutchison, a den mother who was fed up with Cub Scouting. This month, we present a reply to "Din of the Den," from Mrs. Susan Frankeberger, who says, "Long Live The Cubs"—and adds that though it's a lot of hard work, she wouldn't have missed being a den mother for the world!

Garden Editor John Brimer reminds us that February is no time to merely dream about a beautiful summer garden. Now's the time to get out there and do some work, including lawnseeding through the snow, killing chickweed, and planting precooled tulips.

EXTRA-SPECIAL dishes made in extra-special shapes is the theme of Melanie De Proft's food pages, this month. She includes Liptauer Cheese Spread, Raspberry Ring Cake, and Party Ham Loaf—all easy to prepare, kitchen tested, delicious, and lovely to look at.

Why are wives always talking back to our cartoonists? This month's overall message is (ouch), "Yes, Dear." Finally, our news column, "Getting Around," concentrates on Unusual Occupations—for instance, there's a job available for anyone who likes to rake around parking meters or lift 125 pound sandbags, or read water meters (men need not apply).

Baird and Warner Sales Hit Record High in 1961

Baird and Warner Real Estate handled the sale of 1429 properties for a total gross volume of $54,759,450 during 1961, which is the best year ever recorded, according to John L. Hall, vice president and general sales manager. It represents a $7 million plus increase over 1960 (1351 sales and $47,648,007 volume), and tops the previous record year by over 4 million ($50,537,755 in 1959).

Residential transactions, mostly used homes, increased from 1081 in 1960 to 1153 in 1961. The sale of apartment buildings and commercial properties decreased in number, but several large transactions maintained the gross volume. Sales of vacant properties increased 41 per cent from 83 in 1960 to 117 in 1961, including several large parcels sold for subdivision and industrial purposes.

DURING THE year, Baird & Warner participated in a number of real estate "trading" transactions. 'Trading," said Hall, "is on the increase as more owners and real estate brokers become aware of the advantages of exchanging properties and to upgrading without penalty of excessive capital gains taxes."

In the residential field, there is some leveling off of prices, and in some cases the prices now reflect a depreciation, said Hall. We believe 1962 market values will be stable, but the time is past when home owners can expect a yearly in-

Life Insurance and You

Partnership Policy Question Is Raised

by LEO RAPP

Q. My brother and I have gone into business on a partnership basis. A friend has suggested we get partnership insurance. Is this advisable and could you explain why we should have it?

A. BASICALLY, insurance is used to fund a partnership agreement. The agreement is drawn to provide that in the event of the death of one partner, his widow would receive his share of the business in cash from the insurance proceeds and the remaining partner receives the business. This is usually the most advisable method of protecting both the widow and the partner. Speaking in general terms, the widow has neither the ability nor desire to actively participate in the business and the remaining partner would not welcome the participation of someone who could contribute nothing to the operation or productivity of the business. The usual approach is for each partner to insure the life of the other. Have a buy and sell agreement drawn up with both partners and their wives agreeing on a price and affixing their signatures. This instrument should then be reviewed each year for possible adjusted evaluation. You should consult your attorney, your accountant, and your insurance counselor.

Readers are invited to write their questions about Life Insurance to Leo Rapp, "Life Insurance and You," Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. Your questions will be answered in future columns. (BB

CONSTRUCTION ON THE new $1 million distributing center and office building being built for Bantam Books, Inc. in Des Plaines is about 25 per cent completed, Fred H. Prather, the architect, reports. Progress photo shows the structure as it looks today. Completion is scheduled for July 1962.

How to Determine Insurance Needs

By LEO RAPP

Q. I am married, have three children, own my own home, and earn approximately $10,000 per year. I have $22,000 worth of life insurance. I feel this is adequate, but my agent keeps insisting I need more. Just how much should a person like myself carry?

A. The purpose of life insurance, in most cases, is to replace the income lost in the event of the husband's death.

The easiest way to determine the necessary amount of coverage is to figure your assets, minus liabilities, and determine the income your family would need to maintain a suitable standard of living. If you are covered, your wife would receive a monthly income from Social Security for herself and your children, if she were not forced to go to work. Deduct this from her income requirements and decide if the mortgage is to be paid, children sent to college, etc. You must remember that over the next 20 years you will earn approximately $200,000. The amount of coverage you now own is equal to approximately 2 years income. I would suggest you allow your agent to prepare an estate analysis for you.

Readers are invited to write questions about life insurance to Leo Rapp, "Life Insurance and You," Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Illinois. Your questions will be answered in future columns.

Ed Ryan to Speak At Business Meet

L. Ostling Promoted January 1

One of the executive changes recently announced by the State Life Assurance Company of America, effective January 1, was the promotion of Laurence W. Ostling Jr., manager of the Chicago group sales office, to superintendant of agencies and an officer of the company.

A World War II U.S. Army veteran, Ostling graduated from Northwestern university in 1948. He received his master's degree in business administration there in 1954.

OSTLING entered the insurance business in 1950 and became Chicago district manager for the group department of the Zurich Insurance company. He joined State Mutual in 1955 as Chicago group manager.

In his new position at the home office, he will be responsible for a group of 15 company agencies.

Ostling lives with his wife and two children at 1108 W. Milburn ave., Mount Prospect. He will move his family to Worcester in the near future. (BB

Plan 20 New Stores For Topps in 1962

Topps Rolling Meadows, Kirchoff rd., will join in the opening of 20 new discount department stores throughout the United States during 1962. Topps, a division of Interstate Department Stores, Inc. of New York, anticipates annual sales of over $300,000,000 according to Sol W. Cantor, president.

AN ENTIRELY new concept to be introduced this year will be Topps entry into the discount food field. Six complete food cities are scheduled to open adjacent to Topps Discount City department stores. The entry by Topps into the discount food field will be a major breakthrough in the discount field. It is hoped that eventually discount food units will become an integral part of all Topps discount stores.

The new discount operations will include: three units in California; three in Cleveland, Ohio; two each in Detroit, Chicago and Columbus, Ohio; one each in Minneapolis, Minnesota; Indianapolis, Indiana; East Hartford, Connecticut; Brockton, Massachusetts; Buffalo, New York; Green Bay, Wisconsin and Totowa, New Jersey.

In addition to Topps Discount City, Rolling Meadows, Kirchoff rd., other Topps stores are located in Wilson, Berlin, West Haven, Fairfield, Middletown, Connecticut; Albany, New York; Springfield, Massachusetts; three in Chicago; three in Louisville, Kentucky; plus single units in Baltimore, Maryland; Highland, Indiana; Lancaster and Coplay, Pennsylvania.

TOPPS DISCOUNT City which was Rolling Meadows' first complete discount department store will bring to its customers even lower discount prices as a result of the additional units which they are now opening. Topps famous money back guarantee, "profits in pennies" and lower discount prices guaranteed will be continued.

In addition, all of the costly fringe services such as charge accounts, telephone orders, home deliveries and needless sales personnel will be dispensed with as in the past.

Based on the present plan, Topps customers in Rolling Meadows will participate in the grand opening of Topps two new stores in Chicago as the entire advertising program will be presented in the Rolling Meadows area.

Sargent & Lundy Adds Associate

Robert F. Scheibel, 427 S. Donald ave., Arlington Heights, has been appointed to the position of associate in the firm of Sargent and Lundy, Chicago consulting engineers specializing in the design of steam electric generating stations. Scheibel, holder of a master's degree in mechanical engineering from Illinois Institute of Technology, has been a member of the firm's engineering staff since 1952.

Kandlbinder Wins Prize

R. J. Kandlbinder, 1308 Gloria dr., Palatine, was judged a second-place winner in Shell Oil company's 1961 sales contest. Kandlbinder, a merchandising salesman in the Chicago north district, competed against merchandising salesmen throughout Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

Shell Dealer Wins Award

Jesse Galloway, proprietor of the Shell Service station at Golf and Busse rds., Mount Prospect, was judged fourth place winner in Shell Oil company's annual Christmas decorating contest for service stations. Galloway competed against over 200 other dealers in the Chicago north metropolitan and north suburban district. He received a cash award of $20. (BB

Life Insurance and You

Partnership Policy Question Is Raised

by LEO RAPP

Q. My brother and I have gone into business on a partnership basis. A friend has suggested we get partnership insurance. Is this advisable and could you explain why we should have it?

A. BASICALLY, insurance is used to fund a partnership agreement. The agreement is drawn to provide that in the event of the death of one partner, his widow would receive his share of the business in cash from the insurance proceeds and the remaining partner receives the business. This is usually the most advisable method of protecting both the widow and the partner. Speaking in general terms, the widow has neither the ability nor desire to actively participate in the business and the remaining partner would not welcome the participation of someone who could contribute nothing to the operation or productivity of the business. The usual approach is for each partner to insure the life of the other. Have a buy and sell agreement drawn up with both partners and their wives agreeing on a price and affixing their signatures. This instrument should then be reviewed each year for possible adjusted evaluation. You should consult your attorney, your accountant, and your insurance counselor.

CONSTRUCTION ON THE new $1 million distributing center and office building being built for Bantam Books, Inc. in Des Plaines is about 25 per cent completed, Fred H. Prather, the architect, reports. Progress photo shows the structure as it looks today. Completion is scheduled for July 1962.

How to Determine Insurance Needs

By LEO RAPP

Q. I am married, have three children, own my own home, and earn approximately $10,000 per year. I have $22,000 worth of life insurance. I feel this is adequate, but my agent keeps insisting I need more. Just how much should a person like myself carry?

A. The purpose of life insurance, in most cases, is to replace the income lost in the event of the husband's death. The easiest way to determine the necessary amount of coverage is to figure your assets, minus liabilities, and determine the income your family would need to maintain a suitable standard of living. If you are covered, your wife would receive a monthly income from Social Security for herself and your children, if she were not forced to go to work. Deduct this from her income requirements and decide if the mortgage is to be paid, children sent to college, etc. You must remember that over the next 20 years you will earn approximately $200,000. The amount of coverage you now own is equal to approximately 2 years income. I would suggest you allow your agent to prepare an estate analysis for you.

Changing Times

Many State Counties Show Population Loss

While Illinois' population rose more than 1.3 million from 1950 to 1960, only half of the counties gained while the other half lost inhabitants.

These shifts in population have brought major problems to the institutions and agencies that serve people, not only in the areas gaining population but also in those of declining population, a University of Illinois rural sociologist reports.

C. L. Folse observes that most population gains have occurred in the northern, central and east-central counties of the state and in those counties with large cities. The counties losing population are concentrated in the southern and western areas of the state.

Folse also notes the following changes that have occurred:

THE CENSUS now classifies the population as about 20 per cent rural. The remainder is urban, in places of 2,500 or more.

The excess of births over deaths accounted for about 90 per cent of the Illinois population gain from 1950 to 1960. About 10 per cent was due to net migration into the state.

The 10 per cent net gain through migration was due entirely to a rise in the rural population. Urban areas actually lost residents through migration. The trend is a reverse of the long-time pattern of rural residents migrating to urban areas. It also shows that cities have grown through annexation, taking in more area, rather than gaining population through more dense settlement within the former city boundaries.

Nonwhite population made up 10.6 per cent of the total in 1960 compared with only 1.8 per cent in 1900. The rapid growth of nonwhite population in recent years indicates a heavy migration from southern states since 1940.

WOMEN outnumbered men in 1960, as they did in 1950. For every 100 white females, there were 97 white males. For every 100 nonwhite females, there were 93.4 nonwhite males. The increasing number of females is due to different death rates and the longer life expectancy of females.

The counties showing the most significant population gains, amounting to one-third or more of the 1950 population, were Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, Will and Winnebago.

Counties showing the greatest population losses, amounting to one-fifth or more of the 1950 population, were Alexander, Gallatin, Hardin, Johnson, Pope, Pulaski and Saline.

RURAL population declines were due to the smaller number of people living on farms. Where counties gained in rural population, it was due to rural nonfarm residents who live in the country and work in large centers.

The sparse number of people and small size of many counties pose acute problems of planning and organization to meet the demands for schools, local government, roads, police and fire protection and other services. Perhaps the time is ripe for considering the needs for geographic and political reorganization of some of these units to maintain services from tax resources at an equitable cost.

Many Illinois counties were created when local government was largely determined by horse-and-buggy transportation over unimproved roads, Folse concludes. (Fm

Herbicides Aid Corn Production

Much progress has been made recently in developing pre-emergence herbicides for corn, but consider them as chemical tools to add to cultural practices — rotary hoeing and cultivating — rather than replacements, agronomist E. L. Knake advised at the 14th annual Custom Spray Operators' school here today.

Atrazine and Randox head the list of chemicals in the weed-killing arsenal recommended for corn in Illinois this year.

ATRAZINE CONTROLS both annual grasses and broad-leaved weeds. It has performed especially well on soils that are low in organic matter. Simazine is preferable to atrazine on sandy soils, Knake added.

Randox controls annual grasses but not broad-leaved weeds. It works well where foxtail grasses are a problem. The granular form of Randox reduces the irritation to skin and eyes — common in the liquid form — but won't eliminate it completely, Knake advised.

Although 2,4-D ester primarily controls broad - leaved weeds, it may give some control of grass if enough rain falls soon after it is applied. It may injure corn if heavy rains occur soon after treatment. The agronomist also warned against using 2,4-D ester on sandy soils.

AN ADDED chemical in Randox-T improves control of broad-leaved weeds, Knake said, but there's still some question of crop tolerance, especially when soybeans follow corn.

Eptam is recommended only where Johnsongrass or wild cane is a problem. It should be worked into the top inch of soil with a harrow or rotary hoe. Eptam may damage corn, Knake pointed out, but it won't be nearly so severe as the damage from Johnsongrass or wild cane. (Fm

No Sub for Good Lawn Management

There is still no substitute for good management to lick weeds in lawns. But if management doesn't crowd out weeds, chemicals are available to clean up any lawn pests, agronomist F. W. Slife reported at the Fourteenth Annual Spray Operators' School.

On dandelion and plantain, 2,4-D does an excellent job. However, Silvex or 2,4, 5-TP may soon replace 2,4-D as the best material for controlling all broad-leaved weeds.

ENDOTHAL IS exceptionally good for controlling knotweed and white clover, Slife advised.

Two new chemicals, Dacthal and Zytron, along with calcium arsenate, should give home owners effective control over crabgrass. To be most effective, any of these crabgrass killers should be applied before the seed germinates, Slife pointed out. (Fm

Today's Agriculture

by Robert E. Hood, Assistant Farm Adviser

4-H—WHAT IS IT?

The emblem of the 4-H Clubs is a four-leaf clover with an "H" in each of the four parts. This emblem symbolizes the fourfold development of Head, Heart, Hand, and Health.

Young people between the ages of 10 and 20 years may become 4-H Club members. They join a local club led by a volunteer local leader, conduct a project, and participate in meetings of the club. 4-H Clubs originated in the open country, but now they are found everywhere.

4-H work is a practical, informal, primarily out-of-classroom educational program. Yet, like the public school system, it is tax-supported. On the national level, 4-H work is part of the Federal Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. On the state level it is part of the Cooperative Extension Service of the Land-Grant College System, in Illinois located in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. The county farm and home advisers and assistants are a part of this service. This means that the 4-H program has a definite educational status.

4-H Club work is built on the principle of "learning by doing." The types of learning experiences are many and varied. Projects provide an opportunity to learn through real-life situations.

Demonstrations give young people a chance to show others what they have learned. Numerous activities and events provide opportunities for them to enlarge their cultural experiences. Judging provides decision-making experiences and develops skills of discrimination.

Every educational program has a statement of purposes or objectives. The Extension Service has developed these objectives for the work with youth:

1. Acquire knowledge, skills and attitudes for a satisfying home and family life.
2. Enjoy a useful work experience, together with the responsibility and satisfaction of personal accomplishment.
3. Develop leadership talents and abilities to achieve their citizenship potential.
4. Appreciate the value of research and learn scientific methods of making decisions and solving problems.
5. Recognize the importance of scientific agriculture and home economics and their relation to our total economy.
6. Explore career opportunities in agriculture, home economics, and related fields, and recognize the need for a continuing education.
7. Appreciate nature, understand conservation, and make wise use of natural resources.
8. Cultivate traits of healthful living, purposeful recreation, and intelligent use of leisure time.
9. Strengthen personal standards and develop a philosophy of life based on lasting and satisfying values.
10. Gain attitudes, abilities, and understandings for working cooperatively with others.

Every member has a project that outlines tasks to be accomplished. He is expected to attend meetings, usually held monthly, give at least one talk or demonstration during the club year, and exhibit the work done in his project. Clubs are generally organized on a community basis, and one or more leaders work with each club. These leaders help members select projects, plan meetings, and conduct the many activities and events that are planned. Older members act as junior leaders to assist the younger members with their projects and activities.

The 4-H Club program is unique in that it is family-centered. Parents make a vital contribution to the program through help with projects and participation in the many activities of the club. Much of the project work is done at home, and many of the club meetings are held in the homes of members.

The local 4-H Club is a part of the community life. It supplements the work of the church and other community organizations. It may also become a vital part of the community through member participation in community service projects, such as the safety inspection program outlined as part of the automotive project.

Although most of the 4-H program is centered in the home and the local club, there are many county, district, and state activities. There are county-wide contests in Share-the-Fun, public speaking, demonstrations, and county project exhibits. County training meetings are provided in many projects. District 4-H camps are located in various parts of the state, and every 4-H member has the opportunity to attend camp if he desires. The State Fair provides many opportunities for members to exhibit and to take part in numerous activities.

This is a very brief outline of what 4-H attempts to do. You will learn much more about it from local leaders in our own communities. Anyone wishing more information may contact our phone at 201 N. Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights, or phone CL 3-6460.

GOP Leader Charges Politics for 4-H

WASHINGTON, D.C., (UPI)—Rep. Leslie C. Arends, House GOP whip, charged last week that Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman is trying to turn 4-H clubs into a political force for the Democratic party.

The Illinois Republican said in a House speech that Freeman is seeking to put his department's extension service, which administers the 4-H clubs, into active politics.

"HE IS TURNING a non-partisan educational agency into a medium for dissemination of political propaganda, setting up a system for the 'party line' conditioning of American youth," Arends said.

The 94,000 clubs have a membership of 2.3 million boys and girls, he said.

Arends charged the Secretary's effort to amass "political peasants" extends to adult farmers as well.

"AT A MEETING of the ASC in Springfield, Ill., all the committeemen were advised, with the Under Secretary of Agriculture present, that while they could not be denied voting as they saw fit, they were expected to support the President's program or resign," he said.

"In other words, they were expected to be politically active in behalf of the Kennedy Administration." (Fm

Farmers' Outlook

Cattle Prospect Is Favorable: Simerl

by L. H. SIMERL

The first 1962 quarterly report of cattle on feed shows a favorable prospect for both the producers and the consumers of beef.

The USDA report showed that farmers are fattening enough cattle to provide an abundance of beef for consumers, but not enough to seriously depress prices.

On January 1 farmers in 26 major feeding states were fattening 7,833,000 head of cattle and calves. This was 2 per cent more than were being fattened the year before.

Prospective marketings for this first quarter are up 3 per cent from the same period a year ago. Average weights per head seem likely to be about the same as they were in 1961. Market supplies of fed cattle are expected to continue to be abundant in the later quarters of this year. The reason is that the 1961 calf crop was one per cent larger than that of the previous year, and the slaughter of calves for veal was 6 per cent less.

ADDITIONAL INCREASES in beef supplis may come from the slaughter of more cows in 1962 than in 1961. The slaughter of cows was unusually small last year. Altogether, beef production is expected to be 3 or 4 per cent larger this year than it was in 1961.

Population growth is following its usual trend. It is increasing about 1 2/3 per cent a year. Thus the supply of beef per person for this year should at least equal the record of nearly 87 pounds available in 1961.

Most of the expected increase in market supplies of cattle should be offset by stronger consumer demand for beef. Whereas employment and consumer income were at the low part of the business cycle through most of 1961, they will be in a higher phase this year.

FOR EXAMPLE, this year began with about 62 million persons working on nonfarm jobs. This was 3 per cent more than a year before. At the same time, average weekly earnings of factory workers were around $96, up from $89.55 a year earlier.

While consumer buying power will be stronger than in 1961, beef will meet more competition at retail food counters. The supply of pork is expected to be up 2 to 4 per cent. There is more turkey in cold storage. But the supply of broilers may not be so abundant as it was last year.

Prices of fat cattle may average nearly as high in 1962 as in 1961, but with less seasonal variation. In 1961 the average price of choice steers at Chicago was about $25 a hundred pounds.

CATTLE prices followed a V-shaped pattern last year They made their high in January, when prices for choice steers at Chicago averaged $27.42 a hundred pounds. By June the monthly average was down to $22.38. Prices then climbed to $26.13 in December.

For most of 1962 we expect prices for choice steers to hold around the $24 to $25 level.

Bread, Sewing 4-H Topics

Two demonstrations, one on the proper way to make corn bread and another on hand sewing, given by Karen Rabe and Jackie White, were the high points of the Medinah 4-H meet January 8.

Hostess for the evening was Phyllis Rich, who announced the next meeting of the Medinah Merry Teens and Maids will be in South school, at which time Mrs. Hanson will speak on first aid.

Changing Times

Many State Counties Show Population Loss

While Illinois' population rose more than 1.3 million from 1950 to 1960, only half of the counties gained while the other half lost inhabitants.

These shifts in population have brought major problems to the institutions and agencies that serve people, not only in the areas gaining population but also in those of declining population, a University of Illinois rural sociologist reports.

C. L. Folse observes that most population gains have occurred in the northern, central and east-central counties of the state and in those counties with large cities. The counties losing population are concentrated in the southern and western areas of the state.

Folse also notes the following changes that have occurred:

THE CENSUS now classifies the population as about 20 per cent rural. The remainder is urban, in places of 2,500 or more.

The excess of births over deaths accounted for about 90 per cent of the Illinois population gain from 1950 to 1960. About 10 per cent was due to net migration into the state.

The 10 per cent net gain through migration was due entirely to a rise in the rural population. Urban areas actually lost residents through migration. The trend is a reverse of the long-time pattern of rural residents migrating to urban areas. It also shows that cities have grown through annexation, taking in more area, rather than gaining population through more dense settlement within the former city boundaries.

Nonwhite population made up 10.6 per cent of the total in 1960 compared with only 1.8 per cent in 1900. The rapid growth of nonwhite population in recent years indicates a heavy migration from southern states since 1940.

WOMEN outnumbered men in 1960, as they did in 1950. For every 100 white females, there were 97 white males. For every 100 nonwhite females, there were 93.4 nonwhite males. The increasing number of females is due to different death rates and the longer life expectancy of females.

The counties showing the most significant population gains, amounting to one-third or more of the 1950 population, were Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, Will and Winnebago.

Counties showing the greatest population losses, amounting to one-fifth or more of the 1950 population, were Alexander, Gallatin, Hardin, Johnson, Pope, Pulaski and Saline.

RURAL population declines were due to the smaller number of people living on farms. Where counties gained in rural population, it was due to rural nonfarm residents who live in the country and work in large centers.

The sparse number of people and small size of many counties pose acute problems of planning and organization to meet the demands for schools, local government, roads, police and fire protection and other services. Perhaps the time is ripe for considering the needs for geographic and political reorganization of some of these units to maintain services from tax resources at an equitable cost.

Many Illinois counties were created when local government was largely determined by horse-and-buggy transportation over unimproved roads, Folse concludes. (Fm

Herbicides Aid Corn Production

Much progress has been made recently in developing pre-emergence herbicides for corn, but consider them as chemical tools to add to cultural practices — rotary hoeing and cultivating — rather than replacements, agronomist E. L. Knake advised at the 14th annual Custom Spray Operators' school here today.

Atrazine and Randox head the list of chemicals in the weed-killing arsenal recommended for corn in Illinois this year.

ATRAZINE CONTROLS both annual grasses and broad-leaved weeds. It has performed especially well on soils that are low in organic matter. Simazine is preferable to atrazine on sandy soils, Knake added.

Randox controls annual grasses but not broad-leaved weeds. It works well where foxtail grasses are a problem. The granular form of Randox reduces the irritation to skin and eyes — common in the liquid form — but won't eliminate it completely, Knake advised.

Although 2,4-D ester primarily controls broad - leaved weeds, it may give some control of grass if enough rain falls soon after it is applied. It may injure corn if heavy rains occur soon after treatment. The agronomist also warned against using 2,4-D ester on sandy soils.

AN ADDED chemical in Randox-T improves control of broad-leaved weeds, Knake said, but there's still some question of crop tolerance, especially when soybeans follow corn.

Eptam is recommended only where Johnsongrass or wild cane is a problem. It should be worked into the top inch of soil with a harrow or rotary hoe. Eptam may damage corn, Knake pointed out, but it won't be nearly so severe as the damage from Johnsongrass or wild cane. (Fm

No Sub for Good Lawn Management

There is still no substitute for good management to lick weeds in lawns. But if management doesn't crowd out weeds, chemicals are available to clean up any lawn pests, agronomist F. W. Slife reported at the Fourteenth Annual Spray Operators' School.

On dandelion and plantain, 2,4-D does an excellent job. However, Silvex or 2,4, 5-TP may soon replace 2,4-D as the best material for controlling all broad-leaved weeds.

ENDOTHAL IS exceptionally good for controlling knotweed and white clover, Slife advised.

Two new chemicals, Dacthal and Zytron, along with calcium arsenate, should give home owners effective control over crabgrass. To be most effective, any of these crabgrass killers should be applied before the seed germinates, Slife pointed out. (Fm

4-H—WHAT IS IT?

The emblem of the 4-H Clubs is a four-leaf clover with an "H" in each of the four parts. This emblem symbolizes the fourfold development of Head, Heart, Hand, and Health.

Young people between the ages of 10 and 20 years may become 4-H Club members. They join a local club led by a volunteer local leader, conduct a project, and participate in meetings of the club. 4-H Clubs originated in the open country, but now they are found everywhere.

4-H work is a practical, informal, primarily out-of-classroom educational program. Yet, like the public school system, it is tax-supported. On the national level, 4-H work is part of the Federal Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. On the state level it is part of the Cooperative Extension Service of the Land-Grant College System, in Illinois located in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. The county farm and home advisers and assistants are a part of this service. This means that the 4-H program has a definite educational status.

4-H Club work is built on the principle of "learning by doing." The types of learning experiences are many and varied. Projects provide an opportunity to learn through real-life situations.

Demonstrations give young people a chance to show others what they have learned. Numerous activities and events provide opportunities for them to enlarge their cultural experiences. Judging provides decision-making experiences and develops skills of discrimination.

Every educational program has a statement of purposes or objectives. The Extension Service has developed these objectives for the work with youth:

1. Acquire knowledge, skills and attitudes for a satisfying home and family life.
2. Enjoy a useful work experience, together with the responsibility and satisfaction of personal accomplishment.
3. Develop leadership talents and abilities to achieve their citizenship potential.
4. Appreciate the value of research and learn scientific methods of making decisions and solving problems.
5. Recognize the importance of scientific agriculture and home economics and their relation to our total economy.
6. Explore career opportunities in agriculture, home economics, and related fields, and recognize the need for a continuing education.
7. Appreciate nature, understand conservation, and make wise use of natural resources.
8. Cultivate traits of healthful living, purposeful recreation, and intelligent use of leisure time.
9. Strengthen personal standards and develop a philosophy of life based on lasting and satisfying values.
10. Gain attitudes, abilities, and understandings for working cooperatively with others.

Every member has a project that outlines tasks to be accomplished. He is expected to attend meetings, usually held monthly, give at least one talk or demonstration during the club year, and exhibit the work done in his project. Cattle Prospect Is Favorable: Simerl

by L. H. SIMERL

The first 1962 quarterly report of cattle on feed shows a favorable prospect for both the producers and the consumers of beef.

The USDA report showed that farmers are fattening enough cattle to provide an abundance of beef for consumers, but not enough to seriously depress prices.

On January 1 farmers in 26 major feeding states were fattening 7,833,000 head of cattle and calves. This was 2 per cent more than were being fattened the year before.

Prospective marketings for this first quarter are up 3 per cent from the same period a year ago. Average weights per head seem likely to be about the same as they were in 1961. Market supplies of fed cattle are expected to continue to be abundant in the later quarters of this year. The reason is that the 1961 calf crop was one per cent larger than that of the previous year, and the slaughter of calves for veal was 6 per cent less.

ADDITIONAL INCREASES in beef supplis may come from the slaughter of more cows in 1962 than in 1961. The slaughter of cows was unusually small last year. Altogether, beef production is expected to be 3 or 4 per cent larger this year than it was in 1961.

Population growth is following its usual trend. It is increasing about 1 2/3 per cent a year. Thus the supply of beef per person for this year should at least equal the record of nearly 87 pounds available in 1961.

Most of the expected increase in market supplies of cattle should be offset by stronger consumer demand for beef. Whereas employment and consumer income were at the low part of the business cycle through most of 1961, they will be in a higher phase this year.

FOR EXAMPLE, this year began with about 62 million persons working on nonfarm jobs. This was 3 per cent more than a year before. At the same time, average weekly earnings of factory workers were around $96, up from $89.55 a year earlier.

While consumer buying power will be stronger than in 1961, beef will meet more competition at retail food counters. The supply of pork is expected to be up 2 to 4 per cent. There is more turkey in cold storage. But the supply of broilers may not be so abundant as it was last year.

Prices of fat cattle may average nearly as high in 1962 as in 1961, but with less seasonal variation. In 1961 the average price of choice steers at Chicago was about $25 a hundred pounds.

CATTLE prices followed a V-shaped pattern last year They made their high in January, when prices for choice steers at Chicago averaged $27.42 a hundred pounds. By June the monthly average was down to $22.38. Prices then climbed to $26.13 in December.

For most of 1962 we expect prices for choice steers to hold around the $24 to $25 level.

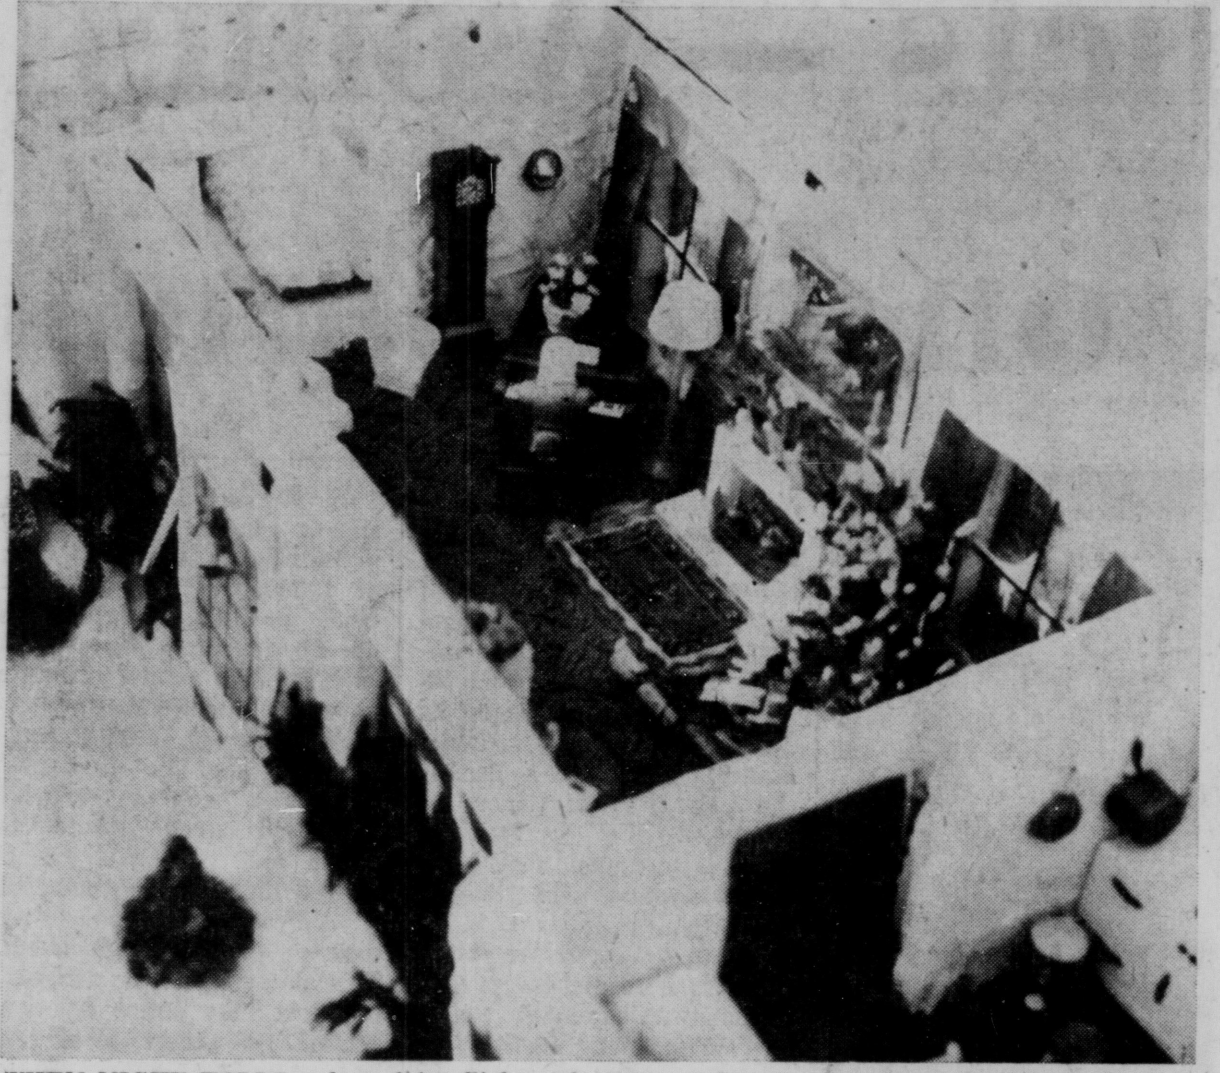
'Sugar Cube' House Delights Grandchildren



WHEN NIGHT FALLS only a faint flicker of light from fireplace can be seen from outside sugar cube doll house, the creation of Mrs. J. Bart, Bensenville. But inside living room shows cozy scene of family togetherness. Traditional Christmas tree is trimmed with tiny hand made ornaments; stockings hang from fireplace awaiting "late caller."

Unique Doll House 10-Year Project

by BETH WEIR

Through many generations the story of "Hansel and Gretel" by the Grimm Brothers, weavers of juvenile fairy tales, has kept children spellbound with an exciting account of a sister and bother whose adventure in the deep, dark forests of Germany eventually leads to the discovery of a ginger bread house.

Fortunate are the grandchildren of a Bensenville woman, Mrs. Joseph Bart. Their world of fantasy shows itself in tangible form during winter month visits to the Bart home at 440 S. Central. A sugar cube doll house and surrounding garden provide the youngsters with countless hours of play in a "land of make believe."

Ten years ago, with an abundant supply of patience, sugar cubes, frosting mix and a notion to "surprise her grandchildren," Mrs. Bart constructed a one-room house. She made it life-like with the addition of a husband-wife team and furnishings.

AS THE children grew, so did the house. Each year brought fresh ideas; one youngster's unexpected query two years later prompted Mrs. Bart into building a second room, a kitchen, for soon the family would number three.

Now measuring 2½ feet long by a foot wide, the modern ranch design houses three rooms of family life in miniature geared to the comforts of five: mother, father and three daughters, in a background of holiday decor.

The hinged roof reveals a red and white kitchen in which "mother and father" are seated at a table set with ham and eggs, cutlery, place mat and real flowers. Around them are scaled-to-size appliances, pots, stool and a workable step-on garbage container.

CHRISTMAS is everywhere in the grey brocade living room. Candle glow reflects in the small mirror on the mantle of the fireplace, bedecked with greenery; nearby, a train set and tiny gift packages form a ring around the tree decorated with handmade ornaments.

Seated at the piano is the pair's blonde "daughter" and another, a brunette, cuddles the "infant" of the household in an over - stuffed chair, seemingly viewing the winter's scene through frosted windows. On the floor rests a basket of yarn; above it on a corner table is the family Bible.

Wall - to - wall carpeting in sculptured grey design shows off to best advantage a grandfather's clock, lamp, chairs and end tables. All windows, dressed with fancy curtains, are decorated with scenic pictures in keeping with the winter theme model.

FOR THE bedroom's pink and white color scheme, Mrs. Bart papered the walls with a delicate material and fashioned an ensemble of twin bedspreads and curtains of dotted Swiss. Furniture in this room is also realistic - dresser drawers open and for "early risers" an alarm clock is provided.

Cotton "snow" is kept within the yard's boundary by a reinforced white picket fence. lone tree, various evergreens and mirrored pool are brought to life in night scenes by the light from samll bulbs attached to the eaves of the house.

And night fall, too, has arrived for the dwellers of the sugar cube house; now there is only a faint flicker of light cast by the fireplace.

FIFTEEN pounds of sugar cubes and dozens of bowls of frosting went into the making of the doll house, which has been a conversation piece at gatherings in the two-story Colonial home Mr. and Mrs. Bart have shared for the past 28 years.

They raised three daughters in this home: Mrs. Robert Anderson of Bensenville; Mrs. Frances Helsper of Itasca, and Mrs. William Gaddy of Lake Geneva. Now the couple boasts of the fact that they are grandparents of eight boys and three girls.

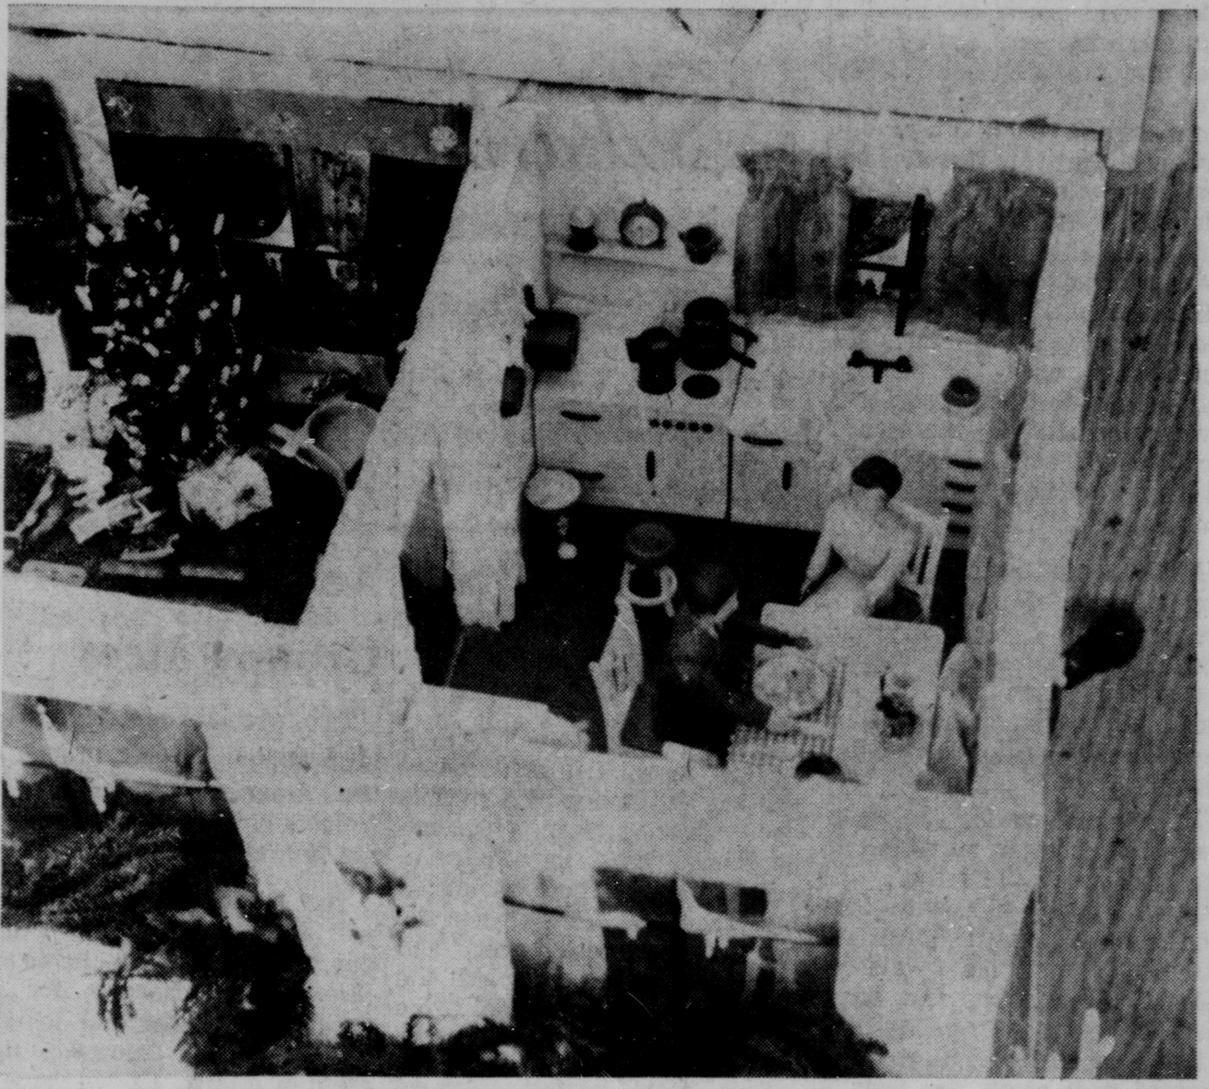
Because of Mrs. Bart's fondness of living creatures, their home is a haven for eight parakeets and an assortment of goldfish as well as tropical specimens, the latter of which swim at leisure in a 50-gallon tank adorned with real water lilies.

Although reluctant to speak of her many talents, the compassionate homemaker finally admitted to having another hobby—that of being a "green thumber."

A QUICK glance at Mrs. Bart's porch proves that she "doesen't like anything artificial," for gracing one wall of the bright, sunny enclosure is an array of 200 live plants of every size, shape and description, amid a working waterfall.

Raising African violets and orchids is a rewarding experience relates Mrs. Bart, but at present she is centering attention on a hard-to-grow "voodoo" plant which could reach the height of three feet in rare foliage.

At last report, the "queer" plant was displaying new growth; only the weeks to come will tell whether or not the 58-year-old grandmother's previous formula of loving care applied to everything in her domain will work the same magic for the "voodoo."



FAMILY LIFE in miniature-doll house made with sugar cubes and white frosting mix is sheer delight to the 11 grandchildren of a Bensenville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bart. Each room is decorated with scaled-to-size furniture, many of which have working parts. Real flowers form bouquets; interior window scenes depict suburban living in winterland.

Hawaiian Folklore Is Women's Club Feature

Helen 'Mahealani" Williams will present "Authentic Folklore of Hawaii at the regular meeting of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club Wednesday, Feb. 7, at 1:15 p.m. at Recreation Park field house, Arlington Heights.

Since it is impossible for everyone to take a trip to the will present an extensive repertoire of Hawaiian dances, ranging from ancient religious rite to gay modern popular dances. All types of instruments that are traditionally Hawaiian such as feathered gourds, stone castanets and bamboo sticks accompany her dances.

HAWAIIAN dances were, and are, the original culture and history of the civilization that has now become part of the U. S. Mrs. Lorne Box, program chairman, says, "Miss Williams lecture is both sound and profound, the tone is light and good-humored, and the satirical skit lampooning the tourist who becomes a Hawaiian dance expert after one week in the islands, will delight you."

As Helen Arden, Miss Williams started her career as a ballet dancer and was featured as a singer and dancer in a number of successful Broadway musical productions before she studied these dances in the 50th State.

Hostesses during the tea hour will be Mrs. Donald Knox, Mrs. Fred Martin and Mrs. Charles Hess.

THURSDAY, Feb. 1, at 1:30 p.m. the Indian Affairs study group of the club will meet in the home of the chairman, Mrs. Douglas G. Schinke., 624 N. Gibbons.

Harold Johnf of Chicago, Sioux-Winnebago and the first generation born in Chicago, will speak on "The Educational Needs Among The Indians." His parents came to the area from a reservation in Nebraska. A graduate of Tilden Technical high school, he was given a scholarship by the Illinois Federation of Woman's clubs.

Last June he was graduated from the University of Illinois with a degree in physical education, and is presently working on his masters degree at George Williams college evenings and teaching physical education and coaching volley ball and basketball at Chicago Ridge.

Anyone interested is invited to the meeting, and for reservations may call Mrs. G. Rex Volz, CL 9-1230, or Mrs. Schinke, CL 5-6981.

AUTHENTIC FOLKLORE OF HAWAII will be demonstrated with a repertoire of dances by Helen Williams at the February 7 meeting of Arlington Heights Woman's Clubs. The demonstration will take place in Recreation Park field house at the club's regular monthly meeting.

Maternity Center Lunch Is Thursday

Volunteers from the Arlington Heights area are among the 350 women expected to accept Mrs. John Andrew King's invitation to the 18th annual enrollment luncheon of the Chicago Maternity center. The affair is being held today, Feb. 1, at the Casino, Chicago.

Mrs. King, honorary chairman of the center, has been hostess to this traditional kickoff every year since its beginning in 1895. The event this year will come just 13 days before the center celebrates its 67th anniversary.

Heading the local team are Mrs. John D. Patterson, 1710 W. Oakton, chairman, and Mrs. George N. Mastrogany, 640 S. Lincoln, co-chairman.

Some Tips for Mothers

Spread Cheer, Not Germs in Sickroom

Colds and flu, so prevalent at this time of year, mean worry and extra work for mother, as well as misery for the victim. They can be costly, too. To combat spreading to other members of the family and to save work and ease stress of convalescence, here are a few tips on the care and feeding of a small patient . . . usually the first member to introduce illness to the family.

Keep the other youngsters away from the sick child, especially in the early stages.

Infection can be spread by the dinnerware used on the sick tray, unless you sterilize it by boiling after use. An easy way is to use paper cups, plates, bowls and napkins which are thrown away after each meal. Other articles, such as silverware, should be sterilized, of course.

IF YOU have a family drinking glass in the bathroom, get rid of it! It's a real germ spreader. It's better by far to take a fresh glass every time . . . or to use colorful plastic paper cups.

To make the convalescent period less tedious, perk up the patient's lagging appetite . . . put some fun in each meal. For example, float a cracker with a parsley tree aboard in the soup bowl. Make a comical face on a gelatin dessert with marshmallows and whipped cream. A scoop of ice cream becomes a funny clown when you add a gumdrop face and top it with an inverted cone.

"I HAVEN'T anything to do." This familiar wail is a problem, for it's difficult to keep a sick and restless child amused. A pad of inexpensive newsprint paper, a box of crayons, blunt-pointed scissors, glue and some old magazines will keep him busy. Let him make pictures to his heart's content. Since you'll have a supply of paper plates on hand, let him draw and color pictures or paste cut-outs from magazines on the flat surface of the plate, leaving the edges as a decorative frame. Hang his masterpiece so he can feel happy looking at his accomplishments.

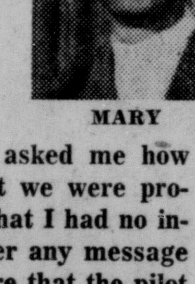
Children usually recover rapidly, but it's wise to watch reactions to prevent a relapse which might be caused by simple fatigue. An extra day in bed, or at least indoors, may prevent this.

Quite Contrary by Mary

The Airlines Love Me

I'M BEGINNING TO THINK that airlines have a [illegible] about me. I have been one of their staunchest partisans but my patience is starting to wear a little thin. They almost refuse to let me land. It's nice of them to be so fond of me that they can't bear to see me leave but, on the theory that what goes up must come down, I prefer to come down right side up.

We were on our way to Wichita, Kansas, which really isn't too much of a place to be going except we were meeting friends. Friends and we were then driving on to Oklahoma City for a convention thing with other friends. The driving friends were in the Wichita airport. We were quite a bit above that when the pilot informed us that Wichita was, to use a dandy term, socked in. Whatever that means. It meant, in this instance, that between us friends was several thousand feet of gooky fog.



MARY

I was rather philosophic about it, but Father almost went into a decline. With consternation written all over his face, he asked me how we were going to let down below know that we were proceeding to O. City. I quickly informed him that I had no intention of parachuting to the ground to deliver any message saying where we were going. I was quite sure that the pilot had some means of communication less drastic. So he simmered down.

Once over O. City we circled and circled and circled. After I had looked at what appeared to be a yacht club, which is certainly not a good spot to land an airplane, I suggested Father find out what the scoop of this leisurely procedure might be. While he went into a huddle with quite a darling stewardess, I started to go over belly landing operations in my mind. I was positive that the stupid wheels wouldn't go down. I took off my shoes and, checking to see that no one was looking, practiced putting my head down with my arms wrapped around it. What good this would have done when the slightest bump would have sent my poor head smashing into the wall ahead, I fail to understand. But, I read a lot.

Finally we landed although it looked, for a while, as though we might honor Dallas with our presence. Then we couldn't find our luggage. Father, positive it had gone to Texas, ran out on the field to stop the plane. I ran to the ticket counter and started jumping up and down importuning them to give me back my clothes please.

They couldn't understand why we were so happy to be in Oklahoma City when our tickets said plainly Wichita. They insisted they were going to get us out of there even if we had to go back to Chicago. I mean, all the other Wichita passengers were busy hating Oklahoma City. Why should we be the only happy souls. We kept beaming and telling them that this was where we would be truly happy and just hand over the luggage.

Which they did, but I'll bet they still don't understand it. I hardly do myself.

Fashion Comedy Included In Active Club Schedule

Mount Prospect Woman's club calendar for February has a variety of activities planned to carry on the philanthropic, education and cultural objectives of the club, including the regular monthly meeting. The branch, is the place of meeting February 6 at 1 p.m. when Mrs. James Insolia, program chairman, will present Leona Peck, commedienne, in a comedy satire on women's fashions beginning in 1905 and showing changes throughout the years bringing them up to the present time.

The business meeting will be called to order by Mrs. W. E. Lyman, president, and the nominating committee will be elected. Members are requested to bring cancelled stamps and used jewelry, as these items are being collected by the veterans service and mental health departments, projects of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

THE VETERANS' service department meeting will be held February 12 in the home of Mrs. H. Harnden, 113 Elmhurst, at 1 p.m. The mental health jewelry workshop, to package used jewelry, will be held in the home of Mrs. James Helleckson, chairman, 200 S. Lancaster, February 15th at 1 p.m.

The art department will present a Mt. Prospect artist, Mrs. C. R. Hansen, in a program, "Faces in the Crowd," at the YMCA February 20 at 1 p.m.

Garden department chairman, Mrs. R. A. Davis will present Carl Klehm who will discuss spring planting.

Phone Operator Retires Today

Mrs. Viola Etchingham of Palatine, operator in the Arlington Heights business office for Illinois Bell, is retiring today, Thursday, after 20 years of service.

Mrs. Etchingham worked in several of Illinois Bell's offices before transferring to Barrington in 1952. Six years later she transferred to Arlington Heights as an operator.

She and her husband, John, have three sons.

The art department will present a Mt. Prospect artist, Mrs. C. R. Hansen, in a program, "Faces in the Crowd," a. the YMCA February 20 at 1 p.m.

Garden department chairman, Mrs. R. A. Davis will present Carl Klehm who will discuss spring planting.

Maternity Center Lunch Is Thursday

Volunteers from the Arlington Heights area are among the 350 women expected to accept Mrs. John Andrew King's invitation to the 18th annual enrollment luncheon of the Chicago Maternity center. The affair is being held today, Feb. 1, at the Casino, Chicago.

Mrs. King, honorary chairman of the center, has been hostess to this traditional kick-off every year since its beginning in 1895. The event this year will come just 13 days before the center celebrates its 67th anniversary.

Heading the local team are Mrs. John D. Patterson, 1710 W. Oakton, chairman, and Mrs. George N. Mastrogany, 640 S. Lincoln, co-chairman.

Some Tips for Mothers

Spread Cheer, Not Germs in Sickroom

Colds and flu, so prevalent at this time of year, mean worry and extra work for mother, as well as misery for the victim. They can be costly, too. To combat spreading to other members of the family and to save work and ease stress of convalescence, here are a few tips on the care and feeding of a small patient . . . usually the first member to introduce illness to the family.

Keep the other youngsters away from the sick child, especially in the early stages.

Infection can be spread by the dinnerware used on the sick tray, unless you sterilize it by boiling after use. An easy way is to use paper cups, plates, bowls and napkins which are thrown away after each meal. Other articles, such as silverware, should be sterilized, of course.

IF YOU have a family drinking glass in the bathroom, get rid of it! It's a real germ spreader. It's better by far to take a fresh glass every time . . . or to use colorful plastic paper cups.

To make the convalescent period less tedious, perk up the patient's lagging appetite . . . put some fun in each meal. For example, float a cracker with a parsley tree aboard in the soup bowl. Make a comical face on a gelatin dessert with marshmallows and whipped cream. A scoop of ice cream becomes a funny clown when you add a gumdrop face and top it with an inverted cone.

"I HAVEN'T anything to do." This familiar wail is a problem, for it's difficult to keep a sick and restless child amused. A pad of inexpensive newsprint paper, a box of crayons, blunt-pointed scissors, glue and some old magazines will keep him busy. Let him make pictures to his heart's content. Since you'll have a supply of paper plates on hand, let him draw and color pictures or paste cut-outs from magazines on the flat surface of the plate, leaving the edges as a decorative frame. Hang his masterpiece so he can feel happy looking at his accomplishments.

Children usually recover rapidly, but it's wise to watch reactions to prevent a relapse which might be caused by simple fatigue. An extra day in bed, or at least indoors, may prevent this.

The Airlines Love Me

I'M BEGINNING TO THINK that airlines have a [illegible] about me. I have been one of their staunchest partisans but my patience is starting to wear a little thin. They almost refuse to let me land. It's nice of them to be so fond of me that they can't bear to see me leave but, on the theory that what goes up must come down, I prefer to come down right side up.

We were on our way to Wichita, Kansas, which really isn't too much of a place to be going except we were meeting friends. Friends and we were then driving on to Oklahoma City for a convention thing with other friends. The driving friends were in the Wichita airport. We were quite a bit above that when the pilot informed us that Wichita was, to use a dandy term, socked in. Whatever that means. It meant, in this instance, that between us friends was several thousand feet of gooky fog.

MARY

I was rather philosophic about it, but Father almost went into a decline. With consternation written all over his face, he asked me how we were going to let down below know that we were proceeding to O. City. I quickly informed him that I had no intention of parachuting to the ground to deliver any message saying where we were going. I was quite sure that the pilot had some means of communication less drastic. So he simmered down.

Once over O. City we circled and circled and circled. After I had looked at what appeared to be a yacht club, which is certainly not a good spot to land an airplane, I suggested Father find out what the scoop of this leisurely procedure might be. While he went into a huddle with quite a darling stewardess, I started to go over belly landing operations in my mind. I was positive that the stupid wheels wouldn't go down. I took off my shoes and, checking to see that no one was looking, practiced putting my head down with my arms wrapped around it. What good this would have done when the slightest bump would have sent my poor head smashing into the wall ahead, I fail to understand. But, I read a lot.

Finally we landed although it looked, for a while, as though we might honor Dallas with our presence. Then we couldn't find our luggage. Father, positive it had gone to Texas, ran out on the field to stop the plane. I ran to the ticket counter and started jumping up and down importuning them to give me back my clothes please.

They couldn't understand why we were so happy to be in Oklahoma City when our tickets said plainly Wichita. They insisted they were going to get us out of there even if we had to go back to Chicago. I mean, all the other Wichita passengers were busy hating Oklahoma City. Why should we be the only happy souls. We kept beaming and telling them that this was where we would be truly happy and just hand over the luggage.

Which they did, but I'll bet they still don't understand it. I hardly do myself.

Phone Operator Retires Today

Mrs. Viola Etchingham of Palatine, operator in the Arlington Heights business office for Illinois Bell, is retiring today, Thursday, after 20 years of service.

Mrs. Etchingham worked in several of Illinois Bell's offices before transferring to Barrington in 1952. Six years later she transferred to Arlington Heights as an operator.

She and her husband, John, have three sons.

Three Boys Need Growing Room; How to Provide It

THURS., FEB. 1, 1962

Boys need room to grow!

Here's what one family did when the parents realized that three boys in one small bedroom weren't being given opportunity they deserved for proper growth, privacy and development. They turned the unfinished attic into a large bedroom, study and hobby area.

One wall was devoted to bunk beds, separated by dividers which gave each lad privacy and his own reading light. Each divider included storage space for the boy's properties and, on top, a place for displaying his favorites.

A STORAGE wall provided ample room for the storage of the three boys' clothing. Built around the stairwell was a countertop which was the nucleus for the study and hobby section, with drawer space below.

In preparation for the renovation, which was an undertaking headed by the father, the family selected Masonite Seadrift, an embossed hardboard paneling, for the wainscot around the spacious new quarters for these lucky youngsters. That's because the first four feet of wall above the floor is subject to the most wear and tear. Seadrift can take it all, the family learned.

The upper walls, the bunk areas including the divider, and the soffits were faced with a factory-finished Masonite hardboard in a walnut-grained finish. Since the lads are doing their own housekeeping, under Mom's occasional supervision, they like the idea of just damp-wiping the finished hardboard once every six months or so to keep it bright and new looking.

EXTENSION of the heating system, installation of adequate lighting and laying of a flexible floor covering over a smooth hardboard base to provide a long-lasting surface completed the renovation. That's when the boy's mother took over and made the drapes, selected the study chairs and made the room comfortable for the trio.

This room project, planned carefully before any steps were taken, came out exactly as the family planned, with one exception. Everyone forgot the need for a clothes hamper, so Dad converted a large wooden box, which he covered with hardboard, into a combination bench and storage for soiled clothes. (SF

AAUW Bridge, And Culture Groups Meet

Two special interest groups of Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women will be meeting during the coming week.

The fellowship bridge group will meet at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 1, in the home of Mrs. Donald Narquis for an evening of bridge and to contribute to the fellowship program of AAUW. This is the only program of its kind which provides funds for graduate study for both American and foreign women.

The Japanese culture study group will meet at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5, in the home of Mrs. John Coyne. Topic for this meeting will be Japanese flower arrangements. (S

Problem Wives

'Love Addicts'—Women Who Lean on Husbands

How Analysts Help Patients

by DICK HOFFMANN

"Love Addicts" — women whose identity is determined by their husband's opinion of them rather than by what they do — was the term employed by a psychiatrist in an address at Forest hospital in Des Plaines to describe a particular type of patient he has encountered.

Dr. Peter A. Martin, associate clinical professor of psychiatry at Wayne State University medical school in Detroit, told an audience on January 24 that "When in the presence of their husbands, these women look to them for approval to establish who they, themselves, are and how worthwhile they are.

DR. MARTIN

"THEY ARE willing to carry out all sorts of activities in their attempts to re-establish their self-esteem through the change in attitude of the other person. To them, it is not what they do which establishes their identity but what the other person says that determines who they are."

Martin warned, however, that a real or fancied slight on the part of the other person could drive the "love addicts" into a "near psychotic rage which wipes out any shred of existing self-identity. These women may thus be considered love addicts or people addicts." These women who sometimes destroy their own image others have verbally constructed suffer from "management of their self-esteem," the psychiatrist pointed out.

This type of wife usually seeks psychiatric counsel after having sought solace in barbituates or tranquillizers, administered for several years by the family physician. She suffers from physical symptoms such as migraine, nausea or vomiting. "She no longer is able to manage the home, care for the children or discharge her social obligations," Martin observed.

SHE BLAMES these restraints upon the coldness and cruelty of her husband. She lays all her problems at his feet, and attributes it to his inability to love her "as she wants to be loved."

Notes Martin, however: "As the hours produced more material, it became obvious that it was she who lived a dependent, parasitic life . . . She wouldn't walk on her own two feet and go in the direction she wanted to go. She rode her husband's back and complained when he didn't go in the direction she wanted him to go. If she tried to do anything on her own, she developed severe physical symptoms . . ."

What the Detroit psychiatrist discovered was that while the wives' complaints against their husbands contained a kernel of truth, they were actually ". . . paranoid projections of their (the wives') own inner hostility, coldness and psychotic tendency. Denial of these qualities within themselves are the . . . formation of their characters. They will fight even to their death (suicide) to deny this. But mainly, the denial mechanism is successful through paranoid projection onto the husband. He becomes the screen behind which they hide."

THESE WOMEN resist the classical analysis of the couch. "They may not even be able to lie physically quiet on the couch—they may jump up, sit in a chair, turn over on their stomachs and say, 'Talk to me.' This, of course, has the meaning of 'Feed me. Love me. Give me. Take care of me. Tell me I'm great.' "

In order to treat them, Martin described how he and a colleague, Dr. H. Waldo Bird, developed a technique they call the "stereoscopic approach." What it amounts to is the comparing of notes by two psychiatrists, one of whom is treating the wife and the other the husband.

"Thus a reconstructed picture of some important event as presented by one patient," Martin explained, "could be placed next to the reconstructed picture of the same event as presented by the partner. It is this similarity to the principle of stereopticon (three-dimensional projection) which led to the use of the term . . ."

SUCH A PRACTICE and the fact that the wives resisted conventional treatment necessitated the husband undergoing analysis. The husbands, Martin commented ". . . were adequate to the requirements of life outside of the home. They were men whose work history showed the capacity to successfully discharge positions of responsibility."

The greatest variation among the husbands was their own evaluation of the need for psychotherapy, Martin told his audience. Despite their classification, however, as a "normal" adult, treatment often revealed beneath the surface calm "a ferocity of emotional conflicts."

The psychiatrist's first step was to attempt to separate the wife from clinging to her husband, and this was accomplished by having the wife's parasitic attachment transferred from husband to analyst. These love addicts, Martin remarked, ". . . show an unquenchable thirst for narcissistic (complimentary self-love) gratification."

ONE LOVE addict's comments on her situation illustrated how opposites—the dependent female and self-sufficient male—attract.

She observed: "We lack something in us that other people have. It's like making jelly. Without this something—pectin—it doesn't jell. We search for some other person to supply this pectin."

Early in these marriages, the husband is able to supply this missing element, Martin said. When this fails and the wife turns to the psychiatrist, however, she still persists in her technique of projecting her shortcomings on her husband. It is only by having her husband treated also that this web of complex dependencies can be resolved. "The wife," Martin says, "actually enters into a life and death struggle to prevent the therapeutic separation from the husband since (he) is often used to prevent the outbreak of a psychosis in the wife."

IN COMPARING the two stories of the same event as offered by the wife and the husband, the consulting psychiatrists were often amazed at the differences. This is one of the blessings of the stereoscopic approach, Martin thinks, in its "ability to highlight distortions of reality . . ." Recognition of these distortions by the psychiatrist also assisted him in getting to the core of the patient's problems.

The comparing of notes paid this added dividend. It shocked the analysts into recognizing that "we are liable to accept (the patient's) distortions of reality as being reality itself." This is a trap door the inexperienced psychiatrist—schooled in "tender, loving care"—can often spring on himself, Martin counselled, in which he is aroused to sympathy by the hapless wife suffering at the hands of the allegedly unloving, unprotecting husband. There is another camouflaged pitfall beckoning the unwary practitioner, he cautioned.

"He may, in addition, be irritated because the husband displays little interest in the psychiatrist's offer to be of help. As a result, the psychiatrist may . . . join the wife in denouncing the husband and concur . . . that (he) is a cold person. Psychiatrists often need very much to be needed and can't stand to sit with patients who seem not to need them."

MARTIN DID NOT hold out psychiatry as a magic wand whose waving dissipates all the patient's ills. Realistically, he impressed upon his listeners: "The prevention of a frank psychotic break and hospitalization is sometimes all that can be achieved." It is also possible, he added, ". . . to help the wife in changing from a hostile, complaining parasite into a pleasant, appreciative parasite."

Dr. Bernard L. Greene, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois' college of medicine, critiqued Martin's speech, fourth in Forest Hospital's fourth annual scientific program concerned with "Special Treatment Situations."

Greene said he favored a "triangular" approach in which one psychiatrist treats the couple and makes it possible for the therapist to immediately confront each spouse with their respective maneuvers." This also permits the analyst to interpret "the entire emotional content" of distortions of reality.

GREENE WAS ALSO critical of Martin's viewing of the mother-child relationship as being the prototype for the child's later marriage.

"In my theoretical thinking, I have continued to move from a purely Freudian psychological model to one that views the person as continually experiencing, transacting, and learning in a cultural situation." In this regard, he added, ". . . the marriage is an open system which is intimately involved with . . . other systems."

Mrs. E. Wolfe Heads TWA Convention

Mrs. E. E. Wolfe of Elk Grove Village, has been named 1963 convention chairman for the bi-annual convention of TWA Clipped Wings. Delegates to the convention will be sent by chapters in Kansas City, New York, San Francisco, Detroit, Newark, Washington and Paris.

The area group of Clipped Wingers will discuss a hat and make-up deomonstration for April when they meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 6, in the home of Mrs. Howard Dale. Plans for the annual spring luncheon will also be made at this meeting.

Any former TWA hostesses are invited to participate in activities of the group and may call Mrs. Wolfe at HE 7-0595.

Sorority Activities

Tri Delta alumnae in the northwest suburban area are currently making plans for their second "Trip to the Stars." This is the title Chicago area Delta Delta Deltas have chosen for their ninth annual benefit to be held Sunday, March 18, at Drury Lane Theatre.

Sorority members are taking over the theatre that night for a performance of the comedy, "Over 21," starring Vivan Vance. Proceeds from the play, and dinner and cocktails preceding the 7:30 p.m. curtain, will go for research and equipment at the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute of Northwestern University.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Busse at CL 5-3932.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

Alpha Psi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma society, international honor society for women teachers, met at a breakfast meeting January 20, at the Beaubien room, Stouffer's restaurant, Prudential Plaza.

After the breakfast and business meeting, a program was presented by the Teacher Welfare and Morale committee on "Developing Our Own Resources for Living with Others," which was discussed by a committee consisting of Mrs. Harriet Foster, chairman, Mrs. Josephine Klingler of Arlington Heights, and Miss Marjorie Luther of Barrington.

PALATINE members attending were Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Mildred Anderson, Miss Anna Christensen and Mrs. Christmas Powell.

Plans were announced for the February 28 meeting to be held at Barrington high school when a group of foreign students studying in America this year under the American field service plan will be guests and will speak about their countries. Students from future teacher groups of high schools in the area will also be guests. (S

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Chicago Suburban West alumnae chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma will hold a couples' birthday party at Town and Country Bowling Lanes at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3. Any alumnae who desire additional information or transportation may contact Mrs. H. Rudin, CL 5-5520. (S

ALPHA XI DELTA

Paddock area members of Alpha Xi Delta alumnae will be hosting a bowling party for their friends at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3, in the Classic Bowl, Morton Grove. Mrs. Alan Granskog of Elk Grove Village may be called at HE 9-0166, by those wishing reservations.

Local Alpha Xi Deltas, now part of a large group in the north area, held their January meeting in the home of a Park Ridge member where they heard a talk on the stock market given by William Stelle of Goodbody & Co.

The group's regular meeting will be held February 21 at 8 p.m. in the Des Plaines home of Mrs. William J. Myers and will consist of a card party and the election of officers for 1962-1963. Mrs. Granskog will be co-hostess at this meeting.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

All Alpha Chi Omega alumnae are urged to come and help make "self-help" toys for retarded children, at Mrs. C. D. Caughey's home, 611 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5. Mrs. Paul Black will be co-hostess. (S

Wedding Story Deadlines

Brides now holding wedding blanks from Paddock Publications are reminded that they must have their completed blanks, along with picture for publication, in the Paddock office within six weeks following their wedding date.

Because of the many weddings in the area and the Paddock policy to follow through with only the most current news, this policy became effective January 1, 1962. Blanks or stories received after the 6-week deadline will not be published. (S

LEARNING ABOUT the sorority's forthcoming benefit for the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute from Mrs. George R. Busse of Mt. Prospect, center, are Mrs. Richard Thompson of Mt. Prospect and Mrs. Alfred Lane of Arlington Heights, new Delta Delta Delta alumnae in the area. Mrs. Busse is president of the alumnae chapter.

Students from future teacher groups of high schools in the area will also be guests. (S

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Chicago Suburban West alumnae chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma will hold a couples' birthday party at Town and Country Bowling Lanes at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3. Any alumnae who desire additional information or transportation may contact Mrs. H. Rudin, CL 5-5520. (S

ALPHA XI DELTA

Paddock area members of Alpha Xi Delta alumnae will be hosting a bowling party for their friends at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3, in the Classic Bowl, Morton Grove. Mrs. Alan Granskog of Elk Grove Village may be called at HE 9-0166, by those wishing reservations.

Local Alpha Xi Deltas, now part of a large group in the north area, held their January meeting in the home of a Park Ridge member where they heard a talk on the stock market given by William Stelle of Goodbody & Co.

The group's regular meeting will be held February 21 at 8 p.m. in the Des Plaines home of Mrs. William J. Myers and will consist of a card party and the election of officers for 1962-1963. Mrs. Granskog will be cohostess at this meeting.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

All Alpha Chi Omega alumnae are urged to come and help make "self-help" toys for retarded children, at Mrs. C. D. Caughey's home, 611 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, at 8:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5. Mrs. Paul Black will be co-hostess. (S

Wedding Story Deadlines

Brides now holding wedding blanks from Paddock Publications are reminded that they must have their completed blanks, along with picture for publication, in the Paddock office within six weeks following their wedding date.

Because of the many weddings in the area and the Paddock policy to follow through with only the most current news, this policy became effective January 1, 1962. Blanks or stories received after the 6-week deadline will not be published. (S

Thomas Ocasek Takes Bride In Springfield, Ohio Rites

Covenant Presbyterian church in Springfield, Ohio, was the scene January 13 of a 4:30 o'clock service in which Thomas Jordan Ocasek, son of the Thomas James Ocaseks, 1103 N. Maple lane, Prospect Heights, took as his bride, Miss Sally Stafford Wallace, daughter of the junior Ralph Houghton Wetherbees of Springfield. Both young people are graduates of Ohio State university where the bride was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Mr. Ocasek with Sigma Chi fraternity.

Rev. Alexander Meakin officiated at the double ring, candlelight service amid a setting of white pompons, white snapdragons and white carnations. Nuptial selections were by Mrs. Frank H. Roberts.

THE WEDDING party included the groom's sister, Jeanne Ocasek, who was one of the bridesmaids, and two friends of the groom from Arlington Heights, James Summers, who served as best man, and Kenneth O'Gorman, who was one of the ushers.

The bride's sister, Miss Katherine H. Wetherbee of Springfield, was maid of honor and wore a chiffon gown of avenue green designed with low rounded neckline, brief sleeves, satin midriff and softly-gathered afternoon-length skirt. Serving with Miss Ocasek as bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Finley of Solon, Ohio. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's gown and all wore circular maline veils caught to headpieces featuring self shoe string bows. All carried cascades of yellow roses.

ALSO IN THE wedding party were 8-year-old Mary Bonser Matthews and 11-year-old Thomas Anderson Matthews of Springfield, who served as flower girl and ring bearer. Mary's short dress was of white organza over green taffeta and her bouquet was of yellow roses.

The bride chose a gown of candlelight silk peau de soie fashioned with a molded bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace which featured a scalloped neckline and bracelet-length sleeves. The bell skirt featured a square chapel train of double silk net appliques with alencon lace embroidered with tiny seed pearls and an obi bow.

Her full-length veil of imported French illusion fell from a princess crown of peau de soie accented with alencon lace motifs and she carried a cascade of eucharist lilies and greenery. Mr. Wetherbee gave the bride in marriage.

The groom's attendants also included Wayne Malzahn of McHenry, Stephen Zeller of Middletown, Ohio, George Tolford of Toledo and Sam Hall of Dayton.

The service was followed by a reception in Springfield country club where Mrs. Wetherbee greeted the 300 guests in a ming green chantilly lace over crepe dress with scalloped overblouse and matching ming veiled headpiece. Mrs. Ocasek chose a sheath of champagne with chantilly lace bodice and peau de soie skirt with side drape. She completed her ensemble with a chartreuse headpiece.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and in March the groom will enter the Marine Corps flight officer training program. (S

Mrs. Ray M. Thorsen Heads Demo Women

Mrs. Ray M. Thorsen, 661 Clarendon Court, Arlington Heights, was elected president of the Wheeling Township Democratic Women's Organization when the group held its January meeting at the Pro Bowl in Buffalo Grove. Two other Arlington Heights women, Mrs. Leonard Weidner, 15 E. Eastman, and Mrs. E. Trava, 724 N. State, will serve as first and second vice president.

New secretary is Mrs. Ray Rozhon of Mount Prospect and treasurer is Mrs. Kenneth Burns of Wheeling, who was re-elected.

NEW OFFICERS will be installed Tuesday, Feb. 27, during a dinner meeting in the Union Hotel, Wheeling.

Retiring president is Mrs. Henry Orlowski of Mount Prospect while retiring first vice president Mrs. W. E. Thiele of Prospect Heights, the new first vice president, is the retiring second vice president. Mrs. Norman Johnson of Prospect Heights is the retiring secretary. (SF

China, Glass and Gift Show Is Preview of New Lines

Whimsey, fun and function, sparked by the widest array of colors in several seasons, make introductions to be previewed at the Merchandise Mart China, Glass & Gift Market among the gayest in many a year.

The semi-annual event which opened its doors Monday and will run through February 9, is the second largest market held in the Merchandise Mart to draw thousands of buyers from all parts of the country.

"Evident at this market to a greater degree than in previous years, will be the attention given by manufacturers to items that relate to consumers' leisure-time activity" said W. O. Ollman, Mart general manager.

IN FURTHER commenting on the trend, he pointed to the abundance of outdoor cooking equipment. Items for patio or forest preserve cookouts range from an elaborate, though casual, wicker bar to party accoutrements in the guise of crepe paper flowers.

An extensive line of wicker ware from Spain includes a barbecue bar on casters for complete mobility. The hinged top opens to create a complete U-shaped working area and a deep well to hold bottles.

Other items in the same group include a "baker's bread shelf" styled after European bakery cabinets, cabana bar and an enameled porcelain cast iron unit to provide a "barbecue taste" to food cooked on the range top.

FOR BOTH indoor and outdoor fun, there is a series of crepe paper posies that can be used to create a centerpiece for the table. After the food is cleared, the double duty flowers are used as party horns.

Italian straw baskets will hold popcorn, potato chips or hot rolls with ease. There are glass holders and round or square waste baskets to match. The straw used is treated to remain very stiff and the rainbow of colors offered is dye-fast.

Three categories of wares stand out in greater abundance this year; lavabos, plastic flowers and candy. Several firms which have never before featured the lavabo in their line are showing several styles.

BASICALLY there are classic and contemporized versions in a variety of finishes that includes wood tones.

Among new offerings are trees and flowers created from plastic-prickly or plain pear trees, peach trees, table top models with Japanese lanterns and a variety of flowering trees and shrubs.

Thieves' baskets that look as if they've come straight from the pages of the Arabian Nights are shown in three basic styles and are guaranteed to capture the fancy of every age.

TEMPUS FUGIT is the appropriate inscription on an hourglass timer that is an exact 6-minute time piece, and another specialty is a series of Early American inn and tavern signs that range from a large whale cutout to boards that list menus.

Interesting, too, is a 9-foot polar bear rug, straw hat outlined with the New York skyline, 63-bottle wine rack, novel ashtrays, decorative jars, candle designs, music stands and a line of Irish porcelain mugs.

Surprise in several showrooms are edible confections, not just the display variety. Instead of just offering a candy jar and rack, there are complete sets of stick candy or swizzle sticks, rock candy, candied ginger and pebble candy.

AND ONE company is even selling jars of parched corn, just one of the hundreds of unusual articles in the massive collection which will attract shoppers from every community in Chicagoland.

Deacon Porter's Pudding Denotes Holyoke Birthday

At a supper meeting in Glencoe February 7 the 125th anniversary of Mount Holyoke college will be observed by alumnae members in a unique candle lighting ceemony of "Deacon Porter's Hat," a steamed pudding unique to the college and longtime favorite of students.

Following the 7 p.m. potluck supper hostess, Mrs. John B. Black, 180 Lake st., will light a birthday candle placed atop the dessert which years ago was named after a college trustee who on all accasions wore a tall, black hat.

BUSINESS FOR the evening will include news of the forthcoming midwest regional conference in Chicago and also a talk on alumnae council meetings attended in November at the college in South Hadley, Mass. by Mrs. Black.

Mrs. H. J. Melvoin, 358 Flora, Highland Park, is assisting with arrangements for the supper meeting; interested alumnae may contact her for added details.

For those who want to share in the New England tradition, here is Mount Holyoke's recipe for "Deacon Porter's Hat."

DEACON PORTER'S HAT

1 cup sour milk
1 cup light molasses
½ cup melted shortening
2 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. each: cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves
½ cup raisins

Add sifted dry ingredients to milk, molasses and shortening. Add raisins. If mix not stiff, add more flour. Pour into well-greased 2-pound coffee can, cover tightly and steam for 2 hours or more.

Serve with lemon or hard sauce. (S

Just Around the Corner

A Slumber Party

Dear Peg:

At 7:30 a. m. I stood at the counter of the delicatessen, not quite awake, and waited for Bill, also not quite awake, to add up my groceries.

"Two pounds of bacon, box of pancake mix, syrup and a gallon of milk—looks like you're going to be cooking a big breakfast this morning," he offered, trying to be cheerful.

"That's right," I answered smiling wanly, "nine hungry mouths to feed."

"Why, Mrs. McArdle, I didn't realize that you had . . ."

"Oh no, they're not all mine! Bridget had a slumber party and they're all up waiting to be fed. You'd think after staying up until 3 in the morning that they would sleep late, but not this group. They tell me that they're absolutely starving—in spite of the fact that they ate pop corn, cake and ice cream and drank Coke all night long!"

Bill just shook his head and smiled as he put the last item into the grocery sack. It was too much conversation for this hour of the morning.

Bridget's classmate, Suzy, will be moving soon and Bridget wanted to have a farewell party for her. She wanted to have a slumber party, but couldn't whittle the guest list down to less than nine. I pointed out that we didn't have beds for that many. Her solution to that problem was that they would sleep on the floor of the attic. The fact that the attic, although a large room, has only a bare floor and is unheated didn't seem to bother her. She insisted that the weather would change and that the girls could bring a blanket and pillow to sleep on. Amazingly, the weather did warm up sufficiently to allow the attic to become sleepable and we took mattresses up to put on the floor.

The day before the party, Bridget and one of her friends decorated with pink and white crepe paper and balloons, put some old rugs on the floor and hung some of my old paintings on the walls. With the addition of a table, several chairs and the record player, the attic really looked rather homey.

The girls arrived shortly after dinner and carrying blankets, pillows and suitcases, climbed the steps to the "party room." The first thing they did was to get into their pajamas and see who had the funniest outfit. They were told to wear some "crazy, mixed up" pajamas. In teams of two they played Password, a guessing game, and a game involving Nursery Rhymes, which we had typed out and cut in two. As quickly as possible, each had to find the person holding the matching section. Prizes of little bottles of perfume were awarded to the winners.

Following the organized games, the unorganized games began. A short-lived pillow fight took place (who wants to clean up feathers) and a long-lived dancing session and a longer-lived eating session! So, who needs sleep?

My love,
Patty

Early American, Colonial Furniture Fit the Times

February, only four weeks long, is a month with more than its share of special days and anniversaries, from Groundhog Day to the birthday of our first president. Observances of both Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays turn the nation's thoughts back to the early days of the United States.

In the realm of home furnishings, the early days of the country bring to mind the dominant styles of the time, Early American or Colonial. "Colonial" usually refers to designs in vogue before the Revolution; "Early American" to styles that came after.

DESIGN changes were made so gradually in those days that the two overlap and have only minor differences.

These are styles as beloved and even more widely used today than in their own time, reports the Better Home Furnishings Council of Greater Chicago.

In fact, probably more people live with Early American style furniture today than even inhabited the North American continent in 1776.

THESE STYLES, which for convenience's sake often are all lumped together and labeled Early American, varied a great deal and still do. The average shopper, the BHFC says, believes that authentic Early American designs should be made of maple in reddish finish; upholstered pieces should have quaint chintz or cretonne patterns; rugs should be hooked or braided and so on.

These are, indeed, all authentic Early American touches, but they are only a sampling of the range of home furnishings in use then, and available in replica today.

The finest furniture of the time was made in England and shipped to North America for the homes of the wealthy. Many of these pieces were originals from the great 18th century designs; Shearton, Hepplewhite, Chippendale, and are enormously valuable today.

OTHERS WERE made here by local cabinetmakers; some were as beautifully designed and meticulously made as the English imports, and surviving ones rank with them in value.

Particularly during the Revolution, when imports were cut off, American-made furniture came to the fore. American artisans were strongly influenced by the English designs, however, and their work showed little change in design until years afterward.

A patriotic note crept in after the Revolution with the frequent use of an eagle motif.

THESE were the finest pieces found from New England to Virginia, made from mahogany, usually. Many, many of them still exist, in both private homes and museums.

In recent seasons they have been the basis of numerous collections of either reproductions or adaptations. They are as authentically Early American as it is possible to be.

What of the maple and other pieces usually regarded as Early American? These, too, are authentic, but represent another standard of living. Instead of finely carved mahogany, we have simple, sturdy pieces made of native woods—maple, pine, cherry, birch.

THIS WAS the furniture of the pioneering early Americans, who lived not in Philadelphia, Boston, or Tidewater, Va., where there were wealth and culture, but in rural areas where they had to work hard for a living.

They had neither the money for nor the access to fine cabinetmakers and made their own furniture or had it made by local wood workers. It was simple, warm, homey, informal—and enduring.

Originals of this type are museum pieces today also. Reproductions and adaptations are tremendous favorites today, for they fit as well as ever into 1962 homes. (S

IN DREXEL'S AMERICAN Treasury group, homemakers will find beautiful cherry combined with pecan and maple clusters—or knotty pine teamed up with pecan and cherry, yet all blended in one beautiful finish. This Colonial design is versatile and can be dressed up with formal accessories, carpet and draperies, or made casual with braided rugs, cafe curtains and informal accessories. Available at Schneller Furniture, Arlington Market, Arlington Heights.

64-Page PARENTS' GUIDE TO COLLEGE PLANNING

Getting your child educated is like running an obstacle race.

The first hurdle is pre-college preparation. After that comes choosing and evaluating the school, figuring out the costs, and applying for admission. Then, the highest barrier of all: the money problem.

All these important topics (and many more) are covered in Equitable's new PARENTS' GUIDE TO COLLEGE PLANNING. Its pages are packed with the kind of help that MAY mean the difference between winning and losing the race.

The PARENTS' GUIDE, a 64-page illustrated book, is yours free. Simply call CL 3-3768 or fill out the coupon below to obtain your copy today.

THOMAS B. MAVER, your local Equitable representative, offers it to you as a means of acquainting you with the Equitable's dual approach to the biggest of your hurdles . . . the college finance problem:

The ASSURED HOME OWNERSHIP PLAN provides money now . . . for the student about to go to college -- or already there.

The ASSURED COLLEGE FUND provides it later on . . . for the child who will start college in five or more years.

Either plan can, of course, be tailored to your individual needs. Both plans are fully guaranteed, and continue in operation whether or not you live to see your child through college.

Winning the obstacle race is important. Equitable's PARENTS' GUIDE can help your child hurdle the barriers. So send for your free copy now or call CL 3-3768.

THESE were the finest pieces found from New England to Virginia, made from mahogany, usually. Many, many of them still exist, in both private homes and museums.

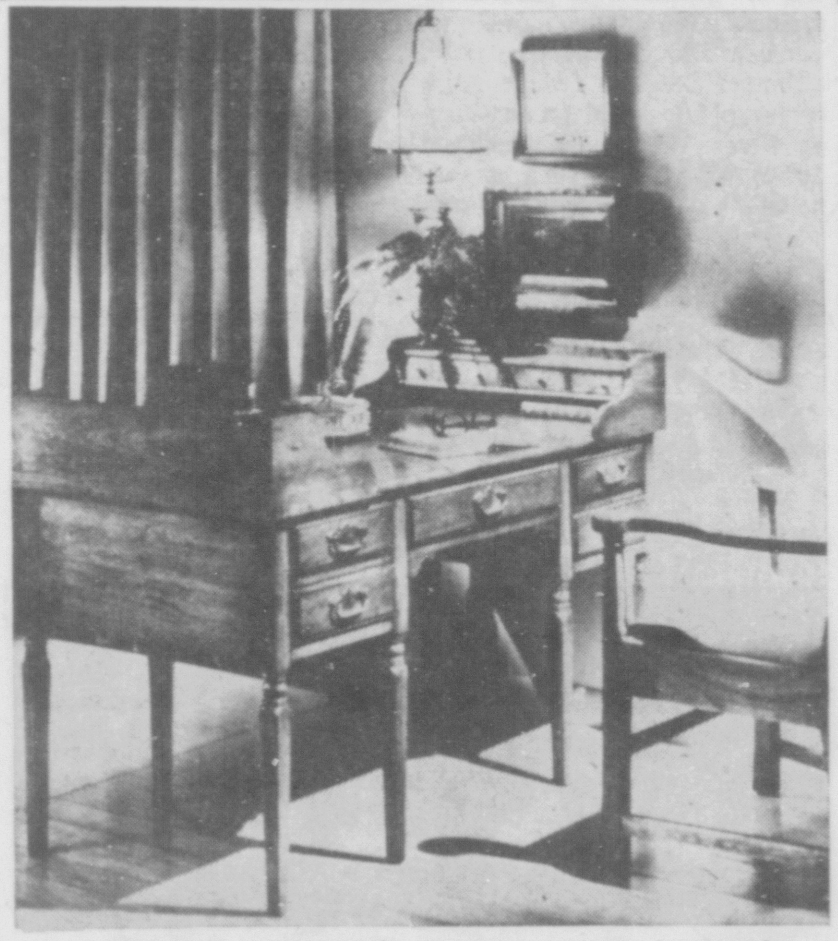
In recent seasons they have been the basis of numerous collections of either reproductions or adaptations. They are as authentically Early American as it is possible to be.

What of the maple and other pieces usually regarded as Early American? These, too, are authentic, but represent another standard of living. Instead of finely carved mahogany, we have simple, sturdy pieces made of native woods—maple, pine, cherry, birch.

THIS WAS the furniture of the pioneering early Americans, who lived not in Philadelphia, Boston, or Tidewater, Va., where there were wealth and culture, but in rural areas where they had to work hard for a living.

They had neither the money for nor the access to fine cabinetmakers and made their own furniture or had it made by local wood workers. It was simple, warm, homey, informal—and enduring.

Originals of this type are museum pieces today also. Reproductions and adaptations are tremendous favorites today, for they fit as well as ever into 1962 homes. (S



IN DREXEL'S AMERICAN Treasury group, homemakers will find beautiful cherry combined with pecan and maple clusters—or knotty pine teamed up with pecan and cherry, yet all blended in one beautiful finish. This Colonial design is versatile and can be dressed up with formal accessories, carpet and draperies, or made casual with braided rugs, cafe curtains and informal accessories. Available at Schneller Furniture, Arlington Market, Arlington Heights.

64-Page PARENTS' GUIDE TO COLLEGE PLANNING

PARENTS' GUIDE TO College Planning
To assure the fulfillment of your plans for your child's future

Getting your child educated is like running an obstacle race.

The first hurdle is pre-college preparation. After that comes choosing and evaluating the school, figuring out the costs, and applying for admission. Then, the highest barrier of all: the money problem.

All these important topics (and many more) are covered in Equitable's new PARENTS' GUIDE TO COLLEGE PLANNING. Its pages are packed with the kind of help that MAY mean the difference between winning and losing the race.

The PARENTS' GUIDE, a 64-page illustrated book, is yours free. Simply call CL 3-3768 or fill out the coupon below to obtain your copy today.

THOMAS B. MAVER, your local Equitable representative, offers it to you as a means of acquainting you with the Equitable's dual approach to the biggest of your hurdles . . . the college finance problem:

The ASSURED HOME OWNERSHIP PLAN provides money now . . . for the student about to go to college -- or already there.

The ASSURED COLLEGE FUND provides it later on . . . for the child who will start college in five or more years.

Either plan can, of course, be tailored to your individual needs. Both plans are fully guaranteed, and continue in operation whether or not you live to see your child through college.

Winning the obstacle race is important. Equitable's PARENTS' GUIDE can help your child hurdle the barriers. So send for your free copy now or call CL 3-3768.

Hold Back from Feeding Baby Solids Too Soon

URBANA—Solid foods have a rightful place in an infant's diet. But there is no advantage in introducing them too soon, according to nutrition authorities.

Mrs. Julia O. Holmes, University of Illinois home economist, reports that, although medical practices differ, the American Academy of Pediatrics Committee on Nutrition is one authority that recommends waiting until the baby is at least three months old before starting him on solids, strained or mashed foods. This committee says that earlier feeding of solids "produces neither beneficial nor harmful results but rather attests the adaptability of the baby to the whims of his caretakers."

AROUND THREE months is the earliest age at which most babies readily accept food from a spoon and are able to voluntarily transfer food from the front of the mouth to the back through tongue action.

Cereals are one of the first solids generally added to an infant's diet. However, authorities say there is no point in feeding them until the baby's salivary glands develop. This is indicated by drooling, which begins about the third to fourth month and continues until the child learns to swallow the saliva. The reason for deferring cereal feeding until drooling begins is that cereal contains a large amount of starch, which cannot be digested without saliva.

Mrs. Homes also points out that medical authorities caution not to feed solid foods in amounts large enough to decrease the baby's milk intake below recommended levels. Such a practice can injure the baby's health, especially if the solids have a lower nutritive value than milk. Milk is one of the best sources of calcium, vitamins and protein, which are vital for developing the baby's skeleton and muscles.

Babies need iron added to their diet, but not before the end of the third month. Iron may be obtained from such foods as egg yolk, green leafy vegetables, whole grain or enriched cereals and meats.

FEEDING solids well before the child is six months old fosters an early acquaintance with a variety of foods. This is an advantage in developing good eating habits. It also helps to end dependence on specially prepared baby foods. By the end of the first year, mothers should be able to adapt the family's fare to baby rather than continue using special food.

To help introduce solid foods to infants, here is a recommended time table:

10th to 14th day, vitamin D as fish liver oil or vitamin D. concentrate: Vitamin C as orange, grapefruit or tomato juice.

2 to 3 months, egg yolk, either hard cooked and mashed or raw, stirred into hot milk or as soft custard.

3 to 4 months, pureed or mashed vegetables, such as carrots, squash, spinach, peas, tomatoes; cereals (whole grain preferably); sieved meats, such as liver, beef, chicken and lamb; and fruits, such as bananas, pears, apples and peaches.

6 to 7 months, all cereals.

7 to 10 months, graham crackers, other vegetables and meat. (S

Dancing Hair To Complement Spring Styles

Dancing ladies will have "dancing hair" to complement the new spring wardrobes. Thus say the hair stylists of Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Tom Robinson, president of northwest unit 47, urges all members to attend the next meeting February 7 at Campbell's Hearthstone restaurant, Palatine, where starting at 8 p.m. the unit's style body, under the direction of Dorothy Gilmore, chairman, will explain and demonstrate the inner secrets for creating this new phase of milady's fashionable hairdo.

Several members on the program for that evening are residents of the Paddock area and all are accomplished stylists with one or more competition victories to their credit. (S

Start the Day Right; Eat a Good Breakfast

Most Important Meal for Family

Breakfast is that all-important meal for everyone in your family, especially for youngsters in school.

Studies show that all persons, particularly growing children, can work, play and learn best if they have from a fourth to a third of their daily food requirement at the start of each day.

A good breakfast can sometimes make the difference between a dunce and a bright scholar. So if you think your child's grades haven't been matching his inherited abilities, give a little thought to his breakfast habits and menus that could make the difference between an "A" report card and one that's not so good.

WHEN YOU SIT down to breakfast, you are usually breaking a fast of more than ten hours, the time between your last meal the night before and your first meal of the new day.

It's the longest period in 24 hours in which you do not eat a meal. Refueling your motor at this time of day with a breakfast high in protein, rich in vitamins and minerals offers you rewards in energy, faster reactions and less fatigue.

Something else happens when you encourage children to eat a nourishing breakfast. They learn their good eating habits early in life—an essential step in establishing good dietary patterns for the stress and strains of later living.

BECAUSE MILK furnishes both high quality protein and calcium, it's a must in the breakfast of both young and old. Children who fail to get enough at breakfast time, often don't have enough milk during the day. Although it's best to like milk as nature made it, there are many ways to add appeal.

Vitamin C is another important part of a good breakfast. Citrus fruit or tomato juice in the morning is an easy way to get enough of this needed vitamin.

With an abundant supply of food in such great variety, there's no need to stick to the same breakfast, day after day.

HOME COOKED rice, oats and cream of wheat are least expensive cereals. Hot cereals have more appeal on cool mornings. A special treat for children is to use fruit-flavored powdered gelatin instead of sugar with hot cereal. It gives color as well as flavor. Brown sugar is a nice change for cereal in addition to raisins.

We know that morning can be a pretty busy time in any household. If you're naturally a slow starter, you may want to make some breakfast preparations the night before. And, of course, time saving electrical equipment can practically do the job for you.

With an automatic coffee maker all you have to do is place the water and coffee in the pot and the coffee will brew just the right length of time, then remain hot until everyone's served.

If you plug the coffee maker into your clock-radio, the coffee will start to perk by itself when the radio goes on and wakes you up. Eggs and bacon are a breeze with an electric skillet that heats quickly and evenly; a strong spatula or turner, paper towels to drain bacon on.

There's even an automatic egg cooker. It shuts itself off; all you do is add water, measuring it in the cover.

NO PROBLEM in breakfast making has been so completely solved as that of making hot toast. A truly automatic toaster will brown slices, thick or thin to any shade you choose. Your eye opener may be orange juice straight from the juicer or fresh from a frozen juice can. Or it may be one of a dozen appetizers. Whatever it is, the chances are you want it cold and refreshing—and it can be, with the aid of your refrigerator and freezer.

The refrigerator keeps fruit dewy and vitamin rich for days, the freezer provides a midsummer selection all year around. If your family gobbles up pancakes as fast as they're made, a griddle will speed the job.

THE WHOLE food industry seems to be in a happy conspiracy to put breakfast into a box, can or bottle for your convenience. Take advantage of frozen fuices or canned fruits. Don't overlook ready-to-eat cereals in endless variety. Remember mixes for muffins, biscuits, pancakes. To round out your easy breakfast, there's instant coffee and cocoa.

Thousands of dollars have been devoted to proving that people who eat a good breakfast work better, think better, react faster, and are altogether pleasanter, happier people. So we suggest you take a moment out at about 11 o'clock each morning to examine how you feel—tired and listless? Or filled with energy? It all depends on breakfast. SF

Fox River Valley Is New Home of George C. Skoogs

Now residing in Fox River Valley Gardens are Mr. and Mrs. George C. Skoog, who were married recently in St. Theresa Catholic church, Palatine, by Fr. Sullivan. The bride is the former Karen Louise Berns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berns, 125 W. Colfax, Palatine. The groom is the son of former Police Chief and Mrs. Carl H. Skoog, 208 W. Fremont, Arlington Heights.

The double ring service was followed by a reception for 300 guests held in Arlington Heights American Legion Hall, after which Mr. Skoog took his bride on a week's wedding trip to the Wagon Wheel.

The bride, escorted by her father, chose a gown of silk organza over layers of net and taffeta with fitted lace bodice, long sleeves and chapel train. Her three-tier veil was held in place by an aurora borealis crown and she carried a bouquet of white roses and pink sweetheart roses with orchid center and streamers. Baby white mums and orchids were used for the altar decorations.

THE BRIDE'S cousin, Miss Joan Berns of Bensenville, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Janice Helbert of Wauconda, Miss Marian Meyer of Palatine and Mrs. Kay Syoen of Arlington Heights. Their gowns were of royal blue brocaded satin with scoop necklines, long sleeves and bell-shaped skirts. They wore matching headpieces and shoes and carried bouquets of blue and white mums.

The bride's mother chose a toast-colored lace with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses while Mrs. Skoog chose a beige brocade sheath with matching jacket and tan accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

BEST MAN to the bridegroom was Dennis Langguth of Arlington Heights and ushers were the bride's cousin, Al Girard of Round Lake and the groom's cousin, Richard Booth of Brookfield.

The new Mrs. Skoog attended Wauconda and Palatine schools and is now employed in the accounting department of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Arlington Heights, Mr. Skoog was graduated from Arlington high school and is employed by Arlington Plating Co., Palatine.

W. Rohlwing Wed Jan. 14

A Mount Prospect man, William Rohlwing and Mrs. Ramona Binneboese of Roselle became man and wife on January 14 in afternoon rites conducted in the Rohlwing home at 901 I-Oka.

Soleminizing the nuptials was the groom's son, Rev. William Rohlwing of Madison. The bride's daughter, Mrs. Elmer Richert of Roselle, served as witness as did the daughter of the groom, Mrs. George Hinrichs, Schaumburg.

Among guests partaking of the wedding dinner afterward in the Rohlwing home were Mrs. Binneboese's three sons and their wives and Mr. Rohlwing's seven sons and daughters-in-law.

The newlyweds chose Florida as their honeymoon site. (S

Campus Romance Sends Couple On Trip To 'Far Away Places'

A Northern Illinois university campus romance led Miss Judith Kay Makinson and Theodore Tonneman to the altar of Prospect Heights Community church, where they recently repeated marriage vows before Rev. Robert F. Klepper in 11 a.m. rites.

Although their dreams of sharing life together may have easily allowed the newlyweds to envision a simple and traditional double ring ceremony, they could not foresee their first home would be in Coronado, Cal.

For a short time, that is, for soon they were on their way to Hawaii, which only proved to be a short stop-over before embarking on a cruise to point of destination, Yokosuka, Japan.

THE GRADUATION of Ensign Tonneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Tonneman of Chicago, from officers' candidate school in Newport, R.I., took place shortly before the wedding. But within a week after the rites the groom's employer, the U.S. Navy, sent him on a journey to distant countries and climes.

He and his bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmes Makinson of 11 S. Parkway, Prospect Heights, now expect Japan to be their home for the next three years.

Before the bride's approach to the altar on the arm of her father, two wedding songs, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," were presented by Mrs. J. Earle Smith, organist, and Mrs. Klepper, soloist.

THE BRIDE appeared in a light ivory gown of silk faille, styled along traditional lines, with a soft scoop neckline, embellished with re-embroidered alencon lace, which also trimmed the elbow-length bell sleeves.

Her fitted bodice was closed at the back with small buttons in matching material; a narrow silk belt trimmed the waistline and fell in streamers to the hem of the bell-shaped skirt.

Headpiece was a pillbox, also edged with alencon lace, attached to a waist-length veil of imported illusion. Roses and stephanotis covered the white Bible, forming the bride's bouquet.

BRIDESMAIDS were Misses Sandra Powell of Mount Prospect and Karen Tonneman, sister of the groom. Serving as junior attendant was the bride's sister, Phyllis Makinson, Bob Kramer of Clarendon Hills and Curt Schacht, Woodstock, acted as ushers.

Attendants' powder blue dresses were emphasized with nosegay bouquets of tearoses and blue stephanotis. Their street-length gowns of silk taffeta had elbow-length sleeves and boat necklines, which ended in V shapes at the back.

At this point a tailored bow held a draped fullness, providing a flowing effect. Wide, tailored bows of blue taffeta held veils of matching tulle. Color-keyed were their blue shoes; in subtle contrast were the wrist-length gloves of white.

FLOWER GIRL was Nancy Morava of Prospect Heights. Her gown was similar to that of the bridesmaids, but she wore a bonnet type headpiece and carried a white basket filled with rose petals.

Mrs. Makinson received in an emerald green satin sheath with matching coat. Green satin shoes and bag, white elbow-length gloves and white beaded pillbox completed her costume.

For her son's wedding Mrs. Tonneman chose a cocoa lace over champagne satin sheath. Her shoes and bag and pillbox hat were also of cocoa satin; ¾-length gloves were in beige color.

IN THE couple's honor a wedding reception was given at the Villa Venice where guests, numbering 150, were served dinner. Later in the evening the Makinsons entertained 50 guests in their home for cocktails and supper.

The groom is a graduate of St. Gregory high school and attended the University of Illinois and Wright Junior college before graduating from Northern Illinois. His bride studied at Northern Illinois upon graduation from Arlington high school. (S

Arthritis Is Common Disease in America

(Prepared by the Illinois State Medical Society for Paddock Publications.)

Arthritis, or inflammation of a joint—sometimes called rheumatism—is a common disease. An estimated 7,000,000 Americans have it in one form or another. For the most part, the symptoms can be made bearable with proper but simple medication.

The presence of arthritis can be determined readily. The disease may be suspected if there is a swelling, pain, stiffness, or deformity in or around a joint, or restricted movement of a joint. This can be confirmed by laboratory procedures and x-ray examinations.

THERE ARE MANY classifications of arthritis and the disorder is known under many names. The disease may be a degeneration, or wasting away of bone structures; rheumatoid, or due to rheumatic fever, infection, gout, or injury. It may be associated with a nerve or other ailment, or accompanied by a growth.

The most common variety involves degeneration of the joints. Some evidence of this usually occurs in most persons over 50. The limitation of activity may develop so slowly that it is not recognized until well advanced.

Weight bearing joints are affected more frequently but other joints also may be involved. The cause is not definitely known. A family pattern has been noticed and heredity may be one factor. Women are afflicted more often than men.

RHEUMATOID arthritis is often a more severe form and may occur at any age. It is most common between 20 and 45 years of age. Symptoms are often recurring, with intervals of freedom from pain.

Once the disease has progressed into late stages, effective treatment is difficult. Therefore, medical attention should be sought early. Bed-rest, physical therapy, medication, and nutrition are often beneficial.

It must be remembered that not all joint stiffness is due to arthritis. Deformities may be due to one of many other causes. Therefore, it is important that expert advice is obtained instead of depending upon self diagnosis and self prescribing.

A FALLACY in self medication is to believe that a drug that is good for one type of arthritis is good for another. What is forgotten is that different factors may be responsible for the development of symptoms. This makes it necessary for a variety of treatment plans.

Even with the introduction of the so-called "miracle" drugs in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, sufferers cannot expect a quick "cure." It may take a physician a little time to discover the seat of the trouble and to be able to prescribe the most effective medication.

Once a correct diagnosis has been established, the outlook for the patient is greatly improved.

Dance Raises Funds for New Parish Here

As kickoff for a fund raising campaign to raise money to build a new Catholic church and school, members of St. Thomas of Villanova parish held their first dinner dance last Saturday. The affair was held in the hall of St. Colette church, Rolling Meadows, with 600 attending.

Parishioners, who meet in Winston Park school, Palatine, enjoyed a buffet dinner, music by the Hi Fi's and a short speech by the pastor, Rev. John Wall.

Committee members for the affair were Tom McShea, Tom Fraser, John Hartigan, Carl Pasquale, Lou Zulli and Bud Miller. (S

'Questers' Hear Talk On Antiques

"Collectable Antiques" was the topic of a talk by Mrs. Joe E. Brown, antique dealer from Barrington, at the January 16 meeting of the Salt Creek chapter of the Questers.

Mrs. Brown talked to the group about the innumerable items that can be collected and brought examples of the various antiques to illustrate her talk. "You can collect anything from paperweights to old banks or hand-rendered birth certificates."

THE MEETING was held in the home of Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 Windsor Dr. Arlington Heights.

At the next meeting February 20, Mrs. Brown will give a talk on "Old Valentines."

The Questers is an organization devoted to the study of antiques and the sharing of the knowledge and thrill of acquiring old treasures.

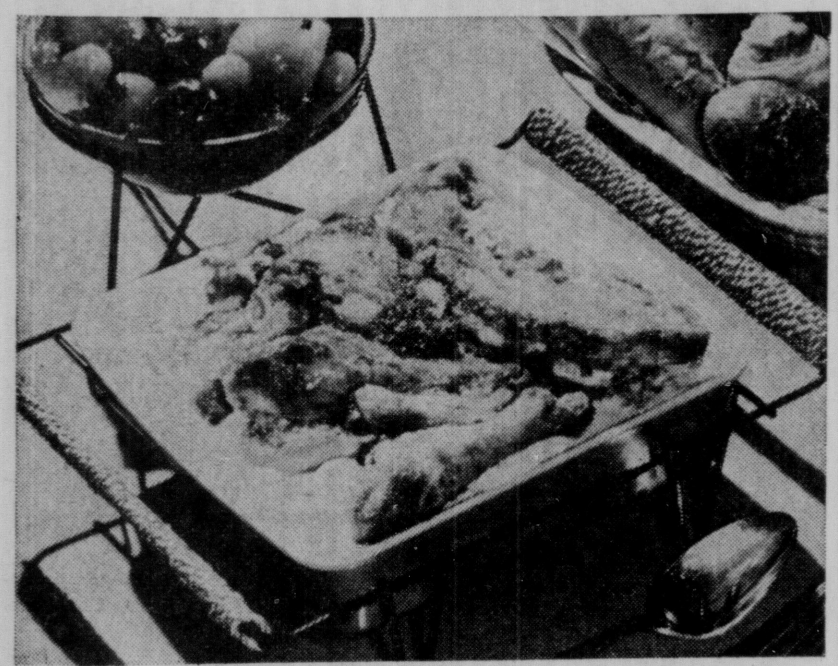
Chicken Casserole Time, Budget Saver



Nearly everyone who is faced with the task of juggling the family food budget places chicken way up at the top of the list of best buys, and it's one thing that is so universally liked by young and old.

However, if it is served too frequently in the same old way, no matter how well it is prepared, one can kill the liking for this bird that pays with golden eggs of savings.

IF YOU'VE just about exhausted your family's appetite for fried or roasted chicken, you'll welcome this easy-to-serve casserole dish, for it starts with good flavored pre-browned chicken baked in an unusually tasty sauce with a sour cream base.

A time and dish saver, too, for it requires no watching during the oven cooking and is served right in the dish in which it is baked.

BAKED CHICKEN SUPREME

1 young chicken, 2 to 2½ lb., cut up
½ cup fat for frying
½ to 1 clove garlic
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sliced onion
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups strained cooked tomatoes
1 cup (½ pint) commercially soured cream
¼ cup Parmesan cheese

Brown chicken in the hot fat. Place chicken in casserole. Prepare sauce: Slice garlic and mash with the salt. Cook garlic-salt mixture and onion until onion is transparent in one tablespoon of the drippings left in the frying pan.

Blend in flour. Add tomatoes and heat to boiling. Remove from heat. Add sour cream gradually, stiring vigorously. Add Parmesan cheese. Mix thoroughly and pour over browned chicken.

Cover and bake in a slow oven (325° F.) until chicken is fork-tender, about 45 minutes. Four to five servings. (SH

Tasty 'Round the Clock Treat: Sausages 'n Corn

When the family comes down to breakfast and the tantalizing aroma of sizzling sausage greets them, they know they're in for a fine, hearty meal.

Let that same pungent aroma tease the appetites of guests and family at dinner, a late supper or a buffet after winter sports, for spicy pork sausage is tempting no matter the hour or occasion.

The recipe given here features economy as well as flavor, for it is made with the lower-cost bulk sausage.

PORK SAUSAGE, CORN CASSEROLE

1 pound fresh pork sausage
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons sausage drippings
1 cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 cups whole kernel corn
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Grease a 1½ quart casserole. Shape sausage into six patties and brown in frying-pan. Remove sausage. Pour off drippings, reserving two tablespoons. Stir flour into drippings. Add milk and salt and cook until thickened.

Add green pepper. Arrange ½ cup cracker crumbs in casserole. Add corn. Place sausage patties on corn and pour white sauce over all. Mix remaining cracker crumbs with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle on top of mixture.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 minutes. Four to six servings. (SH

EARLY SHOPPERS for Easter bonnets were Mrs. Charles Tyra, Mrs. Earl Terp and Mrs. William V. McGovern, who were among guests last week at luncheon-hat show given by Mt. Prospect Woman's club.

If you're at a loss over what to do about hamburger, Mrs. Harvey Carothers has an old family recipe that turns ground beef into tempting luncheon or dinner fare.

"It takes only minutes to prepare this dish," said Mrs. Carothers. Hamburger meat is simply browned with onions and combined with uncooked rice, chicken noodle soup and cream of mushroom soup. Turned into a casserole and topped with crushed corn flakes or potato chips, it is popped into the oven for one hour.

Tempting on cold winter nights and nourishing as well, this hearty casserole needs only a tossed salad and hot rolls or Boston Brown bread as accompaniments.

"I've been making Boston Brown Bread for over 34 years and it still ranks among my favorite recipes," said Mrs. Carothers.

EASY AND inexpensive to prepare, this bread contains no eggs or shortening. All-Bran cereal is used, along with raisins, sour milk, molasses and flour. Quickly beaten together, the batter is poured into four round one-pound cans and baked for one hour.

Not only is this Brown Bread healthy and nourishing, but it tastes so good spread with either cream cheese or butter. Wrapped in foil, it will keep well for days stored in the refrigerator and it freezes well, too.

Dozens of other wonderful recipes are among this good cook's extensive collection. Mrs. Carothers readily admits that she loves to cook and bake and spends most of her time in the kitchen. Her German heritage (she came to the United States as a young girl) is responsible for many of her excellent recipes and two that she received from her mother have long been family favorites.

ROULADES OR Meat Rolls are a specialty among the Germans and in Mrs. Carother's recipe onions, bacon and dill pickles are rolled up in thin pieces of round steak. Tied with string, these rolls are simmered until tender.

The thickened juices make a delicious gravy to serve over mashed potatoes as an accompaniment to the roulades.

A delectable Plum Cake is another German delicacy and this unique cake is delicious served for breakfast, coffee parties or as a dessert.

It has a rich and flakey almond-flavored crust which is dotted with butter and covered with tasty blue plums. Sprinkled with cinamon and sugar and baked for one hour, this cake is a superb taste treat.

And for a time-saving frosting tip, Mrs. Carothers has shared with us her fine recipe for a no-cook Seven Minute Frosting. It takes only two minutes to make this excellent frosting, which is ample for a large cake or two dozen cupcakes, and will stay moist and fluffy.

ALONG WITH her culinary interests this capable homemaker, whose husband is the Arlington Heights fire chief, is naturally very active in the Fire Fighting auxiliary. The Carothers moved from Moline to their home at 634 N. Wilshire in Arlington Heights three years ago, when Mr. Carothers assumed his present position with this village.

They have two married sons, Harvey Jr. and Don, a daughter, Linda, who is a high school freshman, and two granddaughters.

MEAT CASSEROLE

1 pound hamburger
2 small onions
2 tablespoons shortening
½ cup uncooked rice, rinsed and drained
1 can chicken noodle soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup water
Salt and pepper to taste

Brown ground beef and chopped onions together in the shortening. Add rice, soups, water and seasonings. Turn into an ungreased casserole and top with crushed cornflakes or potato chips.

Bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Serves 6 to 8.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD

2 cups All-Bran cereal
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 heaping cup raisins
Boiling water
2 cups sour milk
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 tablespoons molasses
2 cups all-purpose flour

Mix together cereal, salt and sugar. Pour boiling water over raisins to fill cup. Pour over All-Bran, salt and sugar mixture.

Combine baking soda and sour milk and add to above mixture. Stir in molasses and flour. Give the batter a good, swift beating.

Grease four round gold-lined one-pound cans (such as the large cans of Fern Dell peas). Fill to three-quarters with batter. Bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour.

ROULADES

1 slice round steak, cut thin
Sharp mustard
Salt and pepper
Onions cut in quarters
Strips of bacon, cut in fourths
Pieces of dill pickle

Cut round steak in pieces the size of a hand. Spread with sharp mustard and season with salt and pepper.

Place a quarter of onion, a piece of bacon and a strip of dill pickle on each piece of meat. Roll just enough to hold together and tie with a white string. Brown slowly on all sides.

Add ½ cup hot water and simmer slowly, covered, for 45 minutes. Thicken the juices and make a gravy to serve over mashed potatoes. Serves 4.

PLUM CAKE

1½ pounds blue plums
2 cups flour
¼ pound Imperial Margarine
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 egg yolks
1/3 cup water
½ teaspoon almond extract or vanilla
Bread crumbs
¼ pound Imperial margarine
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Wash plums first and dry. Cut just enough to remove seeds and score on each side.

Cut flour and baking powder into ¼ pound margarine as you would for pie dough. Make an indentation in the center and add egg yolks, water and extract. Mix together with a spoon or spatula. Do not handle more than necessary.

Roll out dough a little on a floured board. Turn onto a well-greased jelly roll pan or a cookie sheet with an edge. Work dough into the corners and sprinkle slightly all over with bread crumbs. Dot with remaining ¼ pound margarine.

Place the plums close together all over the dough, skin side down, and press into dough slightly. Mix cinnamon and sugar together and sprinkle over the plums. Bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour. Remove from oven and sprinkle with additional cinnamon and sugar.

NO-COOK SEVEN MINUTE FROSTING

2 egg whites
¾ cup white corn syrup (or any kind)
¼ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Place all ingredients together in a small bowl and beat at high speed on electric mixer until very stiff, about 2 to 3 minutes.

Yield: Enough frosting for a 9-inch layer cake or two dozen cup cakes.

Cabbage Leaves Enfold Rice, Onion 'Treasure'

When the temperature goes down outside, appetites inside go up and the family wants and needs a substantial main dish. When that dish is economical as well, it is indeed a treasure.

Such an entree is Stuffed Cabbage Leaves and as an added bonus cabbage is at its prime right now.

STUFFED CABBAGE LEAVES

3 cups ground cooked beef
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup grated onion
½ cup quick-cook rice
3 cups water
Butter or margarine

Combine ground beef, onions, salt, pepper and rice. Shape into 12 rolls. Remove core from cabbage and steam until leaves begin to wilt. Separate cabbage leaves.

Wrap each meat roll in a leaf, putting a small dab of butter or margarine in each (if fresh meat is used, eliminate butter or margarine).

Place in a baking pan and cover with water. Cover tightly and cook in a moderately slow oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes or until rice is done. Six servings. (SH

Sussex Peanut Soup Specialty

In honor of the Civil War Centennial, many restaurants in Virginia these days are featuring old-time Tidewater dishes. At the John Marshall hotel in Richmond for example, this creamy-rich peanut soup is a specialty: First heat six cups milk to scalding.

Meantime, blend four tablespoons melted butter with six tablespoons flour, then slowly stir the hot milk into the flour mixture. Cook, stirring until smooth and thickened.

Blend in 1/3 cup (six tablespoons) peanut butter and ½ teaspoon salt, or to taste; cook two or three minutes longer. Just before removing from heat, add three tablespoons chopped peanuts.

Serve at once to eight.

Pork, Beef Roasts Serve Double Duty

Most families have definite likes and dislikes in foods, especially meats. This poses a problem when the first-of-the-year budget calls for rigid economy.

After you've crossed the most expensive items off your shopping list the choice narrows down to a point bordering on monotony.

HERE'S WHERE menu planning becomes important. By purchasing enough of your favoite budget cut for two meals, yesterday's hearty meat meal becomes an exotic new dish with a foreign flavor disguise come tomorrow.

Roasts are most convenient for efficient meal planning. A pork roast's encore might feature an oriental cast — chop suey.

PORK CHOP SUEY

2 cups cooked pork cut in cubes
¼ cup pork drippings
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup bamboo shoots
1 cup water chestnuts, sliced
1 cup celery, sliced
½ cup water or bouillon stock
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon corn starch

Add meat to hot drippings and simmer for five minutes. Add salt, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts and celery. Moisten with water or bouillon stock. Simmer until vegetables are tender but crisp—don't overcook.

Add soy sauce and thicken with corn starch mixed in a little cold water. Serve on a bed of buttered rice. Yield: six servings.

AS ANY experienced cook knows, chuck pot roast is one of the most satisfying of the inexpensive beef cuts. It is full of savory, juicy, meaty flavor and the flavor lasts and lasts through many servings.

It is one of the most versatile meats for secondary dishes, such as this good-tasting and nutritious Spanish rice.

BEEF SPANISH RICE

3 cups left-over beef cut in cubes
1 tablespoon lard or drippings
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
1/8 teaspoon pepper
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives
1½ cups quick-cook rice
1 can (1 pound, 13 oz.) tomatoes

Simmer beef and onions in lard or drippings until onions are soft. Add seasonings, olives, rice and tomatoes. Place in a casserole dish and bake for 40 minutes in moderate oven (350° F). Yield: six servings.

Extended meal planning is one of the budgeteer's best tricks. Make the most of it.

Week's Best Food Buys

Crop damage, underscored by an almost total wipe-out of Texas grapefruit and broccoli, shows up in produce departments here this week. Produce values are restricted, with quality and prices ranging widely.

Stability returns to major red meats, with wholesale undertones firmer in beef, pork and lamb. This leads to scattered retail situations, mostly on a dealer's choice basis in terms of bargain selections and prices.

Veal continues in short supply.

FRYERS CONTINUE on a 4-week wholesale climb to boost retails slightly and even turkeys show more signs of vigor. Eggs are unsettled.

Also in apparent short supply are consumers at store counters, and this has its price-basing, value-selection impact, too.

The University of Illinois consumer service looks to pork, lamb and larger-size turkeys as better-buy opportunities for the marketing week ending February 3. The complete but short list includes:

MEATS — ground beef and round steaks, pork roasts, lamb leg and shoulder roasts; poultry — large eggs and Tom turkeys; produce — apples, oranges, potatoes, radishes, green beans and tomatoes.

The February calendar of produce values, one of the shortest of this University of Illinois weekly survey, offers no peak-supply item for the month. Opportunities might be found in: fruits — apples, grapefruit, kumquats, oranges (Florida); vegetables — carrots, celery cabbage, kale, mushrooms, parsnips, shallots, sweet potatoes and potatoes.

PRODUCE SUPPLY comparisons with year-ago and rate of movement are major indicators of the current fruits and vegetables situation. For instance:

Apples are 7 million bushels ahead of last year with movement good; avocados 1 million pounds ahead, movement up 50 per cent; bananas down 7 per cent in supply, off 15 per cent in movement; grapefruit now down 2 million boxes (mostly the Texas loss) but up 11 per cent in movement; grapes smallest crop since 1958, with Emperors 1,000 cars short and movement off 31 per cent; pears 100,000 boxes short against 15 per cent greater movement; tangerines finished (early) for the season and oranges, mostly from Florida, up 3 million boxes.

Green beans are off 14 per cent in supply; broccoli questionable with the Texas crop wiped out; cabbage off 33 per cent in total supplies; cauliflower off 4 per cent (again reflecting Texas conditions); celery off 15 per cent; cucumbers off 35 per cent, and onions off 21 per cent.

In much better shape are radishes and carrots, the latter up 31 per cent in supply mostly from the southwest.

ALSO VERY scarce are: sweetcorn, endive, escarole, lettuce, spinach, turnips and the whole line of tender greens that usually are reasonably abundant at this time of year.

Fryers, gaining another quarter-cent at wholesale, that reflects a two-cent live cost increase on cutbacks in production and unexpected flock losses of market-age birds, posted higher retails this week.

Whole birds quote lowest at 39 cents, and cut-up birds 43-45 cents. Turkeys, firmer, post a 29-39 cent range for Toms, and 39-43 cent for hens and Beltsvilles. Stewing hens quote 39-43 cents for heavier birds, and 33 cents generally for smaller ones.

EARLY WHOLESALE gains on eggs fell fast in the face of buyer caution. Retails maintain a base of 49 cents and up for large Grade A and a firmer 45-47 cents for relatively short supplied mediums.

Flock sizes and production are increasing, which should bring retails down before long. Meanwhile, storage stock deficits are minute — only 40,600 cases below last year on shells, and 1,584,000 pounds on frozen.

Live cattle receipts were off 11 per cent in Chicago and 14 per cent on the 12 markets, to post ½ cent to 1 cent cost increases which reflected at wholesale with one cent higher carcass prices and an abrupt 2 1/2 cents for rounds.

Other primal cuts were unchanged, indicating limited interest in beef lines.

LIVE HOGS were in smaller supply and with wholesales showing caution quotes fell 1/4 cent to ½ cent on the week. At wholesale, loins and butts were in fair demand. Early week low costs at retail can be easily erased.

Live lamb quotes moved up ¼ cent to ½ cent despite an 8 per cent drop in receipts from week-ago, with a recovery at wholesale attributed to the firmer demand. Wholesale that had lost one cent regained half of this, noted as more activity in leg and shoulder cuts. Total lamb receipts, all markets, are 18 per cent above year-ago.

A longer range view of market supplies still indicates slightly lower consumer costs for major perishable foods.

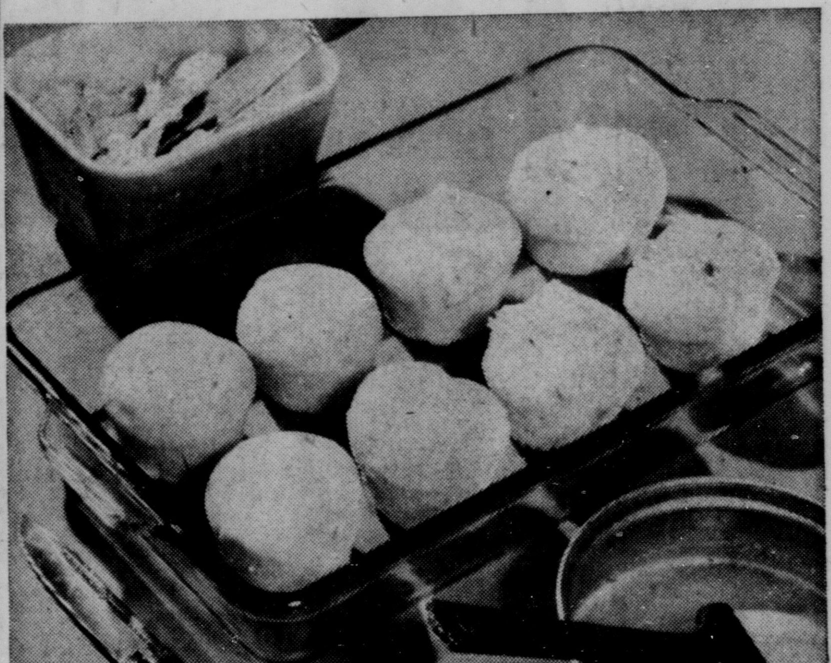
Brown 'n Serve Rolls Baked With a Flair



Feel in an inspired mood and want to make a big production of dinner tonight? Need a lift for a fancy party? Want to go all out but you haven't much time?

Here's an answer that will help you come up with something as dramatic as the kitchen struggler who plans for days.

Those ever-on-hand brown and serve rolls can be "doctored" with a few flavor tricks that will make of them truly fancy gems!

A SWEET TOOTH calls for a bit of surgery treatment. A cheese accent can be equally appealing. Whether for sweet or subtle flavor, you can find the makings in your refrigerator or on your pantry shelf.

Just dress or stuff those handy moment-to-make rolls and you'll make the honor roll.

RAISIN-PECAN ROLLS

½ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped pecans
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 tablespoons honey
8 brown and serve dinner rolls

Combine raisins, pecans, butter and honey. Put one tablespoon raisin mixture into each muffin cup. Place rolls, with tops down, into muffin cups.

Bake in hot oven (400°F.) for 15 mintes. Let rolls stand in pan one minute, or longer, after removing from oven.

Invert pan to remove rolls so that raisin mixture is up. Serve immediately.

CHEESE ROLLS

2 tablespoons melter butter or margarine
8 brown and serve dinner rolls
¼ cup cream cheese
2 teaspoons chopped stuffed olives
2 teaspoons chili sauce
½ teaspoon finely chopped onion

Brush butter over top of each roll. Make two diagonal shallow cuts in the top of each roll. Combine cream cheese, olives, chili sauce, and onion. Insert teaspoon of cheese spread in each cut.

Bake in greased shallow pan in a hot oven (400°F.) for 12 minutes. Serve immediately.

Eggs Ala Castellana

Saute one small chopped onion and ¼ pound chopped meat in two tablespoons Spanish olive oil until onion is golden brown. Add one can (8 oz.) tomato sauce. Divide into six individual baking dishes which have been brushed with olive oil.

Break an egg carefully into each, top each with a spoonful of grated cheese, place in 350° oven until eggs are just set.

Sussex Peanut Soup Specialty

In honor of the Civil War Centennial, many restaurants in Virginia these days are featuring old-time Tidewater dishes. At the John Marshall hotel in Richmond for example, this creamy-rich peanut soup is a specialty: First heat six cups milk to scalding.

Meantime, blend four tablespoons melted butter with six tablespoons flour, then slowly stir the hot milk into the flour mixture. Cook, stirring until smooth and thickened.

Blend in 1/3 cup (six tablespoons) peanut butter and ½ teaspoon salt, or to taste; cook two or three minutes longer. Just before removing from heat, add three tablespoons chopped peanuts.

Serve at once to eight.

Pork, Beef Roasts Serve Double Duty

Most families have definite likes and dislikes in foods, especially meats. This poses a problem when the first-of-the-year budget calls for rigid economy.

After you've crossed the most expensive items off your shopping list the choice narrows down to a point bordering on monotony.

HERE'S WHERE menu planning becomes important. By purchasing enough of your favoite budget cut for two meals, yesterday's hearty meat meal becomes an exotic new dish with a foreign flavor disguise come tomorrow.

Roasts are most convenient for efficient meal planning. A pork roast's encore might feature an oriental cast — chop suey.

PORK CHOP SUEY

2 cups cooked pork cut in cubes
¼ cup pork drippings
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup bamboo shoots
1 cup water chestnuts, sliced
1 cup celery, sliced
½ cup water or bouillon stock
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon corn starch

Add meat to hot drippings and simmer for five minutes. Add salt, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts and celery. Moisten with water or bouillon stock. Simmer until vegetables are tender but crisp—don't overcook.

Add soy sauce and thicken with corn starch mixed in a little cold water. Serve on a bed of buttered rice. Yield: six servings.

AS ANY experienced cook knows, chuck pot roast is one of the most satisfying of the inexpensive beef cuts. It is full of savory, juicy, meaty flavor and the flavor lasts and lasts through many servings.

It is one of the most versatile meats for secondary dishes, such as this good-tasting and nutritious Spanish rice.

BEEF SPANISH RICE

3 cups left-over beef cut in cubes
1 tablespoon lard or drippings
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
1/8 teaspoon pepper
¼ cup sliced stufted olives
1½ cups quick-cook rice
1 can (1 pound, 13 oz.) tomatoes

Simmer beef and onions in lard or drippings until onions are soft. Add seasonings, olives, rice and tomatoes. Place in a casserole dish and bake for 40 minutes in moderate oven (350° F). Yield: six servings.

Extended meal planning is one of the budgeteer's best tricks. Make the most of it.

Week's Best Food Buys

Crop damage, underscored by an almost total wipe-out of Texas grapefruit and broccoli, shows up in produce departments here this week. Produce values are restricted, with quality and prices ranging widely.

Stability returns to major red meats, with wholesale undertones firmer in beef, pork and lamb. This leads to scattered retail situations, mostly on a dealer's choice basis in terms of bargain selections and prices.

Veal continues in short supply.

FRYERS CONTINUE on a 4-week wholesale climb to boost retails slightly and even turkeys show more signs of vigor. Eggs are unsettled.

Also in apparent short supply are consumers at store counters, and this has its price-basing, value-selection impact, too.

The University of Illinois consumer service looks to pork, lamb and larger-size turkeys as better-buy opportunities for the marketing week ending February 3. The complete but short list includes:

MEATS — ground beef and round steaks, pork roasts, lamb leg and shoulder roasts; poultry — large eggs and Tom turkeys; produce — apples, oranges, potatoes, radishes, green beans and tomatoes.

The February calendar of produce values, one of the shortest of this University of Illinois weekly survey, offers no peak-supply item for the month. Opportunities might be found in: fruits — apples, grapefruit, kumquats, oranges (Florida); vegetables — carrots, celery cabbage, kale, mushrooms, parsnips, shallots, sweet potatoes and potatoes.

PRODUCE SUPPLY comparisons with year-ago and rate of movement are major indicators of the current fruits and vegetables situation. For instance:

Apples are 7 million bushels ahead of last year with movement good; avocados 1 million pounds ahead, movement up 50 per cent; bananas down 7 per cent in supply, off 15 per cent in movement; grapefruit now down 2 million boxes (mostly the Texas loss) but up 11 per cent in movement; grapes smallest crop since 1958, with Emperors 1,000 cars short and movement off 31 per cent; pears 100,000 boxes short against 15 per cent greater movement; tangerines finished (early) for the season and oranges, mostly from Florida, up 3 million boxes.

Green beans are off 14 per cent in supply; broccoli questionable with the Texas crop wiped out; cabbage off 33 per cent in total supplies; cauliflower off 4 per cent (again reflecting Texas conditions); celery off 15 per cent; cucumbers off 35 per cent, and onions off 21 per cent.

In much better shape are radishes and carrots, the latter up 31 per cent in supply mostly from the southwest.

ALSO VERY scarce are: sweetcorn, endive, escarole, lettuce, spinach, turnips and the whole line of tender greens that usually are reasonably abundant at this time of year.

Fryers, gaining another quarter-cent at wholesale, that reflects a two-cent live cost increase on cutbacks in production and unexpected flock losses of market-age birds, posted higher retails this week.

Whole birds quote lowest at 39 cents, and cut-up birds 43-45 cents. Turkeys, firmer, post a 29-39 cent range for Toms, and 39-43 cent for hens and Beltsvilles. Stewing hens quote 39-43 cents for heavier birds, and 33 cents generally for smaller ones.

EARLY WHOLESALE gains on eggs fell fast in the face of buyer caution. Retails maintain a base of 49 cents and up for large Grade A and a firmer 45-47 cents for relatively short supplied mediums.

Flock sizes and production are increasing, which should bring retails down before long. Meanwhile, storage stock deficits are minute — only 40,600 cases below last year on shells, and 1,584,000 pounds on frozen.

Live cattle receipts were off 11 per cent in Chicago and 14 per cent on the 12 markets, to post ½ cent to 1 cent cost increases which reflected at wholesale with one cent higher carcass prices and an abrupt 2 1/2 cents for rounds.

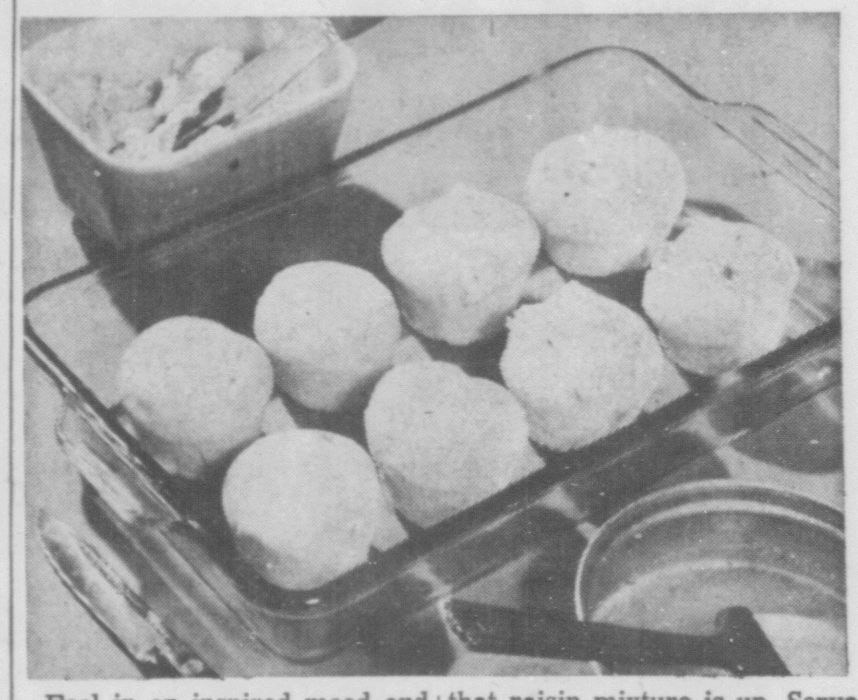
Other primal cuts were unchanged, indicating limited interest in beef lines.

LIVE HOGS were in smaller supply and with wholesales showing caution quotes fell 1/4 cent to ½ cent on the week. At wholesale, loins and butts were in fair demand. Early week low costs at retail can be easily erased.

Live lamb quotes moved up ¼ cent to ½ cent despite an 8 per cent drop in receipts from week-ago, with a recovery at wholesale attributed to the firmer demand. Wholesale that had lost one cent regained half of this, noted as more activity in leg and shoulder cuts. Total lamb receipts, all markets, are 18 per cent above year-ago.

A longer range view of market supplies still indicates slightly lower consumer costs for major perishable foods.

Brown 'n Serve Rolls Baked With a Flair



Feel in an inspired mood and want to make a big production of dinner tonight? Need a lift for a fancy party? Want to go all out but you haven't much time?

Here's an answer that will help you come up with something as dramatic as the kitchen struggler who plans for days.

Those ever-on-hand brown and serve rolls can be "doctored" with a few flavor tricks that will make of them truly fancy gems!

A SWEET TOOTH calls for a bit of surgery treatment. A cheese accent can be equally appealing. Whether for sweet or subtle flavor, you can find the makings in your refrigerator or on your pantry shelf.

Just dress or stuff those handy moment-to-make rolls and you'll make the honor roll.

RAISIN-PECAN ROLLS

½ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped pecans
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 tablespoons honey
8 brown and serve dinner rolls

Combine raisins, pecans, butter and honey. Put one tablespoon raisin mixture into each muffin cup. Place rolls, with tops down, into muffin cups.

Bake in hot oven (400°F.) for 15 mintes. Let rolls stand in pan one minute, or longer, after removing from oven.

Invert pan to remove rolls so that raisin mixture is up. Serve immediately.

CHEESE ROLLS

2 tablespoons melter butter or margarine
8 brown and serve dinner rolls
¼ cup cream cheese
2 teaspoons chopped stuffed olives
2 teaspoons chili sauce
½ teaspoon finely chopped onion

Brush butter over top of each roll. Make two diagonal shallow cuts in the top of each roll. Combine cream cheese, olives, chili sauce, and onion. Insert teaspoon of cheese spread in each cut.

Bake in greased shallow pan in a hot oven (400°F.) for 12 minutes. Serve immediately.

Eggs Ala Castellana

Saute one small chopped onion and ¼ pound chopped meat in two tablespoons Spanish olive oil until onion is golden brown. Add one can (8 oz.) tomato sauce. Divide into six individual baking dishes which have been brushed with olive oil.

Break an egg carefully into each, top each with a spoonful of grated cheese, place in 350° oven until eggs are just set.

FDA May OK 'Clean' Fish Flour Market

Washington, (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently took measures to permit the sale in this country of fish flour made from cleaned fish. The heads, tails, fins, viscera and intestinal contents must be discarded.

U.S. laws now ban the sale of fish flour under any conditions. But it is legal to prepare flour from whole fish and export the product to countries that do not prohibit the sale.

The fishing industry generally favored a standard that would permit marketing whole fish flour from ground-up fish of various sizes and varieties.

REP. HASTINGS Keith, R-Mass., assailed the department for not permitting use of whole fish in fish flour. The FDA has been reviewing since last fall its policy which presently labels fish flour as an "adulterated product."

Fish flour is made by grinding inexpensive fish into a fine meal. It is manufactured in New Bedford, Mass. The home plant of the firm, Vio Bin, is in Monticello, Ill., with another located on Long Island.

"The food is no more objectionable, from an aesthetic standpoint, than oysters, clams or sardines," Rep. Keith stated. "Fish flour is an effective, inexpensive means to fight the world-wide scourge of hunger and malnutrition." (SH

Let's Dress the Dinner With 'Glamor' Garnishes

That hostess you envied probably didn't spend hours fussing in the kitchen. The food looked glamorous (and so did she) because she "dressed" the dinner to look appealing.

Just try a sprig of parsley or a touch of paprika on your own luncheon plate. It only takes a moment, but you'll transform it into an appetizing meal.

These simple garnishes can be made from foods you always have on hand.

A SLICE of lemon can turn many tricks. Quickest—take a center slice, thin; cut through the middle up to the opposite rind; then just twist. Or trim the pulp from the upper half, retaining the rind.

Curl the rind into the center. Add a tiny sprig of parsley or sprinkling of paprika.

Cut a very thin slice of carrot the full length with a potato peeler. Roll it from the pointed end inward and secure with a toothpick.

PUT IN A BOWL of ice in the refrigerator until ready to serve. These carrot "roses" will set themselves and the toothpick can be removed.

Your tangy friend, the dill pickle, becomes a tasty morsel when combined with that ever ready cream cheese. Hollow out the pickle, fill with cheese and slice crosswise.

Top the cheese on each slice with paprika.

Stuff pieces of celery with any variety of cheese, and press the stalks together. Slice crosswise to bite size. So good for a nibble, they can be used as appetizers as well as garnish.

THE FRESH celery leaves trim a platter as beautifully as parsley or other greens. Dash tips with paprika for a contrasting color accent.

Soak hard-cooked eggs in pickled beet juice; slice crosswise. Intermingle the slices with greens, and you've introduced a new color scheme to your table. (SH

Veal Chops Provincial From Pope's Cook Book

A change from usual holiday cuisine is in order and once again Antoinette Pope has come up with a delectable recipe for cooks who will soon start planning their menus around a wider variety of meats.

Bland veal chops turn provincial for the recipe featured this week and with the clever use of herbs and saute green peppers, it will fast take a permanent place in culinary collections.

The recipe is from "The New Antoinette Pope School Cook Book," by Antoinette and Francois Pope, famous cooking team, published by the Macmillan Co.

VEAL CHOPS PROVINCIAL

1 pound loin or rib veal chops sliced 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons butter or other fat
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon black pepper
1/8 teaspoon each thyme, rosemary
2 tablespoons lemon juice or wine combined with 1 tablespoon tomato paste
¼ cup stock or water

Brown chops on both sides in butter. Season, and add all other ingredients, cover and cook gently about 15 minutes. Add peppers that have been sauteed and seasoned.

Continue to cook covered about 7 or 8 minutes more. These veal chops and green peppers are delicious served in a bed of fancy noodles or rice. Serves 2 to 3.

GREEN PEPPERS FOR ABOVE

Cut one pound fresh green peppers into 1½ inch strips and saute in 2 tablespoons cooking oil until delicately brown. Season with about one teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon black pepper and one sliver of garlic. Cover, and steam about 3 or 4 minutes before adding to meat.

Spanish Chicken Reflects Country's Moor Influence

Cookery is probably the oldest of all the arts and that it is and has always been an art is made clear in Betty Wason's newly-published history of cookery, "Cooks, Gluttons, & Gourmets" (Doubleday). Even in the days of the cavemen, prehistoric cooks discovered that meat wrapped in fragrant leaves, then placed in the ashes of the fire to bake, developed special flavor and succulence.

In ancient Persia, fabulous prizes were awarded to cooks who created new and wonderful dishes. The first curry powders were developed in Mohenjodaro, a city in the Indus Valley, some six thousand years ago.

THE SPANISH made a surprisingly large contribution to the world's cuisine. At a time when cookery in feudal Europe could almost be described as gruesome, the bill of fare at LaTour d'Argent in Paris in 1522 included snake-and-porpoise pie and plum-stuffed dormice.

Cookery in Madrid was intricate and subtle and utterly delicious. Partly this was due to the oriental influence of Islam, for the Moors during 500 years of rule in Spain introduced a highly - cultivated civilization and during this period, brought from the Indus Valley almond, orange and lemon trees and introduced such spices as saffron, cinnamon and cumin from the east.

THE AUTHOR points out that the paella of Spain bears decided resemblance to the pilau of ancient Persia. The use of olive oil in all Spanish cooking goes back even farther, to the days of the Phoenicians, who planted the first olive trees on Iberian soil about 600 B.C.

During the days when Rome ruled the world, Spain was already noted for the fine quality of its olive oil, its asparagus and its wines.

In the sixteenth century, the Spanish conquistadores exploring the New World discovered many kinds of plants until then completely unknown in Europe. These included the tomato, sweet and white potatoes, the avocado, corn and sweet and hot peppers.

COLUMBUS discovered the latter, which the natives called aji, when he first landed in the West Indies in 1492. The primary objective of his voyage was to obtain black pepper from the east, a spice worth far more than its weight in gold.

But Columbus bestowed the Spanish name for pepper, "pimiento," on the exotic vegetable, perhaps hoping to finance his next voyage through this bit of deception.

Not one of the plants used for food in the New World was familiar to Europeans. On the other hand, the Spanish introduced many foods totally unfamiliar to the Mexicans, bringing to the New World the first animals to be raised as livestock; sheep, cattle and pigs were all unknown in Mexico.

SPANISH merchants came laden with olive oil to trade for cacao and vanilla beans, ingredients used in the exotic Aztec drink known as xoxo-atl (chocolate).

Later Spanish padres and nuns, coming to propagate the Roman Catholic faith, brought date, almond and peach seedlings, as well as those of the orange and lemon, and flocks of chickens for breeding.

The first of the following recipes from "Cooks, Gluttons and Gourmets" shows the Moorish influence in Spanish cooking. The second reflecs the marriage of Spanish and Mexican products.

IN SPAIN, even today, nearly all food is cooked over charcoal braziers; there are few ovens, except in wealthier homes. The recipe for barbecued chicken is one to remember when charcoal grills are brought out once more for outdoor cooking.

Meantime, it is a delicious way to prepare oven-roasted chicken.

BARBECUED CHICKEN, ORANGE SAUCE

1 or 2 small chickens
Grated rind and juice of one orange
1 small onion, grated
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup Spanish olive oil

Leave chicken whole, brush inside and out with sauce of remaining ingredients. Truss or sew up in usual way. Roast in oven at 325° for one hour or until leg moves easily; or impale on rotating spit over charcoal, banking charcoal two inches high at back of grill with foil pan directly underneath to catch drippings.

Baste with sauce as chicken cooks.

FIAMBRE

3½ cups diced cooked chicken meat
1 large onion, sliced very thin
1 small crisp head lettuce, shredded
3 tomatoes, cut in wedges
½ cup Spanish olive oil
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon black pepper
2 oranges, peeled and sliced
2 avocados, sliced
1 bunch small radishes

Toss together diced chicken meat, lettuce, tomatoes and onion with dressing of olive oil, vinegar, salt and pepper. Arrange the salad on whole lettuce leaves, garnish with the slices of orange and avocado and the small whole radishes. Makes eight servings.

Meat Balls Tropical

Soak two cups soft bread crumbs in ¾ cup milk for five minutes. Meantime, saute two tablespoons minced onion in one tablespoon Spanish olive oil until light brown.

Add onion to ¾ lb. ground beef and ¼ lb. ground lean pork, along with 1½ teaspoons salt and 1 teaspoon Angstura bitters. Combine with soaked bread crumbs and one lightly-beaten egg; blend well, then chill.

Form mixture into small balls and saute in small amount of olive oil until well browned on all sides. Four servings. (SH

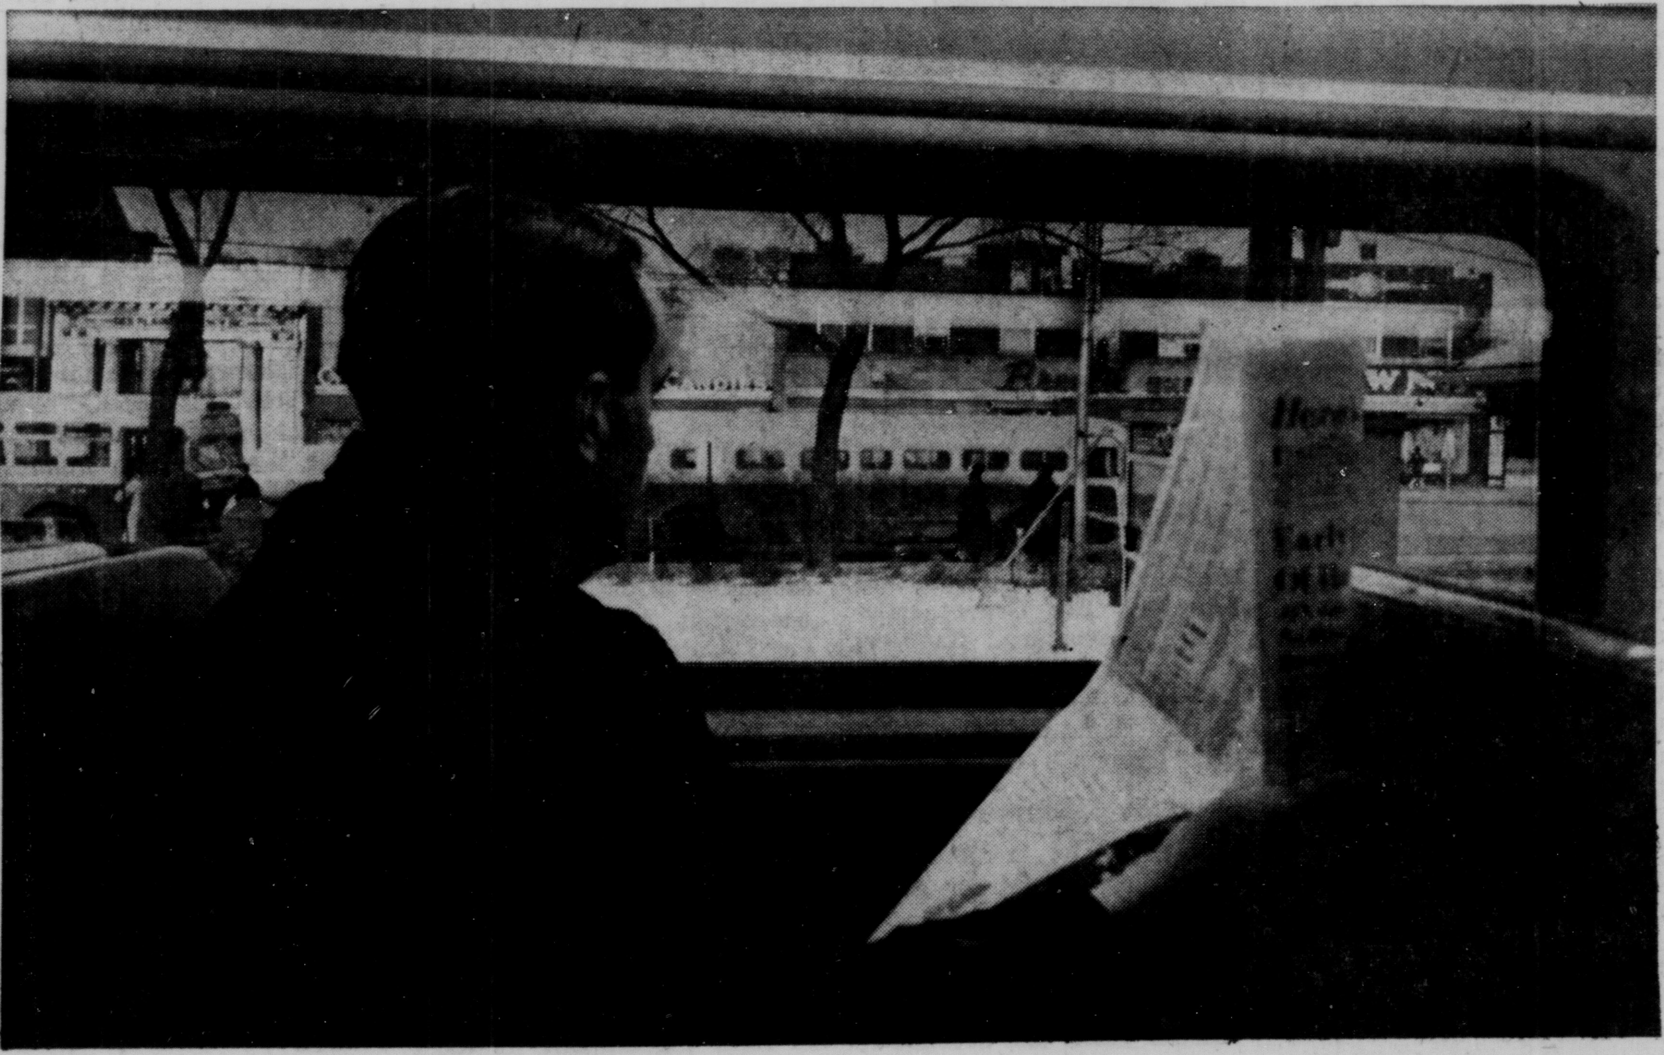
MODERN EXPRESSWAYS: 'Metromess' of Future?

by JOHN REDDY

Photographs by Larry Cameron

(Third in a Series)

THURS., FEB. 1, 1962



The rhythmic whishh-whoshh of the windshield wipers seems loud and urgent. Frank Pietrowski glances quickly into the rear view mirror, but he's hopelessly boxed in. His vital 9 a.m. appointment seems in peril as the bumper-to-bumper traffic slows to a crawl near the whirlpool intersection of Edens and Northwest expressways.

In spite of the irritating anxiety that is shared by many of the 170,000 motorists using these expressways daily, the Arlington Heights resident made it to his near north side office with minutes to spare.

Before construction of the super roadways, he used to battle rush-hour traffic along Higgins rd., Foster and Elston aves. for close to an hour and a half. Now, the trip between his office and his Scarsdale home takes half the time—and he no longer is plagued by pedestrians and a multitude of hazardous intersections.

He is typical of suburbanites who prefer to drive. Expense takes a backseat to convenience. But the "personal crisis" in transportation for Pietrowski will arrive as more motorists start out from more and more suburban dwellings, heading for the "convenience" of limited access expressways.

Expressways are safer than arterial streets. There are four times as many accidents on arterial streets as compared to expressways for every one hundred thousand miles of vehicle travel. There are no pedestrians on expressways, and 60 to 70 per cent of traffic fatalities in the Chicago area are pedestrians.

Regardless of the verbal pictures of chaotic expressway congestion painted by early morning radio broadcasts, many motorists and planners believe the 292 million dollars spent to construct Edens and Northwest expressways is worth the price. To them, the 66 miles of Chicago area expressways are more than luxuries—they are necessities.

This is the age of the private car. A Rolling Meadows resident, for example, does not relish driving in rush hour traffic. Until recently, he worked at a west suburban factory. When it shut down, he was transferred to the south side. Now he can be tallied among the 2,400 motorists per lane an hour in a mile long section of Congress Expressway. This fantastic flow of vehicles has wrested from traffic-bogged Los Angeles the dubious title of busiest freeway in the world.

Hoping to avoid congestion, he often drives to the downtown area to change expressways and dodge the thick Congress Expressway traffic. For him, mass transportation is out of the question.

A report soon to be released will reveal the need for an estimated 270 miles of additional expressways. One will provide a vital link between north and south speedways. But those opposed to extensive expressways suggest that the effort would be a needless waste of community resources — even though financed with gasoline tax funds.

Supporters of mass transportation systems say that vast swaths of concrete eat up valuable tax producing property, disrupt desirable community tradition and reduce value of adjacent property by from 5 to 25 per cent, depending on elevation of the roadway.

It costs 14 million dollars to construct a mile of Northwest Expressway. This amount would pay 400 teachers a seven thousand dollar salary for five years. For suburbanites, a car is vital. Yet part of their taxes will go to the city they left as part of the federal funds being used to support urban renewal.

The coiling congestion of Los Angeles, where plans now are under way to revive a rapid transit system, is cited as a classic example of concrete wastelands. Expressway advocates, however, cry out that Los Angeles cannot be compared to Chicago. They contend the coast city experienced its greatest growth during the era of speed shifts and convertibles. Chicago, on the other hand, grew on a foundation of waterways and railroads — tall buildings and high density providing the passengers for mass transportation.

Extensive expressway development could take its toll on public transportation. Yet highway advocates point out that one out of seven persons is directly or indirectly connected with the automobile industry.

With the automobile has come the necessity to devote valuable space to parking—cold storage for nuts and bolts.

With the automobile has also come a necessity for controls and regulations. Costs for roads in DuPage county have risen noticeably in the past six years, with 20-25 per cent more of the budget going for safety features. And the tidal wave of development is still anticipated.

Buses, like railroads, need volume. A population of 10,000 persons per square mile is considered a minimum for sufficient passenger revenue to be generated. But suburbanites want open spaces—room in which to stretch out. In the outer environs of Arlington Heights, the United Motor Coach Co. serves an average population of 5,000 persons per square mile.

Buses face a difficult future. Greater coordination with commuter railroads is contemplated. But scheduled differences and the desire of bus companies to serve the Loop area delay realization.

Americans love their cars. Past habits have shown that when they can they will use them. Experts predict automobiles will eventually be too costly to use during rush hours. A staggered work day, greater regulation peak-hour tolls may be alternatives. But the automobile, regulated or not, is here to stay.

MODERN EXPRESSWAYS: 'Metromess' of Future?

The rhythmic whishh-whoshh of the windshield wipers seems loud and urgent. Frank Pietrowski glances quickly into the rear view mirror, but he's hopelessly boxed in. His vital 9 a.m. appointment seems in peril as the bumper-to-bumper traffic slows to a crawl near the whirlpool intersection of Edens and Northwest expressways.

In spite of the irritating anxiety that is shared by many of the 170,000 motorists using these expressways daily, the Arlington Heights resident made it to his near north side office with minutes to spare.

The Way We See It

Is Local Government Losing by Default?

Today approximately 70 per cent of all Americans reside in about 200 metropolitan centers, and practically all future U. S. population increases are expected to occur in these urban cradles of growth.

No matter how much we would like to wish this reality away, and no matter how much it offends the aesthetic values of the Frank Lloyd Wrights, these are the facts.

This is a reality with a whole host of accompanying problems in such areas as juvenile delinquency, mass transit, blighted neighborhoods, water supply, air pollution, relocation of industry, housing for minority groups, inadequate hospital facilities, public health and area redevelopment needs.

An awareness of these needs is manifest by President Kennedy's reorganization proposal for establishment of a Department for Urban Affairs and Housing.

It is probably unfortunate that such a proposal has to be made. It is a tacit admission that the metropolitan centers have not been able to contend with these nagging problems of growth.

Supporters of the plan see in it an agency which would be able to coordinate and help with the planning so necessary to avoid sprawling anarchy. Detractors envision the department as a goliath whose demands on the federal treasury would be constant and whose presence would abolish forever local control over community plans and projects.

It could become either or both. Assuming its passage, if it is to remain a friendly partner in future enterprises, municipalities will have to stop defaulting their responsibilities, which is really the reason for attempting to create the department in the first place.

Such an agency could become a "goliath" if communities are unwilling to exert their prerogatives and concede their autonomy to Washington.

The history of new departments; unhappily, strengthens the arguments against an urban affairs department since departments usually become advocates and lobbyists within the government for the groups they represent.

Granting this unfortunate trend, however, it can also be noted that creation of such a department would consolidate many responsibilities now scattered across the governmental spectrum. Sen. Kenneth Keating (R. New York), one of the backers of the urban affairs bill, points out: "By bringing together under one department a number of separate agencies that now, in many cases, overlap, we may actually be able to realize considerable savings."

Two practical considerations that impede progress in the area of urban affairs are: 1) burgeoning metropolitan centers spill over city, county and state lines, outdistancing local tax resources, and 2) unsympathetic state legislatures, whose membership reflects the day when this country was largely rural.

Add to this a third factor in which local officials seem unable or unwilling to grapple with the realities of the moment, and the argument for an urban affairs department is further reinforced.

It would be preferable to seek the solution to local problems locally. But if there is no local leadership — even in advising and coordinating programs — then there is no recourse but to seek advise and information toward solving these growing needs at the federal level.

Utilities in Muddle

Chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission, James W. Karber, last week confirmed in a speech before the Illinois State Bar association what suburban water users have at least suspected for a long time.

Karber said that the major cause of complaints made to the ICC came from customers of private suburban water and sewer companies.

Such companies are the subject of more gripes to the ICC than any of the hundreds of public utilities under its jurisdiction, he told an assembly of 1,000 attorneys.

Noting that the trouble started after "the exodus of so many persons to suburban areas," the ICC chairman observed that construction firms formed corporations to furnish water and sewer services in order to sell houses.

"As a result, we now have many small companies with comparatively high rates, and service which is not reasonably satisfactory."

Recognition of these facts by the ICC should be especially encouraging to the communities of Hoffman Estates, Buffalo Grove and Elk Grove Village since they are all attempting to acquire the private utilities serving them.

That these private utilities are an extremely profitable enterprise is testified to by the fact that Citizens Utilities company, which serves Hoffman Estates, operates 13 other water and sewer firms in the Chicago area.

Perhaps a halt will be called to the tapping of this lucrative lode, however, now that the ICC, which sets the rates these firms may charge, is aware that along with "comparatively high rates (is) service which is not reasonably satisfactory."

Focus on the Family

This year's Boy Scout Week — to be observed from Feb. 7 through Feb. 13 — will focus on the Scout family. This is an appropriate theme, for Scouting is a family affair in which fathers and mothers as well as youngsters participate.

Statistics support this observation. National membership rolls reveal that there are 1,400,000 adult volunteers.

Locally, there are now 3,639 registered volunteer leaders in the Northwest Suburban Council.

A growing family, the suburban council embraces 329 units with a membership of over 10,452 boys.

Drawing on the talent of the community, Scouting has enlisted the services of 3,640 professional leaders, a ratio of one to every 385 volunteer leaders.

Scout Week ceremonies will be held in Washington, D.C. on Feb. 8, and a planned Scout Family broadcast on radio and television will tell how Scouting has helped family life in America.

Since the Boy Scouts were granted a federal charter on June 15, 1916, these contributions to family life have been considerable.

Learn More About Words

by MARTIN E. MARTY

Words, more than most other natural aspects of human behavior, separate us from other animals. Words are weapons, caresses, enticements, propaganda thrusts. In the face of their importance, they receive more and more attention: from philosophers, who today make words their main object of study to poets, who are trying to forge new languages to preachers, who are trying to listen to today's speech in order to speak intelligibly again.

As long as we must work well with words, it might as well be a joyful enterprise to learn more. Bergen Evans, redoubtable and irreverent word-user well known for his television appearances helps us along with a new book, "Comfortable Words" (Random House, $5.05).

ON EVERY PAGE, delights and nuggets abound. Did you know that a man who serves as a midwife is called a midwife, not midhusband? (It comes from "mit"—"with" the wife.)

Evans reminds us that "obstetrician" means etymologically the same thing, but costs $100 more. We can start at the beginning, to give some samples. Is it rude to say, "A Mr. Jones is waiting to see you?" Evans implies that it is — Mr. Jones is insignificant if he needs an "a" in front of his name. Do you say "She's a fine actor" or "she's a fine actress?" Ordinarily we would say "actor," as the differences on lines of gender are fading in vocations today. But actresses live off their femininity, so an exception is made here. "Baby-sitted" or "baby-sat?" Evans leans to the former.

MARTY

WHAT ARE YOU "afraid" of when you say, "I'm afraid I can't come?" Read Evans to find out. Is it "ahnt" or "ant" when you say "aunt"? Evans likes "ant," says that "ahnt" is recent and a bit affected. Try this, "A F. B. I. man" or "an F.B.I. man." Some prissy folks lean to "a" because they think all words should be pronounced and not allowed to hid behind initials. Evans says this is contrary to the way the eye moves, and the moving eye falls better on "an F.B.I. man."

What does it mean to "bring home the bacon?" In Essex, England, any man who would kneel at the church door and swear that he was happily married and had not quarreled with his wife for a year was offered a flitch of bacon. What is the origin of "Kaffee Klatsch," a suburban word that frightens husbands? "Klatschen" is a German word that means "tell on" or "tattle," and klatsch implies that "talk will be of a personal nature and interestingly spiced with malice and enriched with scandal." (Stay away!)

Evans offers 369 pages of hundreds of items. He can take what would liike like a dictionary to any one else and turn it into suspenseful reading. Try it.

People's Forum Views Township

Expensive, Outmoded: Peskin

by BERNARD M. PESKIN

There is no question but that in theory, the township form of government is Utopia. The electors meet and decide themselves how much money they will spend and where it shall be spent. It is actually government by council and is a throwback to the Pilgrim days.

In practice, however, it just doesn't work out.

It is a rare thing to find more than 10 people at the annual Town Meeting. The largest attendance in my memory was 450 people at a special town meeting in Northfield township, where the disposition of $80,000 in surplus funds was determined. Yet this amounted to only 1 per cent of the population! Most people just don't know what township government is or what it does—and they are not interested in finding out.

THE COST OF township government continues to go up despite the fact that with rapid annexation of unincorporated areas by nearby municipalities, it is required to provide less service for fewer people each year.

The work of every township officer is duplicated by a county officer. There is no question but that the county highway department could take over the work of the highway commissioner and, having more and better equipment, could do a faster, better job, more economically.

There have been charges that township general assistance is administered politically in some areas. The Cook County Department of Welfare has trained social workers, hired through civil service, but only four out of the 30 townships have trained social workers acting as supervisor of general assistance. This is the only relief program still handled locally—all others are handled by the county. The 1957 merger of the Chicago and Cook County Departments of Welfare resulted in large savings in administrative costs and there is no reason to believe that a merger of township general assistance with the county will not do likewise.

MANY PEOPLE think they get something for nothing when they speak of the township's surplus funds. What they don't realize is that the two per cent commission the Collector takes before distributing tax funds to the various taxing bodies is money that would otherwise go to these same taxing bodies, with about 70 per cent to the local school districts.

All governmental agencies take the collector's commission into account—they simply add two per cent to their budgets to provide for it! The County Treasurer, with his new electronic equipment, can now distribute tax funds as fast as the local collector. There exists now no reason to retain the Office of Collector, with his $10,000 per year salary, and up to more than twice that amount for office expense.

THE COST OF township government cannot be determined accurately. The town officers make no accounting nor do they file reports in any central place. There is no taxpayer's group watching over them, as we have with all other governmental agencies. The nearest estimate that can be made is that the cost runs upwards of $4 million. County officers should be able to perform all these functions for less than a third of the money, and do it better.

Having the choice, many counties in Illinois have changed from the township to the commission form of government and have profited from the change. The township form of government today is expensive, archaic and outmoded. I fail to see any good reason for its continued existence.

We're Entitled to Home Rule: Peters

by ALBERT C. PETERS

Township form of government exists as a result of provisions contained in our Illinois statutes which state, in effect, that in any general election held in the several counties of this state, the qualified voters in any county may vote for or against township organization in such county. It is further provided that on petition of 50 or more legal voters of said county, the county board shall cause to be submitted to the voters of the county the question of township organization, either "For township organization" or "Against township organization."

In their wisdom, township organization form of government in Cook county was established by the voters many years ago and has continued to date, and nothing of consequence has occurred throughout the years to cause thinking voters to question the wisdom of their choice in favor of township organization. As established many years ago, Cook county was, and now is, composed of 30 townships (outside of Chicago), popularly and commonly known as the "country towns."

IN ITS FINAL analysis, there is only one principal reason why politicians are in favor of, and are agitating for, a change from the township organization form of local government. Believing that they already may have exhausted existing sources of obtaining revenues, or that their limit has been reached in their never ending need for additional means through which revenues can be obtained, covetous eyes have in recent years been cast on a heretofore untouched form of government that has stoutly resisted encroachment.

Recently, House Bills 255, 1191 and 1192 were introduced in the last session of the legislature, which if passed, would have transferred the general assistance program now efficiently and economically administered by the various township supervisors to the Cook County Bureau of Public Aid, and would have made the county collector the custodian of the general assistance funds. Fortunately, these bills were defeated, but their mere introduction evidences that further efforts will undoubtedly be made along similar lines.

The mere introduction of these bills posed some interesting and illuminating questions. If these bills had passed, would this have meant that the township general assistance program would be merged with that of the general assistance program of the city of Chicago? Since the city of Chicago requests and receives state funds each month to administer its relief program, would such merger mean that a one mill levy would be placed on all townships as well as such levy being made in Chicago? (During 1960 the 30 country townships levied only 12 per cent of one mill for assistance purposes, totalling $658,569.59).

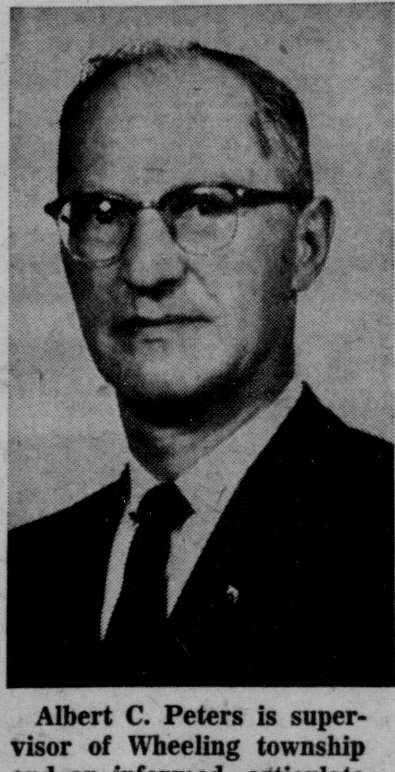
IF SO, THIS would mean an additional tax burden of over $4-½ million on the taxes of the 30 townships. How much additional personnel would be required to handle the case load in the 30 country townships in Cook county if the program was administered by the Cook County Department of Public Aid?

At present Cook county has all it can do to handle referred cases, with dispositions thereof not being made from 60 to 90 days from date of referral. Would needy persons in the townships be required to travel to Chicago to make application for general assistance? Who would handle emergency cases such as those arising after working hours, where such cases are presently handled by township supervisors who are on call 24 hours a day?

It is of interest to note that many of the 30 Cook county townships have made no levy of taxes for general township purposes for several years. The statutes provide that if personal property and real estate taxes are paid to the township tax collector, 1 per cent of all tax funds so collected are remitted to the township to be used for general township purposes.

IT SHOULD, therefore, be obvious that the benefits and advantages to the taxpayer of continued township organization form of government so greatly exceed any arguments to the contrary, that its continuation is assured. Every citizen and taxpayer is entitled to home rule; to the right to elect local officials who are his neighbors and whom he personally knows; to economically and efficiently administer local government; to be present at the annual township elector's meeting when the township budget is presented for consideration; and to vote for or against its adoption at such open meeting.

Any effort that tends to undermine township organization form of government constitutes a deprivation of individual rights and liberties that should not, and cannot, be tolerated or permitted.



Albert C. Peters is supervisor of Wheeling township and an informed, articulate spokesman for home rule and township government.

He holds the PhB and JD degrees from University of Chicago. A lawyer by profession, he has been engaged in real estate work for the past 12 years.

Peters, 56, is a Regular GOP precinct captain and a past president of Wheeling Township Regular Republican club.

What is the origin of "Kaffee Klatsch," a suburban word that frightens husbands? "Klatschen" is a German word that means "tell on" or "tattle," and klatsch implies that "talk will be of a personal nature and interestingly spiced with malice and enriched with scandal." People's Forum Views Township

Expensive, Outmoded: Peskin

by BERNARD M. PESKIN

There is no question but that in theory, the township form of government is Utopia. The electors meet and decide themselves how much money they will spend and where it shall be spent. It is actually government by council and is a throwback to the Pilgrim days.

In practice, however, it just doesn't work out.

It is a rare thing to find more than 10 people at the annual Town Meeting. The largest attendance in my memory was 450 people at a special town meeting in Northfield township, where the disposition of $80,000 in surplus funds was determined. Yet this amounted to only 1 per cent of the population! Most people just don't know what township government is or what it does—and they are not interested in finding out.

THE COST OF township government continues to go up despite the fact that with rapid annexation of unincorporated areas by nearby municipalities, it is required to provide less service for fewer people each year.

The work of every township officer is duplicated by a county officer. There is no question but that the county highway department could take over the work of the highway commissioner and, having more and better equipment, could do a faster, better job, more economically.

There have been charges that township general assistance is administered politically in some areas. The Cook County Department of Welfare has trained social workers, hired through civil service, but only four out of the 30 townships have trained social workers acting as supervisor of general assistance. This is the only relief program still handled locally—all others are handled by the county. The 1957 merger of the Chicago and Cook County Departments of Welfare resulted in large savings in administrative costs and there is no reason to believe that a merger of township general assistance with the county will not do likewise.

MANY PEOPLE think they get something for nothing when they speak of the township's surplus funds. What they don't realize is that the two per cent commission the Collector takes before distributing tax funds to the various taxing bodies is money that would otherwise go to these same taxing bodies, with about 70 per cent to the local school districts.

All governmental agencies take the collector's commission into account—they simply add two per cent to their budgets to provide for it! The County Treasurer, with his new electronic equipment, can now distribute tax funds as fast as the local collector. There exists now no reason to retain the Office of Collector, with his $10,000 per year salary, and up to more than twice that amount for office expense.

Bernard M. Peskin, 39, is a State Representative in the Sixth District, which includes Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hanover, and Barrington townships. He has been identified with the Young Turk and "economy bloc" elements of the Democratic party in the General Assembly.

A veteran of World War II, Peskin was honorably discharged from the army in 1946 as a Technical Sergeant with three bronze battle stars and a Presidential Unit Citation.

He was graduated in 1950 from John Marshall Law School and is now a law partner with Earl A. Deutsch at 33 N. LaSalle st., Chicago.

Peskin is a member of North Shore Congregation Israel; Northbrook Lodge B'nai B'rith; Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity; Chicago Historical Society; a director of Northbrook Ridge Association, property owners group; a director of the Evanston Hillel Foundation; membership committee of the Chicago Bar Association, and a member of the Illinois State Bar Association.

He resides with his wife and two children at 326 Southgate dr., Northbrook.

THE COST OF township government cannot be determined accurately. The town officers make no accounting nor do they file reports in any central place. There is no taxpayer's group watching over them, as we have with all other governmental agencies. The nearest estimate that can be made is that the cost runs upwards of $4 million. County officers should be able to perform all these functions for less than a third of the money, and do it better.

Having the choice, many counties in Illinois have changed from the township to the commission form of government and have profited from the change. The township form of government today is expensive, archaic and outmoded. I fail to see any good reason for its continued existence.

We're Entitled to Home Rule: Peters

by ALBERT C. PETERS

Township form of government exists as a result of provisions contained in our Illinois statutes which state, in effect, that in any general election held in the several counties of this state, the qualified voters in any county may vote for or against township organization in such county. It is further provided that on petition of 50 or more legal voters of said county, the county board shall cause to be submitted to the voters of the county the question of township organization, either "For township organization" or "Against township organization."

In their wisdom, township organization form of government in Cook county was established by the voters many years ago and has continued to date, and nothing of consequence has occurred throughout the years to cause thinking voters to question the wisdom of their choice in favor of township organization. As established many years ago, Cook county was, and now is, composed of 30 townships (outside of Chicago), popularly and commonly known as the "country towns."

IN ITS FINAL analysis, there is only one principal reason why politicians are in favor of, and are agitating for, a change from the township organization form of local government. Believing that they already may have exhausted existing sources of obtaining revenues, or that their limit has been reached in their never ending need for additional means through which revenues can be obtained, covetous eyes have in recent years been cast on a heretofore untouched form of government that has stoutly resisted encroachment.

Recently, House Bills 255, 1191 and 1192 were introduced in the last session of the legislature, which if passed, would have transferred the general assistance program now efficiently and economically administered by the various township supervisors to the Cook County Bureau of Public Aid, and would have made the county collector the custodian of the general assistance funds. Fortunately, these bills were defeated, but their mere introduction evidences that further efforts will undoubtedly be made along similar lines.

The mere introduction of these bills posed some interesting and illuminating questions. If these bills had passed, would this have meant that the township general assistance program would be merged with that of the general assistance program of the city of Chicago? Since the city of Chicago requests and receives state funds each month to administer its relief program, would such merger mean that a one mill levy would be placed on all townships as well as such levy being made in Chicago? (During 1960 the 30 country townships levied only 12 per cent of one mill for assistance purposes, totalling $658,569.59).

IF SO, THIS would mean an additional tax burden of over $4-½ million on the taxes of the 30 townships. How much additional personnel would be required to handle the case load in the 30 country townships in Cook county if the program was administered by the Cook County Department of Public Aid?

At present Cook county has all it can do to handle referred cases, with dispositions thereof not being made from 60 to 90 days from date of referral. Would needy persons in the townships be required to travel to Chicago to make application for general assistance? Who would handle emergency cases such as those arising after working hours, where such cases are presently handled by township supervisors who are on call 24 hours a day?

Albert C. Peters is supervisor of Wheeling township and an informed, articulate spokesman for home rule and township government.

He holds the PhB and JD degrees from University of Chicago. A lawyer by profession, he has been engaged in real estate work for the past 12 years.

Peters, 56, is a Regular GOP precinct captain and a past president of Wheeling Township Regular Republican club.

He is married and father of five sons. He resides at 403 N. Belmont ave., Arlington Heights.

It is of interest to note that many of the 30 Cook county townships have made no levy of taxes for general township purposes for several years. The statutes provide that if personal property and real estate taxes are paid to the township tax collector, 1 per cent of all tax funds so collected are remitted to the township to be used for general township purposes.

IT SHOULD, therefore, be obvious that the benefits and advantages to the taxpayer of continued township organization form of government so greatly exceed any arguments to the contrary, that its continuation is assured. Every citizen and taxpayer is entitled to home rule; to the right to elect local officials who are his neighbors and whom he personally knows; to economically and efficiently administer local government; to be present at the annual township elector's meeting when the township budget is presented for consideration; and to vote for or against its adoption at such open meeting.

Any effort that tends to undermine township organization form of government constitutes a deprivation of individual rights and liberties that should not, and cannot, be tolerated or permitted.

School Plans Are 'Utopian'

In a few weeks voters of school district 59 will be asked by the school board to increase our bonded indebtedness by $1,350,000 to cover an anticipated increase in enrollment through 1963. We have been assured that it will not increase our taxes, but rather will be absorbed by

This is a lovely utopian plan but when the figures reach such astronomical proportions as $1,350,000 it is time to take a long look at the facts. To date neither industrial nor residential development is up to schedule. It seems to me that promises like these were made before, yet taxes rose over 30 per cent. Can we really afford utopia?

ACCORDING TO the paper, $1,350,000 will be required to construct 21 classrooms outside of the village itself, but within district 59, to remodel the Forest View school to serve as administrative offices for the school board, and to build an additional 28 classrooms in Elk Grove Village.

Obviously the remodeling of Forest View school is a necessity if kept within reason, since a school board the size of ours needs suitable space in which to operate efficiently.

As to the construction of the 21 classrooms outside of the village, I cannot comment as I am unfamiliar with their location or the needs of the community, but I protest strongly the addition of 28 classrooms in the village. Ten of these are to be added to the Clearmont school which was just completed this fall and which we were assured would be adequate to meet our needs, and 18 in another section. This need is based in part on the fact that there are over 200 children in the eighth grade, but over 600 in kindergarten, pointing to a fast increase in enrollment. Yet nowhere was mention made that a large number of these kindergarten children will be enrolled at Queen of the Rosary for first grade. Surely, if enrollment increases are anticipated this, too, must have been anticipated. I resent deliberate misrepresentation.

THE LIMITING of classes to 25 students is also an expensive unnecessary utopian dream. As a former teacher I handled classes of 45 and while I readily admit that this is too many pupils, my pupils did not suffer scholastically. Instead I worked frantically myself. At that time I was single and had far less responsibility than the average married teacher with a family, so I could devote more time to teaching, but I wouldn't recommend it as an enrollment standard. However any teacher worth her salt can easily and efficiently handle a class of 35 instead of 25. After all, she's trained for it.

What difference do 10 pupils make? On the estimated need of 28 classrooms this is a savings of 280 pupils or 8 classrooms at 35 pupils per room. Averagte estimated cost per classroom by a leading magazine was $20,000 multiplied by 8 room, totals $160,000 overall saved over the years plus 8 teachers at $4,500 each or $36,000 annually. And this only on requested classrooms. What could be saved by adding 10 pupils to existing rooms? And I repeat, that from personal experience a class of 35 harms neither pupil or teacher.

THE SCHOOL board promises us nothing but the best for our children which is admirable, but I would prefer "the best that we can afford." What good is it to plan for a utopia that is so far beyond our means that we must sell our homes because of unmanageable taxes, and move to a less desirable neighborhood?

Why not face facts and provide the very best that we as a community can afford. Turn down the request for $1,350,000 and ask the school board to modify it and present a more reasonable request.

Vivisection Is Inhumane, Cruel

The letter concerning vivisection as practiced on dogs unfortunately committed to the experimental medical laboratories and submitted to surgery without benefit of anaesthesia and post operative care, filled me with feelings of pathos and abhorrence.

We are the people to whom the world is looking for guidance and direction. We represent humanity and love. We are taught to love animals as God's creatures, and yet we sit complacently by indicating that we condone and approve this sadistic butchery of man's best friend whose only crime is that he has been abandoned, lost, and does not possess a license.

THE PERFORMANCE of surgery on dumb animals for an experiment, whim, or kicks should be prohibited and dispensed with.

England does not practice animal experimentation and vivisection, and the English doctors are as capable in the medical and surgical field as American doctors.

Frequent exposures by the humane societies and enlightenment of the public concerning these atrocities could lead to better legislative control and frequent inspections and perhaps abolishment of all brutal experimentation soon.

MANY PERSONS who are seeking lost animals should be aware that their pet could fall into the hands of these butchers.

Our children, the hope of the future, must have a high regard for life and living creatures and believe in God to assume the leadership of our country and its destiny.

Reader Protests Misuse of Word

I'd like to register a complaint about the manner in which you are aiding the corruption of the English language. I refer particularly to the use of "Finalized" in the January 25 edition of the Mount Prospect Herald.

I am not a purist and enjoy seeing word coinage—if it is inventive and apt. "Finalize" is prosaically redundant. Why coin a word when there are two perfectly good words already extent —"completed" and "final"? There is no need to make "final" a verb or participle.

This issue raged some time ago, I recall, when President Eisenhower used — rather misused—the word. However, we protectors of the English language do not give up. For example, we do not smoke Winstons in our family as a matter of protest.

Radical Anti-Communists Are Threat to Freedoms: Reader

If several thousand communists were meeting each week in the Chicago area to plot the imposition of their particular brand of economics and world view on the rest of the community, we would justifiably be disturbed. Fortunately, the communists have no such strength in our community but another group, potentially as pernicious, does. I refer to the "John Birch Society" and the various "fronts."

I recently attended one such meeting at the Flick-Reedy plant in Bensenville. An important, highly-paid Texan (Texas seems to abound in "crack-pots") was the guest lecturer and the line was the same old song, "Everyone is communist except me and thee and even thee are sometimes suspect." Liberals, socialists, communists and "modern Republicans" were all treated as spiritual brothers. The meeting was attended by 1,200 people and was the sixth of a series which has since been repreated in other communities.

NOW—THERE are two ways of opposing communism. There are the methods being applied by President Kennedy which include aid to underdeveloped andhungtanresinyrs o psrno,eu and hungry nations, pressure on the vested interests of these countries to reform their economies, while all the time maintaining our own military and economic strength.

The other method was tried by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in the 1930s. Their methods were terror, the police state, concentration camps, gas chambers, and inevitably WAR! We must never forget the primary appeal of Hitler to the German people was his promise to save Germany from communism. This he did—for awhile—and at what a cost! In the end, communists, socialists, liberals, and conservatives all met each other in the concentration camps.

Liberals who have suffered much in recent years by "name-calling" by political opponents are reluctant to indulge in the same even when it constitutes "calling a spade a spade." There is a great temptation to treat "Birchism" as a temporary insanity which will fade away.

And yet—one who reads history, carefully cannot escape the striking similarities between the early beginnings of the extreme right in Germany which led to the Nazi Party and the present machinations of the extreme right in this country. Santayana has said, "They who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it."

AFTER WORLD War I, Germany was in the throes of frustration induced by the loss of the war, the impotence of Germany in world affairs, the dislocations in the economy, and the rising menace of communism. In this frustration, many Germans turned to the group which seemed to offer easy and quick solutions.

Now, amid the frustrations of the cold war and the advances of communism, some Americans are listening to the siren song of the political medicine men. Hitler was not a danger until conservatives began to pour money into his party coffers. In this country, the big money has not yet flowed to the Birchers but a considerable number of the rich have begun to contribute to this extreme group. Let a major crisis, foreign or domestic, develop and the flow of funds will increase.

Already the Birchers have their Goerings and Ludendorffs in the Gen. Walkers and other ex-war heroes who refuse to fade away. Gen. Walker recently spoke (from Texas) to 75 simultaneous meetings across the country by closed-circuit TV. Such facilities are not purchased by the nickels and dimes of ordinary working people.

IT IS THE Birchers' privilege as American citizens to organize and speak and write. But it is equally the privilege of other Americans to warn against this resurrection of the same old game used by the extreme right in the 1930s to win power in Germany, Italy and Spain.

Fritz Thyssen, the multi-millionaire German steel magnate, in his book, "I Paid Hitler," is referred to by his publisher as "The great German capitalist who helped the Nazis to power because he believed that they were the people who could save his country from Bolshevism." Soon disillusioned, he discovered his mistake too late. It is well that American businessmen contributing or thinking of contributing to The John Birch Society (or fronts) go to the public library and read of Mr. Thyssen's experiences. Mr. Thyssen and his conservative business friends were taken on this same ride three decades ago!

Suburban Republicans Question Fight on Federal School Aid

Last week there appeared in this column an article opposing Federal aid to education. Although the controversial bill no. 7300 has already been defeated, a watered - down version emphasizing college aid will probably be presented in the present session of Congress, and of course the basic principles are the same.

As registered members of the Republican party we, too have reservations about the advisability of more centralized government. At the same time, we wonder if the right answer is complete rejection on the one hand or blanket approval on the other. Perhaps a close study of the specific issues involved, and then decisions made relating to these specifics, is the better course. At any rate, we all know that the truth is best served through the exchange of opposing views based on facts as we understand them.

FIRST, A BRIEF review of the problem confronting all Americans whatever their state may be—that of a republican government having democratic processes but dependent for its effectiveness upon the literacy of its voters.

"Today the nation suffers a shortage of 127,200 public school classrooms. Some are needed because of overcrowding, others because dilapidated, run-down and sometimes dangerous rooms are in use. Public school enrollment is up 1,200,000 over last year and is expected to climb another million this year. And teachers salaries are still low." (Chicago Daily News, January 8, 1962)

Education-wise, we in Illinois seem fortunate compared to other states although we still have double shifts, notably in Chicago. But what of Arkansas, Mississippi and other less favored states. Lack of education and its undesirable by-products such as prejudice, lack of equal opportunity, etc. surely were important factors behind the race riots there that shamed our country before world opinion.

WHAT ARE we doing to help these fellow Americans regardless of the state in which they live? What of automation and the great labouring classes put out to pasture to subsist on public funds. What of our desperate need for doctors, scientists, teachers, college graduates of all pursuits to meet the communist threat.. Perhaps education for all is the answer. We think so. Surely opponents to Federal Aid to Education have not offered a more constructive solution.

They reiterate time and time again that the individual citizen in his own community can rise to the occasion. Perhaps. But what happened to the Itasca PTA scholarship fund for teachers? Why do we not have the new school proposed by our school board last April?

We all have dificulty meeting financial obligations these days. But, we also have obligations as human beings—one to the other. Sometimes these interests conflict and we are forced to make decisions. It could be that investment in a wider educational system today might well save us money tomorrow.

THE fore-mentioned article mentions that the PTA rank and file does not support Federal Aid to Education. This may be true although there is at present no way of knowing. Both Itasca units have decided to study the issues further and no vote has been taken.

Further, there are many quotes from the Congressional Record. Any statement made in the Senate or House may be inserted in the Record. More meaningful might be mention of the author's name, his voting record, etc.

Accusations are made against certain groups. One is said to be a "conception of the Communist party." What does this mean and was this tried and proved in the courts? If so, what was the verdict? If people are accused of being communists they must be proved so, for in our system all persons are considered innocent unless proven guilty in the courts. Irresponsible name-calling seems to be a technique much in vogue these days. It is used without compunction by groups that endeavor to represent themselves as speaking for the majority and indeed use the very methods of those they say they despise.

Of course, federal aid to education is nothing new. The ordinance of 1787, setting forth plans for the Northwest Territory, states—"religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." Land grants, based on population, stimulated public schools and lightened state tax burdens.

Another instance might be the Smith Hughes act, 1917, appropriating salaries for teachers of agricultural and industrial subjects etc. Many veterans today are grateful to the G.I. Bill for aid in college years.

WHERE was this supposed conspiracy of the federal government to influence them then? Or is it lurking behind a bush waiting for the next crop of kids whose only crime is a desire for knowledge and equal opportunity.

Finally, what is this thing we call the federal government? What is its character and form? Is it a dictatorship, a monarchy; is it socialistic, communistic? Or is it "we the people"—our elected servants whose remarks, noted down in the Congressional Record, were found to be of some use in last week's article. Yes we the people guaranteed by certain unalienable rights—the best system of government the world has yet produced. Our country is strong. We have a two-party system, for controversy is welcome and helpful. We have our freedoms and rights as individuals but we also bow to the wishes and needs of the majority.

The United States, if strong internally, need fear no external force. Perhaps federal aid to education is one of the answers.

Oyster Packers Merit Sympathy

To the Fence Post and THE editor whose column really touched my heart today (Jan. 25): Those POOR oyster packers who are in the business of supplying oysters and other sea food to the people of the U.S. — whose "very existence is threatened by the wage and hour law, etc."!!

Is this the Wage and Hour Law that requires employers to pay their employees at least $1.15 (or $1.25) per hour? Our country must be in a pretty sad state if such wages will put employers out of business.

I HAVE bought some of these oysters, and also crabmeat, and I will testify that they are not cheap. But of course, that's because employees are getting such high wages . . . (at present, not $1 per hour, evidently).

If machines are doing the work at cheapest rates, naturally the cost of oysters will come down . . . naturally. Let's watch and see.

As we filled out the questionnaire received from the Elk Grove Jaycees, we were asked to list the five most important things which need to be done to make this a better community.

We are not complainers in general, but we felt obliged to mention two things that perturbed us.

WE DO not like the way the store merchants send the boys each week with sales advertisements that they throw on the streets, drives and in the yards, sometimes four or five from one store. Especially when it is raining or snowing. They are soaked and it is impossible to read them. It certainly makes the neighborhood look terrible over the weekend and should be stopped.

We also think that dog owners should keep their dogs on a leash on their own property and not be allowed to relieve themselves on other people's lawns and shrubs.

Film Effective Against Reds

I read with interest a small article in the January 18th issue stating that the film "Operation Abolition" was to be shown at Wheeling's Mark Twain school. The last sentence was that "the film has been both widely condemned and praised." Unfortunately, the writer did not say by whom.

The film is a documentary of actual communist-led rioting against the House Un-American Activities Committee in San Francisco in May, 1960. Senator Strom Thurmond, a South Carolina Democrat and former governor of that state, witnessed a known communist, Archie Brown, inciting the students into rioting. J. Edgar Hoover has vouched for the fact that the riots were communist inspired and led. The House Un-American Activities Committee has recently published a document entitled "The Truth About the Film 'Operation Abolition' in answer to attacks by The Worker and by leftist publications.

"Operation Abolition" is a very effective anti-communist film and is certainly not being praised by the communists.

Haitian Tells Of Impession

I feel as if I should reply in regard to the incident that occurred in Arlington Heights recently. First, I would like to convey my thanks and congratulations to all the people who expressed their thoughts on this subject and strongly believe that there are many things more essential and worthwhile than the fateful color of the skin.

I want them to know that this unfortunate incident was very valuable in a sense, since I can now return to Haiti and explain how nicely I have been treated in Arlington Heights, Illinois, and what hospitable people I have had the opportunity to meet there.

I DO ALSO assure all the barbers that I harbor no resentment. Maybe we all misunderstood. Let us say that I appreciated very much the gesture of those who have offered to give me a haircut, even a free haircut. I only regret that, leaving Arlington Heights soon, I will not be able to take advantage of the offer.

I truly have no ill-feeling. There are many good as well as evil people in all races, in all countries, and I am quite aware of the problems involved in living together harmoniously in this small world—just a matter of time and education; education implying humanism, truth and respect of real values.

SINCE visiting the United States and staying in Arlington Heights, I can say that I feel entirely at home here and hold the country and the people in much higher esteem—the Arlington Heights students are so interesting and the high school program so rich for achievement.

Surely, if enrollment increases are anticipated this, too, must have been anticipated. I resent deliberate misrepresentation.

THE LIMITING of classes to 25 students is also an expensive unnecessary utopian dream. As a former teacher I handled classes of 45 and while I readily admit that this is too many pupils, my pupils did not suffer scholastically. Instead I worked frantically myself. At that time I was single and had far less responsibility than the average married teacher with a family, so I could devote more time to teaching, but I wouldn't recommend it as an enrollment standard. However any teacher worth her salt can easily and efficiently handle a class of 35 instead of 25. After all, she's trained for it.

What difference do 10 pupils make? On the estimated need of 28 classrooms this is a savings of 280 pupils or 8 classrooms at 35 pupils per room. Averagte estimated cost per classroom by a leading magazine was $20,000 multiplied by 8 room, totals $160,000 overall saved over the years plus 8 teachers at $4,500 each or $36,000 annually. And this only on requested classrooms. What could be saved by adding 10 pupils to existing rooms? And I repeat, that from personal experience a class of 35 harms neither pupil or teacher.

THE SCHOOL board promises us nothing but the best for our children which is admirable, but I would prefer "the best that we can afford." What good is it to plan for a utopia that is so far beyond our means that we must sell our homes because of unmanageable taxes, and move to a less desirable neighborhood?

Why not face facts and provide the very best that we as a community can afford. Turn down the request for $1,350,000 and ask the school board to modify it and present a more reasonable request.

Vivisection Is Inhumane, Cruel

The letter concerning vivisection as practiced on dogs unfortunately committed to the experimental medical laboratories and submitted to surgery without benefit of anaesthesia and post operative care, filled me with feelings of pathos and abhorrence.

We are the people to whom the world is looking for guidance and direction. We represent humanity and love. We are taught to love animals as God's creatures, and yet we sit complacently by indicating that we condone and approve this sadistic butchery of man's best friend whose only crime is that he has been abandoned, lost, and does not possess a license.

THE PERFORMANCE of surgery on dumb animals for an experiment, whim, or kicks should be prohibited and dispensed with.

England does not practice animal experimentation and vivisection, and the English doctors are as capable in the medical and surgical field as American doctors.

Frequent exposures by the humane societies and enlightenment of the public concerning these atrocities could lead to better legislative control and frequent inspections and perhaps abolishment of all brutal experimentation soon.

MANY PERSONS who are seeking lost animals should be aware that their pet could fall into the hands of these butchers.

Our children, the hope of the future, must have a high regard for life and living creatures and believe in God to assume the leadership of our country and its destiny.

Reader Protests Misuse of Word

I'd like to register a complaint about the manner in which you are aiding the corruption of the English language. I refer particularly to the use of "Finalized" in the January 25 edition of the Mount Prospect Herald.

I am not a purist and enjoy seeing word coinage—if it is inventive and apt. "Finalize" is prosaically redundant. Why coin a word when there are two perfectly good words already extent —"completed" and "final"? There is no need to make "final" a verb or participle.

This issue raged some time ago, I recall, when President Eisenhower used — rather misused—the word. However, we protectors of the English language do not give up. For example, we do not smoke Winstons in our family as a matter of protest.

Letters to the Editor

Radical Anti-Communists Are Threat to Freedoms: Reader

If several thousand communists were meeting each week in the Chicago area to plot the imposition of their particular brand of economics and world view on the rest of the community, we would justifiably be disturbed. Fortunately, the communists have no such strength in our community but another group, potentially as pernicious, does. I refer to the "John Birch Society" and the various "fronts."

I recently attended one such meeting at the Flick-Reedy plant in Bensenville. An important, highly-paid Texan (Texas seems to abound in "crack-pots") was the guest lecturer and the line was the same old song, "Everyone is communist except me and thee and even thee are sometimes suspect." Liberals, socialists, communists and "modern Republicans" were all treated as spiritual brothers. The meeting was attended by 1,200 people and was the sixth of a series which has since been repreated in other communities.

NOW—THERE are two ways of opposing communism. There are the methods being applied by President Kennedy which include aid to underdeveloped andhungtanresinyrs o psrno,eu and hungry nations, pressure on the vested interests of these countries to reform their economies, while all the time maintaining our own military and economic strength.

The other method was tried by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in the 1930s. Their methods were terror, the police state, concentration camps, gas chambers, and inevitably WAR! We must never forget the primary appeal of Hitler to the German people was his promise to save Germany from communism. This he did—for awhile—and at what a cost! In the end, communists, socialists, liberals, and conservatives all met each other in the concentration camps.

Liberals who have suffered much in recent years by "name-calling" by political opponents are reluctant to indulge in the same even when it constitutes "calling a spade a spade." There is a great temptation to treat "Birchism" as a temporary insanity which will fade away.

And yet—one who reads history, carefully cannot escape the striking similarities between the early beginnings of the extreme right in Germany which led to the Nazi Party and the present machinations of the extreme right in this country. Santayana has said, "They who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it."

AFTER WORLD War I, Germany was in the throes of frustration induced by the loss of the war, the impotence of Germany in world affairs, the dislocations in the economy, and the rising menace of communism. In this frustration, many Germans turned to the group which seemed to offer easy and quick solutions.

Now, amid the frustrations of the cold war and the advances of communism, some Americans are listening to the siren song of the political medicine men. Hitler was not a danger until conservatives began to pour money into his party coffers. In this country, the big money has not yet flowed to the Birchers but a considerable number of the rich have begun to contribute to this extreme group. Let a major crisis, foreign or domestic, develop and the flow of funds will increase.

Already the Birchers have their Goerings and Ludendorffs in the Gen. Walkers and other ex-war heroes who refuse to fade away. Gen. Walker recently spoke (from Texas) to 75 simultaneous meetings across the country by closed-circuit TV. Such facilities are not purchased by the nickels and dimes of ordinary working people.

IT IS THE Birchers' privilege as American citizens to organize and speak and write. But it is equally the privilege of other Americans to warn against this resurrection of the same old game used by the extreme right in the 1930s to win power in Germany, Italy and Spain.

Fritz Thyssen, the multi-millionaire German steel magnate, in his book, "I Paid Hitler," is referred to by his publisher as "The great German capitalist who helped the Nazis to power because he believed that they were the people who could save his country from Bolshevism." Soon disillusioned, he discovered his mistake too late. It is well that American businessmen contributing or thinking of contributing to The John Birch Society (or fronts) go to the public library and read of Mr. Thyssen's experiences. Mr. Thyssen and his conservative business friends were taken on this same ride three decades ago!

Suburban Republicans Question Fight on Federal School Aid

Last week there appeared in this column an article opposing Federal aid to education. Although the controversial bill no. 7300 has already been defeated, a watered - down version emphasizing college aid will probably be presented in the present session of Congress, and of course the basic principles are the same.

As registered members of the Republican party we, too have reservations about the advisability of more centralized government. At the same time, we wonder if the right answer is complete rejection on the one hand or blanket approval on the other. Perhaps a close study of the specific issues involved, and then decisions made relating to these specifics, is the better course. At any rate, we all know that the truth is best served through the exchange of opposing views based on facts as we understand them.

FIRST, A BRIEF review of the problem confronting all Americans whatever their state may be—that of a republican government having democratic processes but dependent for its effectiveness upon the literacy of its voters.

"Today the nation suffers a shortage of 127,200 public school classrooms. Some are needed because of overcrowding, others because dilapidated, run-down and sometimes dangerous rooms are in use. Public school enrollment is up 1,200,000 over last year and is expected to climb another million this year. And teachers salaries are still low." (Chicago Daily News, January 8, 1962)

Education-wise, we in Illinois seem fortunate compared to other states although we still have double shifts, notably in Chicago. But what of Arkansas, Mississippi and other less favored states. Lack of education and its undesirable by-products such as prejudice, lack of equal opportunity, etc. surely were important factors behind the race riots there that shamed our country before world opinion.

WHAT ARE we doing to help these fellow Americans regardless of the state in which they live? What of automation and the great labouring classes put out to pasture to subsist on public funds. What of our desperate need for doctors, scientists, teachers, college graduates of all pursuits to meet the communist threat. Perhaps education for all is the answer. We think so. Surely opponents to Federal Aid to Education have not offered a more constructive solution.

They reiterate time and time again that the individual citizen in his own community can rise to the occasion. Perhaps. But what happened to the Itasca PTA scholarship fund for teachers? Why do we not have the new school proposed by our school board last April?

We all have dificulty meeting financial obligations these days. But, we also have obligations as human beings—one to the other. Sometimes these interests conflict and we are forced to make decisions. It could be that investment in a wider educational system today might well save us money tomorrow.

THE fore-mentioned article mentions that the PTA rank and file does not support Federal Aid to Education. This may be true although there is at present no way of knowing. Both Itasca units have decided to study the issues further and no vote has been taken.

Further, there are many quotes from the Congressional Record. Any statement made in the Senate or House may be inserted in the Record. More meaningful might be mention of the author's name, his voting record, etc.

Accusations are made against certain groups. One is said to be a "conception of the Communist party." What does this mean and was this tried and proved in the courts? If so, what was the verdict? If people are accused of being communists they must be proved so, for in our system all persons are considered innocent unless proven guilty in the courts. Irresponsible name-calling seems to be a technique much in vogue these days. It is used without compunction by groups that endeavor to represent themselves as speaking for the majority and indeed use the very methods of those they say they despise.

Of course, federal aid to education is nothing new. The ordinance of 1787, setting forth plans for the Northwest Territory, states—"religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." Land grants, based on population, stimulated public schools and lightened state tax burdens.

Another instance might be the Smith Hughes act, 1917, appropriating salaries for teachers of agricultural and industrial subjects etc. Many veterans today are grateful to the G.I. Bill for aid in college years.

WHERE was this supposed conspiracy of the federal government to influence them then? Or is it lurking behind a bush waiting for the next crop of kids whose only crime is a desire for knowledge and equal opportunity.

Finally, what is this thing we call the federal government? What is its character and form? Is it a dictatorship, a monarchy; is it socialistic, communistic? Or is it "we the people"—our elected servants whose remarks, noted down in the Congressional Record, were found to be of some use in last week's article. Yes we the people guaranteed by certain unalienable rights—the best system of government the world has yet produced. Our country is strong. We have a two-party system, for controversy is welcome and helpful. We have our freedoms and rights as individuals but we also bow to the wishes and needs of the majority.

The United States, if strong internally, need fear no external force. Perhaps federal aid to education is one of the answers.

Oyster Packers Merit Sympathy

To the Fence Post and THE editor whose column really touched my heart today (Jan. 25): Those POOR oyster packers who are in the business of supplying oysters and other sea food to the people of the U.S. — whose "very existence is threatened by the wage and hour law, etc."!!

Is this the Wage and Hour Law that requires employers to pay their employees at least $1.15 (or $1.25) per hour? Our country must be in a pretty sad state if such wages will put employers out of business.

I HAVE bought some of these oysters, and also crabmeat, and I will testify that they are not cheap. But of course, that's because employees are getting such high wages . . . (at present, not $1 per hour, evidently).

If machines are doing the work at cheapest rates, naturally the cost of oysters will come down . . . naturally. Let's watch and see.

Throwaways, Dog Nuisances Cited

As we filled out the questionnaire received from the Elk Grove Jaycees, we were asked to list the five most important things which need to be done to make this a better community.

We are not complainers in general, but we felt obliged to mention two things that perturbed us.

WE DO not like the way the store merchants send the boys each week with sales advertisements that they throw on the streets, drives and in the yards, sometimes four or five from one store. Especially when it is raining or snowing. They are soaked and it is impossible to read them. It certainly makes the neighborhood look terrible over the weekend and should be stopped.

We also think that dog owners should keep their dogs on a leash on their own property and not be allowed to relieve themselves on other people's lawns and shrubs.

Film Effective Against Reds

I read with interest a small article in the January 18th issue stating that the film "Operation Abolition" was to be shown at Wheeling's Mark Twain school. The last sentence was that "the film has been both widely condemned and praised." Unfortunately, the writer did not say by whom.

The film is a documentary of actual communist-led rioting against the House Un-American Activities Committee in San Francisco in May, 1960. Senator Strom Thurmond, a South Carolina Democrat and former governor of that state, witnessed a known communist, Archie Brown, inciting the students into rioting. J. Edgar Hoover has vouched for the fact that the riots were communist inspired and led. The House Un-American Activities Committee has recently published a document entitled "The Truth About the Film 'Operation Abolition' in answer to attacks by The Worker and by leftist publications.

"Operation Abolition" is a very effective anti-communist film and is certainly not being praised by the communists.

Haitian Tells Of Impession

I feel as if I should reply in regard to the incident that occurred in Arlington Heights recently. First, I would like to convey my thanks and congratulations to all the people who expressed their thoughts on this subject and strongly believe that there are many things more essential and worthwhile than the fateful color of the skin.

I want them to know that this unfortunate incident was very valuable in a sense, since I can now return to Haiti and explain how nicely I have been treated in Arlington Heights, Illinois, and what hospitable people I have had the opportunity to meet there.

I DO ALSO assure all the barbers that I harbor no resentment. Maybe we all misunderstood. Let us say that I appreciated very much the gesture of those who have offered to give me a haircut, even a free haircut. I only regret that, leaving Arlington Heights soon, I will not be able to take advantage of the offer.

I truly have no ill-feeling. There are many good as well as evil people in all races, in all countries, and I am quite aware of the problems involved in living together harmoniously in this small world—just a matter of time and education; education implying humanism, truth and respect of real values.

SINCE visiting the United States and staying in Arlington Heights, I can say that I feel entirely at home here and hold the country and the people in much higher esteem—the Arlington Heights students are so interesting and the high school program so rich for achievement.

THE NIGHT

in its blackness provides hidden dangers for men of the sea. A flashing beam from the lighthouse is a welcome sight—carefully guiding ships past the pitfalls of the sea. To those who believe, Christ promises: ". . . he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

A. While there is no "must" about it, it still is a nice gesture of friendship. If, however, one feels one cannot afford a gift, or is not on intimate terms with the new parents, then a congratulatory card or handwritten note would be in good order.

Q. Is it proper to place the elbows on the table while drinking from a cup, holding it with the fingers of both hands?

A. No. The cup has ONE handle, and is properly held with ONE hand.

Q. What am I supposed to say when a sales clerk says "thank you," upon handing me my package and change?

A. You are not required to say anything, but it is always nice to respond with a slight nod and a smile.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild

'Fleecing' Overcomes Minor Acting Flaws

By JIM PHILLIPS

Last performances are quite interesting — especially when you've got a string of dates set up a la Des Plaines Theatre Guild, Inc. I got in on the final performance of "Golden Fleecing," the slightly slaphappy farce about the Navy's invasion of the Italian gambling world.

The evening, although marred by a slow-moving first act, and some weak characterizations to boot, did finally prove worth the while.

Actually, Lorenzo Semple's play is not the greatest thing that has ever happened to farce; but Semple has managed to insert some sharply-comical lines here and there, which, under the hand of a wide-awake director, can save a number of the scenes.

ED SAUER, who had the problems of handling comedy-to-farce-to-comedy action, faired extremely well. Ed always was a capable handler of comedy, even in the acting area. With a more important play in his lap, I'm sure he would have had a complete blue-ribbon award tacked to his directing bulletin board.

To explain the plot briefly, a brash young naval lieutenant and his scheming-but-slightly-dense-scientist friend (Tony Good and Karl Grube respectively) come upon a method of determining a Venice gambling house's roulette wheel results.

Unfortunately for both of them, the U. S. Navy gets wise. The problems involved in setting up the system, flashing signal lights, from a Venice hotel room, and "feeding" an electronic brain make up the plot.

This, in essence, is the vehicle by which some whacky characters are presented. There is a slightly naive Ensign (John Allen) who tries in vain to keep some Venetian glass intact some Venetian glass intact (his wife collects glass, no less); there is a blustering big shot (Chuck Sule) who wants the city of Rome for his business locale; and there is a bit of female wit inserted in the attractive personalities of the admiral's daughter (there's always an admiral's daughter in one of these plays—in this case, portrayed by Beverly Adams, and the "old flame" (Nancy Raus).

AND, OF COURSE, you've got to have a gambler (Pat Alonzo) who looks like smething out of "The Untouchables."

As to the handling of these various parts, Tony Good stood out. He was uncomplicated, capable, and managed to bring forth all the cockiness and "wise-guyishness" demanded by the role of "lover-boy-lieutenant." Des Plaines Theatre Guild will have to consider him for more such roles, and it would even be worth it if they tried him in high drama. He has showmanship and stage presence. John Allen as the ensign made the most of his lines, comedy-wise. But it was his face that produced the laughs—hold on—this ain't no slander. John used every facial expression in the book, and he used each with precision.

I'm not sure whether this should be credited more to Ed Sauer's direction or not—but the fact of the matter is, you must do more in the part of Ensign Beau Gilliam than just speak the lines and wait for the laughs. And Mr. Allen did just that.

Karl Grube's role of the scientist needed a lot of polish. He spoke his lines as if a diction teacher were listening. This made his part seem unnatural. A lowering of his voice in level, not loudness, could have produced a more maturely-scientific characterization. In all fairness, this was Mr. Grube's first appearance on any stage. He shouldn't be discouraged. It takes plenty of hard work, even in community theatre, to fall into the stage-swing of things. He'll come around.

THE GALS IN "Fleecing" were excellent. Beverly Adams was petite, but full of "navy daughter" vim and vitality. She delivered her lines with glamour and sex, and yet remained full of "All-American Girlism." Nancy Raus was splendid as the near-sighted "old flame" of scientist Grube. Her voice had exactly what the doctor-of-sarcasm ordered. She was a master of the timed reaction Saturday night, and because of this reaction (to the comedy lines of her colleagues), she saved a number of guffaws from becoming polite chuckles.

Chuck Sule as the businessman was so over-confident with his blustering that he blustered himself right into a minute of line-forgetfulness. This was early in the play. He came along fine after that.

PAT ALONZO'S gangster was a little too polite for my money. He had all the appearance of a refugee from the 1945 Warner Brothers movie lot—which was good—but when he spoke, he spoke more like a slightly gambling-happy Percy Kilbride. Jim Bosley's Admiral Fitch was just plain terrific. He scared the critical pants off me. He was all the blowhard Admirals in every fictionized tale of naval discipline. He was largely responsible for the fine pace and comedy the second act needed.

A word must be said about a high school senior from Maine West. His name is Tom Kuersten, who played the part of a shore patrolman. Tom was the funniest thing I've seen on a community stage since an Indiana town did "Mr. Roberts" a few years back. His portrayal of the easy-to-bourbon SP was a joy to behold. True, there were moments when he clipped his lines, losing a bit of the meaning to his drinking scene, but in general, he had what it took to put over a part which is loaded with long lines and lightheaded lunacy. A part like this can be butchered. Mr. Kuersten cut it, took the fat off, packaged it, and handed it to the audience on a silver platter—and they ate it up.

"FLEECING" is a good offering for any local theatre group. It is farce and is meant to be accepted with relaxed eyes and ears. Des Plaines Theatre Guild has yet, in my opinion, to come out with a "bad" production. And, incidentally, the settings and general artwork for "Fleecing" were brilliant, and special orchids should go to those who tackled the gold curtain-and-fancy-fixture problems offered by the play.

It was a pleasure to look at the set after trying to figure out the ridiculous paintings (and prices) on display downstairs during coffee breaks.

In San Diego

John G. Hipp, USN son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hipp, 202 W. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, returned to San Diego, Cal., aboard the dock landing ship USS Alamo after a six-month deployment with the seventh fleet in the Far East.

In the Western Pacific, the Alamo was a part of the fleet's amphibious ready group, which carries Marine Corps battle units and is ready for action on almost no notice. (WUS

In Germany

S/P4 Myles C. Kunz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles C. Kunz, 201 Norman dr., Palatine, is serving with the 3rd armored cavalry regiment which moved to Germany from Ft. George G. Meade, Md., duing November as an element in the augmentation of U. S. military strength in Europe.

The 3rd armored cavalry, engaged in an amphibious exercise at Fort Miles, Del. when alerted for overseas movement, demonstrated the combat readiness of its personnel and equipment by rapid and efficient movement to its home station and then to Germany in less than 30 days.

Kunz, a personnel clerk in the regiment's headquarters troop, entered the army in January 1959. (WUS

In Germany

Pfc. Michael S. Stoffel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Stoffel, 133 S. Highland, Arlington Heights, recently graduated from the seventh U. S. Army Non-Commissioned Officer Academy in Bad Tolz, Germany. Stoffel received four weeks of training in various military subjects with emphasis on leadership and combat tactics.

The purpose of the academy is to broaden the soldier's professional knowledge and to instill him with the self-confidence and sense of responsibility required of a capable leader. The 20-year-old soldier, who entered the Army in August 1960 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., graduated from Arlington high school in 1960. (WUS

At Ft. Knox

Pvt. Donald E. Reseck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno F. Reseck, 386 Central, Wood Dale, received eight weeks of advanced individual training at the armor center, Fort Knox, Ky. The training is ended January 20.

Reseck received instruction in operating the 90-millimeter tank gun and driving the Army's medium tank. He was familiarized with the duties and responsibilities of each of the four tank crew members: the commander, driver, gunner and loader.

The 23-year-old soldier entered the Army last September and completed basic combat training at Fort Knox.

He attended Bensenville high school. (WUS

'Fleecing' Overcomes Minor Acting Flaws

Last performances are quite interesting — especially when you've got a string of dates set up a la Des Plaines Theatre Guild, Inc. I got in on the final performance of "Golden Fleecing," the slightly slaphappy farce about the Navy's invasion of the Italian gambling world.

The evening, although marred by a slow-moving first act, and some weak characterizations to boot, did finally prove worth the while.

Actually, Lorenzo Semple's play is not the greatest thing that has ever happened to farce; but Semple has managed to insert some sharply-comical lines here and there, which, under the hand of a wide-awake director, can save a number of the scenes.

ED SAUER, who had the problems of handling comedy-to-farce-to-comedy action, faired extremely well. Ed always was a capable handler of comedy, even in the acting area. With a more important play in his lap, I'm sure he would have had a complete blue-ribbon award tacked to his directing bulletin board.

To explain the plot briefly, a brash young naval lieutenant and his scheming-but-slightly-dense-scientist friend (Tony Good and Karl Grube respectively) come upon a method of determining a Venice gambling house's roulette wheel results.

Unfortunately for both of them, the U. S. Navy gets wise. The problems involved in setting up the system, flashing signal lights, from a Venice hotel room, and "feeding" an electronic brain make up the plot.

This, in essence, is the vehicle by which some whacky characters are presented. There is a slightly naive Ensign (John Allen) who tries in vain to keep some Venetian glass intact some Venetian glass intact (his wife collects glass, no less); there is a blustering big shot (Chuck Sule) who wants the city of Rome for his business locale; and there is a bit of female wit inserted in the attractive personalities of the admiral's daughter (there's always an admiral's daughter in one of these plays—in this case, portrayed by Beverly Adams, and the "old flame" (Nancy Raus).

AND, OF COURSE, you've got to have a gambler (Pat Alonzo) who looks like smething out of "The Untouchables."

As to the handling of these various parts, Tony Good stood out. He was uncomplicated, capable, and managed to bring forth all the cockiness and "wise-guyishness" demanded by the role of "lover-boy-lieutenant." Des Plaines Theatre Guild will have to consider him for more such roles, and it would even be worth it if they tried him in high drama. He has showmanship and stage presence. John Allen as the ensign made the most of his lines, comedy-wise. But it was his face that produced the laughs—hold on—this ain't no slander. John used every facial expression in the book, and he used each with precision.

I'm not sure whether this should be credited more to Ed Sauer's direction or not—but the fact of the matter is, you must do more in the part of Ensign Beau Gilliam than just speak the lines and wait for the laughs. And Mr. Allen did just that.

Karl Grube's role of the scientist needed a lot of polish. He spoke his lines as if a diction teacher were listening. This made his part seem unnatural. A lowering of his voice in level, not loudness, could have produced a more maturely-scientific characterization. In all fairness, this was Mr. Grube's first appearance on any stage. He shouldn't be discouraged. It takes plenty of hard work, even in community theatre, to fall into the stage-swing of things. He'll come around.

THE GALS IN "Fleecing" were excellent. Beverly Adams was petite, but full of "navy daughter" vim and vitality. She delivered her lines with glamour and sex, and yet remained full of "All-American Girlism." Nancy Raus was splendid as the near-sighted "old flame" of scientist Grube. Her voice had exactly what the doctor-of-sarcasm ordered. She was a master of the timed reaction Saturday night, and because of this reaction (to the comedy lines of her colleagues), she saved a number of guffaws from becoming polite chuckles.

Chuck Sule as the businessman was so over-confident with his blustering that he blustered himself right into a minute of line-forgetfulness. This was early in the play. He came along fine after that.

PAT ALONZO'S gangster was a little too polite for my money. He had all the appearance of a refugee from the 1945 Warner Brothers movie lot—which was good—but when he spoke, he spoke more like a slightly gambling-happy Percy Kilbride. Jim Bosley's Admiral Fitch was just plain terrific. He scared the critical pants off me. He was all the blowhard Admirals in every fictionized tale of naval discipline. He was largely responsible for the fine pace and comedy the second act needed.

A word must be said about a high school senior from Maine West. His name is Tom Kuersten, who played the part of a shore patrolman. Tom was the funniest thing I've seen on a community stage since an Indiana town did "Mr. Roberts" a few years back. His portrayal of the easy-to-bourbon SP was a joy to behold. True, there were moments when he clipped his lines, losing a bit of the meaning to his drinking scene, but in general, he had what it took to put over a part which is loaded with long lines and lightheaded lunacy. A part like this can be butchered. Mr. Kuersten cut it, took the fat off, packaged it, and handed it to the audience on a silver platter —and they ate it up.

"FLEECING" is a good offering for any local theatre group. It is farce and is meant to be accepted with relaxed eyes and ears. French Impressionism Is Art League Topic

By LUCILE ERNST

Being snowbound is really rather fun for awhile but about now, if you are anything like me, you begin to find it an awful bore. It is not at all impossible to go places and it really is worth it. Our art groups go right on, providing interesting people to stimulate your mind and activate your hands.

The Mount Prospect Art League has invited Diane Duvigneaud to speak on Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. in the Lions Park field house in Mount Prospect.

The lecture will be illustrated by slides to show examples of French Impressionism in the 19th century. She will include the works and backgrounds of such artists as Monet, Renoir, Degas and Cezanne and will touch on Expressionists in the latter part of the 19th century.

DIANE DUVIGNEAUD

The program will last about one hour, after which those who attend are invited to have refreshments which will be served at the field house.

ANYONE interested in art is invited to attend the meetings of the Mount Prospect Art League, which are held on the first Tuesday of every month, September through June, at 8 p.m. Members are notified by mail of all demonstrations and club activities.

At the present time, Mount Prospect Art League has 91 members and as a special inducement for those who have not been able to join before, a reduced membership rate is offered at $2 per person or $3 per couple for the balance of the year. The usual membership is $4 per person or $5 per couple for the year. Anyone interested in further information regarding membership may call Mrs. Leon Liljequist at CL 5-3510.

The Mount Prospect Art League sponsors and arranges for many exhibits of members, work. At the present time, members are exhibiting through the league at a number of places. including the Villa Venice, Rolling Green country club, the Mount Prospect State bank, and at the gallery of the Austin-Oak Park-River Forest Art League.

ON THURSDAY, Feb. 1, the Countryside Art Center will have their regular meeting at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights at 8 p.m. A color movie will be presented, "Make a Stained Glass Window." The movie provides a brief history of the art and a complete analysis of the process. The creation of the design, application of the pigment, firing and scraping, and firing and leading are all shown and explained. Since stained glass is the current rage this might be an interesting process to understand.

"Aubusson Tapestry" a movie explaining the designing and weaving of this ancient art will also be presented.

If you know of a talented child, why not tell his parents there is not just competent but exceptionally fine instruction in art available in our own community? Bill Wimmer will again conduct the Children's classes for the Countryside Art Center. The first class will start on Saturday morning, Feb. 3. The class runs from 10 a.m. to noon. The classes are scheduled for a period of 10 weeks. Price is $20 and includes all materials plus one trip to the Chicago Art Institute and the Goodman Theatre.

FOR ADULTS, classes will start on Monday morning, Feb. 5, from 9 a.m. to noon, for 10 weeks. Sound hopeless? Keep reading. Some realist had a wonderful idea. There is a baby sitting service available in connection with this class for mothers who may have such a problem. Practically every mother I know has just this problem and it is the very thing that keep them from doing anything but waiting.

The second adult class also starts on Monday, Feb. 5, and is from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Barbara Houskeeper will teach both classes. The three hour morning class fee is $20 for members of the Countryside Art Center, $22, for others. The two hour afternoon class is $14 for Art Center members, $16 for others.

Registration for any one of the classes should be made as soon as possible and the person to call is Mrs. Muriel Hanor, 727 S Highland, Arlington Heights, CL 3-2314. (Bill

At Golf Mill

Spencer Tracy and Frank Sinatra are starred as priest and criminal in the Mervyn LeRoy-Fred Kohlmar production of "The Devil at 4 O'Clock."

The film opens Friday at the Golf Mill theatre, Golf rd. and Milwaukee ave., Niles. The large-scale drama in Eastman color is a story of violent conflict on a Pacific Island when a sleeping volcano comes to life.

Director Is Announced For Comedy

John Pesich, who directed "Howie" for the Arlington Heights Village Theatre, has been chosen by the group's board members to direct their upcoming play, "We Must Kill Toni."

Working in conjunction with Pesich will be W. R. (Red) Pownall, acting stage manager, who announced that rehearsals have been scheduled for Monday and Thursday nights at Pioneer park.

JAMES SMITH, production manager, has requested that crews sign up for backstage work as soon as possible.

A three-act comedy by Ian Stuart Black, "Toni" will be presented March 16, 17 and 18 in Prospect high school theater.

At Normal

Five Illinois State Normal university students and their sponsors began a between-semester debate tour to Eastern college campuses recently.

Among the students making the trip was Carol Berthold, sophmore, 1512 N. Prairie, Arlington Heights, negative team.

Carol will also compete in the extemporaneous speaking contest.

Campus Capers

At IIT

Roland R. Barker, 808 S. School, Mount Prospect, is a recipient of the Western Actuarial Bureau scholarship at Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago.

Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland K. Barker, is a sophomore in the fire protection engineering department. He is a graduate of Arlington high school. (CC

At Illinois

Duane G. Carlson, 122 N. Addison st., Bensenville, junior in electrical engineering at the University of Illinois is one of five students who have been selected to take part in a unique program of summer field studies in anthropology in South America.

They will go to Ecuador with Professor Casagrande to live with people in rural towns and take part in their daily activities. (CC

At IIT

Thomas R. Weitzel, 328 N. Bothwell, Palatine, is a recipient of the Illinois State scholarship at Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago.

Weitzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin T. Weitzel, is a junior in the metallurgical engineering department. He is a graduate of Palatine township high school.

Weitzel is active in Phi Kappa Sigma national social fraternity, and the Metals Club at IIT. (CC

At Northern

The Northern Illinois University chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary sociology and anthropology society, recently initiated 24 members.

Kenneth Comina, sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Comina, 1750 W. Thomas st., Arlington Heights, was among those initiated. (CC

At Camp Pendleton

TERRY W. BERNDT

Pvt. Terry W. Berndt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Berndt, 288 Third st., Wheeling, completed the individual combat training course, January 19, at the second infantry training regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Cal.

New marines undergo the four-week training course, which covers combat formations, fire and maneuver, supporting weapons, individual protection, safe movement during day and night, assaulting a fortified position, combat in towns, vertical envelopment by helicopter and coordinating tank and infantry attacks. (WUS

At Ft. Monmouth

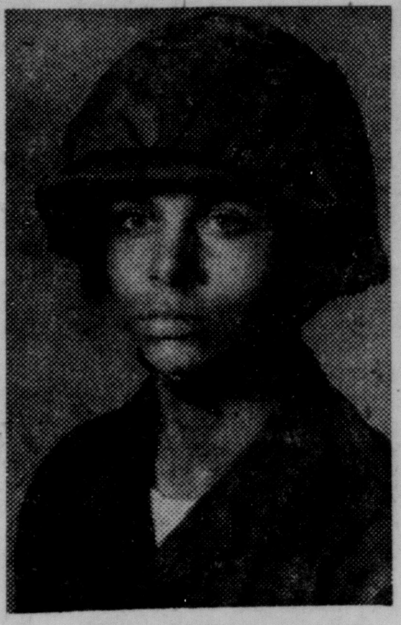
Pvt. Anthony T. Scarpelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Scarpelli, 125 S. Michigan ave., Addison, completed the 22 week fixed station radio receiver repair course at the signal school, Ft. Monmouth, N. J., December 21.

Scarpelli was trained to install, operate and repair radio receivers and associated equipment used in long range military communication systems.

The 18-year-old soldier entered the Army last May and received basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1960 graduate of Willowbrook Community high school, Villa Park.

At Camp Pendleton



ROBERT TRAUSCH

Pvt. Robert Trausch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trausch, 1002 S. Wolf rd., Wheeling, completed the four-week individual combat training course, December 15, at the second infantry training regiment, Marine Corps base, Camp Pendleton, Cal.

Every new marine undergoes this training following recruit training. Combat formations, fire and maneuver, supporting weapons, individual protection and safe movement during day and night are taught by carefully chosen instructors.

Emphasis is placed on the teamwork and self-reliance required in assaulting a fortified position, combat in towns, vertical envelopment by helicopter and coordinating tank and infantry attacks. (WUS

In Kansas

Capt. James H. Leonard, whose wife, Barbara, lives at 23 Judith Ann dr., Mount Prospect, is attending the 16-week associate course at the Army command and general staff college, Fort Leavenworth, Kan. The course is scheduled to end May 4.

Capt. Leonard is a member of the 25th class to be enrolled in the course. The class consists of 410 U. S. Army officers and 33 officers from 16 allied nations. (WUS

In Germany

PFC Ralph R. Carsello, 23, son of Mrs. Edith Lucas, 209 Memory lane, Addison, recently arrived in Germany and is now assigned to the 557th medical company.

Carsello, an ambulance driver in the company in Wertheim, entered the Army last February and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

He is a 1957 graduate of Lane Technical Institute, Chicago and attended Wright Junior college. Carsello was employed by A. P. Ross Construction company before entering the Army.

In Texas

Herbert P. Knoppel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Knoppel, 201 S. Owen st., Mount Prospect, is being assigned to the United States Air Force technical training course for aircraft maintenance specialists at Amarillo AFB, Tex.

Knoppel, who has completed his basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex., was selected for the advanced training on the basis of his interests and aptitudes.

A graduate of Arlington high school, the airman attended Northern Illinois university, DeKalb. (WUS

In Virginia

Howard O. Elliott Jr., son of Mrs. Howard O. Elliott Sr., 1230 Roosevelt rd., Arlington Heights, is serving aboard the dock landing ship USS Shadwell, which left Norfolk, Va., January 27, for two months of operational training in the Caribbean area.

The year's first amphibious exercise, it will be highlighted by a water-borne assault landing at Vieques, Puerto Rico.

The Shadwell is scheduled to return to Norfolk early next March. (WUS

In Mediterranean

Ronald L. Jurcy, signalman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Jurcy of 1424 Maude ave., Arlington Heights, is serving aboard the attack cargo ship USS Capricornus which departed Norfolk, Va., for a five-month cruise with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The Norfolk-based ship will begin her overseas assignment by participating in a large Navy by participating in a large Navy-Marine amphibious exercise next month in the Western Mediterranean. Apprixmately 8,000 Navy and Marine Corps personnel are scheduled to participate in the February exercise. (WUS

At Great Lakes

George L. Ekstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ekstrom, 236 Edgewood dr., Wheeling, completed recruit training November 17 at the Naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-week training program includes extensive schooling in such subjects as seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, damage control and military customs and courtesies.

Throughout the training, experienced counsellors work with each man to help select one of the Navy's 67 career fields on the basis of classification tests, aptitude and personal performance. (WUS
